

UNIVERSAL LIBRARY

129 146

UNIVERSAL
LIBRARY

NEW HANDBOOK OF COMPOSITION

RULES AND EXERCISES

REGARDING

GOOD ENGLISH, GRAMMAR, SENTENCE STRUCTURE, PARAGRAPHING, MANUSCRIPT ARRANGEMENT,
PUNCTUATION, SPELLING, ESSAY WRITING, OUT-LINING, LETTER WRITING, AND THE MAKING OF BIBLIOGRAPHIES

BY

EDWIN C. WOOLLEY, PH.D.

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR OF ENGLISH IN THE UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN

REVISED AND ENLARGED

BY

FRANKLIN W. SCOTT, PH.D.

FORMERLY HEAD OF THE DEPARTMENT OF ENGLISH UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS

D. C. HEATH AND COMPANY
BOSTON NEW YORK CHICAGO LONDON
ATLANTA SAN FRANCISCO DALLAS

COPYRIGHT, 1907, 1920, 1926
BY D. C. HEATH AND CO.

PREFACE TO THE FIRST EDITION

THIS manual is designed for two uses. It may be used, first, by students of composition for reference, at the direction of the instructor, in case of errors in themes. Second, it may be used for independent reference by persons who have writing of any kind to do and who want occasional information on matters of good usage, grammar, spelling, punctuation, paragraphing, manuscript-arrangement, or letter-writing.

The aim of the book is not scientific, but practical. The purpose is to make clear the rules in regard to which many people make mistakes. No material has been put into the book for the sake of formal completeness. Many statements that would be essential to a treatise designed to exhaust the subjects here discussed (a treatise, for instance, on grammar, or composition-structure, or punctuation) have been omitted because they concern matters about which the persons who may use the book do not need to be told. In the knowledge and the observance of the rules fixed by good usage and suggested by common sense for the expression of thoughts in English and the representation of them on paper, there are many widely prevalent deficiencies, some natural enough, some very odd, but all shared by many people. The purpose of this manual is simply to help correct some of these deficiencies.

Some of the rules in this book, making no mention of exceptions, modifications, or allowable alternatives, may perhaps be charged with being dogmatic. They are dogmatic — purposely so. Suppose a youth, astray and confused in a maze of city streets, asks the way to a certain place. If one enumerates to him the several possible routes, with comments and admonitions and cautions about each, he will probably continue astray and confused. If one sends him peremptorily on one route, not mentioning permissible deviations or equally good alternative ways, the chance is much greater that he will reach his destination. Likewise, the erring composer of anarchic discourse can best be set right by concise and simple directions. This is one reason for the stringency of some of the rules. There is another reason; let me use another parable in explaining it. A student of piano-playing is held rigidly, during the early period of his study, to certain rules of finger movement. Those rules are sometimes varied or ignored by musicians. But the student, in order to progress in the art, must for a certain time treat the rules as stringent and invariable; the variations and exceptions are studied only at a later stage of his progress. So, in acquiring skill in the art of composition, it is necessary for most students to observe rigidly and invariably rules to which masters of the art make exceptions. I believe that Rules 63, 69, 78, 98, 99, 112, and 115, for example, should be so treated by most apprentices in composition.

A word about the literary obligations I have incurred. So far as concerns my indebtedness to that great common fund of grammatical and rhetorical doctrine on which he who will may draw, it may truly be said of me, as it has been said of Homer,

"What he thought he might require
He went and took."

To individual authors I may owe debts of which I am not aware; for when a man has accumulated a store of thoughts, some from individual writers, some from many writers in common, and some, perhaps, from his own psychic processes, he inevitably forgets the source of many elements of the mass. I know, however, that my thanks are due to Professors Adams Sherman Hill, William Dwight Whitney, Alphonso G. Newcomer,

John Duncan Quackenbos, Fred Newton Scott, and Joseph Villiers Denney, for a number of ideas suggested by my acquaintance with their works.

I gratefully acknowledge here my obligation to Professor Frank Gaylord Hubbard, of the University of Wisconsin, and to Miss Rose M. Kavana, of the Medill High School, in Chicago, who gave me much acute and valuable criticism during the preparation of the manuscript; and to several gentlemen (unknown to me) who, at the instance of the publishers, suggested some much-needed emendations before the book went to press, and also during its passage through the press. Though the book is probably not what Captain Costigan would call a "meritorious performance," it is in many respects nearer that character than it would be but for the generous aid of these known and unknown counselors.

E. C. W.

MADISON, WISCONSIN

PREFACE TO EDITION OF 1926

THIS revision aims to adapt the rules to such modifications in the use of English as have been established beyond question in the time since the first edition was published. The changes made in that respect are comparatively few, for the aim of the author has been kept in mind to require the student to observe rigidly and invariably rules to which masters of the art make exceptions. When many masters of the art have consistently made the same exceptions for some time, the student may properly be allowed to follow the plain and well-established example. The wording of a number of the rules has been simplified; some have been clarified, others made more explicit. In no case has a rule been modified in meaning except in conformity to change in usage about which there can be little or no question. As Professor Gardner wrote, a hard matter is not made easier by shortening the rule.

The change most readily apparent places the exercises as near as possible to the rules they aim to apply. Many exercises have been added, affording a greater variety of drill material than has hitherto been offered. Most of the additions have been drawn from other books by the author, but a considerable number are new. The section on letter writing has been revised to take into account the two prevalent styles of punctuation and the many changes made by the common use of the typewriter. One entirely new section, on bibliography and footnotes, has been introduced.

Although a score of new rules have been included and a few old ones omitted, the old numbering has been preserved without change down to Rule 245, in the section on Punctuation. From that point on to Rule 261, and from 307 to 337, the numbers of several rules have of necessity been altered.

I wish to make grateful acknowledgment of the assistance of Miss Evelyn A. Tripp of the English Department of the University of Illinois, and of many others in high schools and colleges who out of their long experience in the use of the Handbook have helped to make this revision.

F. W. S.

NEW YORK,
March, 1926

TABLE OF CONTENTS¹

	PAGE
I. THE COMPOSITION OF DISCOURSE	1
INTRODUCTORY: THE STANDARD OF GOOD USAGE	1
DICTION	4
Improprieties and Barbarisms	4
Contractions	12
Misuses of pronouns	12
Rhetorical ornament	15
Triteness	15
Affectation	18
Mixed figures of speech	20
THE STRUCTURE OF SENTENCES	22
Some fundamental errors	22
Grammatical agreement	29
Matters of case	34
Adjectives and adverbs	40
Matters of voice	41
Matters of tense (including shall and will)	42
Reference	52
Dangling modifiers	60
Unity	67
Order of members — coherence	71
Order of members — emphasis	79
Incorrect omissions	81
Coördination	88
Subordination	102
Parallelism	104
Logical agreement	111
Negation	115
Redundance	116

¹ For detailed synopsis of the numbered rules and of the exercises, see pages xvii-xxviii

	PAGE
Repetition of words	119
Euphony	121
Variety	122
THE STRUCTURE OF LARGER UNITS OF DIS- COURSE	123
Unity	123
Organization — coherence	126
Emphasis	132
II. PUTTING DISCOURSE ON PAPER	133
SPELLING	133
LEGIBILITY	153
ARRANGEMENT OF MANUSCRIPT	157
Pages	157
Paragraphs	158
Mechanical marks of a paragraph	158
Division of a composition into para- graphs	159
Verse	166
Extended quotations	167
Tabulated lists	168
ALTERATIONS IN MANUSCRIPT	169
PUNCTUATION	170
The period	170
The comma	172
The semicolon	183
The colon	187
The question mark	188
The exclamation mark	189
The dash	189
Parenthesis marks	192
Brackets	194
Quotation marks	194
The apostrophe	203
The hyphen	205
Miscellaneous rules	208
SYLLABICATION	211
ABBREVIATIONS	215
THE REPRESENTATION OF NUMBERS	217
CAPITALS	220
ITALICS	225

TABLE OF CONTENTS

	xi
	PAGE
III. ANALYTICAL OUTLINES	228
The form of the titles	228
Numbering and arrangement of the titles	228
The terms Introduction , Conclusion , and Body	230
Over-minute subdivision	231
Certain illogical practices	231
IV. LETTER-WRITING	235
Ordinary letters (written in the first person)	235
Formal notes in the third person	249
Sundry mechanical directions	250
The envelope	255
V. BIBLIOGRAPHY AND FOOTNOTES	257
Bibliographies	257
Footnotes	258
VI. A GLOSSARY OF MISCELLANEOUS FAULTY EXPRESSIONS	261
APPENDIX A. — A grammatical vocabulary, explain- ing grammatical and other technical terms used in this book	297
APPENDIX B. — A list of words that are often mis- pronounced	319
INDEX	327

TABLE OF EXERCISES

	PAGE
DICTION AND THE DICTIONARY	3
1. Use of the Dictionary	3
2. Adjectives for Adverbs	4
3. "Malaprops"	5
4. "Bad" English	6
5. Colloquialisms	6
6. Identifying Parts of Speech	7
7. Transitive and Intransitive Verbs	7
8. The Definitions of Words	7
9. Finding the Idiomatic Uses	8
10. Special Uses	8
11. What the Dictionary Tells	10
12. Finding Inflectional Forms	11
13. Finding Plurals	11
14. Use of the Hyphen	11
15. Faults in Use of Words	14
15a. Mixed Figures	21
15b. Figures Not Carried Out	22
SENTENCE STRUCTURE	22
16. Incomplete Sentences	24
17. When to End a Sentence	25
18. No Construction; Incomplete Construction	28
19. Agreement of Verb and Subject	31
20. Making Verb and Subject Agree	32
21. Concord of each , every , etc.	34
22. Case of who	36
23. Who or whoever	37
24. Elliptical than and as Clauses	37
25. Use of Cases	38
26. Use of Possessive Case	40
27. Wrong Use of Cases	42
28. Shall and will	44
29. Matters of Tense	48
30. Verbs
Lay and lie	48, 50
Raise and rise	49, 50

	PAGE
Set and sit	49, 50
Done and seen	50
Write, rise, ride, drive	50
Run and ran	50
Began, sang, sprang, rang, drank, swam	50
Broke, froze, tore	51
Know, throw, blow	51
Went for gone	51
Had ought	51
You was	52
31. Reference of Pronouns	55
32. Faulty Use of it	56
33. Which without Antecedent	57
34. Reference to Words Not Expressed	58
35. Faulty Number	58
36. Obscure Reference	59
37. Dangling Participles	61
38. Beginning with Participles	61
39. Dangling Gerunds	64
40. More Dangling Gerunds	64
41. Dangling Infinitives	65
42. Dangling Elliptical Clauses	66
43. More Such Clauses	66
44. Various Faulty References	71
45. Only, almost, ever	72
46. Sentence-Order	74
47. Placing of Modifiers	75
48. Split Infinitives	77
49. Coherence and Emphasis	80
50. Omission of Auxiliaries	84
51. Omission of Principal Verb	84
52. Omission of than and as Clauses	85
52a. Omission of Modifying Phrases	85
53. Omission of Plural Nouns	85
54. Omission of that after so	86
55. Omission of Prepositions	87
56. Ungrammatical Coördination	89
57. And which	91
58. Which and	92
59. Illogical Coördination	94
60. Variety of Subordination	94
61. So Habit	96

TABLE OF EXERCISES

	XV PAGE
62. Unclear Long Coördinates	101
63. Upside Down when Subordination	103
64. Making the Analogous Alike	106
65. Correlation	108
66. False Parallelism	110
67. Logical Agreements	113
68. Double Negative	115
69. Negation with hardly	116
70. Weak was seen	118
71. Reducing Predication	118
STRUCTURE OF LARGER UNITS	123
72. Transitional Units	130
SPELLING	133
73. Doubling Final Consonants	134
74. Dropping Final e	134
74a. Final e Retained	135
75. Y to i in Plurals	135
76. Y to i in Verbs	136
77. Ie to y in Verb Forms	136
78. Adverbs in lly	136
79. Plurals in s and es	137
80. Present Third Singulars in s and es	138
81. Receive, believe, etc.	138
82. Principal and principle	138
83. Endings in le and el	139
Adjectives in ful	140
Adjectives in ous	140
Adverb prefix al	140
Disappear and disappoint	140
Professor, etc.	140
Precede, proceed, etc.	140
Business	140
Endings in ness	140
Lose and loose	140
Lead and led	141
To, too, and two	141
Affect, effect, accept, except	141
Advice, advise, device, devise	141
84. Dictation Exercise	141
85. Dictation Exercise	149
86. Awhile and a while	151

	PAGE
87. Sometime and some time	152
88. Anyway and any way	152
PUNCTUATION	170
89. Periods and Capitals	171
90. Restrictive and Non-restrictive Clauses	177
91. Uses of the Comma	180
92. The Comma Fault	182
93. Semicolon with so , etc.	185
94. Using the Semicolon	186
95. Using the Colon	188
96. Exercises in Punctuation	191
97. Said he Interpolated	201
98. Said he with Semicolon	201
99. More about said he	202
QUOTATION MARKS WITH OTHERS.	203
100. Punctuative Possessives	205
101. Using the Hyphen	207
102. Punctuation with namely	209
103. General Exercise	210
104. Syllabication	213
105. Abbreviations	216
106. Words or Figures	220
107. Capitals	223
108. Capitalization	223
109. Writing Literary Titles	227
GENERAL EXERCISES ON THE GLOSSARY	291

DETAILED SYNOPSIS OF THE NUMBERED RULES

Numbers enclosed in parenthesis refer to rules

I. THE COMPOSITION OF DISCOURSE

	PAGE
INTRODUCTORY: THE STANDARD OF GOOD USAGE	1	Good Usage
The true standard; good usage defined (1)	1
A single standard of good English (1 a) Common, literary, and colloquial usage (1 b) Changing usage (1 c)
Mistaken standards	2
Colloquial usage (2 a) Newspaper usage (2 c)
Limited usage (2 b) Usage in isolated instances (2 e)
The usage of recent fiction (2 d)
Means of learning good usage (3)	3
DICTION	4	Diction
Errors regarding parts of speech (improprieties)	4
The general rule (4) Adjectives used as nouns (4 c)
Nouns used as verbs (4 a) Adjectives used as adverbs (4 d)
Verbs used as nouns (4 b)
Unauthorized formations and contractions (barbarisms)	4
Current (5) "Malaprops" (5 a) Extemporized (6)
The contractions don't , isn't , etc. (7)	12
Misuses of pronouns	12
Indefinite you (8) Indefinite that and those (11)
Indefinite they (9) Misuse of intensives (12)
Indefinite it (10) Either , neither , with two objects (13)
Rhetorical ornament	15
Triteness
Overworked formulas (14)
Hackneyed quotations, allusions, and proverbs (15)
Newspaper mannerisms
Nicknaming states and cities (16 a)
Current newspaper rhetoric (16 b) Straining for novelty (16 c)
Affectation
High-flown language and plain English (17)
Poetic diction (18)
The historical present (19)
Initials and blanks for names and dates (20)
"We" and "the writer" for I (21) The editorial we (21)
Mixed figures of speech
Incongruity with what precedes (22)
Figures not carried out (23)

xviii SYNOPSIS OF NUMBERED RULES

	PAGE
Structure of THE STRUCTURE OF SENTENCES	22
Sentences	22
Some fundamental errors	22
Subordinate elements mistaken for sentences (24) (24 a)
Virtual sentences (24)
Elements without construction (25)
Confused structure (25 a) Uncompleted construction (26)
Sentence used as subject or predicate complement (27)
When or where clause used as predicate complement (28)
Grammatical agreement	29
Subject and verb
General rule (29)
Subject obscured by intervening words (29 a)
Number of the subject not affected by with , etc. (29 b)
Subjects joined by or or nor (29 c)
Singular and plural substantives (29 d)
There is and there are (29 e)
Verbs with collective nouns (29 f)
Relative pronouns with "one of the men" etc (29 g)
Verb attracted by predicate substantive (30)
Each , every , etc. (31) Method of correction (32)
Matters of case	34
Subject of a finite verb
General rule (33)
Who not affected by he says , etc. (33 a)
Who and whoever not affected by preceding words (33 b)
Predicate substantive with a finite verb (34)
Subject and predicate complement of an infinitive (35)
Object of a verb or a preposition (36) Appositives (37)
A substantive after than or as (38) Than whom (38, note)
Nouns in the possessive case when not designating persons (39)
Possessive case in an objective sense (40)
Possessive case with gerunds (41)
Adjectives and adverbs	40
Expressions analogous to He looks sad (42)
Expressions analogous to Hold it steady (43)
Matters of voice and mode	41
Misuse of the passive voice (44)
The subjunctive (45)
Matters of tense	42
Shall and will
Expectation (46) Interrogative sentences (48)
Determination (47) Indirect quotations (49)
Shall and should in contingent statements (50)
Past tense
Undated (51) Misused for the past perfect (52)
Sequence of tenses (52 a) Relation of subordinate verbs
Perfect infinitive misused for present (53 a) Perfect conditional misused for present (53 b)
Statements permanently true in present (53 c)
Anachronous participles (54)
Reference	52
Uncertain or ludicrous reference (55)
Methods of correction (56)

SYNOPSIS OF NUMBERED RULES xix

	PAGE
Weak reference of this and that (57)		Structure of Sentences
Remote reference (58)
Reference to a word not prominent (59)
Reference to a word not expressed (60)
Reference to a whole statement (60 a) Antecedent in parentheses (61)
Dangling modifiers	60
Participles (62)
Participle introducing a sentence or clause (63)
Method of correction (64)
Participial phrase of result (thus or thereby) (65)
Gerund phrases (66)
Gerund phrase introducing a sentence or clause (67)
Dangling infinitive phrases (67, note)
Method of correction (68)
Elliptical clauses (69)
Method of correction (70)
Elliptical clauses in titles (71)
Unity	67
General rule (72)
Unrelated thoughts (73)
Unity secured by division (73 a)
Unity secured by subordination (73 b)
Unity secured by recasting (73 c)
Stringy compound sentences (74)
Straggling narrative, and summary sentences (75)
Unity secured in a long sentence by good organization (75, note)
Change of the point of view in a sentence (76)
Order of members — coherence	71
Position of modifiers (77)
Position of the adverbs only , almost , etc (78)
Misplaced clauses (79)
Position of relative clauses (80)
Squinting modifiers (81)
Parenthetical position of modifiers (82)
Position of therefore , however , etc. (83)
Separation of coordinate modifiers (84)
Split infinitives (85)
Smooth order
Of individual sentences (86)
Of consecutive sentences (87)
Order of members — emphasis	79
Strong close (88)
Ending a sentence with a preposition (88, note)
Climactic order (89)
Incorrect omissions	81
Use of words in a double capacity
Auxiliaries (90 a)
To be used as both principal and auxiliary verb (90 b)
Principal verbs (90 c)
Other modifiers (90 e)
Than and as clauses (90 d)
Nouns (90 f)
To (in as to, in regard to, etc.) (90 g)
That after so (90 h, note)
Omission of articles and possessives (91)
Omission of prepositions (92)
Uncompleted comparisons (93)
Coordination	88
Ungrammatical coordination (94)

xx SYNOPSIS OF NUMBERED RULES

	PAGE
Structure of Sentences
"And which" (95 a)
"Which and" (95 b)
Method of correction (96)
Illogical coordination (97)
So, then, and also used for connecting verbs (98)
The so habit (99)
Consecutive but's and for's (100)
Method of correction (101)
Clearness of coordination (102)
Repetition of auxiliary verbs (102 a) Repetition of prepositions (103)
Repetition of the infinitive-sign (104)
Repetition of subordinating conjunctions (105)
Subordination	102
Overlapping clauses and phrases (106)
Contrasted with coordinate dependence (107)
Misuse of when clauses (108)
Subordination of a statement of principal importance (109)
Upside-down subordination (110)
Parallelism	104
General rule (111)
Correlatives (112)
Improper use of parallelism
Misleading parallelism (113)
Junction of incongruous substantives (114)
Dissimilar elements in the form of a series (115)
Method of correction (116)
Logical agreement of members	111
General rule (117)
Illogical comparisons
Other or else in a than or as clause
When necessary (118)
When incorrect (119)
The of phrase limiting a superlative (120)
Negation	115
Double negative (121)
Incorrect negation with hardly, only, etc. (122)
Redundance	116
Tautology (123)
Wordiness (125)
Pleonasm (124)
Scrappy sentences (125)
Repetition of words	119
Repetition with change of meaning (126)
Awkward repetition (127)
Method of correction (128)
Awkward avoidance of repetition (129)
Careless repetition of the conjunction that (130)
Euphony	121
Concurrence of like sounds (131)
The absolute construction (132)
Absolute pronouns (132 a) Latinistic phrases (132 b)
Variety (133)	122
Structure of Larger Units
THE STRUCTURE OF LARGER UNITS OF DISCOURSE	123
Unity of a whole composition (134)
A short essay on a large subject (135)
Shifting the tense in narration (136)
Shifting the point of view in narration (137)
Shifting the tense in description (138)
Shifting the point of view from one person to another (139)

SYNOPSIS OF NUMBERED RULES xxi

	PAGE
Organization — coherence	126	Structure of Larger Units
General principle (140)
Parts misplaced (141)
Unity and completeness of each part (142)
Coherent beginning of a composition (143)
Coherence between parts Distinct introduction of a new part
The principle (144)
Means of marking the beginning of a new part Transition sentences and paragraphs (144 a) Connective phrases (144 b)
Placing key-words at the beginning (144 c)
Ineffective pronouns (144 d)
Introduction of a statement of consequence (145)
Introduction of an abatement (146)
Introduction of a contrasting part (147)
Introduction of a contradictory statement (148)

II. PUTTING DISCOURSE ON PAPER

SPELLING	133	Spelling
Doubling final consonants (149)
Exceptions (150)
Words ending in c add k before suffixes (151)
Dropping final e
Before suffixes beginning with a vowel (152)
Exceptions before ous and able (153)
Change of y to i in nouns (154) in verbs (155)
Happiness , etc. (155 a)		Studying , etc. (155 a)
Final ie changed to y (156)
Suddenness , etc. (156 a)		Finally , etc. (156 b)
Plurals ending in s and es (157 a)
Leaf , thief , etc. (157 b)		Nouns in o (157 c)
Letters, etc. (157 d)		Foreign nouns (157 e)
Present third singulars ending in s and es (158)
Three verbs ending in eed (158 a)
Receive , believe , etc. (159)
Principal and principle (160)
Oh and O (161)
A list of words that are often misspelled (162)
Incorrect uniting of separate words (163)
Incorrect division of single words (164)
LEGIBILITY	153	Legibility
Crowding
Space between lines (165)		Space between words (166)
Extra space after periods, semicolons, etc. (167)
Spaces in typewritten matter (167 a)
Crowding marks of punctuation (168)
Crowding at the bottom of a page (169)
Gaps between letters (170)		Oblique position of and (171)
Dots and cross-strokes
Neglect (172)		Placing at random (173)
Ornamental cross-strokes (174)
Shape of quotation marks and apostrophes (175)
Shape of Roman numbers (176)		Conspicuous ornament (177)

xxii SYNOPSIS OF NUMBERED RULES

		PAGE
Arrange-ment of Manuscript	ARRANGEMENT OF MANUSCRIPT	157
	The manuscript as a whole (178)	157
	Unruled paper. Black ink
	Only one side of paper to be used Manuscript not to be rolled
	Pages	157
	Page-numbers (179)
	Title position (180)
	Margin at the top (181) At the left side (182)
	Paragraphs	158
	Mechanical marks
	Indentation
	Of ordinary paragraphs (183)
	Of numbered paragraphs (184)
	Irregular indentation (185)
	Indentation in the midst of a paragraph (186)
	Incorrect spacing-out of a line (187)
	Division of a composition into paragraphs	159
	Paragraphing as an aid to clearness
	The fundamental principle (188)
	Separation of distinct parts (189)
	Paragraphs of introduction and conclusion (190)
	Paragraphs of transition (191)
	Direct quotations
	General rule (192) Dialogue (193)
	Special mechanical directions
	Indentation after a quotation (194)
	Indentation after he said (195)
	Grouping of related parts (196)
	The practical rule improper paragraphing of minute parts (197) Paragraphing in accordance with change of topic (198)
	Paragraphing where there is no change of topic (199)
	Paragraph unity (200)
	The practical rule (201)
	Paragraphing for emphasis (202)
	Paragraphing for ease in reading
	Too infrequent paragraphing (203)
	Entire neglect of paragraphing (204)
	Paragraphs too long (205)
	Too frequent paragraphing (206)
	Short compositions not paragraphed (207)
	General caution (208)
	Writing verse	160
	Left-over parts of lines (209)
	Grouping of words into lines (210)
	Setting quoted verse apart on the page (211)
	Extended quotations of prose; set apart (212)	167
	Tabulated lists	168
	Indentation (213)
	Tabulated matter to be set apart on the page (214)
Alterations in Manuscript	ALTERATIONS IN MANUSCRIPT	169
	Insertion (215) Erasure (216) Transposition (217)
	Changes in paragraphing
	New paragraph (218)
	Canceling a paragraph division (219)

SYNOPSIS OF NUMBERED RULES xxiii

	PAGE
PUNCTUATION	170	Punctua- tion
The period	170
Close of a sentence (220 a) Abbreviations (220 b)
The comma	172
Direct address (221 a)		Parentnetic members (221 d)
Appositives (221 b)		Geographical names (221 e)
Absolute phrases (221 c)		Dates (221 e)
Coordinate clauses (221 f)
Dependent clauses preceding principal clauses (221 g)
Introductory adverbial phrases (221 h)
To prevent mistaken junction (221 i)
Between adjectives (222)
Before the conjunction in a series (223)
Restrictive and non-restrictive clauses (224 a) Restrictive and non-restrictive phrases (224 b)
With interjections (225)		Before direct quotations (226)
Unnecessary use
In general (227)
Before a series (228)
Before a that or how clause (229)
The "comma fault" (230)
The semicolon	183
Between clauses of a compound sentence
When no connectives are used (231 a)
With the adverbs then , therefore , etc (231 b)
With and , but , etc., in certain cases (231 c)
In a simple or complex sentence
Between involve l members that are coordinate (231 d)
Used instead of a comma, to prevent obscurity (231 e)
Incorrect use in place of a comma (232)
The colon (233)	187
The question mark	188
After a direct, not an indirect question (234)
Use and misuse with parentheses (234 a)
The exclamation mark (235)	189
The dash	189
Interruptions (236 a)		With a comma (236 b)
With parenthetic matter (236 c)
Before a summarizing word (236 d)
Before an expression having the effect of an afterthought (236 e)
Before a sentence-member set apart on the page (236 f)
Before appositives (236 g)
Indiscriminate use in place of commas, periods, etc (237)
Parenthesis marks	192
Relative position of other marks (238)
Misuse of commas in addition to parenthesis marks (239)
Misuse of parenthesis marks with matter not parenthetic (240)
Incorrect use for emphasis (240 a) Incorrect use with a word discussed (240 b)
Incorrect use with a literary title (240 c)
Incorrect use with letters and symbols (240 d)
Incorrect use for canceling (240 e)
Brackets (241)	194

xxiv SYNOPSIS OF NUMBERED RULES

	PAGE
Punctuation
Quotation marks	194
Use with quotations
Direct, not indirect quotations (242)
Incorrect omission (243)
Incorrect use in the midst of a question (244)
Quotations with said he interpolated
Said he excluded (245 a)
Marks after the words preceding said he (245 b)
Marks after said he
When to use a period (245 c)
When to use a semicolon (245 d)
Comma in all other cases (245 e)
Capitalizing
Said he not capitalized (245 f)
When to capitalize the part following said he (245 g)
Quotation of titles (246)
Relative position of other marks of punctuation
The question or exclamation mark first (247 a)
The quotation mark first (247 b)
No comma or period in addition (247 c)
Period or comma always inside (247 d)
Colon or semicolon always outside (247 e)
Quotations within quotations (248)
Quotations of several paragraphs (249)
Use with technical terms (250)
Omission in the case of familiar technical terms (250, note)
Use for apology with slang and nicknames (251)
Errors
Good English mistaken for slang (251 a) Inappropriate apology in a humorous context (251 b)
Nicknames that are virtually proper names (251 c)
Sundry misuses
With the title at the head of a composition (252 a)
With proper names (252 b)
With proverbial phrases (252 c)
With words coined extempore (252 d)
For emphasis (252 e)
For labeling humor (252 f)
Without any reason (252 g)
 The apostrophe	203
Possessive case
General rule (253)
Nouns ending in s (254)
Misuse with the adjectives its , yours , etc. (255)
Use and misuse with contractions (256)
Use and misuse in forming plurals (257)
 The hyphen	205
With compound words (258)
Words that should not be hyphenated (258 a)
In fractions (258 b)
In compounds of few , etc. (258 c)
In breaking words at end of lines (259)
 Miscellaneous rules of punctuation	208
Punctuation with such as (260)
Punctuation with namely , viz. , e g. , that is , and i e (261)
Marks not to be placed at the beginning of a line (262)

SYNOPSIS OF NUMBERED RULES xxv

	PAGE
SYLLABICATION	211	Syllabication
 Division in accordance with pronunciation (263 a) Prefixes (263 b) Suffixes (263 c) Doubled consonants (263 d) The digraphs th, ng, ch, sh, etc. (263 e) Final le not to be set apart by itself (263 f) Monosyllables (264) A syllable of one letter not to be set apart (265) Too frequent word-breaking to be avoided (266)
ABBREVIATIONS	215	Abbreviations
 Inelegant in general (267) Abbreviations that are proper only in certain connections (268) Abbreviation of the titles of persons (269)
THE REPRESENTATION OF NUMBERS	217	Representation of Numbers
 Dates, folios, etc., and house numbers (270) Sums of money The sign $ not to be used for sums less than a dollar (271 a) The expression “.00” not to be used (271 b) A sum in dollars and cents — the sign $ and figures (271 c) A sum in even dollars or a sum in cents Such sums occurring frequently — figures for all (271 d) Isolated mention of such a sum A sum in cents to be spelled out (271 e) A sum in even dollars Expressed in one or two words to be spelled out (271 f) Requiring more than two words — figures (271 f) Other numbers Numbers occurring frequently — figures (272 a) Numbers isolated or few Numbers expressed in one or two words to be spelled out (272 b) Numbers requiring more than two words — figures (272 b) Ages and hours of the day to be spelled out (273) Parenthetic repetition of numbers Improper in literary compositions (274) Position of the parenthesis when it is used (274)
CAPITALS	220	Capitals
 Proper names (275) Names of seasons excepted (275) North, south, etc. (275) Words denoting family relationship (275 a) Titles of persons (276) Common-noun elements of proper nouns (277) Words of race or language (278) Words in literary titles (279) Beginning of a sentence or quotation (280) A quotation that is not a sentence (280) Beginning of lines of poetry (281) Misuses Use after a semicolon (282) Use without good reason (283)

xxvi SYNOPSIS OF NUMBERED RULES

	PAGE
Italics	225
ITALICS	225
Representation of italics in manuscript (284)
Titles of literary and artistic productions
General rule (285)
Titles beginning with the
Incorrect omission or exclusion of the (286)
The correctly excluded from titles of periodicals (287)
Names of ships (288) Words discussed (289) Foreign words (290)
Use and misuse of italics for emphasis (291)
Improper use for labeling humor or irony (292)

III. ANALYTICAL OUTLINES

Analytical Outlines	FORM OF TITLES (293)	228
	Use nouns, not verbs (293)
	Sentence outline (293)
	NUMBERING AND ARRANGEMENT OF TITLES	228
	Correct method (294)
	Irregular alignment of titles (295)
	THE TERMS Introduction , Conclusion , and Body or Discussion (296)	230
	Misuse of Introduction and Conclusion (296)
	Body or Discussion not to be used (297)
	OVER-MINUTE SUBDIVISION (298)	231
	CERTAIN ILLOGICAL PRACTICES	231
	Part of a title written like a subtitle (299)
	Second or third subtitle written as if it were the first (300)
	A coordinate title written like a subtitle (301)
	A subtitle written like a coordinate title (302)
	Main title written as if it were the first subtitle (303)

IV. LETTER-WRITING

Letters in the First Person	ORDINARY LETTERS (in the first person)	235
	The heading	235
	Definition (304)
	The address to precede the date (304)
	The address
	Insufficient address (305)
	Street direction to precede name of city (306)
	House numbers
	To be written in Arabic figures (307)
	Not to be preceded by the sign #, etc. (307)
	Numbers of streets less than one hundred to be spelled out (307 a) Incorrect omission of Street (309)
	The date
	Name, not number, of the month (309)
	Complete number of the year (309)
	Numbers not to be spelled out (310)
	Terminations nd , st , rd , and th not to be used (311)
	Abbreviations not to be used (312)

SYNOPSIS OF NUMBERED RULES xxvii

	PAGE
Position of the entire heading		Letters in the First Person
Grouping of the heading into lines (313)
Position in the letter
Correct position (313 a, 314)
On printed stationery (314 a) Separation or repetition of members (315)
Punctuation of the heading (316)
The inside address	239
Essential to a complete letter (317)
Position in commercial letters (317 a) Position in other letters (317 b)
To an individual in a firm (318)
Omission of street directions permissible (319)
Improper omission of the addressee's title (320)
Abbreviations not to be used (321)
Punctuation of the address (322)
The salutation	242
In business letters
Correct forms (323)
In letters of friendship
Correct forms (324)
"Dear friend," "Friend John," etc (325)
Incorrect use of a name in place of the salutation (326)
Abbreviations not to be used (327)
Punctuation (328) Position (329)
The complimentary close	244
In business letters (330)
In letters of friendship (331)
Vulgar closes (332)
Position and punctuation (333)
Position of preceding words (334)
The signature	245
Position (335)
In business letters (335 a)
In social notes (335 b)
Literary style	246
Certain vulgarisms common in letters
Ellipsis (336 a) "Yours," "your favor" (336 b)
"Yours received," "yours at hand" (336 c)
"In reply would say" (336 d)
"I would say" or "will say" or "can say" (336 e)
"Same" (336 f) "Please" (336 g)
"Please find enclosed" (336 h)
"$10 ten dollars" (336 i) Abbreviation of the name of a city (336 j)
Particinal closes and "and oblige" (336 k)
The use of the pronoun I Permissible at the beginning of a letter (337)
Monotonous use (337 a)
FORMAL NOTES IN THE THIRD PERSON	249	Formal Notes in the Third Person
No heading, salutation, complimentary close, inside address, or signature (338)
Consistent use of the third person (338)
Abbreviations not to be used (338)
Numbers to be spelled out (338)
Present tense to be used (338)

xxviii SYNOPSIS OF NUMBERED RULES

	PAGE
Sundry Mechanical Directions	SUNDRY MECHANICAL DIRECTIONS 250
	Writing materials
	Ink (339) Paper (340)
	Form of paper (340)
	Four-page sheets. Flat sheets
	Quality of paper (340)
	No ruling. Texture and color Arrangement of matter on pages (341) Margin at top. Margin at left Legibility. Paragraphing
	The order in which to use the pages
	Flat sheets (342). Four-page sheets (343)
	Folding and enclosing Four-page sheets (344)
	Flat sheets
	Small-sized sheets (345)
	Sheets of full commercial size (346)
	The fundamental principle underlying Rules 344-346 (347)
The Envelope	THE ENVELOPE 255
	The superscription
	Sundry directions (348) Punctuation (349)
	Affixing the stamp (350)

NEW HANDBOOK OF COMPOSITION

I. THE COMPOSITION OF DISCOURSE

THE STANDARD OF GOOD USAGE

1. Good English follows the standard of good usage. Good usage defined
By good usage is meant the usage generally observed in the writings of the best English authors and in the speech of well-educated people. Dictionaries, grammars, and books on rhetoric and composition record this usage, on the basis of wide observation and study.

(a) A single standard of usage is thus set up for the entire nation. A single standard of good English
Sectionalism is reduced and national unity is fostered by this means, for there is nothing so national as language. A pride in our common Americanism is today the most powerful incentive for supporting a single standard of good English.

(b) Different levels of usage exist, and what is proper to one level may not be proper to another. Common literary and colloquial usage
Common usage represents the center of the language. Literary usage is somewhat above common usage; colloquial usage is below it; slang is below them all. In general, written discourse is more precise and more condensed than spoken discourse, which often tends toward the more free-and-easy colloquial usage. Colloquialisms may be allowable in informal writing that are not allowable in formal writing. The lower levels of usage, including slang, have no place in written discourse, except in narrative that reproduces the conversation of people who employ them.

2 THE STANDARD OF GOOD USAGE

Changing
usage

(c) Usage changes from time to time. This is because language is a living thing, and grows by the addition of words, or by employing words in new senses and combinations. But these changes are so few, relatively speaking, that they need not occupy the attention of the student who is learning to speak and write good English.

Mistaken
standards

2. There are several mistaken standards of good English.

Colloquial
usage

(a) An expression current in common conversation is not thereby proved to be good English. If currency in common conversation were a valid test, such expressions as "ain't," "I says," "them fellows," "he laid down," "you hadn't ought," and "has went" would be good English.

Limited
usage

(b) The usage of a limited number of persons does not establish an expression as good English. Otherwise a national standard would be impossible, and each section, even each town, would be a law unto itself. Even well-educated people, moreover, may make some mistakes, such as saying "he don't" for "he doesn't" and "affect" for "effect."

Newspaper
usage

(c) Newspaper usage does not establish an expression as good English. The best newspapers set high standards, and oblige their writers to study "style books" similar to this Handbook, in order to avoid offenses against good English. But many newspapers have no such standards, and employ provincial and vulgar language. (Cf. Rule 16 and the note to Rule 129.)

(d) The usage of recent writers of popular fiction does not prove that an expression is good English. The right of an author to rank among the best English authors can be determined only by the general judgment of scholars and critics, as well as of the reading public, and only after that judgment has endured a sufficient length of time to become established.

The usage of recent fiction

(e) A single instance of the use of a word even by one of the best English authors does not prove the word to be good English. The word must be shown to be in general use among such authors, in order to give it the sanction of good usage.

Isolated instances

3. In order to learn what is good English, accordingly, the student should cultivate the habit of prompt reference to books on grammar, rhetoric, and composition, and to good dictionaries. The best dictionaries are Webster's New International Dictionary, the Standard Dictionary, and Murray's New English Dictionary. There are numerous short dictionaries — such as Webster's Collegiate Dictionary, Webster's High School Dictionary, the Desk Standard Dictionary, the Student's Standard Dictionary — produced by omitting much material given in the unabridged dictionaries. Any of these short dictionaries is far inferior, for the purposes of a student of English, to an unabridged dictionary. The larger volume gives fuller explanations and examples showing how words are actually used. These explanations and examples, dispensed with in the shorter works, the student cannot well do without.

Means of learning good usage

Large dictionaries superior to small

EXERCISE I

Look up each of the following words both in an unabridged dictionary and in an abridged one, and write a report showing how much more fully and clearly the larger volume explains the use of each word than the smaller one does: avail, aversion, comment, decoction, ingratiate, ludicrous, neutral, sardonic, satiated, sequester. State the exact title and the publisher of each of the dictionaries consulted.

Diction

Improprieties and Barbarisms

Error regarding parts of speech

4. Avoid improprieties in diction. An impropriety is the use of a word to fulfil the office of a part of speech to which it does not belong. The following are typical improprieties (see also the Glossary):

- (a) Nouns used as verbs: to suicide, to suspicion, to film.
- (b) Verbs used as nouns: a combine, an invite, a steal, eats.
- (c) Adjectives used as nouns: a canine, a feline, a drunk.
- (d) Adjectives used as adverbs: real, some, this (see the Glossary for these three words), good, considerable, friendly, tolerable, powerful.

NOTE. — As examples of the value of the use of a dictionary to determine whether a word is established in good usage, observe that to motor and to finance, both formerly used only as nouns, are found in Webster's and the New Standard, while to film (to take a picture) is found in neither.

EXERCISE 2

Adjectives
misused
for adverbs

Write the following sentences, filling the blanks with adverbs: 1. Do it as — as you can. 2. He managed it very —. 3. She stitched much — than I. 4. You'd better treat me — than you treated him. 5. The house was furnished as — as one could wish.

Unauthorized formations

5. Avoid barbarisms in diction. Barbarisms are current words coined without authority from words in good standing.

Typical barbarisms are the following (see also the Glossary): to enthuse (see Glossary), to burglarize, to jell (for to jelly), tasty (for tasteful), homey (for homelike), newsy, musicianly, complected (see Glossary), preventative (for preventive), illy (for ill), overly (see Glossary), and the contractions gent, most (for almost), and way (for away).

NOTE. — The standing of a word depends, not on the nature of its formation, but solely on its acceptance or non-acceptance by good usage (see Rules 1 and 2). “Baseballist” and “cheesery” are bad English, though they are formed after the analogy of pianist and creamery, which are good English. Analogy not decisive

5a. Avoid confusing words of somewhat similar pronunciation. For example, distinguish between allusion and illusion, conscience and conscious, deceased and diseased, formerly and formally, respectfully and respectively. For definitions of these and other words often confused, see the list of words often misspelled under 162, and the Glossary. “Malaprops”

EXERCISE 3

Fill the blanks with appropriate words: 1. Please make no — to what has happened. 2. The appearance of land is an —. 3. He is suffering from the — that he is a king, and often makes some — to his ungrateful subjects. 4. He is not — of having done wrong. 5. A tender — makes one — of some mistakes. 6. The — limb was cut off. 7. He was appointed administrator of the estate of the — doctor. 8. The family that — lived here has gone to Chicago. 9. The meetings were — opened informally, but are now opened —. 10. If he had spoken — he would have been more cordially received. 11. John, James, and William spoke — at the first three meetings. 12. In closing a letter to a superior you may subscribe yourself “Yours —.” “Malaprops”

6. Except as a humorous device, do not use words of your own coining, without ascertaining from a dictionary whether they are authorized. Extemporized formations

GENERAL EXERCISES IN THE USE OF THE DICTIONARY

EXERCISE 4

Words designated as bad
English

A word is not proved to be correct English by the mere fact that it is found in a dictionary, for the modern dictionary explains numerous slang words and other incorrect words. But incorrect words defined in a dictionary are clearly marked as incorrect by such expressions as obsolete, slang, cant, dialectal, low, vulgar, printed after the definition. In consulting a dictionary for the standing of a word, observe whether it is marked with one of the above-mentioned expressions. Look up the following words in an unabridged dictionary; read all that the dictionary says about each word; and write a report discussing each word and stating what sort of English it is: deal in the sense of bargain, enthuse, resurrect, to down, completed, preventative, jell, sleeper meaning sleeping car, to wire, illy, to vamose, brace up, humbug, boodle, pal, rampage, parson, to duck, rough it, cavort, scrumptious, in cahoots, right off, right along, grouch, swipe, swell (adj.). State the exact title and the publisher of the dictionary consulted.

EXERCISE 5

Collo-
quialisms

Opposite many words in a dictionary is printed Colloquial. This means that the word is used only in familiar conversation and informal writing, and not found — or very seldom found — in the written English of good authors. A word marked Colloquial, then, is unfit for use in formal composition. Look up the following words in an unabridged dictionary; write a report stating whether each word is fit for use in formal composition, and if not, what word is preferable: cute, tantrum, gumption, proxy, whoop, to butt, duds, skinflint, boss, rum (adj.), to peek, to fix, a fix, hired help, ninney, hustle, gullet, rooster, ruction, dude, graft (political), to collar, to wallop, stunt, twaddle, scrappy, materialize, crank (a person), flabbergast, cantankerous. State the exact title and the publisher of the dictionary consulted.

EXERCISE 6

In consulting a dictionary about a word, always notice the part of speech. This is indicated by an abbreviation following the word. The abbreviations (a. for adjective, n. for noun, etc.) are explained in the front part of the dictionary. Look up the following words in a dictionary; write a report stating what part of speech each word belongs to, and illustrating the correct use of the word: illicit, impugn, vacillate, burgeon, brawn, riparian, tact, writhe, cowardly, dual, gyrate, rift, vagary, adept, invective, vitiate, suspicion.

Part of speech of word sought

EXERCISE 7

In consulting a dictionary about a verb, always notice whether the verb is transitive or intransitive. If transitive, a verb is followed by v. t.; if intransitive, by v. i. Look up the following verbs in a dictionary; write a report stating whether each verb is transitive or intransitive, and illustrating the correct use of each verb: dismay, deviate, recant, procrastinate, banter, retract, vibrate, harass, acclimate, ingratiate, stipulate, capitulate, locate, disaffect, metamorphose, concur, demur, debilitate, debouch, vitiate, lay, raise, accede, desist, coalesce.

Verb
transitive or intransitive?

EXERCISE 8

In consulting a dictionary about the use of a word, try not merely to get a general idea of the meaning of the word, but to discover within what limits of meaning the word is confined. To this end read the definition as a whole; do not pick out a single synonym and suppose that this and the word defined are interchangeable. Cut is defined thus: "To separate the parts of with, or as with, a sharp instrument; to make an incision in; to gash; to sever; to divide." To pick out the last synonym ("to divide") and reason that since cut means divide, one may say "I will cut the money among them" would be absurd. What cut means is ascertained not from one synonym taken separately but from the definition read as a whole. Look up the following words in an unabridged dictionary; read each definition as a whole, and read the examples; write sentences illustrating the correct use of each word: broach, manifest, divert, descry, descant, indeterminate, in-

Definition
to be read
as a whole

flux, forage, equanimity, compromise, vicissitude, intermit, analogy, transmute, diversify, poignant, exigency, derogatory, eradicate, incompatible, effete, extirpate, cavil, propitiate, deprecate, amenable, precedence, apropos, obligatory, alias, incognito, sinecure, stupor, ebullition, potent, divulge, deprave, pervert, acumen, insidious, peremptory, contiguous, submerge, emerge, immerse, circumvent, brusque, drastic, dulcet. State the exact title and the publisher of the dictionary consulted.

EXERCISE 9

Idiomatic construction to be sought

In consulting a dictionary about the correct use of a word, try to discover what idiomatic construction the word requires. In some cases this is specifically explained; in others it is suggested by the examples. For instance, under ingratiate we find this statement: "used reflexively, and followed by with" (e.g., George ingratiates himself with Henry); under accuse we find "used with of" (e.g., He was accused of treachery); under charge (meaning accuse) we find the example "I charge you with robbery," which shows that charge in this sense requires with. Look up the following words in an unabridged dictionary; find out, either from explicit statements in the definitions or from the examples, what idiomatic construction — especially what preposition — is required with each word; and write sentences illustrating the correct use of each word: avail (v. t.), prevail (v. t.), substitute (v.), averse, compensate, confide (v. t.), confide (v. i.), demand, atone, treat (v. i.), deprive, different, demur (v. i.), accordance, attend (v. i.), tend (v. t.), rid (v. t.), free (v. t.), enamor, accustom, absolve, acquit, bestow, conform (v. t.), conversant, proficient, dependent, independent, derogatory, versed (adj.), inasmuch. State the exact title and the publisher of the dictionary consulted.

EXERCISE 10

Limitation of words to special uses

Do not overlook the notes which indicate that words are confined to certain special uses — such notes as Typ., Med., Naut., Mech., Machin., Mus., Her., Arch. The meanings of such notes are stated in the list of abbreviations in the front part of the dictionary. Look up the following words in a dictionary; write a report stating to what occupation, art, or science each appertains: necronite, spandrel, qundecemvir, bimanous, solenoid, cresselle, cuddy, sister block, barbara, mullion, fascine, semibull, meniscus, corona, stalagmite, tenaculum, anamorphosis, brontotherium, pediment, semibreve, tenon.

See that you understand every statement, every abbreviation, every mark which you find under the word you are investigating. Use the list of abbreviations and the explanatory notes in the front part of the dictionary. Study the following definitions:

Thorough understanding of abbreviations, etc.

pet'ty (pēt'ī), a.; PET'TI-ER (-ī-ēr); PET'TI-EST. [ME. petit, F. petit; probably of Celtic origin and akin to E. piece. Cf. PETIT.] 1. Of small size. Obs.

2. Of small importance; little; trifling; inconsiderable; also, inferior; subordinate; as, a petty fault; a petty prince.

im'pro-vice', (im'prō-vīz'). v. t.; IM'PRO-VISED' (-vīzd'); IM'PRO-VIS'ING (-vīz-ing). [F. improviser, It. improvvisare, fr. improvisio unprovided, sudden, extempore, L. improvisus; im- not + provisus foreseen, provided. See PROVISO.]

1. To compose, recite, or sing extemporaneously, esp. in verse; to extemporize; also, to play upon an instrument, or to act, extemporaneously.

2. To bring about, arrange, or make, on a sudden, or without previous preparation; to invent, or provide, off hand; as, he improvised a hammer out of a stone.

Charles attempted to improvise a peace. Moiley.

run (rūn), v. i.; pret. RAN (rān) or RUN; p.p. RUN; p.pr. & vb. n. RUN'NING.

[ME. rinnen, rennen (pret. ran, p.p. runnen, ronnen), AS. rinnen to flow. . . .]

run (rūn), v. t. . . . 14. To conduct; manage; carry on; as, to run a factory, a hotel, or a business. [Colloq., U. S.]

NOTE. — See in Webster's New International Dictionary, almost a whole page devoted to this word.

runt . . . 4. The dead stump of a tree. [Obs. or Prov. Eng.]

Pope, n. [AS. papa, L. papa, father, bishop. Cf. PAPA, PAPAL.]

1. Any ecclesiastic, esp. a bishop. [Obs.] gules, n. (Her.) The tincture red.

article, v. i. To agree; to stipulate. [R.]

the, adv. By how much; by so much; used before comparatives; as, the colder it is, the happier I am.

incident, a. [L. incidens, -entis, p. pr. of incidere to fall into or upon; pref. in- in, on + cadere to fall; cf. F. incident. See CADENCE.] Falling or striking upon, as a ray of light upon a reflecting surface.

EXERCISE 11

Write a report answering the following questions:

1. The information given concerning improvise consists of five parts: first, the expression in parentheses following improvise; second, the expression "v. t."; third, the forms before the bracketed part; fourth, the bracketed part; fifth, the remainder. What five subjects are treated in these five parts (answer very briefly)? 2. What information is conveyed by the bracketed part under incident (answer fully and clearly)? 3. Under incident what does "see CADENCE" mean? For what purpose is the reader told to look up the word cadence? 4. What does "(-ty)" after petty mean? 5. What is meant by the numbers 14 and 4 under run and runt? 6. What information is conveyed by the bracketed expression under run (explain fully and clearly)? 7. Tabulate the following abbreviations and write opposite each its meaning:

a., compar., superl., O.E., F., cf. (under petty)

v. t., imp., p. p., p. pr., vb. n., It., fr., L., pref. (under improvise) obs., prov. Eng. (under runt)

n., AS. (under pope)

Her. (under gules)

v. i., R. (under article)

adv. (under the)

EXERCISE 12

(a) Usually only the chief inflectional form of a regularly inflected word is entered alphabetically in a dictionary; for other forms look under the chief form. Look up the following words in a dictionary; write a report stating where each word is found; if you find any entered alphabetically, state why it is entered: birds, boxes, oxen, leaves, picnicking, dazzled, woods, happier, maddest, sourer, stole, killed, went, stood, cliffs, saddling, studying, child. (b) Answer the following questions by means of a dictionary, and state where in the dictionary the information on each point can be found: 1. Which is correct — he sang, or he sung? 2. I dreamed, or I dreamt? 3. It is froze, or it is frozen? 4. A dollar was bet, or was betted? 5. I have drank, or I have drunk? 6. I have swam, or I have swum? 7. He has long lain unconscious, or long laid unconscious? 8. He spit (past tense), or he spat?

Inflectional forms, how found

EXERCISE 13

Usually plurals regularly formed are not given in a dictionary. If no plural is given, the inference is that the plural consists of the singular plus s or es. Whether s or es is to be added is explained in the front part of the dictionary. Look up the following words in a dictionary; write a report stating what is the plural of each word, what plurals are given in the dictionary and what not: road, wheel, glass, bunch, sheep, cannon, datum, phenomenon, stratum, species, index, penny, die, freak, flash, wolf, leaf, lady, attorney, tract.

Plurals, how found

EXERCISE 14

Hyphens printed short and light in a dictionary are used only to show the division of a word into syllables; they should not be used in writing the word. A hyphen that should be used when the word is written is printed large and heavy. (One dictionary uses two short parallel lines.) Look up the following words in a dictionary; then copy the list writing the words correctly — with or without hyphens:

Use of hyphen in dictionaries

passerby	somebody halfbreed	whoever halfmoon	without childlike	withstand
childhood	overcome
eagleeyed	together
whatever	whenever yourself	outside somewhat	moreover notwithstanding	nowadays
instead	overcoat
nevertheless	outburst
inasmuch	offspring
selfpossessed	afternoon

Contractions

Inappropriate in formal composition

7. The contractions don't, isn't, haven't, etc., are not appropriate in formal composition. They are proper in conversation and in composition of a colloquial style.

Misuses of Pronouns

Indefinite
you

8. Avoid the indefinite use of you in formal composition. The fault may be corrected by using either the passive voice or the pronoun one, or by substituting the noun or pronoun which is really intended. (For the fault of shifting from you to one and to we, see Rule 139.)

Vague: You should not use they indefinitely.

Definite: They should not be used indefinitely; [or]

One should not use they indefinitely.

Indefinite
they

9. Avoid using they indefinitely; use the passive voice, or recast the sentence otherwise.

Wrong: They make bricks in Fostoria.

Right: Bricks are made in Fostoria.

Wrong: They had a collision on the electric road.

Right: There was a collision; [or] A collision occurred (more formal).

Wrong: They don't have redbirds in Wisconsin.

Right: There are no redbirds in Wisconsin; [or] Redbirds are not found in Wisconsin (more formal).

10. Except in impersonal expressions, such as it rains, it seems, it is cold, do not use it without antecedent; recast the sentence. Indefinite it Wrong: In the notice on the bulletin board it says the drill is held at four.

Right: The notice on the bulletin board says the drill is held at four.

Wrong: In Garland's Life Among the Corn Rows it gives a description of life among the farmers.

Right: Garland's Life Among the Corn Rows gives a description; [or] In Garland's Life Among the Corn Rows there is a description.

Wrong: Does it say "Fair Oaks" on that car?

Right: Is that car marked "Fair Oaks"?

NOTE. — The habit of beginning sentences with it is or it seems, even when these expressions are grammatically correct, makes a weak style and often leads to confusion of pronouns (see Rule 55).

11. The use of a demonstrative adjective (especially that or those) without the relative clause needed to make clear what is meant is a colloquialism. (For the misuse of the pronoun involving weak reference, see Rule 59.) Indefinite that and those

Wrong: I observed that the building was one of those rambling old mansions.

Right: I observed that the building was a rambling old mansion; [or] . . . one of those rambling old mansions that one often sees in New England towns.

12. The compound personal pronoun is used to refer back to the subject or to emphasize the noun or pronoun to which it is attached. Myself should not be Misuse of intensives used for I, and not, as a rule, for me. Himself, herself, and themselves are used like myself.

Right: I myself will attend to it.

Wrong: My wife and myself will go.

Right: My wife and I will go.

Wrong: This is for yourself.

Right: This is for you.

Especially avoid expressions like "yourself and guests," "myself and brother." Say "you and your guests," "my brother and I."

Misuse of either and neither

13. The best standard of usage restricts either and neither to two objects; it is rare to find a good author using it with three objects.

Right: Either the conductor or the ticket agent must have lost it, but neither will admit it.

Doubtful: There are three vacant lots in the block, either of which can be had cheaply.

Right: There are three vacant lots in the block, any one of which can be had cheaply.

EXERCISE 15

Correct the following sentences: 1. The air this morning tells you that spring is near. 2. We learned that you must buy seats two weeks before the performance. 3. He is the kind of man that tries at once to put you on the defensive. 4. If they put many more billboards along this road you will not be able to see the country at all. 5. We were there when they said the car would leave, but it had already gone. 6. The city has many fine parks but they do not give them the proper care. 7. On our road map it says to turn here. 8. We read with great interest the passage in which it told of the rescue of all on board the sinking ship. 9. The meeting would have been more largely attended if it had not rained. 10. She came to the party in one of those old fashioned dresses. 11. He spoke in that tiresome sort of way for an hour.

12. I think he lost his life on one of those Arctic exploration trips. 13. It would have been courteous for them to invite yourself and family to the meeting. 14. Please have all letters on that subject sent to myself. 15. He would have been in favor of the idea if himself and brother had been consulted. 16. I cannot come on either Monday, Tuesday, or Wednesday. 17. He would accept neither of the several offers he received. 18. She took neither of her three children with her.

Rhetorical Ornament

Triteness

14. Avoid trite rhetorical expressions. Language should be fitted to its subject; if the subject is simple matter of fact, the language should be without ornament. Of the following list of phrases, many were originally inappropriate and others have lost their force through frequent repetition.

Overworked formulas

all too soon
sigh of relief
beat a hasty retreat
the commercial world, the social world, etc.
favor with a selection
render a vocal solo rendition
discourse sweet music hungry as bears
repat
do justice to a dinner
toothsome viands
sought his downy couch
vast concourse
never in the history of news leaked out
dull, sickening thud
those present
in evidence

working like Trojans herculean efforts
wended their way enjoyable occasion
in a pleasing manner untiring efforts
all in all
it goes without saying bolt from a clear sky
some one has said
specimen of humanity
had the privilege replete with interest undercurrent of excitement
last sad rites
tonsorial parlor
checkered career
last but not least tired but happy
cheered to the echo

abreast of the times	breathless silence
was the recipient of	speculation was rife
everything went along	tiny tots
nicely	along . . . lines (e.g. along agricultural lines)
the student body	along the line of doomed to disappointment	along these lines
was an impressive sight	as luck would have it made a pretty picture	the proud possessor completed the scene	in touch with nestled among the hills or	social function
among the trees	in the last analysis
like sentinels guarding	waited in breathless sus- pense
sumptuous repast	order out of chaos
all nature seemed	those with whom we come in contact all nature clothed in a robe	imbued with each and every	mother earth
on this particular day	breakneck speed long-felt want it seems (in narrative) fair maidens

Hackneyed
quotations,
allusions,
and proverbs

15. Avoid hackneyed quotations, literary allusions, and proverbs, such as the following:

The light fantastic toe
Truth is stranger than fiction
Teach the young idea how to shoot
Method in his madness
Sadder but wiser
Cupid has been busy
Variety is the spice of life
The best laid plans of mice and men, etc.
All work and no play, etc.
Never put off till tomorrow, etc.
Make hay while the sun shines
All is not gold that glitters
When ignorance is bliss, etc.
Music hath charms, etc.

Newspaper
mannerisms

16. Certain hackneyed newspaper mannerisms are especially to be avoided. These have arisen through the effort of writers to adorn their style where no ornament was needed, or to introduce a forced humor, or to avoid repetition of the same word. The style books of good newspapers advocate simplicity of diction, and specifically condemn these mannerisms. Repetition of the same word is to be preferred to the invention of artificial epithets. (See Rule 129.) The following offenses against good usage are especially to be avoided:

(a) The designation of states and cities by their nicknames, as, "the Buckeye State," "the Sunflower State," "the Gopher State," "the Cream City," etc.; and the dragging in of these nicknames where no name at all is needed.

Nicknames of states and cities

Bad: He arrived in Boston yesterday. Many citizens of the Hub were gathered to meet him.

Right: He arrived in Boston yesterday. Many citizens were gathered to meet him.

(b) The regular employment of verbal ornaments, such as "fatal affray," "fistic encounter," "struggling mass of humanity," "scantly attired," "knights of the pen" (for reporters), "the officiating clergyman," "equines" (for horses), "canines" (for dogs), "felines" (for cats), "fair sex," "well-known clubman," "breakneck speed," "city bastille," "milady."

Current newspaper
rhetoric

(c) Obtrusive straining for novelty of phrase.

Straining
for novelty of phrase

Bad: The football warriors of the Badger State will play the Windy City's squad of pigskin chasers this afternoon.

Right: The Wisconsin football team will play the Chicago team this afternoon.

Bad: The guests spent the evening in doing the "light fantastic" act.

Right: The guests spent the evening in dancing.

Bad: Indefatigable knights of the pen dogged his steps as far as the hostelry.

Right: Reporters followed him to his hotel.

Affectation

High-flown
language

17. Do not use high-flown language for plain things. Straining for high-sounding expressions to replace plain English makes a style weak rather than strong. For instance, say leg, not limb; letter, not kind favor; house, not residence; body, not remains; flowers, not floral offerings; funeral, not obsequies or last sad rites; "I went to bed," not "I retired"; "I got up," not "I arose." Such attempts at "fine writing" are in bad taste.

Bad: To keep the horse healthy you must be careful of his environment.

Right: To keep the horse healthy you must be careful of his stable.

Poetic and legal diction

18. In prose avoid the use of words suited only to poetry. Examples are dwelt, oft, oftentimes, ofttimes, morn, amid, 'mid, 'midst, o'er, 'neath, 'tis, 'twas. Heretofore, therein, thereof, thereby, are awkward substitutes in good natural writing for before this event, in it, and of it.

The historical present

19. In narrative relating past events, prefer the past tense to the so-called "historical present." The latter is a device intended to produce the effect of strong emotion, but is more likely to seem affected than to create the desired impression. (For awkward shifting of tenses in narrative, see Rule 136.)

Affected: He shouted to attract her attention, but she went on toward the danger, not heeding his warning. Lashing his horse and riding swiftly toward her, he shouted again. This time she hears. She stands still and awaits him. He lifts her to his saddle and rides frantically toward the hut. [Throughout this passage the past tense should be used.]

20. Designate persons, places, and dates in a story by complete names and dates. The custom of using initials and dashes, and of representing dates in a similar manner, is obsolete; it suggests affectation.

Initials and blanks in place of names

Objectionable: In the year 18—, when my father was a young man in the little town of B——, he formed a strong friendship with a wealthy farmer, Mr. M——.

Preferable: In the year 1892, when my father was a young man in the little town of Bristol, he formed a strong friendship with a wealthy farmer, Mr. McManus.

NOTE. — In narrative composition, definiteness, clearness, and smoothness are gained by calling the characters by name as soon as they are introduced.

Names for characters in a story

Awkward: One afternoon this winter two friends of mine called at my home and suggested that we go ice-boating. Now one of these men had never been to ride in an ice-boat. The other man was warmly dressed for the occasion, but the man who had never had the experience, as it afterwards turned out, was dressed rather less warmly than usual. When we reached the lake, the first friend and I were busy getting up the sail, and did not notice that the teeth of the other man had begun to chatter as soon as the chilly breeze struck him. It happened, moreover, that this man who was dressed so lightly was selected to sit on the end of the runner-plank, while my first friend and I managed the tiller and the sheet.

Improved: One afternoon this winter two friends of mine called at my home and suggested that we go ice-boating. Now one of these men, Tom Lamont, had never taken a ride in an ice-boat. The other man, Bert Pryor, was warmly dressed for the occasion, but Tom, as it afterwards turned out, was dressed rather less warmly than usual. When we reached the lake, Bert and I were busy getting up the sail, and did not notice that Tom's teeth had begun to chatter as soon as the chilly breeze struck him. It happened, moreover, that Tom, in spite of his thin clothing, was selected to sit on the runner-plank, while Bert and I managed the tiller and the sheet.

"The writer" and "we" for I

21. In mentioning yourself, avoid the expressions we and the writer. Use I, my, and me, and guard against unnecessary reference to yourself. The use of we in an editorial which purports to be the utterance of a board of editors is entirely proper, but as designating an individual speaker or writer it is an affectation.

Bad: We have selected for our text the second verse of the Epistle of Jude.

Right: I have selected for my text, etc.

Mixed Figures of Speech

Incongruity with what precedes

22. Do not use a simile or metaphor which is incongruous with the expression preceding.

Incongruous metaphor: The officers must enforce discipline among the raw material.

Right: The officers must enforce discipline among the new men.

Incongruous metaphor: We got some oil for the wheel at a farmhouse, and thus our hotbox was nipped in the bud.

Right: At a farmhouse we got some oil for the wheel and thus prevented a hotbox.

Incongruous metaphor: He must conduct his business on an honest foundation.

Right: He must conduct his business in an honest manner; [or] He must build his business on an honest foundation.

Bad: The probe of the Fond du Lac grand jury has netted five corrupt officials.

Right: The probe of the Fond du Lac grand jury has revealed five corrupt officials; [or] The drag net of the Fond du Lac grand jury has caught five corrupt officials.

Bad: With his fortune blown to the four winds, all his ambition was crushed.

Right: All his ambition was, like his fortune, blown to the four winds; [or] In the ruin of his fortune his ambition was crushed.

23. When a simile or metaphor has been used, the expression following it should carry out the figure — should not (1) embody an incongruous figure or (2) be incongruously literal.

Figures not carried out

Bad: The freshman algebra course is a rocky and difficult road to travel. But whether we like it or not we are required to wade through it. [The figure embodied in "rocky road" is not carried out by the figure embodied in "wade through."]

Right: The freshman course in algebra is a rocky and difficult road to travel. But whether we like it or not, we are required to travel it.

Inferior: It made a deep impression on my mind which I shall never forget. [The figure embodied in "impression" is not carried out by the literal expression "forget."]

Right: It made a deep impression on my mind, which will never be effaced.

EXERCISE 15a

Mixed Figures

Rewrite the following sentences, eliminating the incongruity in the figures of speech: 1. Richelieu used the bishop's robe only as a stepping-stone to political power. 2. All the pent-up venom of his evil heart rushed to the front. 3. Let our object be to educate and bring to the front the laboring men — the backbone of our nation. 4. The student is here prepared to go forth and meet without difficulty any burdens that may be placed upon him. 5. If there was a trace of good in his character, it was stifled by his selfishness. 6. Young man, if you have a spark of genius, water it.

Incongruity between figures

EXERCISE 15b

Figures not carried out

Rewrite the following sentences, eliminating the incongruities. 1. The sunlight is the mainspring of the photographer's business; it should be admitted through a skylight or a north window. 2. The high tariff is the mother of trusts, and the next Congress should repeal it. 3. Pig iron is the foundation-stone of the iron industry. From it kettles and stoves are made directly, and from it steel and wrought iron are manufactured. 4. Accidents to tires are an annoyance that may occur at any time. We all enjoy sitting by the roadside waiting for a tire to be patched. This experience tries the patience of the most good-humored.

STRUCTURE OF SENTENCES

Some Fundamental Errors

Subordinate elements
mistaken
for sentences

24. Subordinate sentence-elements should not be capitalized and punctuated like complete sentences. This error, the "period fault," is one of the most serious the writer can commit, because it breaks up a complete thought into incomplete fragments. An incomplete sentence is to be distinguished from those brief expressions which are the abbreviated forms of complete ideas as in the following cases:

1. Questions and answers to questions, especially in conversation.

Why not?

Because it is too late.

2. Exclamations.

A pretty situation!

At last!

3. Transitions

Now for the next objection.

To consider the next point.

In determining whether an expression is a complete sentence, it is dangerous to rely upon your judgment as to whether it expresses a complete thought, for a subordinate member may appear to you complete in thought. Rely instead upon grammatical definitions as the guide to correct punctuation. Distinguish carefully between a complete sentence, a phrase, and a subordinate clause. A complete sentence contains a subject and a predicate, and is not dependent on any words outside itself. A phrase is a group of words not containing a subject and a predicate. A subordinate clause is introduced by (and usually begins with) a relative pronoun or a subordinating conjunction. The relative pronouns are that, who, what, which, whoever, whatever, and whichever. The principal subordinating conjunctions are if, as if, even if, though, although, whether, lest, unless, than, as, that, in order that, so that, because, since, when, whenever, while, after, where, whereas, wherever, provided, provided that, before, how, however, until. Simple conjunctions and conjunctive adverbs, which do not subordinate the subjects and predicates following them, should be carefully distinguished from relative pronouns and subordinating conjunctions. (See Conjunction in Appendix A.)

Wrong: It offers a course for those who wish to study painting. At the same time affording opportunity for literary study. [Participial phrase lacking subject and predicate.]

Right: It offers a course for those who wish to study painting, at the same time affording opportunity for literary study.

Wrong: Among her suitors were two she favored most. One a college student, the other a capitalist. [Phrases in apposition with "suitors."]

Right: Among her suitors were two she favored most; one a college student, the other a capitalist.

Wrong: The care of oil lamps requires every day some untidy and disagreeable labor. While electric lights give the housekeeper no trouble. [Subordinate clause, marked by "while."]

Right: The care of oil lamps requires every day some untidy and disagreeable labor, while electric lights give the housekeeper no trouble.

Substantives and participles for sentences

24a. Do not use a substantive and a participle for a subject and predicate.

Wrong: The weather being pleasant today.

Right: The weather is pleasant today.

EXERCISE 16

Complete and incomplete sentences

Analyze the following, indicating whether the sentence can be considered a complete sentence. State the reason for your decision. 1. Farther north is a big lake, where I keep my boats. My bilge-board sloop, my racing power boat, and my big launch. 2. As you go up the drive, you see at the right a little summerhouse which is one mass of vines. While on the other side is a large stable. 3. For after all there is much pleasure to be found in life. 4. How could you be so thoughtless! 5. I suspected two fellows in particular. Buck Joslin, whom I had seen hiding near the shed, and Bill Arnold, the pink-eyed delivery boy. 6. I came to the conclusion that a musical life was not a fit life for a man who had not the most extraordinary genius. That it was poorly recompensed and might not bring me the bare necessities of life. 7. "Into one of these establishments (among the earliest) near Bow-street, there came one morning as I sat over my houseless cup, pondering where to go next, a man in a high and long snuff coloured coat, and shoes, and, to the best of my belief, nothing else but a hat, . . ." — Dickens. 8. "No mother?" "No. Dead many years." 9. The pots are usually made of plum-bago and German clay. Each pot being used only two or three times. 10. There were two books on the table. One a small gilded volume, and the other a commercial ledger. 11. It was in the winter that the reclamation of the land began. That time of the year being the dry season. 12. What chance was there of escape? 13. "What a dead thing is a clock, with its ponderous embowelments of lead and brass, its pert or solemn dullness of communication, compared with the simple, altar-like structure and silent heart-language of the old dial!" — Lamb.

EXERCISE 17

Write the following passage, putting a period at the end of every complete independent predication, and capitalizing the word following every period:

The topman who had hold of the upper corner of the topsail lost his balance he was seen to totter the crowd on the quay uttered a cry he turned around the yard but caught hold of the footrope as he passed it and remained hanging by it the sea was below him at a dizzy depth and the shock of his fall had given the footrope a violent swinging motion the man swung at the end of the rope like a stone in a sling to go to his assistance would be running a frightful risk not one of the sailors dared to venture it all at once a man could be seen climbing up the shrouds with the agility of a tiger cat his red clothes showed that he was a convict in a second he was upon the yard he stood an instant looking around him the crowd then saw him run along the yard on reaching the end he fastened to it the rope he had brought let it hang down and then began going down hand over hand ten thousand eyes were fixed on the two swinging men not a cry not a word could be heard every person held his breath as if afraid of increasing in the slightest degree the wind that swung the two men the convict managed to get close to the sailor then clinging to the rope with one hand and working with the other he fastened the rope around the sailor at length he was seen to climb back to the yard and haul the sailor up he supported him there for a moment to let him regain his strength and then took him in his arms and carried him along the yard to the cap and thence to the top where he left him with his comrades the convict began to descend immediately to rejoin his gang all eyes followed him at one moment the spectators felt afraid for they fancied they saw him hesitate and totter all at once the crowd uttered a terrible cry the convict had fallen into the sea four men hastily got into a boat the crowd encouraged them all felt anxious again the convict did not come to the surface he disappeared without making a ripple as if he had fallen into a tank of oil they dragged for him but in vain they searched till nightfall but did not find his body.

Sentence-
elements
omitted

25. Do not omit a word, phrase, or clause essential to a clear understanding of the structure and meaning of the sentence.

Bad: The resonator responds in a manner analogous to that which one tuning fork responds to another.

Right: The resonator responds in a manner analogous to that in which one tuning fork responds to another.

Wrong: There were some people whom I could not tell whether they were English or American. ["Whom" has no construction.]

Right: There were some people about whom I could not tell whether they were English or American.

Confused structure

25a. Make the grammatical construction consistent throughout each sentence.

Bad: That's all I want, is a chance to test it thoroughly. ["Is" has no subject.]

Right: That's all I want — a chance to test it thoroughly [see Rule 236 e]; [or] All I want is a chance to test it thoroughly.

Sentences or sentence-
elements
left uncompleted

26. Do not begin a grammatical construction and leave it unfinished.

Bad: The fact that I had never before studied at home, I was at a loss what to do with vacant periods. [The noun "fact" with its appositive modifier "that . . . home" is left without any construction.]

Right: The fact that I had never before studied at home made me feel at a loss as to what to do with vacant periods.

Bad: The story tells how a young German, who, having settled in Dakota, returns to Wisconsin and there marries an old schoolmate. [The clause beginning "how a young German" is left unfinished; "German" (modified by the clause "who . . . schoolmate") has no construction.]

Right: The story tells how a young German, having settled in Dakota, returns to Wisconsin and marries an old schoolmate.

Wrong: Any man who could accomplish that task, the whole world would think he was a hero. ["Man," with its modifier "who . . . task," is left without any construction.]

Right: Any man who could accomplish that task the whole world would regard as a hero.

27. Do not use a sentence (except a quoted sentence) as the subject of is or was.

Sentence as subject or predicate
complement

Bad: I was detained by business is the reason I am late.

Right: I was detained by business; that is the reason I am late.

A similar fault is the use of a sentence (except a quoted sentence) as a predicate substantive after is or was. This fault may be corrected by changing the sentence to a substantive clause.

Bad: The difference between them is De Quincey is humorous and Macaulay is grave.

Right: The difference between them is that De Quincey is humorous and Macaulay is grave.

28. Do not use a when or where clause in place of a predicate noun; use a noun with modifiers. This error is likely to occur in definitions. (See also Rule 117.)

When or where clause for predicate noun

Bad: Cribbing is where you copy somebody's answer in an examination.

Right: One form of cribbing is copying somebody's answer in an examination.

Bad: Intoxication is when the brain is affected by the action of certain drugs.

Right: Intoxication is a state of the brain, caused by the action of certain drugs.

28a. Do not use a because clause in the predicate instead of a noun clause. (See Cause and Reason in the Glossary.)

Wrong: The reason why I failed was because I had not studied my lesson.

Right: The reason why I failed was that I had not studied my lesson; [or] I failed because I had not studied my lesson.

EXERCISE 18

Elements
without construction;
uncompleted
constructions

The following sentences contain elements without construction, or uncompleted constructions; state the fault in each, and correct and rewrite each. 1. Her hair is almost the same color as yours. 2. My afternoons are spent motoring. 3. The football games are played in the same field that the baseball diamond is located. 4. He is like all boys of his age. 5. In the east wall was one window the size of those in the north wall. 6. That wrench will not be any use. 7. I feel just the same way you do. 8. I spent most of the time fishing. 9. The machine is no good. 10. She did not know which direction to go. 11. The removal of the ammonia, which, like the removal of the tar and naphthalin, is one of the most important operations of the gas works, because of the high price which ammonia brings. 12. My first opinion of hazing was when I learned that freshmen must wear green caps. 13. It is one of those stories which you can tell how the plot will turn out after reading one page. 14. One happy event that occurred daily was when the mail arrived. 15. Prize-fighters are brutal, and some people think that football-players are the same way. 16. A buyer is likely to be prepossessed in favor of a man whose clothes fit well, his hair trimmed, his shoes well polished, and a Derby hat set jauntily on the back of his went swimming. 18. If every man who tries to be good, helping his friends and being kind to every one, it seems to me that this man is a true Christian. 19. Our forests, at the rate that they are now disappearing, will soon be extinct. 20. Hawthorne illustrates the general tendency of people to try to make an impression on others — that is, trying to appear better than they really are. 21. He was very busy, holding meetings, making speeches, and other ways. 22. He made many voyages to Guinea, plying the black ivory trade; one voyage, he ran into a storm, which destroyed the lives of two hundred of his freight. 23. Gaunt was a man about forty years old, a black beard, a hooked nose, and a deep voice. 24. A launch should be broad and deep and as much seating-room as possible. 25. There are men in college who never meet girls other than in the class-room. 26. I love to go places and see things. 27. As a whole, I think I have worked pretty hard. 28. I was surprised the other day when after receiving back several themes which were marked "poor" on account of misspelling but all of which contained favorable comments about the thought and diction, to find one theme marked "fair" because the substance was poor.

*Grammatical Agreement*¹

29. A verb should agree in number with its subject.

(a) Be careful not to make a verb agree with a word between it and the subject, instead of with the subject.

Agreement
of subject and verb Intervening
words

Wrong: A new order of ideas and principles have been instituted.

Right: A new order of ideas and principles has been instituted.

Wrong: You, the chairman, is the one to present the case.

Right: You, the chairman, are the one to present the case.

¹ For definitions of grammatical terms, see Appendix A.

NOTE. — The last example resembles the others in principle, although "one," the word which attracts the verb out of the plural into the singular, precedes the subject instead of following it.

Number of the subject not affected
by with, etc.

(b) Words joined to a subject by with, together with, including, as well as, or no less than, do not affect the number of the subject.

Wrong: The captain, as well as the mate and the pilot, were frightened.

Right: The captain, as well as the mate and the pilot, was frightened.

Subjects joined by or or nor

(c) Two or more singular subjects joined by or or nor require a singular verb.

Wrong: Neither he nor she are here.

Right: Neither he nor she is here.

Wrong: One or the other of those fellows have stolen it.

Right: One or the other of those fellows has stolen it.

Wrong: Every young man or woman is taken for what they really are.

Right: Every young man or woman is taken for what he or she really is.

Singular
and plural substan-tives

(d) When a subject is composed of both plural and singular substantives, joined by or or nor, the verb agrees with the nearer.

Wrong: Neither Jack nor the Smiths plays well.

Right: Neither Jack nor the Smiths play well.

There is
and there are

(e) There is should be followed by a singular noun; there are, by a plural noun or nouns.

Wrong: There is too many people in this room.

Right: There are too many people in this room.

(f) A collective noun takes a singular verb when the group is thought of and a plural verb when the individuals are thought of.

Right: The audience was gathering slowly.

Right: The audience were of different opinions about the play.

Right: The class has voted to increase its dues.

Right: The class have been consulted by letter regarding the proposed increase of dues.

(g) In expressions like one of the men who, one of the things which, one of the people that, the relative pronoun refers not to one but to the plural object of of. The relative pronoun is therefore plural.

Wrong: He is one of those men who talks much and thinks little.

Right: He is one of those men who talk much and think little.

30. A verb agrees with its subject, not with its predicate noun.

Incorrect agreement with a predicate noun

Wrong: The main part of this machine are the large rollers.

Right: The main part of this machine is the large rollers.

Wrong: Oak, brass, and steel is the material of the structure.

Right: Oak, brass, and steel are the material of the structure.

EXERCISE 19

Write the following sentences, filling the blanks in each sentence with one of the words bracketed after the sentence. In parentheses after each sentence, state the reason why the word chosen to fill the blank ought to be used. 1. The formal statement of the teachings and rules — set forth in the constitution [is, are]. 2. The distinction between economic and social causes often — arbitrary [seems, seem]. 3. In my opinion his attentions to the postmaster's daughter, after she had shown him she did not like him, — very presumptuous [was, were]. 4. The strain of all the difficulties and vexations and anxieties — more than he could bear [was, were].

Agreement of verb and subject

5. Only a few papers of this edition, which is printed at two P.M., ——— to the newsdealers [goes, go]. 6. In spite of all obstacles, the construction of the three hundred trestles and the twenty scaffolds ——— completed [was, were]. 7. His manipulation of the keys, stops, and pedals ——— miraculous to a novice [look, looks]. 8. One of the arguments he made to the delegates ——— to me especially convincing [seem, seems]. 9. The exact meaning of such words as inspiration, prophecy, and orthodox at first ——— the laymen [puzzle, puzzles]. 10. His diligent study of explosives, especially of such as might be used to destroy battleships, ——— at last rewarded [were, was]. 11. The manner in which he uses mixed metaphors, split infinitives, and dangling participles ——— lack of training [show, shows]. 12. His use of the various machines, especially of the lathes, the presses, and the forges, ——— him a born mechanic [prove, proves].

EXERCISE 20

Verb and subject

Correct and rewrite the following ungrammatical sentences and give a reason for each change made: 1. What a contrast does Othello and Cassio present! 2. Among this group of pilgrims was Standish and Alden. 3. Standing in the front row was Helen and her mother. 4. In this little churchyard side by side lies two graves marked by iron crosses. 5. Up the quiet street marches Hubert and his squad. 6. Foremost among the sports I delight in is skating and swimming. 7. There in the ring, the center of all attention, stand Johnson, and Jeffries. 8. At last, just when all hope seems gone, in walks Sherlock Holmes and Dr. Watson. 9. Look! there goes the bride and groom. 10. Throughout the history of this nation there has always been, and always will be, two parties. 11. There seems to be innumerable lights blazing yonder. 12. The formation of the companies to which I have referred were completed in 1909. 13. The great increase in the prices of food, clothes, and building material are caused by the tariff. 14. These attacks are made by men whose political existence depend on their capacity for misrepresentation. 15. Boyd, with three assistants, were sent to the wreck. 16. My uncle, together with his wife and children, were found working in the garden. 17. The north half of the house, including the kitchen and the dining room, were destroyed. 18. Dr. Lincoln, as well as many other physicians, advise abstinence from meat. 19. Good English, no less than good manners, are necessary to your success. 20. His house, with its stables, its tennis courts, and its beautiful grounds, were known for miles around. 21. Mary, or one of the other maids, have disturbed my desk. 22. Either your voice or the telephone are out of order. 23. I was sure that the captain or the mate were drunk. 24. Neither my father nor any other member of my family have any interest in the bill. 25. One of the books which has influenced me most is Romola. 26. He is one of those men who is entertaining but has no character. 27. She is one of those mothers who demands that her daughter shall know how to cook. 28. The story of Balaam is one of the Biblical stories that has interested me most. 29. I am not one of those who pretends to be pious and breaks the law. 30. She has one of these new sewing machines that is worked by hand.

31. Each, every, either, neither, some one, somebody, any one, anybody, every one, everybody, no one, nobody, one, and a person are singular. Each, every etc.

Wrong: Every one opened their window.

Right: Every one opened his window.

Wrong: Each of the suspected men were held.

Right: Each of the suspected men was held.

This rule holds, even with a compound subject.

Wrong: Each branch and twig were still.

Right: Each branch and twig was still.

32. In correcting violations of Rule 31, recasting is often advisable. Method of correction

Wrong: Everybody there objected and declared they thought it barbarous.

Right: All the people there objected and declared they thought it barbarous.

EXERCISE 21

Concord of each, every,
etc.

Copy the following sentences, filling each of the blanks with a pronoun or with one of the words is, are, was, were, has, and have: 1. Each of the conspirators went quietly to ——— own home and not one of them ——— suspected by ——— neighbors or by the police. 2. Every one there declared ——— in favor of the measure. 3. It makes no difference whether it was Tracy or Reid; neither of those men ——— worthy to raise ——— eyes to my daughter. 4. A person never feels sure that ——— themes will be charitably read by either of those teachers; either one of them ——— likely to be severe. 5. No one had any idea what ——— fate would be; every student from the best to the poorest ——— in anxious suspense. 6. ——— either of the boys at home? 7. ——— every one here received ——— money? 8. ——— each of you fully determined to abide by ——— promises? 9. ——— neither of my assistants yet brought ——— tools? 10. Everybody put on ——— holiday clothes. 11. If anybody makes a motion to resist, arrest ——— at once.

Matters of Case

Nominative
case for subject

Who not affected by
he says, etc.

33. The subject of a verb (except of an infinitive; see Rule 35) should be in the nominative case.

(a) A parenthetical expression like he says intervening between the pronoun who and its verb does not change the case of the pronoun.

Wrong: The man whom I thought was my friend deceived me.

Right: The man who I thought was my friend deceived me. ["Who" is the subject of "was"; "I thought" is a mere parenthesis.]

Wrong: Whom did they say won?

Right: Who did they say won?

Right: The chairman whom they elected has resigned.

(b) The pronoun who or whoever, when it is the subject of a finite verb, is sometimes wrongly put into the objective case, because it appears to be the object of a preceding verb or preposition.

Who or whoever not affected by preceding words

Wrong: Send whomever will do the work.

Right: Send whoever will do the work. ["Whoever" is the subject of "will do," not the object of "send." The object of "send" is the clause "whoever will do the work."]

Wrong: The question of whom should be leader arose.

Right: The question of who should be leader arose. ["Who" is the subject of "should be," not the object of "of." The object of "of" is the substantive clause "who should be leader."]

34. A predicate substantive completing a finite verb should be in the nominative case.

Predicate substantive with finite verb

Right: It is I. — The beneficiaries are she, they, and we. — Is it we that you accuse? ["It is me" is a colloquialism.]

35. The subject of an infinitive and the predicate substantive completing an infinitive should be in the objective case.

Subject and predicate complement of an infinitive

Right: The gazette reported him to be dead. ["Him" is the subject of the infinitive "to be," and not the object of "reported."]

Right: She imagined the burglar to be me. ["Me" is the predicate substantive completing "to be."]

Right: The man whom I thought to be my friend deceived me. ["Whom" is the subject of "to be." Cf. the first two examples under Rule 33 a.]

36. The object of a verb or of a preposition should be in the objective case.

Object of verb or preposition

Whom do you mean? [not who. "Who do you mean?" is an accepted colloquialism.]

When she said that to sister and me, we couldn't help laughing [not sister and I]

Does that rule apply to us upperclassmen? [not we upperclassmen.]

EXERCISE 22

Nominative
or objective
case of who

Write the following sentences, filling each blank with who or whom. State in parentheses after each sentence the construction of the word inserted. 1. They sent invitations to all — they thought would accept. 2. This money comes from Boyle, — you know is very liberal. 3. He refused to pardon Mackey, — he had every reason to believe the police had caught red-handed. 4. The bookkeeper, —, I cannot doubt, committed these errors, must be discharged. 5. The vacancy was filled by Clayson, — the manager said ought to be promoted. 6. The vacancy was filled by Clayson — the manager thought worthy of promotion. 7. An instance is furnished by Saint Paul, —, the New Testament tells us, was at first an opponent of Christianity. 8. The throne was held by a king — historians believe to have been insane. 9. The throne was held by a king — historians say was insane. 10. — did he say the architect was? 11. — did he say the board chose as architect? 12. — do you believe this impostor to be? 13. — do you think will preside? 14. — do you consider to be the fastest runner? 15. — do you think is the fastest runner?

Appositives

37. An appositive should be in the same case as the noun with which it is in apposition.

Right: All are going — he, she, and we two.

He spoke to some of us — namely, her and me.

We all met — she, the officer, they you mentioned and I.

Substantive after than or as

38. The case of a single substantive following than or as is nominative or objective, according to its use in the incompleter clause of which it is a part. It is not the object of a preposition, because than and as are not prepositions, but conjunctions introducing subordinate clauses.

Right: He is happier than I. ["Than I" = "than I am."]

Right: I can do it as well as they. ["As they" = "as they can do it."]

Right: I should help him more willingly than her. ["Than her" = "than I should help her."]

NOTE. — The expression than whom is ungrammatical, Than whom but well established as an idiom.

" . . . when Beelzebub perceived, — than whom,
Satan except, none higher sat, — with grave Aspect he rose. . . ."

— Paradise Lost, Book II.

EXERCISE 23

Write the following sentences, filling the blank in each with one of the words bracketed after the sentence. State in parentheses after each sentence the construction of the inserted word. 1. He stopped ——— he met [whoever, whomever]. 2. It will greatly assist ——— lives in the country [whoever, whomever]. 3. ——— brings me the cup I will make my son-in-law [whoever, whomever]. 4. For ——— loves his country I have a message [whoever, whomever]. 5. Even food and shelter are withheld from ——— the pope has excommunicated [whoever, whomever]. 6. Every door is shut against ——— the count has said is objectionable to him [whoever, whomever]. 7. A discussion followed as to ——— should steer [who, whom]. 8. There was no doubt as to ——— the speaker meant [who, whom]. 9. They were anxious about ——— the victim would be [who, whom].

Nominative
or objective
case of who or whoever

EXERCISE 24

Write the following sentences, filling each blank with one of the words bracketed after the blank. State in parentheses after each sentence the construction of the inserted words. 1. She is not so clever as ——— [he, him]. 2. She hated both of ——— [we fellows, us fellows], but ——— [I, me] more than ——— [he, him]. 3. Are they

Elliptical
than and as
clauses

better qualified than — [we, us] to judge? 4. No one could regret it more than — [I, me]. 5. She is so deceitful that I would trust a convict sooner than — [she, her]. 6. O king, no man is so wise as — [thee, thou]. 7. Her hasty action injured herself more than — [I, me]. 8. The others suffered more than — [we, us] who were expelled. 9. The conspirators plotted shrewdly, but the detective was shrewder than — [they, them]. 10. For a brief time no one was so famous as — [I, me]. 11. My lord, thy power wanes; the king favors thy rival more than — [thou, thee]. 12. Though the queen protested, the statesman, stronger than — [her, she], prevailed. 13. Sir, we are less worthy than — [they, them]; we ask that they be promoted rather than — [we, us]; honor them rather than — [we, us].

EXERCISE 25

General
exercise in the use of cases

Write the following sentences, filling each blank with one of the words or groups of words bracketed after the blank. State in parentheses after each sentence the construction of the inserted word or words. 1. She prepared a lunch for my brother and — [I, me] to take with us. 2. All — [us, we] fellows met to consider the question of — [who, whom] should be sent. [What is the subject of "should be sent"? What is the object of the preposition "of"? See Substantive Clause in the Grammatical Vocabulary.] 3. It is a question of veracity between — [he, him] and — [I, me]. 4. She did not refer to — [we, us] girls at all. 5. It is unjust to expect — [she and I; her and me] to do all the work. 6. Henceforth all is over between you and — [I, me]. 7. That was — [I, me] — [who, whom] you heard last night. 8. It is not — [us, we] who are to blame; it is — [they, them]. 9. I am at a loss — [who, whom] to depend on. 10. Was this my old comrade? I could not believe that this ragged beggar was — [he, him]. 11. First he spoke of Jezebel and Athaliah; — [them, they] he said were types of depravity. Then he considered Jael and Miriam; — [them, they] he apostrophized as patriots. 12. To you Englishmen as well as to —— [we Americans; us Americans] his name is dear. 13. Hetherington and I thought it was necessary that the messengers chosen should be —— [us, we] rather than —— [them, they] who were secret traitors. 14. The cause so dear to you and —— [me, I] has failed. 15. All the responsibility rests on Jane and —— [I, me]. 16. He wanted —— [my father and I; my father and me] to invest in a corporation managed by —— [he and his father; him and his father]. 17. —— [him, he] and all his associates I repudiate. 18. A large estate was left to —— [she and her sister; her and her sister]. 19. You ought not to be burdened with —— [he and his family; him and his family]. 20. Do I know Raycroft? Why, I used to visit —— [he and his wife; him and his wife] every Sunday. 21. The landlord was inexorable with the poor widow; he drove —— [she and her children; her and her children] into the street. 22. Let —— [he that is without sin; him that is without sin] cast the first stone. 23. —— [they that are negligent; them that are negligent] he admonishes; —— [they that are faithful; them that are faithful] are commended.

39. In certain cases it is awkward to attribute possession to inanimate objects.

Possessive case:
Nouns not designating persons

Awkward: The porch's roof.

Improved: The roof of the porch.

Awkward: The store's management.

Improved: The management of the store.

NOTE. — Good usage justifies many exceptions, including expressions designating time or measure, as a day's journey, a stone's throw, five minutes' walk, a month's wages; and expressions implying personification, as for pity's sake, duty's pleadings, the law's delay.

Permissible exceptions

40. Do not use the possessive case of a noun to indicate the object of an action; use an of phrase.

Possessive case in objective sense

Wrong: Lincoln's assassination.

Right: The assassination of Lincoln.

Wrong: Mankind's benefactor.

Right: The benefactor of mankind.

Possessive
with gerund

41. Put the substantive modifying a gerund in the possessive case. Distinguish a gerund, a verbal noun, from a participle; as "His writing is poor" [gerund] and "I found him writing a letter" [participle].

EXERCISE 26

Use of possessive
case

Some of the following sentences contain errors or awkward uses of the possessive case. Rewrite the sentences correctly. 1. The book's title is misleading. 2. The tree's shadow concealed me. 3. I am sure of him being able to do the work. 4. I do not like your cigar's odor. 5. She could not understand any one wanting to read it. 6. The fireman climbed upon the church's roof. 7. We rowed along, following the shore's curve. 8. She talked unfavorably of John going. 9. I had not heard of you being ill. 10. She would not permit me going alone.

Adjectives and Adverbs

Adverb or predicate
adjective

42. In such expressions as he looks sad, he looks sadly, he stands firm, he stands firmly, the word following the verb should be an adjective if it describes the subject; if it designates the manner of action of the verb, it should be an adverb. Such verbs as appear, be, become, seem, smell, sound, taste, etc., either commonly or invariably require an adjective.

Right: He appears good [i.e., appears to be a good man].

Right: He appears well in public [i.e., makes his appearance in a creditable manner].

Right: The music sounds loud [i.e., has the characteristic of loud music].

Right: The bugle sounded loudly through the ranks [i.e., sounded in a loud manner].

Right (poetic): Loud through the ranks sounded the bugle [i.e., the loud bugle sounded].

Right: It stands immovable. It smells sweet. It tastes sour. Your hand feels cold. She looks dainty. That statement sounds queer.

NOTE. — In such expressions as I am well and I am ill, well and ill are adjectives (see these words in a dictionary). An expression like I am nicely, I am poorly, is ungrammatical.

“Nicely”
and “poorly”

43. In such expressions as he holds it steady, he holds it steadily, he filled it full, he filled it fully, the modifier should be an adjective if it designates the condition of the object; if it designates the manner of action of the verb, it should be an adverb.

Adverb or
factitive
adjective

Right: He kept it safe [i.e., through his keeping, it was safe].

Right: He kept it safely [i.e., he performed in a safe manner the act of keeping].

Right: He wrapped it tight [“tight” designates the condition of the object].

Right: He wrapped it tightly [“tightly” designates the mode of wrapping].

Right: Sweep it clean. Hold it motionless. Shoot him dead. Nail it solid. Bury it deep. Raise it high.

Matters of Voice

44. Avoid awkward use of the passive voice. The active voice is usually clearer, terser, and more forceful than the passive.

Misuse of passive voice

Bad: Your letter was received and carefully read by me.

Right: I received and carefully read your letter. (See Rule 336.)

Bad: That was a crisis in my life which will never be forgotten.

Right: That was a crisis in my life which I shall never forget.

Matters of Mode

45. Most educated and intelligent writers use the subjunctive mode for a wish, volition, or a condition

The
subjunctive

improbable or contrary to fact. Be and were are practically the only special subjunctive forms in modern use.

Right: If this were [not was] Wednesday, I could go with you.

Right: Don't you, John, wish you were [not was] in his place?

Right: I insist that he attend to the matter today.

Right: Everybody stand up.

Right (less common): If he be guilty, let him suffer the consequences. "If he is guilty" implies less doubt.

EXERCISE 27

Correct the following sentences and give reasons for corrections: 1. If I was older, I should be going to work. 2. If he was steadier in his habits, he would be a good student. 3. The work was done very hastily by him. 4. The meal was prepared and quickly eaten by us. 5. There were such bad roads that the town was rarely visited by travelers. 6. If it was a matter of great importance, the doctor was to be summoned by me. 7. The wood was chopped and the fire was started by the campers. 8. A night attack should be made upon the enemy if it is desired to catch them unaware. 9. I wish I was grown up. 10. That was my resolution which was made after careful consideration.

Shall and will Expectation

Matters of Tense (including shall and will)

46. To represent simple expectation on the part of the speaker, use shall (or should) in the first person, and will (or would) in the second and third persons. Memorize the following formula:

I shall (should)	we shall (should) you will (would)	you will (would)
he will (would)	they will (would)

Wrong: I don't believe I will be able to go.

Right: I don't believe I shall be able to go.

Right: I don't believe he will be able to go.

Wrong: We will be glad to hear from you further.

Right: We shall be glad to hear from you further.

Right: He will be glad to hear from you further.

Wrong: I feared I would fail.

Right: I feared I should fail.

Right: I feared you would fail.

NOTE. — Excepted from the rules governing these auxiliaries are the use of should to express obligation — I should not have said that — and the use of would to express habitual action — I would sit by the hour in the parlor waiting for her to come down.

47. To represent determination, desire, willingness, or promise on the part of the speaker, use will (or would) in the first person, and shall (or should) in the second and third persons. The following is the formula for such expressions: Determination

I will (would)	we will (would) you shall (should)	you shall (should) he shall (should)	they shall (should)

Right: I will help you; I promise it. You shall not stir; I forbid it. They shall be hanged at sunrise; we, the court, decree it.

48. In a question containing shall or should, will In question or would —

(a) When the subject is in the first person, use the auxiliary shall or should, except in repeating a question addressed to the speaker.

Wrong: Well, what will we do now?

Right: Well, what shall we do now?

Right (exception): Will I help you? Why, certainly.

(b) When the subject is in the second or third person, use the auxiliary that will be used in the answer.

Right form for a question as to expectations: Shall you be recognized, do you think? [The answer, according to Rule 46, would be either, "I shall be" or "I shall not be"; therefore shall should be used in the question.]

Right form for a question as to intention: Will you do the deed? [The answer, according to Rule 47, would be either "I will" or "I will not"; therefore will should be used in the question.]

In indirect quotations

49. In an indirect quotation use the auxiliary that would properly be used if the quotation were direct.

Right: He said he thought he should ride. [The direct quotation would be, "I think I shall ride"; therefore should (an inflectional form of shall) should be used in the indirect quotation.]

Shall and should in contingent statements

50. In subordinate clauses making contingent statements, shall and should are correctly used for all persons. In other subordinate clauses shall and should are commonly used in all persons for the simple future; will and would, for wishing, consenting, and willing.

Right: If they should find it, I should rejoice.

Right: A man who should do that would be hated.

NOTE. — Some of the rules for shall, will, should, and would are disregarded by many intelligent and educated persons. Therefore, "I will probably come on Thursday," although not the best usage, is correct colloquial English. The rule, however, indicates the practice of most writers.

EXERCISE 28

Shall and will

Write the following sentences, filling each blank in sentences 1-10 with shall or will, and each blank in sentences 11-20 with should or would. State in parentheses after each sentence why the auxiliaries you have inserted are preferred. 1. I think I — find the study easy. 2. I am the carpenter you engaged. — my men begin work today? 3. "— you see Niagara on your way east?" "No; I don't think I —." 4. "Oh, Mr. Meyer, the singer I engaged has disappointed me. — you sing for me tonight?" "Yes, I — sing for you."

5. "Hello, Meyer. — you be busy tonight?" "Yes; I — sing at Mrs. West's tonight." 6. I — probably fail in the examination. 7. I am very anxious. If no one assists me, I — starve. But sell my library? No! I — never do that. 8. "If you eat this rabbit, — you be kept awake all night?" "Probably; but by Jove, I — eat it anyway." 9. If I miss another class, I — be required to take an extra examination. 10. I — probably get a cool reception there, but I — go, whatever happens. 11. I — not have supposed the price would be so high. 12. I — have been surprised if he had failed. 13. Perceiving that I — soon need a light, I determined that I — buy a lantern. 14. I fully understood that I — be censured if I did it. 15. — you have supposed that the city would grow so fast? 16. We feared we — get caught in the rain. 17. Since the car was so late, I knew I — miss my class. 18. It was so warm that we thought we — not need our overcoats. 19. — you have known him if he had not introduced himself? 20. Yes, even if he had not spoken, I think I — have known him.

51. Obscurity, or an effect of incompleteness, arises from the use of a verb in the past tense unaccompanied by a time modifier, when there is in the context no indication of the time of the action.

The undated past tense

Obscure and incomplete: In accounting for the origin of Lake Wingra, geologists say that a small stream ran through the territory where the lake now lies.

Clear [The necessary time modifier of "ran" is supplied]: In accounting for the origin of Lake Wingra, geologists say that at some remote period a small stream ran through the territory where the lake now lies.

NOTE. — When a sentence introduces a new or additional idea, obscurity is often avoided by the addition of a time modifier, no matter what the tense of the verb may be. Words expressing indefinite time, such as "now and then," "always," "frequently," etc., are at times indispensable. Similarly adverbs and adverbial phrases or clauses expressing place or attendant circumstances should not be omitted when they make the meaning clearer. An example of the first part of this suggestion is found in the use of "at times" in the second sentence of the text of this paragraph.

Past misused for past perfect

52. The past perfect tense represents action prior to some past time.

Obscure: Mitchell hired a jockey named Brunt to ride Shackles in the approaching race. Brunt was injured in a jump-race and gave up racing for a time. But Mitchell persuaded him to begin again. [The reader supposes that the events stated in the italicized sentence followed the employment of Brunt by Mitchell; whereas the writer intends to say that those events preceded the employment. The use of the past tense in the italicized sentence is thus entirely misleading.]

Clear: Mitchell hired a jockey named Brunt to ride Shackles in the approaching race. Brunt had been injured in a jump-race and had given up racing for a time. But Mitchell persuaded him to begin again.

Sequence of tenses

52a. Maintain proper sequence of tenses. The past is not all one, but may be said to consist of the particular time of the main narrative, previous time, and subsequent time down to the present, each time having its appropriate tense.

Wrong: They informed us that they wrote to Paris for instructions.

Right: They informed us [past time, past tense] that they had written [previous time, past perfect tense] to Paris for instructions, but since then we have not heard [subsequent time, perfect tense] the outcome of their inquiry.

Relation of subordinate
verbs:
perfect
infinitive

53. Maintain a proper relation between subordinate verb-forms and the verb of the main clause.

(a) An infinitive should be in the present tense unless it represents action prior to that of the governing verb. Guard against its being attracted into the perfect.

Wrong: It was not necessary for you to have gone.

Right: It was not necessary for you to go.

Wrong: I intended to have answered.

Right: I intended to answer.

(b) A conditional verb-phrase in a dependent clause should be in the present tense unless it represents action prior to that of the governing verb. Guard against its being attracted into the perfect. Perfect conditions

Wrong: I should not have said it if I had thought it would have shocked her.

Right: I should not have said it if I had thought it would shock her.

(c) Statements permanently true should be put into the present tense. When they occur in a subordinate clause in indirect discourse, following a verb in past time, guard against their being attracted into the past. Statements permanently true

Wrong: He said that oak was the best wood for floors.

Right: He said that oak is the best wood for floors.

Wrong: I have always heard that the four years of college were the happiest in a man's life.

Right: I have always heard that the four years of college are the happiest in a man's life.

54. The past participle represents action prior to that of the governing verb; the present participle, action at the time expressed by the verb. Anachronous participles Wrong: It is old, being founded in 1809.

Right: It is old, having been founded in 1809.

Wrong: Starting for London, he arrived there two weeks later.

Right: He started for London and arrived there two weeks later.

EXERCISE 29

Matters of tense

Correct any errors in tense that you may find in the following sentences and give reasons for the corrections. 1. Coming into the room, he opened the windows. 2. She said that she left before the news came. 3. I hoped to have gone. 4. Turning the corner, he hurried down the street. 5. I fully expected to have finished my work. 6. Being well trained, he won first place. 7. If I had known that you had been going, I should have sent word to my mother. 8. I intended to have made a trip to Chicago. 9. He said that baseball was a good sport. 10. He handed in the composition which he wrote. 11. Coming into his office, he held conferences with his students. 12. By following directions carefully, he learns the method and would have no trouble with the course. 13. If it had rained, we planned to have gone to the theater. 14. He cooked the fish which he caught in the lake.

EXERCISE 30

GENERAL EXERCISES IN THE USE OF VERBS

Lay and lie

I. See Lay in the Glossary. Write three sentences containing present indicative forms of the verb lie (in the sense of recline), three containing the present participle, three containing past tense forms, and three containing perfect forms. Write three sentences containing present indicative forms of the verb lay, three containing the present participle, three containing past tense forms, and three containing perfect tense forms.

Lay and lie

II. See Lay in the Glossary. Write the following sentences, filling each blank with some form of the verb lie or some form of the verb lay: 1. The logs are ——ing where they fell. 2. Yesterday I —— it on the grass. 3. I will —— down and rest. 4. They —— still and said nothing. 5. Inmates are not allowed to —— in bed after six o'clock. 6. They let the torpedo —— on the railroad. 7. I have —— all his things in readiness. 8. The scythe —— in the rain so long that it got rusty. 9. ——ing quietly in the grass, he watched. 10. Have they —— their wet hats on the parlor table? 11. Coming from Florida, I was surprised to find the snow still ——ing on the ground.

III. See Raise in the Glossary. Write three sentences containing present indicative forms of the verb raise, three containing the present participle, three containing past tense forms. Write three sentences containing present indicative forms of the verb raise, three containing the present participle, three containing past tense forms, and three containing perfect tense forms. Raise and rise

IV. See Raise in the Glossary. Write the following sentences, filling each blank with some form of the verb raise or some form of the verb rise: 1. Don't be embarrassed; —— up and speak. 2. A man suddenly —— up and interrupted. 3. I will —— up and deny it publicly. 4. Slowly the load yielded to the upward force; and little by little it —— until it reached the desired point. 5. It was too late; the balloon had already —— ten feet. 6. Has the river —— at all during the night? Raise and rise

V. See Set in the Glossary. Write three sentences containing present indicative forms of the verb set, three containing the present participle, three containing past tense forms, and three containing perfect tense forms. Write three sentences containing present indicative forms of the verb sit, three containing the present participle, three containing past tense forms, and three containing perfect tense forms. Set and sit

VI. See Set in the Glossary. Write the following sentences, filling each blank with some form of the verb set or some form of the verb sit: 1. The ink-well doesn't —— level. 2. I enjoy —— in the dark. 3. How long we had —— there I do not know. 4. He brought the little girl in his arms and —— her in a chair by the fire. Set and sit

VII. Comment on the use of set in each of the following sentences, correcting all errors: 1. Around the table set four chairs. 2. She left the umbrella setting against the chair. 3. You have set a hard task. 4. He saw the pie setting on the doorstep. 5. With the spirit level, he made the table set exactly horizontal. 6. Did you notice the Set order in which the cups were set? 7. Ready; get set; go.

8. The bluffs appear to set back some distance from the shore.

*Lay, lie, raise, rise,
set, and sit*

VIII. See Lay, Raise, and Set in the Glossary. Write a short narrative or a series of sentences using the words lie, lying, lay, lain, laying, laid, rise, rising, rose, risen, raise, raising, raised, sit, sitting, sat, set, and setting.

Done and seen

IX. Remember the principal parts of do and see:

I do	I did	I have done
I see	I saw	I have seen

Write five sentences each containing past tense forms of the verbs do and see, and five sentences each containing done and seen properly used.

Write the following sentences filling the blanks with did or saw: 1. I — the damage that the fire —. 2. There we — a magician, who — some tricks. 3. I — my duty and I — it. 4. He — the work with his own hands; I — him do it. 5. She — that it would do harm, and so she — all she could to stop it.

Write, rise, ride, drive

X. Remember the principal parts of write, rise, ride, and drive:

I write	I wrote	I have written
I rise	I rose	I have risen
I ride	I rode	I have ridden
I drive	I drove	I have driven

Write sentences containing perfect tense forms and past perfect tense forms of write, rise, ride, and drive.

Run misused for ran

XI. Remember the principal parts of the verb run:

I run	I ran	I have run
-------	-------	------------

Write five sentences containing the verb run in the past tense, and five containing the form run, properly used.

*Began, sang, sprang,
rang, drank, ran, swam*

XII. Notice the relation between the past tense and the perfect tense of the following verbs:

I began	I have begun
I sang	I have sung

I sprang	I have sprung
I rang	I have rung
I drank	I have drunk
I ran	I have run
I swam	I have swum

Write sentences containing perfect tense forms and past perfect tense forms of the foregoing verbs.

XIII. Notice the relation between the past tense and the perfect tense of the following verbs: Broke, froze, tore

I broke	I have broken
I froze	I have frozen
I tore	I have torn

Write sentences containing perfect active, past perfect active, and passive forms of the foregoing verbs.

XIV. Remember the principal parts of know, throw, and blow: Know, throw, blow

I know	I knew	I have known
I throw	I threw	I have thrown
I blow	I blew	I have blown

Write sentences containing past tense forms and perfect tense forms of the foregoing verbs.

XV. Remember the principal parts of the verb go: Went for gone

I go	I went	I have gone
------	--------	-------------

Write ten sentences using perfect tense forms of this verb.

XVI. See Ought in the Glossary. The following sentences are grossly incorrect. Correct and rewrite them. "Had ought"

1. He hadn't ought to refuse.
2. I'd ought to accept, hadn't I?
3. Don't you think she'd ought to have gone?
4. No man ought to endure that, had he?
5. If that house was empty, then he had ought to have gone to the next.
6. We really ought to help him — don't you think we had?

XVII. See Ought in the Glossary. Write ten sentences using ought correctly, five of them stating present duties, and five, past duties. "Had, ought"

"You was" XVIII. See You was in the Glossary. Write the following sentences, filling in the blanks with were: 1. Where — you, Harry. 2. I thought you — lying down. 3. You —n't to blame, my boy. 4. — you present, Father? 5. When — you born, young man?

Reference

Uncertain or ludicrous
reference

55. Do not use a pronoun instead of a noun if there can be doubt even for a moment about its antecedent.

Uncertain: Geraint followed the knight to a town, where he entered a castle.

Uncertain: He told his father he would soon get a letter.

Not immediately evident: The ghost of his old partner appeared to Scrooge. He told him he must reform.

Ludicrous: Whistling for Rover, my cousin put a pail in his mouth and we started.

NOTE. — Do not use a plural pronoun referring to a singular noun preceding; make the pronoun singular, or else repeat the noun in the plural. (See Exercise 35.)

Wrong: The incubator is a modern device for hatching chickens. All poultrymen who do business on a large scale use them.

Right: The incubator is a modern device for hatching chickens. All poultrymen who do business on a large scale use it; [or] . . . use incubators.

Methods of correction

56. Violations of Rule 55 may sometimes be corrected by repeating the antecedent or using an equivalent noun.

Right: Whistling for Rover, my cousin put a pail in the dog's mouth, and we started.

But usually recasting is advisable; thus:

Right: Geraint followed the knight to a town and there saw him enter a castle.

Right: He said to his father, "You will [or I shall] soon get a letter."

Right: The ghost of his partner appeared to Scrooge and admonished him to reform.

57. The pronouns this and that are peculiarly liable to be used with what may be called weak reference. Weak reference of this and that
In case of such use, the fault may often be corrected by changing the pronoun to a demonstrative adjective and inserting a noun after it. Thus:

Weak reference: He asked where Cary was. I could not answer that.

Right: He asked where Cary was. I could not answer that question.

Weak reference: We do oppose the bill; if we did not, we should not publish this.

Right: We do oppose the bill; if we did not, we should not publish this article.

58. Do not use a pronoun to refer to a noun that has not been used for a considerable space; repeat the noun. Remote reference

59. Avoid reference of a pronoun to a noun decidedly subordinate in thought or syntax. Reference to a noun not prominent Repeat the noun or recast the sentence. Some more prominent noun is likely to be mistaken by the reader for the antecedent.

Bad: Mrs. Bloodgood will appear at Powers's Theatre in Fitch's play, The Girl with the Green Eyes. This piece was written by him especially for Mrs. Bloodgood.

Right: Mrs. Bloodgood will appear at Powers's Theatre in Fitch's play, The Girl with the Green Eyes. This piece was written by Mr. Fitch especially for Mrs. Bloodgood.

Bad: In Miss Howerth's story of her life she relates this incident.

Right: Miss Howerth in the story of her life relates this incident.

Allowable: Tom's happiness was a joy to see; he literally danced on the pavement. ["Tom" is subordinate in syntax but not in thought.]

Reference to a word not expressed

60. Do not use a pronoun, or a pronominal expression, seeming to refer to a word or phrase that has not been expressed. (See Exercise 34.)

Bad: The cadet must keep his hands out of his pockets; that would be very unsoldierly.

Right: The cadet must keep his hands out of his pockets; to put them there would be very unsoldierly.

Bad: Marx is a violinist, the study of which instrument he began when a boy.

Right: Marx is a violinist. He began the study of the violin when he was a boy.

Bad: Mink-skins are valuable, because these animals are now scarce.

Right: Mink-skins are valuable, because minks are now scarce.

Reference to a whole statement

60a. The relative pronoun which should not be used referring to a whole statement if that statement contains nouns to which the pronoun may be erroneously referred. Use a dash and put a noun (fact, act, operation, etc.) before the which; or recast. (See Exercise 33.)

Ambiguous: He did not hear her cry which was due to his deafness.

Right: He did not hear her cry — a fact which was due to his deafness.

Ambiguous: Unless you steer carefully, the boat may crash into the wharf, which may result in serious damage to the hull.

Right: Unless you steer carefully, the boat may crash into the wharf, seriously damaging the hull.

61. Do not use a pronoun followed by its antecedent in parentheses; use the antecedent alone or recast the sentence. Antecedent in parentheses

Awkward: If Davis treated Dixon discourteously, there is no objection to his (Dixon's) decision.

Right: If Davis treated Dixon discourteously, there is no objection to Dixon's decision; [or] Dixon is not to be blamed for his decision if he was treated discourteously by Davis.

EXERCISE 31

Rewrite the following sentences, correcting faulty reference: 1. When the sergeant saw that a man was getting too much beer at the Canteen, he was immediately put out. 2. The nurse left some medicine, but Molly secretly resolved not to take it. When she made her next visit, she told her she thought she had greatly improved. 3. The directors offered to reward her liberally, but she begged them to give it to her father. 4. Portia and her maid dressed like lawyers and went to court. She found that Antonio had forfeited the bond. 5. The essay on planets is short and witty. After stating a few thoughts regarding them, he makes a digression. 6. But truth will always come out. In this case it occurred in the following way. 7. When the next man came to bat and knocked the ball to shortstop, he threw it over the first baseman's head. 8. She next removes the furniture from the parlor and sweeps it. 9. She prepares the vegetables for dinner and has it ready when her husband returns. 10. Some parts of the story I found interesting, but this was offset by so much dry, uninteresting reading. The descriptions he gives of the different characters are interesting. 11. The cadets at West Point are appointed by the members of Congress. On graduating, he receives a commission in the army. 12. He attached the hose to the tank and flushed it about once a month. 13. The sugar beet is an easy vegetable to grow; in a good season, a farmer gets fifteen tons of them from each acre. 14. The dam is not water-tight, but allows it to seep through. 15. I delighted in going away from home; one day father found me about two miles away from home, carrying an old bucket. But I spent most of my time there, when I grew older. 16. Dumont said that Charles had been found, as a new-born child, at his doorstep, and that the only means of identifying his father was a slip of paper pinned to his clothes. 17. The abolition of the training table was wise, for it led to professionalism. 18. The marines then opened fire on the natives. They scattered in all directions and were not seen again until they sailed away from the island. 19. I do not believe that one who has left us would wish us to mourn for them. 20. There was never a graduate of the Minneapolis high schools so lacking in knowledge of their native language as are many upper-classmen I have met in our college. 21. Giovanni noticed an old man tending the flowers. This man was the gardener, but he was astonished to see how cautious he was in touching them. 22. Let me try to state my opinion of the high and noble place occupied at the present time by the art of debate. I wish to emphasize "at the present time"; for I fear that if certain tendencies continue, it will not long remain in its honorable station. 23. My acquaintance with the Bible is limited to a few chapters which I read last summer — the first time I ever had access to one. 24. Then began his brilliant military career in the Civil War, which was terminated by his death. 25. My work was principally at the bench, which consisted of cutting, sewing, and riveting. 26. A big box stood near the stove which served as a seat for two loungers. 27. The lamp of an incubator furnishes the artificial heat to the chicken which takes the place of the natural heat of the hen. 28. Tramps of the kind I have described will work, and when necessity presses, he will work hard. 29. The son of Kamal went back with the Englishman as his bodyguard.

Reference of pronoun

EXERCISE 32

It used ambiguously or indefinitely

Be careful of ambiguous, indefinite, and meaningless it. Rewrite the following sentences, eliminating every bad it and give the antecedent of every pronoun used. 1. A sloop is a simple form of sail-boat. It has one mast, and it is set in the forward deck. 2. There is a prohibitory law in Evanston; and though it is easy to get on a car and go to Chicago, yet it is effective because it makes it more difficult to get liquor. 3. The small draught of the boat makes it possible to use it in shallow water. 4. Poe's description of the Maelstrom is very impressive, though whether it is true is doubtful. At any rate, it is a terrific whirlpool. 5. The sickle should be changed at noon for a sharp one as it makes it easier for the horses and it also cuts the hay better. 6. If there were two classes in chemistry, it would bring better results. As it is now, the students get little good from the lectures. 7. Toward the end of the essay a marriage feast is described. It tells of the illustrious guests who were present. 8. The incident you speak of occurs in Romeo and Juliet; it tells how a friar assisted in an elopement. 9. It was difficult sometimes to get permission to go swimming. Yet often it was an advantageous way for our parents to get odd jobs done. If it was to mow the lawn, the work would be finished in a remarkably short time when a swim was to be the reward. 10. A block in which crushed stone is used is more durable than one in which only sand is mixed with the cement; and it is also the cheaper method.

EXERCISE 33

Correct the ambiguous use of which in the following sentences and tell the antecedent of every which used: 1. The reference books are used a great many times, which necessitates an unlimited amount of handling. 2. I have driven a motor for many hundreds of miles and have had no accidents which I attribute to the scrupulous care I have always taken. 3. One day he was ransacking a house which the army often did at that time. 4. He did not hear her cry which was due to his deafness. 5. I was tardy at the opening exercise which resulted in a lecture from the principal. 6. My Christmas vacation was spent in camping on the shore of a lake, which people do not usually do for a week in winter. 7. The throttle can be opened any desired amount, which will raise the

Which
without antecedent

speed of the boat proportionately. 8. Unless you steer carefully, the boat may crash into the wharf which may result in serious damage to the hull.

EXERCISE 34

Reference to words not expressed

Correct and rewrite the following sentences: 1. He is intellectually powerful, as may be seen in his many keen and pithy comments on life; but he uses it for malicious purposes. 2. Debating was a popular amusement in our county, and most of the farmers attended these debates. 3. Farm machinery is very fascinating to me, and I greatly enjoy using them. 4. The doctor had a country patient who required his presence every day. On one of these visits the doctor's motor broke down. 5. Curtis speaks of his interest in Spanish affairs, telling of his estates there and of how he longs to see them. 6. Anders and his brothers were accustomed to fish at a point near the whirlpool, because the fish were plentiful there. While they were taking one of these trips, they were overtaken by a storm. 7. For several centuries England and France were at war almost constantly. One of these wars began in 1450. 8. It is a pleasure to go to my German class because I feel there is some possibility of my getting that lesson. 9. I will not attempt to discuss dress from the feminine point of view, for their tastes are too intricate for my comprehension. 10. If the car is dusty, this should be removed with a feather broom. 11. Look at ancient Greece; consider the love of athletic games that prevailed among these people. 12. I took a great fancy to ice-boating, which furnishes sport, exercise, and knowledge of the art of sailing. I made several small ones, which I used on the pond near our home.

EXERCISE 35

Plural pronouns referring to singular
antecedents

In the following sentences make the pronouns agree with their antecedents in number: 1. The Arabs understand the horse and how to train it. They train them so that it brings out their noblest traits. 2. I should hardly say that a salesman must smoke in order to succeed, and yet most of them do. 3. As a vermin-killer the cat is very useful; were it not for them, rats and mice would abound in our houses. 4. The horse is the most useful animal employed by man. Their usefulness should make us grateful to them. 5. The gasoline launch is coming more and more into use. These boats are used chiefly for pleasure. 6. When you go duck-shooting, use decoys; throw out your decoys, and wait for them to come within shooting distance. 7. It is harder to get a duck after it is wounded than when it is flying, because when they are wounded they dive. 8. Even when you see which tree your squirrel went up, you are likely to lose him, because they are so clever at hiding themselves. 9. The incubator is a modern device for hatching chickens. All poultrymen who do business on a large scale use them. 10. The life of an engineer demands that they be able to endure hardship. 11. An electric car, no matter how many people are jammed into it, can go, and usually does go, very rapidly; consequently it is often uncomfortable and even dangerous to ride in them.

EXERCISE 36

Correct the obscure reference in the following sentences.

Obscure
reference

1. A college graduate loves to recall the friends he met there. 2. When you fill the gasoline-tank, always strain it through a chamois-skin. 3. On the counter was the usual cheese-case, with a knife lying near, for the convenience of any who wished to taste it. 4. Since my fishing-rod is broken I am deprived of that sport. 5. If the coffee-mill is out of order we can't have any tonight. 6. The members of the suicide club used various means for accomplishing that gruesome object. 7. Since the chapel bell was silent, few people came to that building. 8. He came into the senate-chamber and insulted that body. 9. The Baltimore Sun is the cleverest paper of that city. 10. The sophomore point of view is different; they think the practice is beneficial. 11. The freshman yell could be heard about a block away, but none of them were seen to pass the house. 12. I did not care to contract the habit of cigarette-smoking because I had heard so much about their bad effects. 13. Bass-fishing is not much fun unless you catch a big one. 14. When a large bass is hooked, do not be hasty in drawing in your line, for they make a desperate fight for freedom. 15. The school I attended was inferior to most city schools; their English department was especially poor.

Dangling Modifiers

Dangling participles

62. Place a participle near the word it modifies.

Wrong: Every morning I take a run followed by a shower bath.

Right: Every morning I take a run and immediately afterward a shower bath.

Wrong: He was deaf, caused by an early attack of scarlet fever.

Right: (a) He was deaf, as the result of an early attack of scarlet fever; or (b) His deafness was caused by an early attack of scarlet fever. ["Caused," a participle, must modify a noun.]

Participle introducing a sentence or clause

63. A participle should not introduce a sentence or clause, unless it logically modifies the subject of the sentence or clause.

Wrong: Having come of age, I took my son into partnership with me.

Wrong: There we landed, and having eaten our lunch the steamboat departed.

Method of correction

64. Violations of the foregoing rule may be corrected either (a) by changing the participial phrase to a clause, or (b) by using as the subject the noun which the participle modifies.

Right: (a) When my son came of age, I took him into partnership; [or] (b) Having come of age, my son entered into partnership with me.

Right: (a) There we landed, and after we had eaten our lunch the steamboat departed; [or] (b) There we landed, and having eaten our lunch we saw the steamboat depart.

65. Do not end a sentence with a participial phrase of result which is not related to any noun preceding. Such phrases frequently begin with thus or thereby. The error may be corrected by changing the participial phrase to an independent clause or to a subordinate clause.

Participial phrase of result (thus or thereby)

Wrong: He was well acquainted with the best literature, thus helping him to become an able critic.

Right: He was well acquainted with the best literature; this helped him to become an able critic, [or, so that he was helped].

Wrong: He has to stand still until the rod man comes up, thus giving him no chance to move about and keep warm.

Right: He has to stand still until the rod man comes up; thus he has no chance to move about and keep warm; [or, so that he has no chance].

Wrong: The little ship was very light, causing it to ride the waves easily.

Right: The little ship was very light; thus it rode the waves easily; [or, so that it rode the waves easily].

EXERCISE 37

Complete the following sentences: 1. Arriving there late ——. 2. Stepping upon the platform ——. 3. Checking his horse as he neared the two straying children ——. 4. Having thus accidentally disclosed her identity to the policeman ——. 5. Having heard that you are a skillful portrait painter ——.

Dangling
participles

EXERCISE 38

Revise the following sentences and tell what each participle used modifies: 1. Looking toward the east, the harbor presents the appearance of a crescent. 2. Looking at these trees from the west, they appear very close together. 3. Looking toward the north, the walls of the valley rise high and steep. 4. Viewing the Troy schoolhouse in summer, the foliage of the surrounding trees

Participle introducing a sentence or clause

seems almost to bury it. 5. Not being a spring switch, care must be taken to open and close it rapidly. 6. "Now for this packet of papers!" said the squire. Tearing open the envelope a map fell out. 7. Having twice before been a candidate for the presidency, a third nomination indicates a substantial growth in the principles for which I have contended. 8. A large crowd of spectators watched Mr. Wright's trip around the drill ground in his aeroplane. Rising, descending, turning sharp angles, the sight was marvelous. 9. Having bought my gun from a reliable dealer, and having used it carefully for five years, it shoots as accurately and looks as well now as it did when I first got it. 10. Having been in America only a few months her English is very broken. 11. Never having seen the house, it is naturally hard for me to describe it. 12. Going up the north shore, the wind was against us. 13. Having eaten no breakfast and therefore feeling somewhat faint, the motion of the ship soon brought on a distressing nausea. 14. Arrived at the hospital a consultation was held, to determine whether I should be operated on. 15. Being in need of a pair of suspenders my mother extemporized a pair for me, using some strong tape. 16. Pondering on this contrast, my respect for my compatriots increased. 17. We looked back for a last view of the little group of cottages; then turning a bend in the road, they were hid from our view. 18. Taking into consideration all the good that football does, the game should not be abolished. 19. I felt very sick caused by the motion of the boat. 20. I could not recognize him caused by his beard. 21. He displeased several of the audience caused by his frivolity. 22. The larger boats cannot land here caused by the shallowness of the water.

Dangling
gerund
phrases

66. Place a gerund phrase (e.g., in speaking, after going) close to the word it modifies. The same remark may be made with respect to infinitives. (See the examples under Rule 67. For a discussion of the gerund, see Appendix A.)

Bad: He assumed a curious pose unusual for him in speaking.

Right: In speaking, he assumed a curious pose unusual for him.

NOTE. — This rule and Rule 67 do not apply when the gerund designates general action, not the action of any special agent. Thus:

Right: In swimming, the head should not be lifted too high.

67. A gerund phrase should not introduce a sentence or clause unless it logically modifies the subject of the sentence or clause.

Gerund phrase introducing sentence or clause

Wrong: In talking to Smith the other day, he told me about the race.

Wrong: After pointing out my errors, I was dismissed.

Wrong: After flunking three times, the professor reproved me.

Wrong: After singing hymn 523, Mr. Barnes will lead in prayer.

NOTE. — An error similar to the dangling gerund is the dangling infinitive. (See also Rule 76.)

Dangling infinitive phrases

Wrong: To enjoy a walking trip, the feet should be in good condition.

Right: To enjoy a walking trip, take care that your feet are in good condition.

Wrong: To appreciate pictures, they should be studied.

Right: To appreciate pictures, study them; [or] If pictures are to be appreciated, they should be studied.

68. Violations of the foregoing rule may be corrected either (a) by changing the gerund phrase to a clause, or (b) by using as subject the noun to which the gerund phrase is related in thought.

Method of correction

Right: (a) As I was talking to Smith the other day, he told me about the race; [or] (b) In talking to Smith the other day I learned about the race.

Right: (a) When he had pointed out my errors, I was dismissed; [or] (b) After pointing out my errors he dismissed me.

Right: (a) When I had flunked three times, the professor reproved me; [or] (b) After flunking three times, I was reproved by the professor.

Right: (a) After we have sung hymn 523, Mr. Barnes will lead in prayer; [or] (b) After singing hymn 523 we shall be led in prayer by Mr. Barnes.

EXERCISE 39

Dangling
gerund
phrases

Complete the following sentences: 1. Without denying your statement ——. 2. Upon questioning his sister as to the truth of the report ——. 3. In removing the chimney of his lamp that evening ——. 4. Upon examining the letters that I found in the injured man's pocket ——. 5. After setting the vase in this very insecure position, naturally ——.

EXERCISE 40

Dangling
gerund
phrases

Correct the following sentences: 1. Instead of gluing the top in place, it was fastened with nails. 2. After opening the champagne bottle it was found to contain only water. 3. In talking to old Romulus he does not answer as if he were intelligent, but he is so, really. 4. After seeing that the tires are in order, the engine may be started. 5. While traveling through a small town not long ago, the general store attracted my attention. 6. Upon arriving at the station our train had not yet been made up. 7. After being borne forward some distance, the roar of a cataract announced greater danger. 8. The horse now became utterly ungovernable; and after dashing madly through the crowded street, knocking down several pedestrians, and kicking the dash-board to pieces, I decided to get out of the buggy. 9. After looking at the high bluffs, the green valley attracts one's attention. 10. After mixing the cement and the sand in the right proportions the mixture is put into moulds. 11. By moving the clutch half-way, it will become disengaged. 12. By letting a gun stand for several days without cleaning, it will usually rust. 13. He gave an antidote so powerful that any poison was made harmless after taking it. 14. A mixture of sand and gravel is used for filling the holes; after being dumped into the holes, water is poured upon the mixture.

EXERCISE 41

Revise the following sentences which contain dangling infinitives: 1. To enjoy a walk thoroughly, it should be taken early in the day. 2. To make a farm profitable, it must be managed by an expert. 3. To appreciate pictures, they should be studied. 4. In order to save the railroads from bankruptcy, they must increase their rates. 5. To make a horse a good roadster, it should be trained while it is a colt. 6. In order to enjoy the full value of a horse, he should be well cared for. 7. To make a dog come home, his feet may be greased. 8. To make the linen stiff, it is usually dipped in starch. 9. In order to make a politician popular, he need only abuse the corporations. 10. In order to protect the children, they were sent into the cellar. 11. The wheels should be oiled regularly to keep them in good order.

Dangling infinitives

69. An elliptical clause (a clause from which the subject and predicate are omitted; e.g., while going for while I was going, when a boy for when he was a boy) should not be used unless the omitted subject is the subject of the governing clause.

Dangling elliptical clauses

Wrong: When six years old, my grandfather died.

Wrong: You must not cut the cake until thoroughly cooked.

70. A violation of the foregoing rule may be corrected by supplying the subject and predicate of the elliptical clause.

Method of correction

Right: When I was six years old, my grandfather died.

Right: You should not cut the cake until it is thoroughly cooked.

Elliptical
clauses in titles

71. Rule 69 forbids such titles as An Accident while Hunting, Things Learned while Canvassing. Write rather An Accident in a Bear Hunt, Things Learned by a Canvasser.

EXERCISE 42

Dangling
elliptical
clauses

Complete the following sentences: 1. When a mere boy (he was certainly no more than ten years old at the time), ——. 2. Although a very instructive book, ——. 3. While moving about in disguise among his subjects, ——. 4. If in doubt as to what college you had better attend, ——. 5. When engaged in this work, if any friends come to see him, ——. 6. While thoroughly in sympathy with the plans you have told me about ——.

EXERCISE 43

Dangling
elliptical
clauses

Rewrite the following sentences which contain dangling elliptical clauses: 1. When making a landing, great care should be taken not to jam the boat. 2. While inflating the tire, the air-tube of the pump broke. 3. When a small boy my summers were spent at Nantasket Beach. 4. When about half way to his destination, a storm overtook him. 5. When a boy, many were the hours I spent in boating. 6. Last winter while on a hunting expedition, my first chance to bag a deer came to me. 7. One dark night, while keeping a herd of steers in corral on my uncle's ranch, a stampede occurred. 8. While on my way to church, the Sunday quiet was suddenly broken by a shriek. 9. While leaning against the door, it suddenly opened, and he found himself in the vestibule. 10. While spending my vacation at home, my father took me on a long ride in the country. 11. While working in the garden one day, cultivating the blossoming shrubs, a lizard crawled across the path. 12. I have said little about my life while in the high school. 13. The injured man was quickly placed in the ambulance: but while on the way to the hospital, a blood vessel burst. 14. While still in the high school, thoughts of college life roused my enthusiasm. 15. When a young man, people spoke of him as a reckless spendthrift.

Unity

72. A sentence should be so composed that the reader feels it to be a unit. If it contains more than one statement, these should be so related as to express a single thought.

General principle

73. Statements conspicuously lacking connection with each other should not be embodied in the same sentence. Defects in unity may be corrected by one of the following means:

Statements unconnected in thought
Unity secured by division

(a) By placing the unrelated statements in different sentences.

Wrong: Mathematics is my hardest subject, and comes at eleven in the morning.

Right: Mathematics is my hardest subject. It comes at eleven in the morning.

Wrong: Ruskin was a famous English critic, and was born in 1819.

Right: Ruskin was a famous English critic. He was born in 1819.

Wrong: I have received your letter of May 6, and the shirts referred to were shipped yesterday morning.

Right: I have received your letter of May 6. The shirts referred to were shipped yesterday.

(b) By subordinating one statement to another, when their logical relationship can be made clear by this means.

Unity secured by subordination

Right: Mathematics, my hardest subject, comes at eleven in the morning.

Right: Ruskin, the famous English critic, was born in 1819.

Right: The shirts referred to in your letter of May 6 were shipped yesterday.

Unity secured by recasting

(c) By filling up the gaps in thought, subordinating properly, and using connectives which show the precise relationship of statements.

Wrong: Engineering has always interested me, but last winter I heard a talk by a famous engineer. Then I decided to take an engineering course.

Right: Although engineering has always interested me, I did not decide to take up an engineering course until I heard last winter a talk by a famous engineer.

Wrong: The scenery along the banks is very pretty, but the river is too shallow to be navigated by large boats.

Right: The scenery along the banks is very pretty, but few people have seen it, because the river is too shallow to be navigated by boats large enough to carry passengers.

Wrong: The operation of an incubator is simple, but no machine will work well unless it is watched.

Right: An incubator is simple in operation, but, like any other machine, it will not work well unless it is watched.

Stringy compound
sentences

74. Long compound sentences consisting of many statements strung together with and's, but's and so's are especially bad violations of unity. Proper division and subordination, with the use of the right connectives, provide the remedy. (See Rules 97-98.)

Wrong: The aircraft production program was badly delayed, and a good many people think we did nothing in building airplanes, but the government reorganized the work, and put capable production specialists in command, and these men corrected the faults in the planes and increased production, and before the end of the war they were turning out planes faster than the government could supply pilots to man them.

Right: It is true that the aircraft production program was badly delayed, so that it is no wonder many people think we accomplished nothing in building airplanes. As a matter of fact, however, after the government reorganized the work and put capable production specialists in command, not only were the faults in the planes corrected, but production was increased. Before the end of the war, airplanes were being turned out faster than the government could supply pilots to man them.

NOTE. — It is rarely advisable to begin sentences with and or also. Practise instead the use of a variety of connectives, and note that it is often advantageous to place them within the sentence rather than at the beginning (see Rule 83).

75. Long, straggling sentences written without grammatical plan and covering either too many ideas or too many periods of time to make a definite impression on the reader's mind are a palpable violation of unity.

Straggling
sentences

Wrong: That night we camped near the outlet, and the next morning we packed our equipment and took down the tents and put them into the canoes and started down the outlet with our canoe in the lead, but we had not gone more than a few miles when we came to a fallen tree right across our way, and as the banks were soft mud it would be hard to carry around it, so we held a council of war and decided to cut through the trunk, which was not very large, so after much splashing and nearly upsetting the canoe we succeeded in disposing of the obstacle, after which we proceeded on our way.

Narrative

Right: That night we camped near the outlet. The next morning after stowing our tents and equipment in the canoes, we started down the stream, our canoe leading. After we had paddled a few miles, we came to a tree which had fallen right across our way. As the banks were soft mud, to carry around the tree would have been difficult; accordingly, holding a council of war, we decided to cut through the trunk, which was not very large. After much splashing, and nearly upsetting the canoe, we succeeded in disposing of the obstacle, and proceeded on our way.

Summary

Wrong: Tennyson's poem Lady Clara Vere de Vere is the speech of a young country fellow to a young lady of high birth who is beautiful but a heartless coquette, having attempted to ensnare the young man and then cast him off merely to amuse herself, as she has done with a number of other young fellows, one of whom, as the young man who is speaking reminds her, committed suicide from grief at her cruelty, which makes the young man who is speaking despise the lady, for he tells her that he cares neither for her beauty nor for her high birth, since she has no goodness of heart, and he solemnly tells her she ought to cease amusing herself by her coquetry and to "pray Heaven for a human heart."

Right: Tennyson's poem Lady Clara Vere de Vere is the speech of a manly young country fellow to a beautiful but heartless young lady of high birth, who has attempted to amuse herself by breaking his heart, — a speech expressing disdain for charms beneath which there is no goodness of heart, and contempt for hereditary rank of which the possessor lacks true virtue and honor; reminding the lady of the suicide of another country lad, whom she had enticed by feigned affection and then cruelly repudiated; and solemnly adjuring her to cease her unworthy and injurious diversion, to turn her leisure to some good end, and to "pray Heaven for a human heart."

NOTE. — A sentence may be long without violating unity. The first of the two foregoing sentences violates unity because it is straggling, lacking grammatical plan. The second does not violate unity; it has a definite organization of which parallelism is an important factor (see Rule 111). This parallelism may be made clear by the following diagram:

Tennyson's poem . . . is . . . a speech	{	1. expressing { a. disdain b. contempt 2. reminding { a. to cease 3. adjuring her { b. to turn c. to pray
--	---	--

76. Avoid unnecessary changing of the subject or of the voice, mode, or tense of the verb.

Change of
voice,
mode, tense,
or structure

Unnecessary change: We passed over the road quickly and soon the camp was reached.

Right: We passed over the road quickly and soon reached the camp.

Bad: In order to clean the chain, it should be removed and soaked in kerosene.

Right: In order to clean the chain, remove it and soak it in kerosene; [or] In order that the chain may be thoroughly cleansed, it should be removed and soaked in kerosene.

Bad: First stir in the flour and then you should add the butter and salt.

Right: First you should stir in the flour and then you should add the butter and salt.

Right: You should first stir in the flour and then add the butter and salt.

EXERCISE 44

Rewrite the following sentences: 1. If you buy this car, it will give you good service. 2. Turn to the right at the cross road and it will be easy to find the house. 3. A bright gleam of lightning illuminated the landscape and a loud clap of thunder was heard. 4. Because we started very late, no lunch was taken. 5. If you hurry with the message, much trouble will be saved you. 6. I arrived in Milwaukee at one o'clock and soon my aunt's house was reached. 7. Although at first the whole family objected to my plan, yet it was finally approved by them.

Order of Members — Coherence

77. Every modifier should be so placed that the reader connects it immediately with the member it modifies, and not with some other member. A phrase or clause that modifies the main clause may very often be placed with advantage at the beginning of the sentence.

Position of modifiers:
General
rule

Bad: The storm broke just as we reached the shore with great violence.

Right: Just as we reached the shore, the storm broke with great violence.

Bad: The ball is thrown home by a player stationed in the middle of the square called the pitcher.

Right: The ball is thrown home by a player called the pitcher, who is stationed in the middle of the square.

Position of the adverbs only, almost,
etc.

78. As a rule, place the adverbs only, merely, just, almost, ever, hardly, scarcely, quite, nearly, next to the words they modify, not elsewhere. If they are to modify only a part of the predicate, place them before that part.

Colloquial: I only want three.

Better: I want only three; [or] I want three only.

Colloquial: Do you ever expect to go again?

Better: Do you expect ever to go again?

Wrong: It is the handsomest vase I almost ever saw.

Right: It is almost the handsomest vase I ever saw.

Wrong: I never remember having met him. [Here "ever" is misplaced and made to modify the wrong word, for never = not ever.]

EXERCISE 45

Position of only, almost,
and ever

Rewrite the following sentences, placing the adverbs as close as possible to the words modified: 1. The manufacture of sugar is only profitable in a large factory. 2. I only saw him once after that. 3. The office is only open in the forenoon. 4. I only need a few dollars. 5. He only succeeded in stopping the horse after it had collided with an electric car and demolished the buggy. 6. He had almost got to the top when the rope broke. 7. I never expect to see the like again. 8. Do you ever remember to have seen the accused before?

Misplaced
clauses

79. A modifying clause should not be so placed that a verb following it may, in reading, be erroneously joined with the verb of the clause instead of with the verb preceding the clause. Observe that in some instances the difficulty is remedied by placing the time modifier first.

Ill arranged: I walked out into the night as the moon rose and wandered through the grounds.

Clear: As the moon rose, I walked out into the night and wandered through the grounds.

Ill arranged: He sprang to the platform on which the dead man lay and shouted.

Clear: Springing to the platform on which the dead man lay, he shouted.

Bad: A terrible wind and thunder storm visited the Fourth Regiment camp Thursday night, shortly after taps were sounded, playing havoc on all sides.

Right: On Thursday night, shortly after taps was sounded, a violent wind and thunder storm visited the Fourth Regiment camp, playing havoc on all sides.

80. As a rule, arrange a sentence containing a relative clause so that the clause immediately follows its antecedent.

Position of relative
clauses

Awkward: I had many pleasant experiences while I was there, some of which I shall always remember.

Better: While I was there, I had many pleasant experiences, some of which I shall always remember.

Awkward: The correspondence began just one month later which led to the surrender.

Better: Just one month later began the correspondence which led to the surrender.

NOTE. — It may happen that a sentence containing a relative clause cannot be arranged according to the foregoing rule. In such a case it is often necessary, for clearness, to use two separate sentences or two coordinate clauses.

Bad: The police are looking today for the persons last in company with Clara Belinfant, the daughter of Abraham Belinfant, a rich New York merchant, who has been missing since July 18.

Right: The police are looking today for the persons last seen in company with Clara Belinfant, the daughter of Abraham Belinfant, a rich New York merchant. The girl has been missing since July 18.

EXERCISE 46

Sentence-
order

Rewrite the following sentences, improving the arrangement; make no changes except in the order of the members; if you change the position of a member tell what the member modifies: 1. The top is a cylinder on the surface of which a number of strips one sixteenth of an inch thick and one inch above the surface, called knives, are placed. 2. These pulleys are connected with another set of pulleys of ten inch diameter at the lower part of the machine by belts. 3. He sometimes tried to discuss subjects that interested him with the Autocrat. 4. I judged that the fellow was a monk who had fled from the monastery by his gown and his air of trepidation. 5. He finally succeeded in drawing the spoon hook up close to the boat, on which he found a turtle. 6. Every one felt sure that Beiler had no chance of winning soon after he began to speak. 7. He tore up the tender letter which his mother had written him in a fit of peevish vexation. 8. Lamb playfully pretends to prove that the art of roasting pigs originated in China by an old manuscript. 9. The author here makes a digression proving that devil-fish actually exist and that they have been known to devour men, to make the story more real. 10. In a village on the Wisconsin River just above the point where it joins the Mississippi on a cold February afternoon I first saw the light of day. 11. There are two ways of chiseling at present in use among machinists that are equally effective. 12. The light causes a chemical action on the plate in the camera which is imperceptible to the eye. 13. The yacht is drawn up out of the water after every race on a small railway. 14. There was a pilot house just in front of the engine room which looked like a watchman's box. 15. He was taken out to the transport which was anchored off the coast in a row boat. 16. Keeping his opponent covered with his six-shooter, he collected all the money that was lying on the table in his hat. 17 How can a man write a theme when he has the problem of finding the equation of the common tangent to a hyperbola and an ellipse on his mind? 18. He adds the amounts of all checks received during the day on an adding machine. 19 I was able to save the motor car that had broken away from destruction by a happy accident. 20. Sometimes you will see an alligator lying in the sunshine on the bank eight feet long. 21. Members will please inform the steward of their intention to dine at the club upon their arrival to insure good service. 22. We demand the suppression of the traffic in liquors to be used for beverages by every lawful means.

81. Do not place between two members of a sentence a modifier applicable to either member. Do not trust to punctuation to show the application of the modifier; recast the sentence.

Squinting
modifiers

Defective: The person who steals in nine cases out of ten is driven to it by want.

Right: In nine cases out of ten, the person who steals is driven to it by want.

Defective: Since a canoe cannot stand hard knocks when not in use it should be kept out of the water.

Right: Since a canoe cannot stand hard knocks, it should be kept out of the water when not in use.

Defective: The coroner's jury which has been investigating the death of the girl today brought in a verdict of suicide.

Right: The coroner's jury which has been investigating the death of the girl brought in today a verdict of suicide.

EXERCISE 47

Recast the following sentences to place modifiers where their relationships cannot be mistaken: 1. Studying the style of a master in a certain way improves the style of a student. 2. When Samson came of age, much to his parents' displeasure, he married a Philistine woman. 3. Since a canoe cannot stand any hard knocks when not in use it should be kept out of the water. 4. Although it seems illogical, to my mind, at least, it is very pathetic. 5. As he reached Randolph Street by a lucky throw a policeman tossed his club into the rear wheel of the bicycle. 6. Dawes who led the party after the passage of the ford saw an antelope in the distance. 7. If a man who is anxious about business matters after his work is over will play a game of tennis or handball, his cares will vanish. 8. Though we think there will be much to talk about when our guests are with us we stare at each other and can think of little to say. 9. That disregard of law has a bad effect in most cases is self-evident. 10. When the villain Pew sees that he will be discovered by base methods he tries to throw the guilt on his innocent companion. 11. When I arrived in Chicago for the first time in my life I was left to take care of myself. 12. When a boy is sent to college, as a rule, he wishes to be popular. 13. To live in a well-kept house without doubt affords much comfort to every one.

Parenthetical
position of
modifiers

82. For the sake of emphasis and clearness a modifier of a clause may often with advantage be inserted within the clause it modifies rather than placed before or after.

Clear and forcible: If, after all that has been said, you still hesitate, I despair of persuading you.

Parenthetical
position of therefore,
however, etc.

83. For the sake of beginning the sentence with words that deserve distinction, it is often advantageous to place however, therefore, nevertheless, moreover, also, and the like, within the sentences they introduce rather than at the beginning. Such words should be placed early in the sentence, so that their qualifying effect is seen at first glance.

Less emphatic: His master was always very kind to him. However, his master's wife was altogether too parsimonious.

Better: His master was always very kind to him. His master's wife, however, was altogether too parsimonious.

Inferior: The study of birds is fascinating. It requires a great deal of patience, however.

Better: The study of birds is fascinating. It requires, however, a great deal of patience.

NOTE. — This caution includes such expressions as I think and it seems to me. Do not, however, place these particles and expressions at the ends of clauses.

Bad: There is another use for this machine, I think.

Right: There is, I think, another use for this machine.

84. Two phrases or clauses modifying the same sentence-element and of parallel form and function should not be placed one before and one after that element; they should be put together.

Separation of coördinate
modifiers

Awkward: When he has once made up his mind, you may be sure he will never draw back when he has got fully started.

Right: When he has once made up his mind and got fully started, you may be sure he will never draw back.

85. Do not put an adverb or a phrase between an infinitive and its sign to.

Split
infinitives

Inelegant: I went there in order to personally inspect it.

Right: I went there in order to inspect it personally.

Inelegant: It is impossible to in any way remove them.

Right: It is impossible in any way to remove them.

NOTE. — Though the split infinitive is usually to be avoided, it can be justified when used to avoid awkwardness or loss of clearness.

EXERCISE 48

Rewrite the following sentences to avoid split infinitives:

1. A considerable period is required to properly heat the eggs.
2. The acid is allowed to slowly percolate.
3. The glare of the fire seemed to completely light the city.
4. He reefed his canvas in order to better weather the storm.

Split
infinitives

5. Because of the confusion he was able to easily make his escape. 6. She was seen to slowly and steadily sink into the quicksand. 7. Are you willing to in any way assist us? 8. It is advisable to always keep the tank full.

Smooth
order

86. Arrange the members of a sentence so that the sentence reads smoothly, unless this arrangement impairs clearness.

Awkward: He, instead of acting as my guide, followed me. [Awkwardness caused by needless separation between subject and verb, throwing false emphasis on "he."]

Right: Instead of acting as my guide, he followed me.

Awkward: Fishing was not good, and they, becoming impatient, decided to quit.

Right: Fishing was not good, and becoming impatient they decided to quit.

Pause after preposition

NOTE. — This principle is violated by interposing a number of words between a preposition and its object, so that an awkward pause occurs after the preposition.

Awkward: He submitted to, though he did not fully approve of, the rules.

Better: He submitted to the rules, though he did not fully approve of them.

See also the first Right example under Rule 90 e.

Such a construction may be used, for the sake of brevity, in statutes, contracts, and the like, in which smoothness of style is of little consequence.

"The Congress shall have power to dispose of, and make all needful rules and regulations respecting, the territory . . . belonging to the United States."

— The Federal Constitution.

Except in such a context, the harshness of the construction more than offsets the gain in compactness.

Ordering a sentence with reference to the preceding
sentence

87. Arrange the members of a sentence so as to form close connection with the preceding sentence.

Inferior: He wished to examine the planet Mars, then in the western part of the sky. He began to turn the telescope in order to do this.

Better: He wished to examine the planet Mars, then in the western part of the sky. In order to do this, he began to turn the telescope.

Order of Members — Emphasis

88. For force, close sentences strongly; put unimportant phrases elsewhere than at the end. Transforming a loose sentence into a periodic sentence — one in which the main clause is not completed until the end — is an effective means of securing emphasis.

Strong close

Inferior: Then he would return to work, whistling a merry tune all the while.

Better: Then he would return to work, all the while whistling a merry tune.

Inferior: He said nothing, but kept looking at my neck for some reason or other.

Better: He said nothing, but for some reason or other kept looking at my neck.

Loose: We were drenched to the skin in spite of our rubber coats before we had gone a hundred yards through the wet grass and underbrush that covered the hillside.

Periodic: Before we had gone a hundred yards through the wet grass and underbrush that covered the hillside, in spite of our rubber coats we were drenched to the skin.

NOTE. — The foregoing rule does not concern a matter of correct or incorrect practice, but merely a matter of greater or less rhetorical effectiveness. The common belief that a sentence ending with a preposition is on that account incorrect is a mistake; such sentences abound in good literature; e.g.,

A sentence ending with a preposition

"I will not say that the meaning of Shakespeare's names . . . may be entirely lost sight of." — ARNOLD.

"M. Planche's advantage is . . . that there is a force of cultivated opinion for him to appeal to." — ARNOLD.

Moreover, such sentences, as Professor Hill remarks, "do not contravene the principle which forbids a writer to throw stress on unimportant words; for . . . the stress is thrown, not on the last word, but on the next to the last."

Climactic
order

89. A series of assertions or modifiers noticeably varying in strength should be placed in climactic order, unless the writer intends to make an anti-climax for the sake of humor.

Weak: I think that the characters are well drawn, the diction is stately and beautiful, and the plot is very interesting.

Improved: I think that the plot is very interesting, the characters are well drawn, and the diction is stately and beautiful.

Weak: He proved himself to be mercilessly cruel at times, unforgiving, and discourteous.

Improved: He proved himself to be unforgiving, discourteous, and at times mercilessly cruel.

EXERCISE 49

Rewrite the following sentences for better coherence (arrangement and connections) or emphasis: 1. The rain beat upon his face, but he staggered on although he was intensely cold. 2. Although she was to all appearances perfectly polite and agreeable, I knew that she was longing for a good opportunity to throttle me, however. 3. As soon as they left the ship, the men began on board to prepare for action. 4. The news spread among the boys finally when a beautiful warm day arrived that Ray Hoover had been swimming. 5. Jim McTaggart starving, uncouth, and dirty stood in the doorway. 6. During the past semester I have had considerable trouble with some of my studies. Much attention is paid to detail in these courses. 7. Last night I dreamt that it was an October evening, and that I was driving slowly along a country road, watching the sun setting behind the woods almost in front of me. My attention was drawn to a homestead when the sun was almost hid. 8. He is, to say the least, not trustworthy. 9. As I work ahead, I build new castles in Spain as I see more clearly what is possible.

Incorrect Omissions

90. Avoid the incorrect use of words in a double capacity. A word or a combination of words may often be correctly used in a double capacity if it is perfectly fitted for both the offices it serves. For example, in the sentence, "I can do it as well as you," "can do it" serves as the predicate of both "I" and "you," and does so correctly, since it agrees grammatically with both pronouns. But there are various ways of using words in a double capacity that are incorrect; these are indicated in the following rules:

(a) Do not supply an auxiliary verb or a copula from one part of a sentence to another if the same form is not grammatically proper in both parts; write the proper form with each part.

Wrong: The fire was built and the potatoes baked.

Right: The fire was built and the potatoes were baked.

Wrong: He was a patriot, but all the rest traitors.

Right: He was a patriot, but all the rest were traitors.

NOTE.—The supplying of an auxiliary from one clause to another is likely in most cases to produce an awkward sentence, even when there is no violation of the foregoing principle. As a rule, repeat an auxiliary rather than supply it.

Awkward: Light was seen through the opening, and the voice of my rescuer heard.

Better: Light was seen through the opening, and the voice of my rescuer was heard. [See Rule 221*f*.]

(b) Do not make a single form of the verb be serve both as a principal and as an auxiliary verb.

Wrong: At first the drill was interesting and liked by most of the men.

Right: At first the drill was interesting and was liked by most of the men.

Words used in a double capacity

Auxiliaries
and copulas in a double capacity

Be as both principal and auxiliary

Principal verbs in a double capacity

(c) Do not supply a principal verb from one part of a sentence to another if the same form is not grammatically proper in both parts; write the proper form for each part.

Wrong: He did what many others have and are doing.

Right: He did what many others have done and are doing.

Wrong: We ate such a dinner as only laborers can.

Right: We ate such a dinner as only laborers can eat.

Than or as clause in a double
capacity

(d) Two expressions of comparison, the one an adjective preceded by as, the other an adjective in the comparative degree, should not both be completed by a single as clause or a single than clause, unless that clause immediately follows the expression of comparison that stands first in the sentence.

Wrong: Fostoria is as large, if not larger, than Delaware.

Right: Fostoria is as large as Delaware, if not larger.

Wrong; He is bigger and fully as strong as Buck.

Right: He is bigger than Buck and fully as strong.

Other modifiers in a double
capacity

(e) Aside from the two cases given under d, above, two sentence-elements should never be limited by a single modifying phrase or clause unless that modifier is idiomatically adapted to both.

Wrong: He had no love or confidence in his employer.

Right: He had no love for, or confidence in, his employer. [The foregoing is correct, but awkward; the following is better:] He had no love for his employer and no confidence in him.

Wrong: I shall always remember the town because of the good times and the many friends I made there.

Right: I shall always remember the town because of the good times I had and the many friends I made there.

Wrong: He acquired a knowledge and keen interest in chess.

Right: He acquired a knowledge of chess and a keen interest in it.

(f) Two incomplete members of a sentence, the one requiring to complete it a singular noun, the other requiring a plural noun, should not both be completed by one noun, unless that noun immediately follows the incomplete member that stands first in the sentence.

A noun in a double capacity

Wrong: One of the greatest, if not the greatest, generals of America.

Right: One of the greatest generals of America, if not the greatest.

(g) When as to, in regard to, or in respect to is used as a single preposition to govern a clause, the to should not be made to govern a substantive within the clause.

To (in as to, in regard to, etc.) used in a double capacity

Wrong: A dispute arose as to [= concerning] whom the honor should belong.

Right (awkward): A dispute arose as to [= concerning] whom the honor should belong to.

Preferable: A dispute arose as to [= concerning] who should receive the honor. See Rule 33 b

(h) Do not omit the subordinating conjunction that at the beginning of a substantive clause which follows a verb of saying, thinking, feeling, etc., when to do so causes awkwardness.

Bad: Silas Marner was brought back to church interests because he felt to do the right thing by Eppie he must have her christened.

Right: Silas Marner was brought back to church interests because he felt that to do the right thing by Eppie he must have her christened.

NOTE. — For the faulty omission of that after so, see the Glossary. That after so

EXERCISE 50

Omission of auxiliaries

Rewrite the following sentences, supplying the necessary auxiliaries: 1. All the men were assembled and the paper signed. 2. She was shown into the parlor and the light turned on. 3. The garret was ransacked but no clothes found. 4. The envoy was socially agreeable and welcomed by the aristocracy. 5. The bear was very ferocious and therefore carefully guarded. 6. She was anxious and tearful and pitied by all who met her. 7. The machine is put in place and the rollers connected. Later the rollers are stopped and a wide board substituted for them. 8. Her adventure was related at the hotel and the police informed. 9. A large dam is built and the mill operated by water-power. 10. The stock is soaked again and more chemicals added. 11. The date for the game was set and our men given the privilege of two nights' practice. 12. I was elected president and the installation ceremonies performed. 13. I think that for every temptation to which a man may be exposed a parallel case may be found in the Bible and the proper way to act learned from the example. 14. After all these details have been attended to and the boat painted and varnished, your work is done. 15. Next the armature was wiped clean and the oil-cups taken out.

EXERCISE 51

Omission of principal
verb

Rewrite the following sentences, supplying the principal verbs: 1. I hope you will not find the room so disagreeable as I have. 2. At the decisive moment he weakened, as I suppose I shall too when my time comes. 3. The sun rose just as splendidly and brilliantly as it had on the day before. 4. I have and I hope I always shall call Milwaukee my home. 5. The agricultural experiment stations have and will continue to be a great aid to farmers. 6. We were brought into closer companionship than we could have in any other circumstances. 7. Will the game continue to hold the high place it has in the past? 8. Who then will perform this labor? Why, the same man who has been, all these years. 9. History has seldom and perhaps will never again record such an act. 10. Football will continue to be the leading American sport in the future as it has in the past. 11. On my trip I saw one of the saddest sights I ever expect to. 12. The state of a man's linen often tells more about his character than a long conversation could.

EXERCISE 52

Correct and rewrite the following sentences: 1. Bacon was not so brilliant, but much more learned, than Shakespeare. 2. The climate here is warmer, but not so agreeable to me, as the climate of the north. 3. My crayons are whiter, and just as strong, as my competitor's. 4. Rubies are just as costly, if not more so, than diamonds. 5. The Whig candidate was not so conscientious, but far more effective, than his rival. 6. The price of meat is as high, if not higher, than it was last year. 7. Lake Erie is as treacherous, if not more so, than the ocean. 8. Prairie hay fattens horses as well if not better than timothy does. 9. My work in the drawing class was just as successful, though it cost a little more effort, than my work in the shop.

Omission of
than and as
clauses

EXERCISE 52a

Correct and rewrite the following sentences: 1. Their love and devotion to their father is remarkable. 2. He showed a distrust and opposition to his adviser. 3. She was in a constant state of discontent and rebellion against her lot. 4. I feel a perfect love and confidence in my king. 5. He expresses complete approval and satisfaction with our plan. 6. I am not only thoroughly familiar, but exceedingly fond of the game. 7. He is not only different but far more admirable than his cousin. 8. Though he endeavored, he did not succeed, in convincing me. 9. I cannot consent — in fact I most heartily disapprove — of the measure. 10. He acted not in accordance, but contrary to my instructions. 11. They were willing to comply, but not disposed to respect, our orders. 12. Are you willing in all matters to comply and yield to our wishes?

Omission of modifying phrases

EXERCISE 53

Correct and rewrite the following sentences: 1. Goethe possessed one of the greatest, if not the greatest mind of

Omission of plural nouns

his era. 2. This battle brought one of the severest, if not the severest defeat of the war. 3. Sowles was one of the mildest, if not the mildest curate in Sussex. 4. Markheim is one of the strangest, if not the strangest story I ever read.

EXERCISE 54

Omission of
that after so

Rewrite the following sentences inserting that where it is necessary. See Note under 90 (h) and also so (1) in the Glossary. 1. It was so hot I had difficulty in eating it. 2. He was so weak he could not stand. 3. The lamp was hung so high I could not reach it. 4. This pen is so rusty it is useless. 5. It moves so fast you can hardly see it. 6. It became so interesting I forgot my engagement. 7. The surgeon was so deft he gave me no pain. 8. The cars are so slow I prefer to walk. 9. He was so rude she became angry.

Omission of articles and possessives

91. As a rule, repeat an article or a possessive adjective before each noun in a series, unless all the nouns designate the same thing.

Wrong: Near by are a grocery, drug store, barber shop, and garage.

Right: Near by are a grocery store, a drug store, a barber shop, and a garage.

Wrong: She watched her grandmother, aunt, and mother sewing.

Right: She watched her grandmother, her aunt, and her mother sewing.

Wrong: I asked what were the names of her puppies and kitten.

Right: I asked what were the names of her puppies and her kitten.

Right: For that summer I was day clerk, night clerk, bell boy, and porter, all in one.

Omission of prepositions

92. In certain instances, a noun used to indicate the time, place, or manner of an occurrence should be accompanied by a preposition. Some uses of the noun without the preposition are distinctly wrong; some others are better suited to informal composition than to formal composition. (See Rule 1 b.)

Wrong: Friendships made that way will never last.

Right: Friendships made in that way will never last.

Wrong: He is living some place in Arizona.

Right: He is living in some place in Arizona. [Observe that ordinarily the writer who uses the incorrect expressions any place, some place, etc., means to use the adverbs anywhere, somewhere, etc. See Glossary.]

Wrong: You may sit any place you wish.

Right: You may sit in any place you wish.

Informal (not incorrect): The armistice was signed the eleventh of November.

More formal: The armistice was signed on the eleventh of November.

Right: Last year, last month, last night, last Saturday, next year, next day, next Tuesday, some day, one day, any day, that day, this day, this afternoon.

NOTE. — The expression "He is home" is bad idiom when used to mean location in a place; as, "Where is your sister this afternoon?" "She is home"; [should be, "at home"]. It is good idiom when used to mean arrival at a place; as, "He is safe home at last";

"Home is the sailor, home from sea,

And the hunter home from the hill." — STEVENSON.

A fault similar to those noted under this head is the omission of the article from the phrases all the morning, all the afternoon, all the week, all the evening, etc. All day and all night are established idioms.

EXERCISE 55

Rewrite the following sentences: 1. August 21 I went to Chicago. 2. Our team will play Friday. 3. Lincoln died April, 1865. 4. Did Selma wash Monday? 5. I wrote June 2: he answered July 3. 6. Saturday night the tenor was reported sick and a substitute was engaged to sing Sunday. 7. The Rockford nine won Tuesday but lost

Time expressions with preposition
omitted

Wednesday. 8. I was in a hospital the time of the World's Fair. 9. All the hydrants froze the day of the fire. 10. Let us meet Christmas day. 11. His first book appeared 1845. 12. Is the meeting to be Monday? In order to attend that day, I must travel Sunday.

93. Do not make comparisons leaving the standard of comparison not indicated or only vaguely implied; let the standard be definitely stated or implied.

Incomplete: Manufacturers have come to see the greater economy of the electric motor.

Right: Manufacturers have come to see the greater economy of the electric motor as compared to steam power.

NOTE.—When such and so are used for very—as, “We had such a good time”; “I am so tired,”—a comparison is vaguely implied. (See Glossary.)

Coördination

Misuse of coördinat-ing conjunctions

94. Do not introduce by and, but, or or an expression which is not grammatically and logically coördinate with any preceding expression. Either omit the conjunction and make the expression properly subordinate, or recast one expression so as to make it coördinate with the other.

Wrong: He put up signs to keep people off the grass and thereby improving the appearance of the campus.

Right: He put up signs to keep people off the grass, thereby improving the appearance of the campus, [or] and thereby improved the appearance of the campus.

Wrong: The gun barrel is then sent to be chambered and slots to be cut in.

Right: The gun barrel is then sent to be chambered and to have slots cut in it.

EXERCISE 56

Correct and rewrite the following sentences: 1. I regard any such action as dishonorable and by no means does credit to one who proposes it. 2. He brought in some wood with the intention of building a fire and make the room more cheerful. 3. As many students desire to dispose of their books, and not wishing to purchase unsalable stock, we should like to know what books will be used next year. 4. Many people commit suicide simply for the purpose of getting their names in the paper and thus win a brief renown. 5. In a large city dogs are useless, because the conditions of a city prevent them from herding, from hunting, and even as companions, to some extent. 6. It would have been better had such people either waited until they were certain what profession they desired to follow, or else have taken a general college course. 7. We seemed to know each other better, and brought into closer fellowship. 8. The oats, being a heavier grain than the barley and would become heated much sooner, had to be piled in long shocks pointing north and south. 9. Some men have had bones broken, eyes blinded, and otherwise seriously injured. 10. I heard the sound of footsteps and voices growing fainter and fainter and then cease entirely. 11. I saw a gentleman approach a friend and with great show of cordiality grasped his hand and said, 'Hello, old fellow!' 12. They joined their forces for he express purpose of breaking through the line and so be able to reach Baden.

Ungrammatical coördina-
tion

95. In accordance with Rule 94,

(a) Do not join a relative clause to its principal clause by and, but, or or.

"And
which" construction

Wrong: He came home with an increase in weight, but which hard work soon reduced.

Wrong: On the way we met a Mr. Osborn from the neighborhood of Denver and who had the typical Western breeziness.

(b) A predicate in a relative clause should not be joined by and or but to a second predicate if the

"Which
and"
construction

second predicate is unfit to stand alone. The test of correct coördination is to omit the first predicate.

Wrong: In this river are some large fish which the people regard as sacred and allow no one to catch them. [Test, "which the people allow no one to catch them."]

Wrong: It is subjected to severe strains, which it must withstand and at the same time work easily and rapidly. [Test, "which it must work easily and rapidly."]

Wrong: Next day I went to Cleveland where I stayed for a week and then returned home. [Test, "where I then returned home."]

Method of
correction

96. Violations of the foregoing rules may be corrected in the following manner:

(a) Violations of (a) may be corrected by (1) omitting the conjunction, (2) changing the relative clause to a principal clause, or (3) inserting a relative clause before the conjunction.

Right: (1) He came home with an increase in weight, which, however, hard work soon reduced; [or] (2) He came home with an increase in weight, but hard work soon reduced it.

Right: (1) On the way we met a Mr. Osborn from the neighborhood of Denver, who had the typical Western breeziness; [or] (3) On the way we met a Mr. Osborn, who came from the neighborhood of Denver, and who had the typical Western breeziness.

(b) Violations of (b) may be corrected by (1) changing the second predicate so that it could stand alone, (2) changing the relative clause to an independent assertion, or (3) omitting the and or but, and using a subordinate element instead of the second predicate.

Right: (1) In this river are some large fish, which the people regard as sacred and allow no one to catch; [or] (2) In this river are some large fish. The people regard these as sacred, and allow no one to catch them.

Right: (2) It is subjected to severe strains; it must withstand these, and at the same time must work easily and rapidly; [or] (3) It is subjected to severe strains, which it must withstand, at the same time working easily and rapidly.

Right: (2) Next day I went to Cleveland. There I stayed a week, and then returned home.

EXERCISE 57

Correct each of the following sentences by one of the methods shown in § 96; consider which of those methods is best for each sentence, and according to your choice write (1), (2), or (3) after each sentence: 1. North of the house was a beautiful lawn and on which several apple trees grew. 2. On a Sunday evening I took the steamboat City of St. Louis for Minneapolis, and which brought me to my destination on Tuesday. 3. There was once in Germany an independent principality, Grunewald, but which was weak and insignificant. 4. The radiators vary in size according to the volume of power necessary for heating, and which power may be either hot water or steam. 5. I formed a lasting friendship with a fellow named Banks, but who could make no headway in school. 6. It was an excellent town to bring up children in, but the advantages of which did not end there. 7. I soon went to San Francisco, where my friend Pinkerton had settled, and who thought I could make a fortune there. 8. Macaire is the most interesting character of the play, and about whom the whole action centers. 9. The tramp often lightens a housewife's work by sawing wood or drawing water, which her husband has forgotten to do, and who is in that case worse than the tramp. 10. I met some pleasant companions on the journey — all good fellows and whose friendship I still prize. 11. About 1762 Goldsmith wrote The Vicar of Wakefield, but which was not published until three years later.

“And
which”

EXERCISE 58

“Which
and”

Correct and rewrite the following sentences; consider which of the three methods of correction shown above is best for each sentence, and according to your choice write (1), (2), or (3) after each sentence: 1. I supplied him with a pair of pumps which he wore to the ball but resumed his shoes later. 2. I then entered the Hainsville Academy, which I planned to attend for four years and then go into partnership with my father. 3. It is subjected to severe strains, which it must withstand and at the same time work easily and rapidly. 4. A well-dressed woman avoids picture-hats, flying veils, and other things which she can dispense with and still be attractively clad. 5. In this river are some large fish which the people regard as sacred and allow no one to catch them. 6. I am looking for a man from South Africa whom I used to know well but do not know what has become of him. 7. He has the responsibility for a piece of work which he must take sole charge of and see that all the details of that work are properly attended to. 8. Last autumn I entered the academy in my town, where I hope to graduate in 1928 and to be successful in my subsequent professional career. 9. Next day I went to Cleveland, where I stayed for a while, and then returned home. 10. They then went to Junction City, where they were to spend the night and on the following day go to Philadelphia. 11. He then went to Boston, where he sold the jewels and then returned to Washington.

97. Avoid illogical and excessive coördination; put subordinate thoughts into subordinate form. (See also Rule 125.) Endeavor to reduce predication; i.e., express an idea in a minor form of predication — subordinate clause, phrase, or single word — instead of a major form of predication — sentence or independent clause — when doing so does not interfere with clearness or force. The untrained writer does not perceive differences of importance between ideas, but places each in an independent clause and joins them by and, but, or or. The skilled writer endeavors to express these differences by exactness and variety of subordination.

Inferior: [First clause over-emphasized.] I came into class and found I was five minutes late.

Predication reduced: [Subordinate clause.] When I came into class I found I was five minutes late; [or, participial phrase] On coming into class I found I was five minutes late.

Inferior: There were three big maple trees beside the house, and under them in the shade was a sand-pile, and in this we children used to play.

Predication reduced: Beside the house in the shade of three big maples lay a sand-pile, in which we children used to play.

Inferior: It was a fine frosty morning and two seniors were walking toward college.

Predication reduced: One fine frosty morning two seniors were walking toward college.

Bad: The time comes, and the student is unprepared to choose a major study, but yet he must choose.

Predication reduced: When the time comes, the student must choose a major study, even though he is unprepared to make the choice.

Illogical coördination: I have seen many pumps that were defective and gasoline leaked out around the piston-plunger. ["I have seen many pumps" and "gasoline leaked out around the piston-plunger" are not logically coördinate.]

Right: I have seen many pumps so defective that gasoline leaked out around the piston-plunger.

Illogical coördination: They did not recognize him, his hair having become snow-white, and the expression of his face was entirely altered. ["They did not recognize him," and "the expression of his face was entirely altered" are not logically coördinate.]

Right: They did not recognize him, his hair having become snow-white, and the expression of his face being entirely altered.

EXERCISE 59

Illogical
coördina-
tion

The coördination in the following sentences is conspicuously illogical. Recast the sentences, making the grammatical relations correspond to the logical relations. 1. Mrs. Dane's Defense is a play in four acts and was written by Henry Arthur Jones. 2. The collapse was due to the undermining of the stratum and the vibrations caused by the cars had dislodged the walls. 3. The essay tells about chimney sweeps, and the author writes in his usual delightful style. 4. Alfalfa thrives in a high soil, which becomes too dry to nourish other plants, but alfalfa sends its roots down sometimes thirty feet for water. 5. A board fence surrounds the plant to keep stragglers from wandering about the dangerous machinery, and besides many secret processes are used which the company does not wish to become known to outsiders. 6. He showed me some marbles which looked as if they had once been white but now they seemed to have been dropped into an ink bottle. 7. It undergoes here a process similar to the preceding one but the quantity of lime added is in this case smaller. 8. The seeds are planted in long beds, which are boarded in and a muslin cover is stretched over them. 9. The trouble began at Loper's restaurant which was completely wrecked and all the furniture thrown into the street and burned. 10. My attention was attracted by a door which every now and then opened and a nurse walked noiselessly out. 11. No one could pass through and I not see him. 12. The poem teaches us to be kind to our inferiors, and we shall always have their help in time of need.

EXERCISE 60

Practice in securing variety of subordination

Study the note under Rule 97. Recast the following sentences, using as many varieties of subordination as possible: 1. The name of this bar is the whiffletree and to it the traces are attached. 2. He ate his breakfast and then he went to his office. 3. It had a fine outlook and so we thought it would be a good camping ground. 4. It had not been watered for a week and it looked dry and wilted. 5. An electric bell is a form of motor and a motor is a machine for transforming electrical energy into power. 6. In the box is a battery and the poles of the battery are connected to binding posts. 7. The tube widens out at the end and is called the speaking trumpet. 8. The second tube is shorter than the first and is called the receiver. 9. I didn't want the paper at all, but I wanted to please the editor and I subscribed. 10. He is quicker and more capable than his rivals and he is sure to get the best of them. 11. The foundry is a low brick building and projecting above the roof is a huge chimney. 12. Presently she met a lady and asked her the way to the Hall. 13. The material was brought to the nearest station by rail and it was drawn to the mine by horses. 14. In the corner was a bureau and a mirror hung over it. 15. There was a big kettle of water on the stove and he turned quickly around and accidentally struck it and it was upset.

98. Good usage does not sanction the general habit of joining coördinate verbs in a sentence by so, then, or also. It is preferable either to recast, subordinating one member, or to use a conjunction, and or but, in addition to the adverb.

So, then, and also used to join verbs

Inferior: He was only one among many so was not observed.

Preferable: Being only one among many, he was not observed; [or] He was only one among many and so was not observed.

Inferior: I paddled the boat for a while, then fell into a reverie.

Preferable: After paddling the boat for a while, I fell into a reverie; [or] I paddled the boat for a while, and then fell into a reverie.

99. Avoid the habit of compounding clauses with so. Ordinarily, subordinate the preceding clause and omit the so. If the preceding clause is too important to allow subordination, the best practice is to place a semicolon (or a period, if the connection is not close) between the clauses. (See Rule 231 b.)

The so habit

Wrong: His wife thought he would be thirsty so she brought a pitcher of water.

Right: His wife, thinking he would be thirsty, brought a pitcher of water.

Inferior: The people were opposed to him for some unknown reason, so he had to accomplish his purpose through secret agents.

Correct but undesirable: The people were opposed to him for some unknown reason. So he had to accomplish his purpose through secret agents.

Preferable: Since the people were, for some unknown reason, opposed to him, he was compelled to accomplish his purpose through secret agents.

Inferior: I decided it was high time we camped, for it would soon be dark, so I turned the canoe toward shore.

Right: I decided it was high time we camped, for it would soon be dark; so [or, "accordingly"] I turned the canoe toward shore.

NOTE. — The problem of the so sentence is one of excessive coördination rather than of wrong punctuation. The student fails to perceive that the relations between various ideas which he loosely indicates by a single connective may be expressed by a variety of connectives, and by logical subordination. (For a list of subordinating conjunctions, and of conjunctive adverbs other than so, see page 300, Appendix A.)

EXERCISE 61

The so
habit

Recast the following sentences, using as many varieties of subordination as possible: 1. She wished to make a good appearance so she borrowed a necklace. 2. He feared she would be corrupted by the court, so he kept her close at home. 3. This is a difficult piece of work so great care is necessary. 4. The cups did not match, so she sent them back. 5. He needed some little shoes as a model for his picture so his mother found for him the shoes that he himself had first worn. 6. I felt very tired and jaded so I could not listen very attentively. 7. The stalks of the wheat must be bent back, so a large reel like a paddle-wheel is provided. 8. He wished to show deference to the strong religious principles of his host so he attended mass on Sunday. 9. He wanted it to be legible and permanent so he wrote in ink. 10. His eyes were still unaccustomed to the dim light so he did not notice the change. 11. He was in his shirt sleeves as usual so the servant asked the visitor to wait a minute. 12. That old signboard was one of the landmarks of the town so they hadn't the heart to remove it. 13. The boarders are beginning to fall upon the toothpicks so we shall soon have the room to ourselves. 14. The rusty hands of the clock marked half past four so the editor laid down his pencil. 15. This throe of oratory was particularly violent so the speaker took a swallow of water before proceeding.

100. Two consecutive statements should not both be introduced by but or for. (See Rule 106.)

Two but's or for's

Bad: Iago became fond of Desdemona but she paid no attention to him but seemed to favor Cassio.

Bad: He suddenly paused, for it seemed wonderful that he could speak so easily, for usually he was bashful.

101. Violations of the foregoing rule may usually be corrected by omitting the first but or for.

Method of
correction

Right: Iago became fond of Desdemona. -She paid no attention to him but seemed to favor Cassio.

Right: He suddenly paused; it seemed wonderful that he could speak so easily, for usually he was bashful.

102. For the sake of clearness, coördinate sentence-members that are long or complex should be introduced in a similar or identical manner. Otherwise the reader may associate the wrong members.

Clearness of coördina-
tion
General
principle

Obscure coördination: Then I learned how he had run away from his father, a gypsy vagabond who professed to be a horse-trader and was in reality a thief, dressed in some clothes that he found on a scarecrow in a cornfield, learned the way to my home through the map in an old railway time-table, and come all the way on foot. [This sentence is well constructed; its defect is that the relation between the coördinate members is not shown by similar beginnings.]

Clear coördination: Then I learned how he had run away from his father, a gypsy vagabond who professed to be a horse-trader and was in reality a thief; how he had dressed in some clothes that he found on a scarecrow in a cornfield; how he had learned the way to my home through the map in an old railway time-table, and had come all the way on foot.

The foregoing principle has many different applications. The four following are worthy of special mention:

Repetition of auxiliary
verbs

102a. An auxiliary verb introducing several principal verbs should be repeated with each if the coördination would otherwise not be immediately clear.

Obscure coördination: The captain must be quick to see just what movement will get his company out of close quarters and give the order clearly.

Clear coördination: The captain must be quick to see just what movement will get his company out of close quarters and must give the order clearly.

NOTE. — When the verbs stand close together, repetition is usually unnecessary; e.g., —

Right: You must line up quickly and march downstairs.

Right: The sheep may stray and be lost.

But when other verbs intervene between the coördinate verbs, clearness usually demands repetition of the auxiliary.

Repetition
of prepositions

103. A preposition governing several objects should be repeated with each object after the first, when the construction of those objects would otherwise not be immediately clear.

- A. Not immediately clear: The place is often visited by tourists who are fond of rugged scenery, and especially amateur photographers.

Right: The place is often visited by tourists who are fond of rugged scenery, and especially by amateur photographers.

- B. Not immediately clear: With the refusal of Mr. Goggins to accept the office left vacant by the resignation of Mr. Barnes and the presence of Governor Davidson in the city, the friends of Mr. Roemer were kept busy yesterday.

Clear: With the refusal of Mr. Goggins to accept the office left vacant by the resignation of Mr. Barnes, and with the presence of Governor Davidson in the city, the friends of Mr. Roemer were kept busy yesterday.

NOTE. — When the objects stand close together, repetition is usually unnecessary; e.g., —

Right: He had lived in Cuba, Panama, and Barbadoes.

Right: It was exposed to the wind, the rain, and the scorching sun.

But when the objects are separated by intervening modifiers, as in sentences A and B, clearness usually requires that the preposition be repeated.

104. An infinitive-sign (to) introducing several coordinate infinitives, should be repeated with each infinitive after the first, when the construction of those infinitives would otherwise not be immediately clear.

Repetition
of the infinitive-
sign

- A. Not immediately clear: Here nature has done her best to enchant those that can see and feel, and make them her lifelong worshipers.

Right: Here nature has done her best to enchant those that can see and feel, and to make them her lifelong worshipers.

100 STRUCTURE OF SENTENCES

NOTE. — When the infinitives stand close together, repetition of the to is usually not necessary; e.g., —

Right: Has he learned to dance, converse, and make himself agreeable?

But when the infinitives are separated by intervening adjuncts, as in sentence A above, repetition of the to is usually necessary to clearness.

Repetition of subordinating conjunctions

105. A subordinating conjunction introducing several coördinate assertions should be repeated with each assertion after the first, when the coördination of those assertions would otherwise not be immediately clear. This is especially important with clauses in indirect discourse introduced by that.

Obscure coördination: The registrar told him that he could not have credit for his half year of German and he must be put on probation because of his poor grades in English.

Clear coordination: The registrar told him that he could not have credit for his half year of German and that he must be put on probation because of his poor grades in English.

Obscure coördination: When they saw the excellent structure which, though handicapped by the strike and the difficulty of getting materials, he had yet completed in less than the required time, and considered how valuable such a man would be to them, they gave him a permanent position.

Clear coördination: When they saw the excellent structure which, though handicapped by the strike and the difficulty of getting materials, he had yet completed in less than the required time, and when they considered how valuable such a man would be to them, they gave him a permanent position.

NOTE. — When the coördinate assertions are very short, repetition of the conjunction is usually not necessary; e.g. —

Right: He seems to be pretty well, though he takes no exercise and neglects his diet.

It is only when the assertions are complex that repetition of the conjunction is necessary.

EXERCISE 62

Rewrite the following sentences making the coördination clearer. 1. The amount of care he takes can be judged by the amount of milk he brings day after day to the creamery and the price he gets for his cattle. 2. We could make the same argument regarding baptism, which makes the sinful child pure and holy, or the miracles. 3. My respect for the Bible is due to its vast influence in the progress of civilization; to the new vigor and refinement it has given to nations and individuals originally outside the zone of its influence; and not only these things, but the constant evidence of its present power for whatever is good and high. 4. I succeeded in going through the high school without very much trouble and graduating at the end of four years. 5. We both took much pleasure in such sports as that country afforded, especially hunting and fishing. 6. I was occupied for several years, I am told, in playing with my sister's discarded dolls because I was sorry for them and bringing home bugs and worms for my mother to pet. 7. She was a great favorite with all the children who lived in the neighborhood, and in fact whom-ever she met. 8. The required shape is obtained by clamping a piece of one-inch oak, which has been bent previously into the standard form, to one side of the runner and following the outline of this oak piece with knives. 9. His faithfulness is shown by his encountering so many dangers for the sake of Macaire and the manner in which he clung to Macaire through thick and thin. 10. Lamb tells of his dislike for all kinds of music, such as opera-singing and organ-playing, and the pleasure he gets from the noises of the street. 11. The lens should be kept free from dust, which scratches the surface, and also spots of grease. 12. All meetings are held in a large hall, decorated with the school colors at all times, and on certain occasions the colors of the various classes and the trophies won in class contests.

Long
coördinate
elements to begin similarly

Subordination

Overlapping dependence

106. Do not put a series of similar clauses or a series of similar phrases in an overlapping construction, — i.e., with the second depending on the first, the third on the second, the fourth on the third, etc. Recast the sentence. (Cf. Rule 100.)

Awkward: I never knew a man who was so ready to help a friend who had got into difficulties which pressed him hard.

Right: I never knew a man so ready to help a friend who found himself hard pressed by difficulties.

Awkward: I was so uncomfortable that I rolled up my sleeves so far that my arms got sunburned, so that I could hardly sleep that night.

Right: Feeling very uncomfortable, I rolled up my sleeves so far that my arms got badly sunburned. The pain of my smarting skin kept me awake most of that night.

Awkward: This was the first of the entertainments of the senior girls of the dormitory.

Right: This was the first entertainment given by the senior girls of the dormitory.

Coordinate dependence

107. Note, on the other hand, that a series of similar clauses or phrases all depending on the same sentence-element gives rise to no awkwardness. (Cf. Rule 75, note.)

Right: I rise to nominate a man who has ever been stanch in his loyalty, who has long been a trusted counselor in the policies of our party, who has demonstrated his fitness for his office by the efficiency of his administration in others, whose honor has never been assailed save by calumnious envy, whose fame is destined to echo down the coming ages, who . . . etc.

Right: His face has come down to us marked with all the blemishes put on it by time, by war, by sleepless nights, by anxiety, perhaps by remorse.

108. A when clause is properly used only to fix the time of an event stated in the principal clause. Hence:

Misuse of when clauses:

109. A statement of primary importance in a narrative should not be embodied in a when clause; it should be embodied in an independent clause or sentence.

For statements of primary importance

Bad: The thoughts of the engineer turned toward the home he was approaching when suddenly he saw the glare of fire on the track ahead.

Right: The thoughts of the engineer turned toward the home he was approaching. Suddenly he saw the glare of fire on the track ahead.

Bad: Having finished their work, they began to talk about former good times when one of the fellows suggested that they haze Nicholson.

Right: Having finished their work, they began to talk about former good times. Presently one of the fellows suggested that they haze Nicholson.

110. To put a logically principal statement in a subordinate clause and the logically subordinate statement in the principal clause is especially objectionable, unless there is some good reason for such inversion.

Upside-down subordination

Bad: I was walking down State Street yesterday when I came upon a crowd of people gathered about a horse that had fallen down.

Right: As I was walking down State Street yesterday I came upon a crowd of people, etc.

EXERCISE 63

Correct and rewrite the following sentences: 1. On my first evening in Beloit I was sitting in my room when I heard a commotion outside. 2. Jim was standing in the doorway one morning when he saw a blind man come along

Upside-down subordination with when the road. 3. Dodd continued his studies for two years when his father failed in business and he was obliged to go to work. 4. We presently came to some particularly deep drifts of snow. Jim was wading through one of these when he suddenly gave a yell of surprise and terror, and sank from sight. 5. I was busily studying one night when two freshmen rushed into the room and asked for my waste-paper basket. 6. I was sitting at my open window last night when I saw a big tomcat catch a sparrow. 7. I was engaged in a game of football one November day when I broke my collar-bone. 8. I walked west for about a mile when I came to a stream forming a right angle with the road. 9. The three fishermen were returning home one evening when they were caught in a violent squall. 10. They expected to be submerged at any moment when suddenly the wind entirely subsided. 11. They were silent for a while, when Baglioni suddenly produced a small stiletto. 12. At first Mauprat emphatically refused to take part in the conspiracy, when Baradas, by dwelling on the Cardinal's insult, succeeded in persuading him to join.

Parallelism

Parallel forms for analogous
elements

111. As a rule, two or more sentence-elements that have the same logical office should be made grammatically parallel; i.e., if one is an infinitive, the other should be; if one is a relative clause, the other should be; if one is an appositive, the other should be; and so on.

Bad: The crowd began to wave handkerchiefs and shouting good-byes. ["To wave" and "shouting," both objects of "began," are awkwardly dissimilar in form.]

Right: (a) The crowd began to wave handkerchiefs and to shout good-byes; [or] (b) The crowd began waving handkerchiefs and shouting good-byes. [The two objects of "began" are made parallel; in (a) they are both infinitives, in (b) they are both gerunds.]

Bad: I met many people there whom I*had seen before but did not know their names. ["Whom I had seen before" and "did not know their names," both qualifiers (logically) of "people," are awkwardly dissimilar in form.]

Right: I met many people there whom I had seen before but whose names I did not know. [The two qualifiers of "people" are made parallel; both are relative clauses.]

Bad: I delight in a good novel — one which portrays strong characters and in reading the book you are thrilled. [The two qualifiers of "one" are awkwardly dissimilar; the first ("which portrays strong characters") is a relative clause, the second ("in reading the book you are thrilled") a sentence.]

Right: I delight in a good novel — one which portrays strong characters and which thrills the reader. [The two qualifiers are made parallel; both are relative clauses.]

Bad: Two courses are open to us: first, to have the missionary society transfer to us a missionary now in the field; second, one of our own members has volunteered to go, and we may send him. [The two logical appositives to "two courses" are awkwardly dissimilar; the first ("to have . . . field") is a grammatical appositive, the second ("one of our own members . . . him") a sentence.]

Right: Two courses are open to us: first, to have the missionary society transfer to us a missionary now in the field; second, to send one of our own members, who has volunteered to go. [The two logical appositives are made parallel; both are grammatical appositives to "courses."] [Or] Two courses are open to us. First, we may have the missionary society transfer to us a missionary now in the field; second, we may send one of our members, who has volunteered to go. [The two logical appositives are made parallel; both are sentences.]

Bad: I have lived in many states, some for only a short time, while in others I have lived a year or more. [The two qualifiers of the main clause are awkwardly dissimilar; the first ("some for only a short time") is an incomplete modifier of "lived," the second ("while . . . more") a complete subordinate clause.]

Right: I have lived in many states, — in some for only a short time, in others for a year or more. [The two qualifiers of the main clause are made parallel; both are prepositional phrases modifying "lived."]

Bad: I was asked to contribute to the church, Christian Association, and to the athletic fund. [The three modifiers of "contribute" are awkwardly dissimilar in form; the first is a complete phrase, the second a noun with both the preposition and the article lacking, the third a complete phrase.]

Right: I was asked to contribute to the church, to the Christian Association, and to the athletic fund. [The three modifiers of "contribute" are made parallel in form; each is a complete phrase.] [Or] I was asked to contribute to the church, the Christian Association, and the athletic fund. ["To" is made to govern three objects parallel in form, — each consisting of "the" and a noun.]

EXERCISE 64

Analogous thoughts to be cast in the same grammatical form

Rewrite the following sentences, making parallel the members that should be parallel. Separate the parallel members from the remainder of the sentence; write them side by side; mark them a and b, or a, b, and c; and after the sentence state why they are parallel, thus:

1. The old man was kept ignorant
and

(a)	of the true state of affairs
(b)	of the fact that his son was a prisoner.

Members a and b are parallel; both are of phrases modifying "ignorant."
2. Since
and

(a)	it was getting late
(b)	the night air was chilly

we set out homeward.
Members a and b are parallel; both are clauses dependent on "since."

1. The old man was kept in ignorance of the true state of affairs and that his son was a prisoner. 2. Since it was getting late, and the night air being chilly, we set out homeward. 3. Take your time, letting him go when he makes a plunge, reeling him in when he relaxes, but slack should never be allowed him. 4. They told me that I might attend Cornell University and to select my course. 5. Most employers demand that their employees keep their good health and must not spoil it by dissipation. 6. He noticed several barrels, boxes, logs, and spars near him and that the barrels seemed to be empty. 7. They were of different nationality, different in breeding, different men entirely. 8. It is argued that women's minds are different from men's, either naturally or made so by environment. 9. It is important that he be given every opportunity to learn what he needs to know, and not waste time on elegant but useless studies. 10. The binder can be protected from storms by a canvas cover, or if no canvas is available, take bundles of oats and cover the metal parts. 11. The muskrat must take time to stop and breathe, allowing the air to come up to the surface, and then breathe the same air after it has been purified. 12. Although we had made ourselves hobos for the time, and our companions being also hobos, yet I do not think the experience did us any harm. 13. I was fond of games — not those of the rougher sort, like football, but running games, games of skill, and also very fond of baseball. 14. The most important measures are the laying aside of worn-out garments and also to keep fresh garments free from spots. 15. It is necessary that he take things as they come and to make the best of them. 16. The cause of my trouble in college was the fact that my preparation was very poor, my high school instructors being negligent in regard to the details of the students' work. Also, I made no effort to do good work in high school. 17. Remember these things: to avoid the company of Fenella, not to delay unnecessarily on the road, and whatever occurs, do not part with the dispatch. 18. A salesman should have a pleasing appearance, be courteous and agreeable, and he should have a persuasive tongue. 19. The establishment consists of an engine room, boiler room, casting house, and a stack. 20. In the yard the pig iron is weighed, the grade of iron marked on it, and then loaded upon cars. 21. Some have gained fame by portraying human character, others the life of animals, and others by writing of inanimate forces. 22. You may go fishing, boating, bathing, or take a drive.

Correlatives

112. Correlative conjunctions should be followed by coördinate sentence-elements; if a predicate follows the first, a predicate should follow the second; if a modifier the first, a modifier the second; and so on.

Wrong: They would neither speak to him nor would they look at him. ["Neither" is followed by "speak," a part of a compound verb; "nor" by "would they look," a subject and complete predicate.]

Right: They would neither speak to him nor look at him. ["Neither" and "nor" are each followed by an infinitive completing "would."]

Wrong: He is not only discourteous to the students but also to the teacher. ["Not only" is followed by an adjective, "but also" by a phrase modifying the adjective.]

Right: He is discourteous not only to the students but also to the teacher. [The correlatives are each followed by a phrase limiting "discourteous."]

EXERCISE 65

Correlation

Rewrite the following sentences, placing the correlative conjunctions in each before coördinate members: 1. It may either be read for pleasure or systematic study. 2. The bees had not only stung my brother, but my friend and me also. 3. I intend to assist him, both for the sake of his mother and himself. 4. Neither the fear of the king nor any one else retarded him. 5. I will neither give you money nor favor. 6. The crew was discouraged both on account of the prevalence of sickness and the bad weather. 7. Either he has not been here at all, or only for a few minutes. 8. They are neither permitted to read the newspapers, nor even old magazines. 9. He not only spoke all the principal languages of Europe, but of Asia also. 10. He could not be persuaded either by promises of money or promotion. 11. The trustees invite full investigation not only relative to the charges made but any other matters concerning the college. 12. The new truck can be used either for carrying a load up or down stairs. 13. Athletics not only develop the muscles but also the mind. 14. He not only endangers his own life but also the lives of the passing pedestrians. 15. It is not valued either from the standpoint of religious reverence or æsthetic appreciation. 16. Our Christmases are either spent in Minneapolis or Boston. 17. Not only did he win laurels in his studies but also in athletics. 18. Articles to be drilled are either bolted to the base or table. 19. At first I was very much surprised not only at my marks but the method of teaching. 20. The lake, being situated so near the college, affords to the students an opportunity not only for swimming, but boat crews can be formed and rowing contests can be held. 21. I was not allowed to either ride or drive. 22. For only two years was the Democratic party in a position to either enact or repeal a law. 23. The engine should never be allowed to run hot either through stoppage of oil or water.

113. Do not make a sentence-element similar in form to a preceding element with which it is not coördinate. Incorrect parallelism

Misleading: He is a blunt, manly fellow, who admires a soldier and despises an effeminate fop, who struts about affectedly and dresses daintily.

Right: He is a blunt, manly fellow, who admires a soldier and despises an effeminate, affected, daintily dressed fop.

114. Do not join by and and put in the same grammatical construction, two substantives or substantive clauses widely differing in logical function. Junction of incongruous substantives

Bad: The story tells of the bravery and promotion of a private. ["Bravery" designates a quality, "promotion" designates an experience.]

Right: The story tells of a private's bravery and of his promotion.

Bad: He tells in vivid language how dangerous to a vessel is the breaking loose of a cannon on wheels, and how a ship's gunner captured an escaped cannon. [The substantive clause "how dangerous to a vessel is the breaking loose of a cannon" designates a general truth; the substantive clause "how a ship's gunner captured an escaped cannon" designates a specific event.]

Right: He tells in vivid language how a cannon on wheels broke from its fastenings on a ship (explaining the perils that attend such an accident), and how it was captured by a gunner.

series form or dissimilar elements

115. The formula a, b, and c should not be used for sentence-elements not coördinate.

Bad: He was tall, slim, and wore a black coat. [Here a and b are adjectives, and c is a verb.]

Bad: We denounce the act as cruel, barbarous, and sincerely regret that it occurred. [Here a and b are adjectives and c is a verb.]

method of rection

116. Violations of the foregoing rule may be corrected (1) by inserting and between a and b, or (2) by conforming c to a and b. Thus:

Right: (1) He was tall and slim, and wore a black coat; [or] (2) He was a tall, slim, black-coated fellow.

Right: (1) We denounce the act as cruel and barbarous, and sincerely regret that it occurred; [or] (2) We denounce the act as cruel, barbarous, and worthy of condemnation by all right-thinking sophomores.

EXERCISE 66

use
parallelism

Rewrite the following sentences, correcting the false parallelism: 1. Among the books I first read were Dickens's Oliver Twist, Scott's Ivanhoe, and I have a very vivid remembrance of Ben Hur. 2. The Gulf Stream is 50 miles wide, 2000 feet deep, and flows 90 miles a day, [See, regarding the figures in the preceding sentence, Rule 272 a.] 3. He had curly black hair, dark blue eyes, and wore glasses. 4. Coal burns brightly, slowly, and throws out much heat. 5. The incubator must be thoroughly cleaned, ventilated, and the inside apparatus put into good order. 6. On the west side are the offices of the president, treasurer, auditor, and the draughting room. 7. He said that the Russian peasants were dull, unprogressive, and that farm machinery is almost unknown to them. 8. Every man must have a military suit, a gun, and must report promptly at four. 9. Hazlitt tells of his experience on the way to the fight, at the fight, and of his return home. 10. The new elephant is six years old, five feet high, and it may be stated incidentally that his railroad fare was $130. 11. The first few pages contain a brief account of the last commencement, new appointments, and the president's annual report is reprinted entire. 12. By means of the clutch one can send the boat ahead, backward, or allow the engine to run free. 13. He had blue eyes, dark brown hair, and weighed two hundred pounds. 14. He must have a knowledge of the English language, some foreign language, and an acquaintance with economics. 15. The bank was covered with trees, wild gooseberry bushes, and not far away was a spring of cold water. 16. We saw a sledge draw up, stop, and heard a hearty voice say, "Whoa! Charlie." 17. The use of tobacco, alcohol, and other injurious habits must be stopped by candidates for the team. 18. Tyndall tells of the formation of snow crystals, their power of uniting under pressure, and explains how glaciers are formed. 19. I found that a messenger was expected, that this person would be a stranger, that he would identify himself with the password "Tuxedo," and then I decided to personate the messenger. 20. The horse is naturally intelligent, quick to learn, gentle, and quickly becomes attached to one who treats him kindly.

Logical Agreement

117. Every sentence-element should be in logical accord with the rest of the sentence. (In connection

Logical agreement of sentence-members

with this rule, see Rules 27 and 28. See also Subject, Cause, and Reason in the Glossary.)

Bad: Of these names sixteen were chosen to be members. ["Sixteen (names)" does not agree logically with "were chosen to be members."]

Right: Of the persons named, sixteen were chosen to be members.

Bad: The life of a hod-carrier is sometimes happier than a prince. ["The life" does not agree logically with "is happier than a prince."]

Right: The life of a hod-carrier is sometimes happier than that of a prince.

Illogical: He hated to submit to the rules — viz., church attendance and not smoking. [Church attendance and abstinence from tobacco are not rules.]

Right: He hated to submit to the rules — namely, those requiring attendance at church and abstinence from smoking.

Illogical: A fireman seldom rises above an engineer.

Right: A fireman seldom rises above the position of engineer.

Illogical: The comedy Love's Labour's Lost, written by Shakespeare, is supposed to have occurred in Navarre.

Right: The events related in Shakespeare's comedy Love's Labour's Lost are supposed to have occurred in Navarre.

Illogical: Nothing looks more untidy than to see an expensive motor car coming out of the garage covered with mud.

Right: Nothing looks more untidy than an expensive but muddy motor car.

Illogical: As a question of economy, it is advantageous to use water-power.

Right: For the sake of economy, it is advantageous to use water-power.

Illogical: He had to choose between signing away his inheritance or being hanged.

Right: He had to choose between signing away his inheritance and being hanged.

Illogical: There is no place to hang it only in the hall.

Right: There is no place to hang it except in the hall; [or] The hall is the only place to hang it.

Illogical: I sat on the opposite side from which Charlie was sitting.

Right: I sat opposite Charlie; [or] I sat on the side opposite to the one on which Charlie was sitting.

EXERCISE 67

Study Rules 117 and 28; and see Subject, Cause, and Reason in the Glossary. The following sentences are illogical. State briefly in what respect each one is illogical, and rewrite each one, correcting its defects. 1. I jumped off the car in the opposite direction from which it was going. 2. The efforts of the militia were as futile as the police had been. 3. The subject of the first paragraph tells how the mail coaches carried the news of English victories. 4. The topic of the fifth paragraph is where the author told a mother of the death of her son. 5. Discord means that sounds are lacking in harmony. 6. Exclusiveness is when a person likes to remain aloof. 7. The outward appearance of an ordinary telephone consists of a box-like structure. 8. Aërial means to be moving in the air or flying. 9. The fact that caused this chemical change was due to the hot weather. 10. The topic of the essay deals with the value of a technical education. 11. The cause of the current is attributed to the continuous winds. 12. The only use to which the farm is now put is for pasturing sheep. 13. His aim in taking a college course is simply for general culture. 14. The reason I dislike the study is on account of the numerous statistics that must be learned. 15. Draughting as practiced nowadays is far different from the old method. 16. The material of drawing pencils is much finer than the ordinary commercial pencils. 17. He was soon promoted to vice-president of the company. 18. The style of architecture employed in this church resembles very closely an old cathedral. 19. The sugar beet is rapidly taking the place of cane sugar, and in the past few years has grown to be an extensive business. 20. The greatest fault I have against drill is the trouble of changing clothes. 21. The story tells of the breaking loose of a cannon on board a ship and a description of the weather at the time of the accident. 22. Why I should have an aversion to Saturday classes any more than any other day is due to habit.

Logica
agreement

114 STRUCTURE OF SENTENCES

Other or else in a than or as clause.

118. When comparing a thing to other members of its own class, exclude from the group the thing compared.

When correct

Illogical: Lead is heavier than any metal.

Right: Lead is heavier than any other metal.

Illogical: Shakespeare is greater than any English poet.

Right: Shakespeare is greater than any other English poet.

When incorrect

119. When comparing a thing to the members of a class to which it does not belong, in the than or an as clause, do not restrict the standard of comparison by other or else or any equivalent word.

Illogical: That little word home means more to me than any other word of twice its length.

Right: That little word home means more to me than any word of twice its length.

The of phrase limiting a superlative

120. In the of phrase limiting an adjective or an adverb in the superlative degree, —

(a) The object of of should be a plural noun or a collective noun, not a noun designating an individual person or thing.

Illogical: He is the tallest of any man in the regiment.

Right: He is the tallest of all the men in the regiment;
[or] He is the tallest man of the regiment.

(Right: He is taller than any other man in the regiment.)

(b) The object of of should designate a class to which the subject of comparison belongs, not a class to which it does not belong.

Illogical: Blackbirds make the best pie of all birds.

Right: Blackbirds make the best pie of all game pies.

(Right: Blackbirds make better pie than any other birds.)

(c) The object of of should not be restricted by other or else or any equivalent word.

Illogical: Shakespeare is the greatest of all other English poets.

Right: Shakespeare is the greatest of all English poets.

Negation

121. Double negative (i.e., the use, in a sentence, of two or more negative words not coördinate — as “I could not find it nowhere”) is forbidden by modern usage. Double negative

EXERCISE 68

The following sentences are incorrect. Correct and re-write them. Double negative

1. I can't find it nowhere.
2. They didn't find no treasure.
3. There isn't no one here who knows.
4. I didn't see no fire; my opinion is that there wasn't no fire.
5. There hasn't been no panic since 1907.
6. I haven't written no theme.
7. I haven't done no reading.
8. I haven't studied no lesson.
9. She hasn't never missed a class.
10. She isn't never late.
11. Haven't you had no breakfast?
12. Didn't you get no pay?
13. I don't want no dispute.
14. Don't break no dishes here.

122. Hardly, scarcely, only, and but used in the sense of only are often incorrectly joined with a negative. (For cannot help but, see Glossary, Help.) Incorrect negative with hardly, etc.

Wrong: It was so misty that we couldn't hardly see.

Right: It was so misty that we could hardly see.

Wrong: For a minute I couldn't scarcely tell where I was.

Right: For a minute I could scarcely tell where I was.

Wrong: They are not allowed to go only on Saturdays.

Right: They are allowed to go only on Saturdays.

Wrong: There isn't but one store.

Right: There is but one store.

EXERCISE 69

Incorrect
negation
with hardly, etc.

The following sentences are incorrect. Correct and re-write them 1. It will not take but a minute. 2. I didn't see but two men there. 3. I can't hardly believe it. 4. I did not feel hardly strong enough. 5. She couldn't stay only a week. 6. He said angrily that he wouldn't give only forty cents. 7. You wouldn't scarcely believe the real story. 8. I hadn't scarcely passed by when the stone fell. 9. There didn't seem to be hardly any chance of success. 10. I can't hardly see it so far away. 11. I can't understand hardly anything in the chapter. 12. He doesn't appear to be hardly master of himself. 13. You haven't been here hardly an hour; don't go yet. 14. They didn't seem hardly near enough to hear my gunshot. 15. He isn't hardly as big as a derringer. 16. Six feet! Why, you aren't hardly five feet five. 17. I don't hardly see the difference.

Redundance

Tautology

123. Avoid tautology — i.e., the useless repetition of an idea, in part or entire.

Bad: If I had abundant wealth and plenty of resources . . .

Right: If I had abundant wealth . . .

Bad: Will you please repeat that again?

Right: Will you please repeat that?

Bad: The autobiography of my life.

Right: My autobiography.

124. Avoid pleonasm — i.e., the use of words Pleon:
which do not involve repetition of thought, but which are structurally unnecessary. Beware of clumsy circumlocutions such as along the lines of, of the nature of, of the character of, etc.

Bad: There were two hundred students went.

Right: Two hundred students went.

Bad: It has no relation as to time or place.

Right: It has no relation to time or place.

Bad: They went through with the formalities.

Right: They went through the formalities.

Bad: He took work along the lines of banking.

Right: He took work in banking; [or] He studied banking.

125. Avoid burdening a statement with too many Wordi scrap senten words. Avoid the similar fault of embodying in a series of scrappy sentences what could be more fitly embodied in one sentence. Put subordinate thoughts into subordinate forms — not into separate independent assertions. (See also Rule 97.) Independent assertion in excess not only gives to prose the style of a primer but wastes words. Observe the number of unnecessary words in the passage below marked Primer style.

Wordy: Yesterday I had occasion to be witness of a very interesting incident.

Right: Yesterday I saw an interesting incident.

Wordy: At midnight the physician made a statement saying that the governor was better.

Right: At midnight the physician stated that the governor was better.

Wordy: In the house in which we used to live when we were in Winstead was a large play-room, which was located just at the head of the stairs.

Predication reduced: Just at the head of the stairs in our house in Winstead was a large play-room.

Primer style: As you approach the island from the west, you get a view of a high cliff. This cliff is about six miles in length. It is of sandstone, and rises about perpendicularly from the water. Numerous cracks and crevices can be seen in the cliff. . . . 45 words.

Predication reduced: Approaching the island from the west, you get a view of a high, sandstone cliff about six miles in length, rising almost perpendicularly from the water, its face seamed with cracks and crevices. . . . 33 words.

125a. Use forceful predicate verbs.

Weak: A mountain was seen looming up in the distance.

Stronger: A mountain loomed up in the distance.

Weak: There is a horse eating grass in our yard

Stronger: A horse is eating grass in our yard.

EXERCISE 70

Was seen

Strengthen the following sentences by using some other verbs than was seen: 1. Just around the turn the cottage was seen nestling in a clump of trees. 2. When we reached the wharf the vessel was seen leaving the harbor. 3. We had heard no sound during the night, but next morning footprints were seen beneath the window. 4. Although a storm was seen in the distance, we started on our trip.

EXERCISE 71

Independent predication to be reduced

Embody the substance of each of the following passages in one sentence containing only one independent clause. After each sentence write the number of words saved in the sentence as compared with the original passage. 1. Prospect Farm is situated at the junction of two roads. One road extends east and west, and the other north and south. 2. On each side of the road is a row of trees. The trees in each row are about thirty feet apart. 3. There is a small grove of trees north of the cottage. A drive can be seen winding among the trees. 4. Far to the north is a lighthouse, very substantial and solid in appearance. This lighthouse warns the lake vessels of dangerous reefs in the vicinity. 5. At the south end of the island a camp is situated. This camp is called Camp Stella. It is famous as a resort for sufferers from hay fever. 6. Running up from the shore is a road of red clay. This road winds in and out up the high hill. It finally disappears behind the trees. 7. As I stood at one of the front gates, I saw that the drive encircled the house. It had the shape of a great inverted U lying before me. I could see all of the U except the round part. This lay behind the house, as I have said.

Embody the substance of the following passage in four sentences, each containing only one independent clause; write at the end of the number of words saved in your version as compared with the original: On the north side of the road was a large white gate. A winding path led from the gate to a beautiful house. The house was about fifty yards from the road. Between the road and the house was a large lawn. About the lawn were scattered several flower-beds. Many large trees were irregularly placed about the lawn. The house was a large white structure. Its architecture was of the colonial style. Along its entire front was a spacious veranda. The veranda was about three feet above the ground. The main entrance was at the middle of the front side of the house. One large door closed the entrance. On each side of the door was a large window. Each window was about half-way between the door and the nearest side of the house. The windows were four feet wide and ten feet high. Their lower edges were level with the floor of the veranda.

Repetition of Words

126. Do not use a word in two senses in the same sentence or within a short space.

Repetition
with a change of meaning

Bad: Since several years passed since the death of his wife . . .

Right: Several years having passed since the death of his wife . . .

Bad: I couldn't get up courage to get up and investigate.

Right: I couldn't summon courage to get up and investigate.

Awkward
repetition

127. Avoid awkward and needless repetition of a word or phrase.

Bad: MacArthur was to speak on that day; hence we selected that day for our trip.

Bad: He said that the orders said that uniforms must be worn in future.

Method of
correction

128. Violations of the foregoing rule may be corrected by a judicious use of pronouns, by the use of synonyms, or by recasting the sentence.

Right: That was the day on which MacArthur was to speak; we therefore selected it for our trip.

Right: He said that the orders required the wearing of uniforms in future.

Awkward
avoidance of repetition

129. Prefer repetition, however, to labored and awkward avoidance of it.

Awkward: If it has this effect on a healthy skin, it will have a worse result on an inflamed cuticle.

Preferable: If it has this effect on a healthy skin, it will have a worse effect on an inflamed skin.

Straining
for synonyms

NOTE.—A constant straining for conspicuous synonyms to use in referring to something previously mentioned is a characteristic mannerism of newspaper writers (cf. Rules 20 and 16). Avoid this practice; repeat the noun, or else choose an inconspicuous synonym.

Bad: At the faculty meeting yesterday the question of football was again discussed. Those of that learned aggregation who opposed the gridiron game succumbed at the final vote. (See Rule 125.)

Improved: At the faculty meeting yesterday the question of football was again discussed. The opponents of the game were defeated at the final vote.

Bad: The extreme warm weather during the past several weeks has not exactly been conducive of producing record-breaking scores at the Y. M. C. A. bowling alleys. In fact it has almost been too warm for even the most ardent lovers of the tenpin game, and enthusiasm has for some time been at a rather low ebb. (See Rule 125.)

Right: The extremely warm weather of the past several weeks has discouraged the production of high scores at the Y. M. C. A. bowling alleys. It has been almost too warm for even the most enthusiastic bowlers, and the general interest in the game has been slight.

130. When the conjunction that is separated by intervening words from the subject and predicate which it introduces, guard against the careless repetition of that. Careless repetition of the conjunction that

Wrong: It is pleasant to reflect that after all this work has been done and all these difficulties have been conquered, that we shall get a good rest.

Right: It is pleasant to reflect that after all this work has been done and all these difficulties have been conquered, we shall get a good rest.

Euphony

131. For euphony, avoid a succession of like sounds. Avoid rhyme in prose. Concurrency of like sounds

Not euphonious: The chilling blasts blowing with cutting force.

Bad: Then came the time for the heart-breaking leave-taking.

Bad: The fountains were kept playing night and day to keep up the display.

NOTE. — This rule is not intended to object to the sparing use of alliteration in prose, as a means of increasing the force of passages designed to produce an emotional appeal.

Absolute
phrases:

132. Absolute phrases are often a useful aid to proper subordination and to smoothness of style. But there are two kinds of absolute phrases which, being conspicuously awkward, are best avoided; viz.,

Absolute
pronoun

(a) Absolute phrases in which the substantive is a pronoun.

Clumsy: He gave up the task, it being too difficult.

Better: He gave up the task as too difficult.

Clumsy: I being unacquainted with the road, my party got lost.

Better: Since I was unacquainted with the road, my party got lost.

NOTE. — Such an absolute phrase is particularly objectionable when the pronoun refers to the subject of the sentence. In such cases wordiness is added to awkwardness, since the pronoun is pleonastic (see Rule 124).

Bad: I made a trip to Catalina Island in 1902, I being then in my tenth year.

Better: I made a trip to Catalina Island in 1902, being then in my tenth year.

Bad: The furnace could not be repaired immediately, it being red-hot.

Better: Being red-hot, the furnace could not be repaired immediately.

Latinistic
phrases

(b) Absolute phrases in which the substantive is modified by a perfect participle, especially a passive perfect participle. Such phrases are clumsy, unidiomatic, and suggestive of elementary Latin exercises.

Clumsy: His horse having been fed, Macy continued his journey.

Better: When his horse had been fed, Macy continued his journey.

Variety

Forms of expression noticeably frequent

133. Do not make many sentences in a composition or a passage monotonously alike in construction. This principle is often violated (a) by beginning many sentences near each other with after, with this or these, or with there is or there are; (b) by using with noticeable frequency a compound sentence with two members of about equal length joined by and or but; (c) by using participial or absolute phrases with noticeable frequency; and (d) by the habitual use of so as a connective (cf. Rule 99).

STRUCTURE OF LARGER UNITS OF DISCOURSE

Unity of a Composition

134. A composition should treat a single subject and should treat it throughout according to a self-consistent method.

The general principle

The following composition is an example of the violation of unity by failure to hold to one subject:

OUR TRIP UP SPRUCE CREEK

While I was in Port Orange, Mr. Doty, the proprietor of the hotel there, took some of his guests five miles up Spruce Creek on a launch. It was the third of February. As the boat steamed up the creek, we stood on the deck, some of us taking pictures and others shooting at alligators with revolvers. The alligators are of all sizes. Sometimes you will see one seven or eight feet long, lying on the bank in the sunshine. As the boat goes past, he slides into the water and swims away with only his head above the water. When we have gone a little farther, we see another alligator about four feet long, with ten or twelve little ones crawling over her back.

When the launch has gone about five miles, it stops at the wharf of an orange grove. Here the passengers are allowed to take all the oranges they want. After they have walked about the grove for a while, they have a picnic dinner, and then start back.

The writer of the foregoing composition keeps to his subject — a trip which he took up Spruce Creek on February 3 — for only three sentences. He shifts to a different subject after the third sentence — the Spruce Creek trips in general — and throughout the rest of the composition forgets all about “our trip.” Unity may be given to this composition (a) by making it entirely a narrative, dealing with the trip of February 3; or (b) by making it, throughout, a general discussion of the Spruce Creek picnics provided by Mr. Doty.

Too big a subject

135. A very small composition on a very large subject — such as Character, Patriotism, Selfishness, Advertising, The Waste of Energy — usually violates the principle of unity. It usually consists of a number of brief scraps of discussion, each dealing with a different division of the subject. The divisions of so large a subject are themselves large; the composition therefore reads like a fragmentary and disconnected treatment of a number of distinct subjects, not like a connected treatment of a single subject.

When a short composition is to be written on a big subject, it is best to choose some single, well-defined phase of the subject. For example, choose the subjects in the left column rather than those in the right.

Limited	General
The Difference between Character and Reputation.	Character
The Work of Patriotic Women During the World War.	Patriotism
Selfishness in the Conduct of Students toward their Parents.	Selfishness
Advertising as a Necessary Measure of Self-Defense.	Advertising
The Value of a Daily Schedule	The Waste of Time
How Students' Adversities aid them toward Success.	Success

136. In reproducing a story (e.g., the story of Macbeth) or in composing a story, do not shift carelessly between the present and the past tenses. Decide at the beginning which tense to use, and use it consistently; ordinarily, prefer the past tense. (Cf. Rule 19.)

Shifting the tense in narrative

137. If in a story the narrator tells what he saw or had a part in, the introduction of events or speeches or thoughts which he could not have seen or heard or known, violates unity.

Shifting the point of view in narrative

Thus the italicized part of the following extract violates unity:

I strolled down to the boat-house at six o'clock yesterday evening. As I got there a row-boat was approaching the wharf containing a man and a girl who I judged must have arrived from the country very recently. They had started for Picnic Point at two o'clock. On the way the young man had had great difficulty at the unfamiliar work of rowing. Often his oars would slip and send a shower of water into the girl's lap, at which he would say, "Oh, I am so sorry!" and she would reply, "Oh, that's all right." . . . As they neared the wharf, he was anxiously wondering whether he could land without accident. Jimmy, the keeper of the boat-house, stood ready to assist at the disembarkation. . . .

A story in which unity is thus violated may be corrected (a) by omitting all events, speeches, and thoughts of which the narrator could not, according to his own account, have been aware at the time they took place (e.g., omitting the italicized passage in the story quoted); (b) by introducing all such events, speeches, and thoughts as having been learned by the narrator after they took place (e.g., making the oarsman in the above-quoted story tell the narrator, in a subsequent conversation, what is improperly related in the italicized passage); or (c) by omitting all reference to the narrator — telling everything impersonally (e.g., omitting from the above-quoted story all preceding the italicized part and continuing without any reference to the narrator).

Shifting the tense in description

138. In description introduced by narrative in the past tense, maintain the tense throughout the composition. Carelessly shifting to the present tense changes the point of view and violates unity.

Shifting from point of view of one person to that of another

139. Do not change the point of view of a composition or of a passage by shifting carelessly from I to one, from we to the observer, from you to a person, etc. Keep consistently to one point of view unless there is good reason for changing.

Wrong: You seldom meet such people, but when one does, he should be on his guard against them.

Right: You seldom meet such people, but when you do, you should be on your guard against them.

Organization of a Composition — Coherence

The general principle

140. To make a composition effective, proceed by a definite plan. Even good thoughts and interesting statements will not be effective if the writer sets them down haphazard, just as they occur to him; they must be organized into a whole. To get good organization, a writer must proceed by a definite plan; that is, he must, before he begins to write, or at least before he puts the composition into its final form, decide on a few topics, and on each topic write a passage (see Rule 142), constituting a unit of the whole composition. As in warfare a band of men, though strong and brave individually, is collectively weak if it is not well organized; so a speech, a report, an editorial, an essay, any composition, though its parts may be forcible or clever, is weak as a whole if it is not well organized.

For example, a composition on Denver consists of a short paragraph on each of the following topics:

1. Location.
2. History.
3. Local pride.
4. Water supply (derived from mountain snow).
5. Capitol and United States mint.
6. Museums.
7. Principal business.
8. Dwelling houses (none built of wood).
9. Schools.
10. Wealth of citizens.
11. The city as a health resort.
12. Churches.
13. Strange spectacle of men skating in winter in their shirtsleeves.

This production, however interesting its material, is as far from being a good composition as two wheels, a diamond frame, a chain, and a pair of handle bars, all piled in a heap, are from being a good bicycle. It is a series of haphazard remarks not organized into a whole. There is no reason for most of the parts' standing where they are — no reason, e.g., for discussing public buildings after the water supply, or skaters' costumes after churches. The material of this composition may be organized into a whole by the method shown in the following outline. The numbers within the brackets refer to parts of the preceding outline.

- I. History. [2]
- II. Location and climate. [Put 1 and 13 here — 13 as an illustration of the statements about the climate.]

III. Especially striking peculiarities of the city.

1. Evidences of its being a health resort. [11]
2. Absence of wooden buildings. [8]
3. Public buildings. [5]
4. Water supply. [4]
5. Most striking of all, — local pride. [3]

IV. Conditions of the people's life.

1. Economic: Principal occupations. General wealth. [7 and 10]
2. Educational and moral: Schools, museums, churches. [9, 6, and 12]

Passages
misplaced

141. Material belonging to one part of a composition should not be placed carelessly in another part.

In the following paragraph, the italicized sentence is evidently misplaced:

The physical training department is very good and is constantly improving. A good gymnasium for the women is greatly needed, to replace the present unsatisfactory make-shift. As I am more acquainted with the work of the girls, I shall confine myself to the physical training provided for them.

The italicized sentence does not belong in this introductory part, but in a subsequent part; viz., that which discusses the equipment for the girls' exercise.

Unity and completeness of each part

142. Make each division of an expository composition a well-organized, well-introduced, well-concluded whole, which would seem rounded and complete if it stood by itself. Each of these passages constituting the major units (see the third sentence of Rule 140) should be somewhat like a distinct composition; just as a military company is a complete organization within itself, as well as a unit in a regiment.

Coherent
beginning

143. The opening sentences of a formal composition should be self-explanatory; they should be clear to the reader without reference to the title of the composition.

Bad:

LAMPS

They are contrivances for furnishing artificial light. . . .

Right:

LAMPS

Lamps are contrivances for furnishing artificial light. . . .

Bad:

MY WORK DURING THE PAST TERM

Latin and German were more difficult than any other studies. . . .

Right:

MY WORK DURING THE PAST TERM

In my work during the past term, I had more difficulty with Latin and German than with any other studies.

144. The beginning of a new division, either of a whole composition or of a paragraph, should be clearly marked. Otherwise the reader may begin reading the new division supposing that the preceding division still continues. For marking the beginning of a new part, the following are useful means:

Distinct introduction of a new part

(a) A transitional sentence or group of sentences, such as the following:

Transition sentence or paragraph

So much for the amount of free time which the student has. It remains to discuss the use he makes of it.

The willingness of the faculty to allow student self-government is, then, unquestionable. But are the students equally willing to govern themselves?

(b) Connective words, phrases, and other expressions:

Connective or transitional words and phrases

Addition: then, then too, again, next, too, also, further,

130 STRUCTURE OF LARGER UNITS

moreover, another cause of, equally important with the preceding, first, secondly, finally, etc.

Addition with intensification: even, perhaps.

Repetition: in fact, indeed, in other words.

Exemplification: for example, for instance, thus.

Comparison: similarly, likewise.

Purpose: to this end, for this purpose, having this in view.

Resumption after a digression: well, now, thus.

Placing key words at the beginning

(c) Placing near the beginning of the first sentence of the new division the word or words that indicate the subject of the new division. For example, after discussing the abuses of college athletics, to begin a new division with the words "The remedy . . ." makes the change of topic immediately evident. After discussing a statesman's foreign policy, to begin a new division with the words "His internal administration . . ." makes the change of topic immediately evident.

Ineffective pronouns

(d) It is usually ineffective to use a pronoun in place of a principal word in the topic sentence of a paragraph.

Coherence of a statement of consequence

145. Establish clear connections between a statement of consequence and the preceding statement. Unless this relation is immediately obvious, it should be indicated by some connective word, phrase, or other expression, such as therefore, accordingly, hence, consequently, in consequence of the foregoing, for this reason, it follows that, the result is, etc.

EXERCISE 72

Pick out the transitional words and phrases in the following paragraph and tell what kind of service each performs:

The word paradox is commonly supposed to be a term of abuse; but there is nothing abusive in its meaning. It means what is contrary to the common opinion, and that may be true or false. The value of a paradoxical saying lies in its truth, not in its relation to what most people think. Yet most people when they have called a saying a paradox think that they have condemned it; as if every discovery in thought were not a paradox, for if it were not a paradox it would not be a discovery. It is no abuse to call an original writer a lover of paradox but a simple statement of fact, for he does not want to discover what everyone knows. The truths that he seeks and delights to find are new and surprising ones, and the surprise which they cause expresses itself in this word paradox.

146. Establish clear connection between a passage making an abatement and the preceding assertion. Coherence of an abatement
This relation should usually be indicated by some connective, such as to be sure; I admit; there is, to be sure, an exception . . .; etc.

147. Establish clear connections between a statement of contrast and what precedes. Coherence of a contrasting part
This connection should usually be indicated by some connective, such as but, yet, in spite of, on the contrary, on the other hand, nevertheless, however, etc.

148. Lack of connective words or sentences between a statement and a contradiction of it is especially apt to cause incoherence. Coherence of a contradiction

Incoherent: Some people think clerking is an easy job and that a clerk ought never to be tired. Clerks stay closely housed day after day, working from six in the morning to ten at night. . . .

Coherent [the necessary connective is supplied]: Some people think the occupation of a clerk is easy and that a clerk ought never to be tired.

This is not the case. In the first place, clerks stay closely housed day after day, etc.

Emphasis

Emphasis

If a composition is coherently arranged and clearly expressed, emphasis of the more important ideas or expressions will usually follow. But, there are a number of special devices or ways by which emphasis is obtained. For instance, see: 82. Parenthetical position of modifiers; 83. Strong beginning; 88. Strong close; 89. Climactic order; 97. Skillful use of subordination; 109, 110. Independent expression of important statements and vice versa; 202. Sentences made conspicuous by detachment.

II. PUTTING DISCOURSE ON PAPER

SPELLING

The way to reform bad spelling is to work at it determinedly, correcting a few faults at a time. In most cases, the bad speller does not see the words correctly; his mental photograph of them is wrong, or blurred. Sometimes his vision is defective, and he needs to visit an oculist. In many cases he does not hear and pronounce the words correctly; he fails to include syllables, he transposes or omits letters, and he confuses one word with another. A misspelling should never be corrected hastily. The student should look up the correct spelling and fix it in memory by careful observation and by writing it out. He should keep a list of words he misspells, and should refer to it regularly.

Careful study of the following rules, and of the list in 162, will aid the student to recognize his misspellings, and will provide him with principles by means of which he can remember more easily the correct spellings.

149. A monosyllable or a word accented on the last syllable, if it ends in one consonant preceded by one vowel, doubles the final consonant when a suffix beginning with a vowel is added. Thus: bid, bidden; quiz, quizzes; drop, dropped, dropping; glad, gladder, gladdest; man, mannish; tin, tinny.

Doubling
final consonants:
General
rule

NOTE 1. — The final consonant in words not accented on the last syllable is not usually doubled before a suffix;

Benefit, etc.

Worship, travel, etc.

thus: benefit, benefited. In the words worship and kidnap and words like bevel, counsel, quarrel, etc., the final consonant may be doubled, but it is better not to double it; e.g., worshiper, worshipping, worshiped; kidnaped; traveler, traveling, traveled, etc.

Suffix beginning with consonant

NOTE 2. — A final consonant is not doubled before a suffix beginning with a consonant. Thus: fit, fitting, but fitness.

Receding
accent

150. This rule does not apply to words in which the accent is shifted to a preceding syllable. Thus: refer, referred, but reference; confer, conferring, but conference. But excel, excellence. Nor does it affect: chagrin, chagrined; transfer, transferable; infer, inferable; gas, gaseous.

EXERCISE 73

Doubling
final consonants

Write the infinitive, the present participle, and the past participle of each of the following verbs (e.g., stop, stopping, stopped): rob, crib, stab, bed, shed, bud, beg, flog, sprig, rig, hem, ram, hum, plan, skin, shun, pin, rip, drop, stop, grip, tip, equip, dip, whip, slip, scar, mar, debar, occur, demur, prefer, refer, confer, bat, pet, rot, flit, quit, regret, omit, commit, permit, admit, repel, propel, compel, expel, impel.

Picnicked,
etc.

151. Words ending in c add k before a suffix beginning with e, i, or y. Thus: picnic, picnicked; traffic, trafficking; panic, panicky.

Dropping
final e:
General rule before
ing

152. Words ending in silent e usually drop the e before a suffix beginning with a vowel. Thus: love, lovable; stone, stony. Hence, a verb ending in silent e drops e when ing is added. Thus: shine, shining.

EXERCISE 74

Dropping
final e

Write the following words, together with the adjectives ending in able derived from them (e.g., love, lovable): love, excuse, believe, name, tame, sale, deplore, appease, use, forgive, live, shake.

153. An exception to Rule 152: Words ending in ce or ge do not drop the e when ous or able is added. Thus: notice, noticeable; outrage, outrageous.

Derivatives from words
in ce and ge

NOTE. — C and g in words of French, Latin, and Greek derivation usually have the soft sound before e, i, and y, as cede, genial, civil, giant, cyanide, gymnasium; elsewhere they have the hard sound, as calendar, Gallic, code, gorgon, acute, gusto. (Get, geese, gew-gaw, geld, giddy, gift, gig, giggle, gild, begin, gird, girdle, girl, and give are not of the above-mentioned derivation.) Notice how the principle applies to accent, accident, flaccid, occiput, accept, accurate, desiccate, except, excuse. On account of this principle, the e must be retained in such words as noticeable and courageous, in order to keep the soft sound of c and g.

EXERCISE 74a

Write each of the following words together with its derivative ending in ous (e.g., courage, courageous): courage, advantage, outrage, umbrage. Write each of the following words together with its derivative ending in able (e.g., notice, noticeable): notice, peace, manage, change.

Final e
retained

154. A noun ending in y preceded by a consonant forms the plural in ies; as library, libraries. A noun ending in y preceded by a vowel forms the plural in ys; as valley, valleys.

Change of
y to i:
Nouns

EXERCISE 75

Write the singular and the plural of each of the following nouns (e.g., lady, ladies): lady, body, buggy, lily, folly, dummy, nanny, company, harmony, copy, berry, library, century, country, courtesy, city, party, frivolity, valley, monkey, chimney, money, pulley, volley, kidney, trolley, donkey, galley.

Change of
y to i:
Plurals

155. A verb ending in y preceded by a consonant forms its present third singular in ies and its past in ied. Thus: rely, relies, relied; marry, marries, married.

Verbs

Happiness,
etc.

Studying,
etc.

155a. Words ending in y preceded by a consonant usually change the y to i before a suffix. Thus: happy, happiness; beauty, beautiful; busy, business. But verbs ending in y do not drop the y before ing. Thus: study, studying; hurry, hurrying.

EXERCISE 76

Change of
y to i:
Verbs

Write the first and third persons, present indicative, and the first person past, of each of the following verbs (e.g., I cry, he cries, I cried): cry, fly, fry, try, apply, supply, defy, deny, satisfy, classify, hurry, marry, carry, tarry, bury.

Change of
ie to y

156. Verbs ending in ie change ie to y before ing. Thus: lie, lying

EXERCISE 77

Change of
ie to y

Write the infinitive and the present participle of each of the following verbs (e.g., lie, lying): lie, die, tie, vie.

Suddenness,
etc.

156a. Adjectives ending in n do not drop the n before ness. Thus: sudden, suddenness; green, greenness.

Finally, etc.

156b. Words ending in l do not drop the l before ly. Thus: final, finally; cool, coolly.

EXERCISE 78

Adverbs
in ly

Write each of the following words, together with its derivative in ly (e.g., final, finally): final, usual, actual, continual, principal, practical, casual, general, oral, original, occasional, special, partial.

Accidentally,
etc.

Write each of the following words together with its derivative in ally (e.g., accident, accidentally): accident, incident, heroic, poetic, dramatic, prosaic, occasion.

Plurals in s and es

157. (a) Nouns ending in a consonant add es to form the plural when the plural has an extra syllable:

when the plural has no extra syllable, they add only s.
Thus: lass, lasses; lad, lads.

(b) Words like leaf, thief, self, form the plural in ves. Thus: leaves, thieves, ourselves. Some words ending in f form the plural in fs. Thus: beliefs, chiefs, griefs, hoofs, scarfs, dwarfs. Leaf, thief, etc.

(c) Some nouns ending in o add es to form the plural. Thus: buffaloes, calicoes, echoes, mosquitoes, negroes, potatoes, volcanoes, dominoes, embargoes, heroes, jingoes, mulattoes, noes, tomatoes, tornadoes. Some add only s. Thus: banjos, dynamos, Eskimos, pianos, silos, solos, sopranos, zeros. A few plurals may be written either os or oes. Nouns in o

(d) The plurals of letters of the alphabet, of numerical symbols, and of a word considered as a word are formed by adding 's. (See Rule 255.) Thus: "Mind your p's and q's," "His well's and his and's made up half his story." Letters, symbols, etc.

(e) Observe that certain words of foreign origin retain their foreign plurals. Note especially datum, data; phenomenon, phenomena; analysis, analyses; parenthesis, parentheses; thesis, theses. Foreign nouns

EXERCISE 79

Write the singular and the plural of each of the following nouns (e.g., bead, beads): bead, road, leak, freak, wheel, pail, beam, seam, screen, steep, leap, paradox, hiss, heir, fair, repair, pass, glass, beet, boat, boot, flash, crash, cow, row, crow, dish, box. Plurals in s and es

158. Verbs ending in a consonant add es to make the present third singular form when that form has an extra syllable; when it has no extra syllable, they add only s. Thus: miss, misses; proclaim, proclaims. Present third singular in s and es

EXERCISE 80

Present
third sin-gulars in s
and es

Write the indicative present first and third persons singular of the following verbs (e.g., refer, refers): refer, deem, claim, gleam, disdain, feel, squeal, pass, rush, differ, assign, toss, gash, miss, fix, eat, twist.

158a. There are three verbs ending in eed: exceed, succeed, and proceed. Other verbs have ede.

Receive, believe, etc.

159. For the sound ee, use ei after c and ie after any other letter. If c precedes the digraph, e follows c, as in Alice. If another letter precedes the digraph, i follows the letter, as in Alice. Exceptions: weird, seize, neither, leisure, financier, obeisance.

For any other sound of the digraph use ei. Exceptions: friend, view, sieve, mischief, handkerchief.

EXERCISE 81

Receive, believe, etc.

Copy the following:

receive	receipt
believe	belief
deceive	deceit
relieve	relief
conceive	conceit perceive

Principal
and principle

160. In case of doubt whether to use principal or principle, remember that principle is always a noun and that the word which contains a (principal) is the adjective. Principal is occasionally a noun: the principal of the school, both principal and interest.

EXERCISE 82

Principal
and principle

Write the following sentences, filling the blanks with principal or principle: 1. The — street runs north. 2. The — of the school was a man of strong —s. 3. The — involved is what I —ly object to. 4. It was against his ———s to use more than the interest; the ——— he kept intact. 5. His ——— occupation was to master the ———s of geometry.

161. The common interjection is spelled oh. It is capitalized only at the beginning of a sentence, and is followed by an exclamation point, a comma, or no mark at all. Oh and O

Examples: "Oh, no, it is no trouble," "Oh! you ought not to do that," "My child! oh, my child!" "I will do it — and oh, by the way, where's the key?"

The sign of direct address (poetic or archaic) is spelled O. It is always capitalized, and is not followed by punctuation.

Examples: "I am come, O Caesar," "O ye spirits of our fathers," "O God, we pray thee," "I fear for thee, O my country."

GENERAL EXERCISES IN SPELLING

EXERCISE 83

I. Write the following words, observing that in the great majority the ending is le, only a few ending in el. Observe that in most of the words ending in el, the final syllable is preceded by v, m, or n. Able, amble, addle, axle, apple, Bible, babble, bramble, buckle, battle, bubble, bridle, baffle, cable, cradle, coddle, crackle, castle, dandle, dazzle, dawdle, double, dwindle, eagle, feeble, fable, fondle, fickle, gable, giggle, goggle, gamble, handle, huddle, inge, icicle, juggle, jangle, jingle, ladle, marble, muddle, maple, middle, noble, nibble, ogle, paddle, poodle, people, quibble, riddle, rabble, rifle, ripple, stable, sable, sample, staple, subtle, saddle, sprinkle, sickle, table, tackle, title, topple, trestle, twinkle, wrinkle, wrestle, whistle, mantle (a garment). The endings le and el Bevel, drivel, gavel, gravel, hovel, level, navel, novel, ravel, revel, dishevel, shrivel, snivel, travel. Camel, enamel, trammel. Flannel, funnel, panel, tunnel. Babel, label, label. Angel, vessel, chisel, nickel, mantel (a chimney-piece).

The adjective ending ful

II. Write the following adjectives, observing that in all, the ending is not full, but ful: useful, beautiful, careful, merciful, joyful, awful, skillful, hopeful, vengeful, mournful, cheerful, wonderful, delightful.

The adjective ending ous

III. Write the following words, observing that in all, the ending is not us, but ous: humorous, courageous, plentiful, mischievous, simultaneous, miscellaneous, pretentious, luminous, ridiculous, grievous, glorious, bounteous, outrageous, hideous, heinous, troublous, garrulous, bibulous.

The adverb prefix al

IV. Write the following words, observing that in all, the prefix is not all, but al: already, altogether, almost, also.

Disappear and disappoint

V. Write the following words, observing that in each the prefix is not diss, but dis: dis+appear, dis+appoint, dis+grace, dis+close, dis+gorge, dis+honor, dis+band, dis+locate, dis+dain, dis+turb.

Professor, etc.

VI. Write the following words, observing that in each, the prefix is not prof, but pro: pro+fessor, pro+fession, pro+fessional, pro+vise, pro+found, pro+voke, pro+tect, pro+bation, pro+nounce, pro+ceed, pro+gress.

Precede, proceed, etc.

VII. Write the following words, observing the variations in the spelling of the last syllable:

precede	proceed (but procedure)	supersede recede	exceed concede	succeed intercede

Business

VIII. Write the following pairs of words:

happy	happi+ness	dizzy	dizzi+ness
rosy	rosi+ness	lonely	loneli+ness
fluffy	fluffi+ness	busy	busi+ness
crazy	crazi+ness

Lose and loose

IX. Lose is a verb; loose is an adjective. "Lose" is pronounced looz; "loose", loos. Write the following sentences, filling the blanks with lose or loose: 1. The screw is _____. 2. Don't _____ it. 3. If it gets _____, you will _____ it. 4. His coat is _____er than yours, but mine is the _____est of all. 5. By _____ing his _____ change, the _____jointed traveler suffered.

X. The principal parts of lead are lead, led, led. Write the following sentences, filling the blanks with lead or led: Lead and led

1. He met me and — me in.
2. They will — us astray, as our friends were — astray.
3. It was this act that — to his success.
4. I was — to think that this would — to misfortune.

XI. Too is an adverb; it means excessively (as "He is too weak") or also. To is a preposition. Two is a number (= 2). Write the following sentences, filling the blanks with too, to, or two: Too, to, and two

1. It is — weak — with-stand — winters.
2. He thought the — men were — harsh, and I thought so —.
3. — say that, is — say a thing with — meanings.
4. He was — miles from home and was hungry —.

XII. Write the following sentences, filling the blanks with accept or except; affect or effect: Accept and except

1. I would — the offer, — for my religious scruples.
2. He is the best pianist in Europe; I do not — even Liszt.
3. Most of the rebels were offered pardon and —ed it; but the leaders were —ed from the offer.
4. He burned all the household goods, not —ing even the heirlooms.

1. That statement is true, but it does not — the case.
 2. The failure of the bank did not — his equanimity.
 3. The admonition of the dean had a good —.
 4. The generals —ed a junction, but this action had no — on the enemy.
- Affect and effect*

XIII. Regarding advice, advise, device, devise, remember the following formula:

Nouns
advice device

Verbs advise devise

*Advice, advise,
device,
devise*

Write the following sentences, filling the blanks with advice or advise: Advice, advise, device, devise

1. I — you to buy.
2. He was —ed not to take the lawyer's —.
3. A message from his —er brought important —es.
4. He —ed me, and I thought it —able to follow his —.

Write the following sentences, filling the blanks with device or devise:

5. It is an ingenious —, but can't we — a better one?
6. Many —es were employed.

A list of words that are commonly misspelled

162. The following list is composed chiefly of ordinary words which are often misspelled. With many of these are grouped — for the sake of comparison and distinction — related words, words not often misspelled, and words of different derivation commonly confused with them. (Numbers refer to rules.)

absence	alley (small street) absorb	alleys 154
absorption	allies 154
absurd	alliteration
accept (receive)	allotted except (exclude, aside from)	allusion (hint)
access (admittance)	illusion (false image) excess (greater amount)	ally (confederate) accessible	already
accident	all ready
accidentally	altar (shrine) accommodate	alter (change)
accompanying 155a	altogether
accumulate	alumna (feminine singular) accustom	alumnae (feminine plural) acquainted	alumnus (masculine singular) acquitted	alumni (masculine plural) across	always
additionally	amateur
address	among
advice (noun)	analysis
advise (verb)	analyze
adviser	angel (celestial being)
Aeneid	angelic
eroplane	angle (corner) affect (verb, to influence)	annual effect (verb, to produce)	answer effect (noun, result)	anxiety
(There is no noun affect)	apart aggravate	apartment
aghost	apiece 159
isle (in church)	apology
isle (island)	apparatus
all right (There is no such word as "alright" or "allright.")	apparent appearance appreciate appropriate

- arctic arguing 152 argument arise arising 152 arithmetic around arouse arranging 152 arrangement arriving 152 arrival 152
article ascend ascends 158 ascent assent (agreement) assassin assassinate association athlete (two syllables) athletic athletics attack (present) attacked (past) attendance audience auxiliary awkward bachelor balance banana Baptist baptize barbarous bare barely baring barring based bearing becoming before beggar 149 believe 159 benefit benefited berth (bed)
 birth (beginning of life)
boarder (one who boards) border (edge)
born ("I was born in 1890") borne ("borne by the wind"; "She has borne a son") boundary breath (noun) breathe (verb)
bridal (nuptial) bridle (for a horse) brilliant Britain (the country)
Britannia
Briton (a native)
Britannica buoyant bureaus burglar buries 155
bus (omnibus)
 Buss means kiss business 155a, cafeteria calendar candidate can't canvas (cloth) canvass (review)
capital (city)
capitol (building) career carry carriage 155a (Cf. marry, marriage) caucus ceiling cemetery certain change changing 152
changeable 153
chaperon characteristic chauffeur

- chautauqua choose choosing 152 } (present) chose } (past) chosen } chord (of music)
 cord (string) clothes (garments)
 cloths (kinds of cloth) coarse (not fine)
 course (path, series)
 colonel column coming 152 commission commit committed 150 committee 149 committing 150 comparative comparatively compel compelled competent complement (completing part) compliment (pleasing speech) complimentary (gracious) comrade comradeship concede 158a. See precede. conceit 159
 conceive 159
 confidant (noun) confidence confident (adjective) confidently confidentially (secretly) connoisseur conquer conqueror conscience (inner guide) conscientious conscientiousness conscious (aware) consciousness considered contemptible (worthy of scorn) contemptuous (scornful) continuous control controlled 150 cool coolly 156b copy copied 155 copies 151, 155 corps (squad) corpse (dead body)
 costume (dress)
 custom (manner)
 council (noun, assembly) councilor (member of a council) counsel (noun, legal advice, adviser) counsel (verb, to advise) counselor (adviser) country courteous courtesy creep crept criticism criticize cruelty cylinder dealt debater deceased (dead)
 diseased (ill)
 deceit 159 deceive 159 decide decision deep defendants definite definite dependant (noun) dependent (adjective) depth

- descend descends 158
 descent (slope) decent (proper) dissent (disagreement) describe describing 158
 description
 desert (waste place)
 dessert (food) despair desperate destroys develop (preferable to de-velop) device (noun)
 devise (verb)
 diary (daily record)
 dairy (milk room)
 dictionary
 die dying 156 difference different digging dining room 152 dinning diphtheria dirigible disappear (dis+appear) disappoint (dis+appoint) disaster disastrous discipline disease diseased. See deceased dissatisfied dissipate distribute divide doctor don't dormitories 154 dual (twofold) duel (fight) dying
 ecstasy effect. See affect eight eighth elicit (to draw out) illicit (unlawful) eliminate embarrass eminent emphasize encouraging enemy enemies 154 equipped ere (before) e'er (ever) especially
 etc. (et cetera) everybody exaggerate exceed excellence excellent except exceptionally excess. See access
 exercise
 exhaust exhilarate existence expense experience explanation extraordinary facilities familiar fascinate
 February fiery finally 156b financier forbode foreboding 152 forehead foreign foremost forfeit formally (ceremoniously)

formerly (at a former time)	hypnotize forth (forward)	hypocrisy
fourth (4th)	imaginary
forty. But —	imagining 152
four	imitation
fourteen	immediately
fourth	impetuosity
frantically	impromptu
fraternities 154	incident (occurrence)
freshman (adjective)	incidence (way a thing falls or strikes — scientific term)
freshman (noun, singular)	incidentally freshmen (noun, plural)	incredible friend	incredibly
fulfill or fulfil	independence
furniture	independent
gambling (wagering)	indictment gamboling (frisking)	indispensable
gauge or gage	infinite
ghost	ingenious (clever)
government	ingenuous (frank) grabbing 150	innocence
grammar	instance (occasion) grandeur	instant (moment) grief 159	intellectual grievous	intelligence
guard	intentionally
guess	intercede
guidance	invitation
handkerchief	irrelevant
handsome	irresistible
harass	itself
having 152	knowledge
hear (verb)	laboratory
here (adverb)	laid
height	later (subsequent)
heinous	latter ("the former, the latter") hinder	lead (metal)
hindrance	led (past tense of lead)
hop	legitimate
hopping 150	lessen (make less)
hope	lesson
hoping 152	liable
human (of mankind)	library
humane (merciful)	lightning (noun) humorous hurried 155

likely	obstacle
literature	occasion
livelihood 155a	occasionally
liveliness 155a	occur
loneliness 155a	occurred 150
loose (adjective)	occurring 150
lose (verb)	occurrence 149
lying	officer
maintain	omit
maintenance	omitted
maneuver	omission
mantel (chimney shelf)	oneself
mantle (cloak)	operate
manual	opportunity
manufacture	optimism
manufacturer	origin
marriage 155a	outrageous
marries	overrun
mathematics	pageant
mattress	paid
meant	pamphlet
metal (e.g., iron)	parallel mettle (spirit)	paralysis millionaire	parliament
miniature	parliamentary minute	particularly
mischievous	partner
misspelled	passed (verb, past tense of pass) momentous	past (adjective, adverb, and preposition)
murmur	pastime
muscle	peace
mystery	perceive 159
mysterious	perform
naïve	perhaps
naphtha	permissible
necessary	perseverance
negroes	personal (private) neither	personnel (persons collec- tively employed)
nine	persuade nineteen	Philippines. But Filipino ninety	physical
ninetieth. But ninth	physician noticeable 153	plan
notoriety	planned 150
nowadays nucleus oblige

- plain (adjective, clear, simple) plain (noun, flat region)
 plane (adjective, flat) plane (noun, geometric term; carpenter's tool) pleasant politics pore (read intently) pour possess possible practically 156b practice (noun and verb)
 prairie precede 158a prece'dence pre'cedents preference 150 prejudice preparation presence presents (gifts)
 principal 160
 principle 160
 privilege probably proceed. See precede professor (pro+fessor) promenade pronunciation prove pumpkin pursue quiet (still) quite (entirely) quiz quizzes 149 really 156b recede 158a. See precede receipt receive 159 recognize recommend reference 150
 referred 150
 reign (rule)
 rein (of a bridle) religion religious repetition
 replies representative reservoir
 respectfully (with respect) respectively (as relating to each) restaurant rhetoric rheumatism rhyme rhythm ridiculous
 right rite (ceremony) sacrificing 152
 sacrilegious safety sandwich scene schedule secretary seize separate sergeant severely shining 150
 shone (past of shine) shown (past participle of show) shriek siege 159 similar simultaneous sincerely
 site (place)
 cite (refer to) sight (view) soliloquy sophisticated sophomore (three syllables) specimen speech. But speak

statement	through (preposition and adverb)
stationary (adjective)	to ("Go to bed")
stationery (noun)	too ("Too bad!" "Me too!")
statue (monument)	two (2)
stature (height)	together
statute (law)	track (mark) stopping	tract (area)
stops	tragedy
stretch	tries
studying 155a	truly
succeed 158a. See precede	Tuesday suffrage	typical
suit (of clothes)	tyrannically
suite (of rooms)	undoubtedly superintendent	unprecedented supersede 158a. See pre- cede	until. But till suppress	usage
sure	use
surprise	using 152
syllable	usually
symmetry	vengeance
symmetrical	village
temperament (four syllables)	villain temperature (four syllables)	weather tendency	whether (which of two)
their (possessive of they)	weird 159
there ("here and there")	who's (who is)
there (expletive; e.g., "there is no use")	whose therefor (Cf. thereof, thereby, therein)	woman (singular)
therefore (for that reason)	women (plural)
thorough	writer
thousandths	writing 152
threw (past tense of throw)	written yacht you're (you are)

EXERCISE 84

Sentences to be written at dictation: 1. The embarrassed sophomore proceeded with his impromptu speech. 2. The principal danger, he believed, was that his partner would lose his self-possession. 3. He was not surprised; similar incidents had often occurred formerly. 4. The courageous villain proved equal to the occasion. 5. The prisoner,

Dictation exercises in spelling

after bribing the guard, slipped out and disappeared across the boundary. 6. The officer rapidly pursued him, firing as he ran. 7. Too much riding and driving had a bad effect on his studies. 8. Occasionally he committed deceitful and unbecoming acts in the course of his business. 9. The operation of the new rule will affect the legal profession beneficially. 10. The necessity of thorough preparation will incidentally have a good effect on the law schools. 11. Macaulay is recognized universally as the equal of any preceding writer of history. 12. An awkward question of privilege arising, the matter was referred temporarily to a committee. 13. The effect of the young orator's speech was instantaneous. 14. The village is laid out symmetrically according to a plan similar to that already referred to. 15. There are numerous specimens of his writing in the libraries of all the principal cities. 16. He who relies on the word of a sophomore or a professor is sure to be disappointed. 17. Don't lose sight of the principles of grammar. 18. The principal of the grammar school advised his boys to arrange occasionally for games with teams in neighboring cities. 19. After conferring with the principal creditors, I was led to believe that they were planning to bring suit for the payment of both the interest and the principal of the mortgage. 20. I could not keep any discipline among them, surprised and terrified as they were. I therefore divided them into two separate parties and led them to a quiet place where they might have an opportunity to recover their self-possession. 21. Without stopping to care for their dying comrades, the forty guardsmen, ill equipped as they were, went running up the sloping field, hemmed in the sentries, seized the outposts, and compelled the enemy to surrender. 22. Proving utterly unmanageable, he was whipped and finally expelled. 23. Having examined the case, I feel hopeful for his life; it must be admitted, however, that he may lose an arm. 24. The French messenger hurried on, hoping to outstrip the English spy; but the horse on which the latter was riding was comparatively fresh, and soon had disappeared round a bend in the road. 25. First I tried to advise him, but he would take no advice. Later, I applied a walking stick to his back. This had a more beneficial effect than advice. 26. The priest, placing his hands on the altar, murmured some mysterious sentences in the Indian language. 27. I perceived that the road led to a dense forest. 28. The woman's tears did not affect his decision; he still pursued his original purpose. 29. If you happen accidentally to lose a receipt, he denies having received the money and tries to collect again. I can't conscientiously recommend him. 30. The rain was beginning to fall, and the lightning flashed continually. 31. The principal street of the village is parallel to the railroad. 32. There are few writers who have never committed a misspelling.

163. The members of each of the following expressions should be written as separate words:

Incorrect
uniting of separate words

all ready	in fact
(already means	in order
previously)	in spite
all right	near by
any day	(on the) other hand
any time	per cent (but percentage)
by and by	pro tempore
by the bye	some day
by the way	some way
each other	any one
every day	every one
en route	some one every time	no one
ex officio

NOTE. — The members of the expressions a while, any way and some time should be written as separate words when while, way, and time are used as nouns; but each expression should be written as a single undivided word when it is used as an adverb.

EXERCISE 85

Write the following sentences, filling each blank with a while or awhile. After each sentence state in parenthesis the construction of the expression supplied. 1. Stay — longer. 2. — ago there were not any houses here. 3. He stood — in thought. 4. I'll try it for — and see how it works. 5. I'll try it —. 6. You'd better sleep —.

Awhile and a while

EXERCISE 86

Sometime and some time

Write the following sentences, filling each blank with some time or sometime. After each sentence state in parenthesis the construction of the expression supplied.

1. I'll visit you — next summer.
2. There must have been a volcano here —.
3. He came in last night and stayed — with us.
4. Be careful; — you'll get caught.
5. He pondered over the matter —.
6. He pondered over the matter for —.
7. — was spent in the examination of the books.

EXERCISE 87

*Anyway
and
any way*

Write the following sentences, filling each blank with any way or anyway. In parenthesis after each sentence, state the construction of the expression supplied.

1. — you arrange it will suit me.
2. I can't explain it in —.
3. Well, —, what's the difference?
4. I don't care, —.
5. They could not find — to gain entrance.
6. I'm not anxious; for, —, he knows how to swim.

164. Each of the following expressions should be written as a single undivided word:

myself	twofold
himself	steadfast
herself	extraordinary itself	overcome
yourself	together
ourselves	without yourselves	whenever
themselves	nevertheless oneself	inasmuch
whatever	likewise
whichever	although
whoever	altogether
anything	throughout
something	somewhat
nothing	sometimes
anybody	somehow
everybody	moreover
somebody	thereupon
nobody	furthermore

upward	indoors
downward	upstairs
upright	beforehand
downright	overhead
beforehand	whereas
nowadays	notwithstanding

LEGIBILITY

165. Leave a liberal space between consecutive lines in a manuscript. Do not let the loops of f's, g's, j's, q's, y's, and z's, in any line descend below the general level of the loops of b's, f's, h's, k's, and l's, in the line below. (Compare Plates I and II.)

Space between lines

166. Do not crowd consecutive words close together. (Compare Plates I and II.)

Space between words

167. Between a period, a question mark, an exclamation mark, a semicolon, a colon, a word immediately before a direct quotation, the last word of a direct quotation — between any of these and a word following on the same line, leave double the usual space between words. (See Plate II, lines 1, 2, 3, and 9; and compare the corresponding places in Plate I.)

Extra space after period, etc.

167a. In a typewritten theme, leave two spaces between a period, question mark, or exclamation mark at the end of a sentence and the word following on the same line. After a comma, semicolon, or colon, leave one space.

Spaces in typewritten matter

168. Do not crowd marks of punctuation close to one another or to the words next them. (See Plate I, lines 1, 2, and 9, and compare the corresponding places in Plate II.)

Crowding marks of punctuation

1 You may well ask "What are his
 2 qualifications?" "Qualifications indeed!
 3 He has none. He has passed his life in 4 a slapdash way.
 5 Don't let this qualifying — or pret
 6 qualifying — him to make appoint;
 7 but will the ability he has it qualifying 8 to represent our body was it in the 9 City Council! He is it from me to disgrace 10 a citizen for no other reason than that he 11 is not being made properly up to the point
 12 that to fulfill properly the functions of an order-
 13 man in this great City of certain knowledge 14 extensive experience! Let the experience that 15 the body has is in dependence and 16 the body of man on the body of man
 17 this knowledge, this experience, this familiarity

1 You may well ask, "What are his
2 qualifications?" Qualifications in-
3 deed! He has none. He has passed
4 his life in a blacksmith shop. Doubt-5 less this qualifies him — or may 6 qualify him — to make horseshoes;
7 but will this ability (if he has it.)
8 enable him to represent our ward
9 worthily in the City Council? Far Crowding

at bottom of page

169. Do not crowd the writing at the bottom of a page; take a new page.

Gaps between letters

170. Do not leave gaps between consecutive letters in a word. Especially avoid leaving a wide interval between an initial capital and the rest of the word.

Oblique and

171. Do not write and on an oblique line.

Dots and cross-strokes

172. Do not neglect dotting i's and j's and crossing t's and x's.

173. Place the cross of a t across the stem of the t, not elsewhere. Place the dot of an i or a j immediately above the i or the j, not elsewhere.

174. Making the crosses of t's conspicuous for their length, peculiar shape, or peculiar direction is a hindrance to legibility and an annoyance to the reader. Cross a t with a straight horizontal stroke not more than a quarter of an inch long. Make a t a closed stroke, not a loop.

Shape of quotation marks and apostrophes

175. Form quotation marks and apostrophes, not as in this illustration:

Ann's motto is "What's the use?"

but as in this:

Ann's motto is "What's the use?"

Shape of Roman numbers

176. Write Roman numbers, not in this manner:

II, III, IV, VIII, IX

but in this:

II, III, IV, VIII, IX

177. In forming a letter do not decorate with flourishes not necessary for identifying it, or with shading. Avoid especially such forms as the following:

Conspicuous ornament

B. C. D. E. F. H. M. N. O. T

Prefer plain forms like the following:

B. C. D. E. F. H. M. N. O. T.

ARRANGEMENT OF MANUSCRIPT

The Manuscript as a Whole

178. The paper for composition should be unruled, unless special circumstances, such as the regulations of a class, require the contrary. The writing should be done either with a typewriter or with black, or blue-black, ink. Only one side of each sheet of paper should be written on. A manuscript should never be rolled; it should go to its destination either flat, or folded as simply as possible.

Writing materials

Only one side of paper to be used
Rolling not permissible

Pages

179. The pages of a manuscript should be numbered at the top, in Arabic, not Roman numbers.

Page numbers

180. The title should be written at least two inches from the top of the page. Between the title and the first line of the composition, at least an inch should intervene.

Position of title

181. The first line of each page should stand at least an inch from the top of the page.

Margin at the top

182. There should be a blank margin of at least an inch at the left side of each page.

Margin at the left

158 ARRANGEMENT OF MANUSCRIPT

Paragraphs

Mechanical Marks of a Paragraph

Indention: 183. In manuscript the first line of every paragraph Of ordi- should be indented at least an inch. (See Plate II, nary para- line 1.)
graphs

Of num- 184. No exception to the foregoing rule should be bered para- made when paragraphs are numbered.
graphs

Wrong:

- I. What power has Congress to punish crimes?
- II. State in what cases the Supreme Court has original jurisdiction.
- III. How are presidential electors chosen? Would it be constitutional for a State legislature to choose them?

Right:

- I. What power has Congress to punish crimes?
- II. State in what cases the Supreme Court has original jurisdiction.
- III. How are presidential electors chosen? Would it be constitutional for a State legislature to choose them?

Irregular 185. The first lines of all paragraphs should begin indention at the same distance from the margin; do not indent the beginning of one paragraph an inch, that of another two inches, that of another half an inch, etc.

Incorrect 186. Only the first line of a prose paragraph should indention be indented, except for special reasons as for instance in 212, 213, 214.

Incorrect 187. After the end of a sentence do not leave the spacing out remainder of the line blank unless the sentence ends a paragraph; begin the next sentence on the same line, if there is room. This rule is violated in Plate I, line 4.

Division of a Composition into ParagraphsParagraphing as an Aid to Clearness

188. Paragraphing, if properly employed, gives the reader as much assistance in understanding a whole composition as punctuation gives him in understanding a sentence. Parts of a composition that are distinct in topic may by paragraphing be made distinct to the eye also — an effect that decidedly promotes clearness. For instance, suppose an essay on Queen Elizabeth discusses three topics: (1) Elizabeth's personal character, (2) her character as a ruler, and (3) her popularity with her subjects. To embody the three passages corresponding to these three topics in separate paragraphs makes evident at once the beginning and the end of each passage, and thus enables the reader to grasp without effort the structure of the essay. On this consideration are based the following rules (189–193):

The fundamental principle

189. A passage entirely distinct in topic from what precedes and follows should (except when Rule 207 applies) be written as a separate paragraph.

Applications:

Thus, suppose an essay on gasoline engines presents —

(i) Paragraphing of distinct parts

- (m) An explanation of the operation of gasoline engines.
- (n) An estimate of gasoline engines as compared with other kinds of engines.

Parts m and n should be embodied in separate paragraphs. Suppose a story tells —

- (m) The hero's visit to the bank and his transactions there.
- (n) What was happening meanwhile at the hero's factory.

Parts m and n should be embodied in separate paragraphs.

Paragraphs
of introduction
and conclusion

190. A passage that serves as an introduction or a conclusion to a composition consisting of several paragraphs should be paragraphed separately, even if it consists of only one or two sentences.

Correct paragraphing:

The large body of recent State legislation compelling railway companies to reduce passenger fares, though it probably sprang from good intentions, is likely to have three unfortunate consequences.

[The main body of the essay consists of three paragraphs, each discussing one of the three unfortunate consequences.]

One cannot foretell, of course, how many years will elapse before these three results of the recent railway legislation will work themselves out; it may be five years, or it may be a dozen. But that they will sooner or later work themselves out seems, in the light of history, practically certain.

Paragraphs
of transition

191. A passage that serves merely to make a transition from one group of paragraphs to a following group should be paragraphed separately.

Correct paragraphing:

[The achievements of Macaulay as a man of letters are discussed for three or four paragraphs.]

Macaulay's political achievements, though less distinguished than his literary achievements, are worthy of a somewhat detailed notice.

[Two or three paragraphs follow, dealing with Macaulay's political career.]

Paragraph-
ing of direct quotations

192. In narratives, as a rule, any direct quotation, together with the rest of the sentence of which it is a part, should be paragraphed separately.

Right:

There were no takers. Not a man believed him capable of the feat. Thornton had been hurried into the wager, heavy with doubt; and now that he looked at the sled itself, the concrete fact, with the regular team of ten dogs curled up in the snow before it, the more impossible the task appeared. Mathewson waxed jubilant.

"Three to one," he proclaimed. "I'll lay you another thousand at that figure, Thornton. What d'ye say?"

Thornton's doubt was strong in his face, but his fighting spirit was aroused — the fighting spirit that soars above odds, fails to recognize the impossible, and is deaf to all save the clamor for battle. He called Hans and Pete to him. Their sacks were . . .

193. Rule 192 should be especially observed in the report of a conversation; each speech, regardless of length, should be paragraphed separately. Dialogue

Wrong:

"When did you arrive?" I asked. "An hour ago," he answered. "Didn't you get my letter?" "No." "Strange," he said.

Right:

"When did you arrive?" I asked.
"An hour ago," he answered. "Didn't you get my letter?"
"No."
"Strange," he said.

194. Observe that in order to paragraph an isolated quotation separately (as is done in the example under Rule 192), the line following the quotation must be indented. Indention after a quotation

195. A quotation may be detached by paragraphing from the introductory expression (e.g., he said) if this expression precedes it. Indention in the midst of a sentence

Right:

Mr. Peggotty looked around upon us and nodding his head with a lively expression animating his face said in a whisper,

"She's been thinking of the old 'un."

But a quotation should not be so detached from the introductory expression if the quotation does not close the sentence.

Wrong:

Thinking I could stand it if my friend could, I called out to him,

"Come on. Who's afraid?" and started into the house.

Wrong:

Thinking I could stand it if my friend could, I called out to him,

"Come on. Who's afraid?"
and started into the house.

Right:

Thinking I could stand it if my friend could, I called out to him, "Come on. Who's afraid?" and started into the house.

(ii) Grouping of related parts

196. When several consecutive short passages present slightly different topics, yet collectively form a larger division of a composition, the distinctness and unity of the whole division should be made apparent, rather than the individuality of its parts. Hence the following rule:

Improper
paragraphing of minute parts

197. Several consecutive short passages composing a larger unit of a composition should not be written each in a separate paragraph, but should be combined into one paragraph.

Thus in an essay on a steel factory, describing —

- (a) The process of sheet-rolling,
- (b) The process of rail-rolling,
- (c) The process of casting,

part b should not be written as follows:

Steel ingots six feet long and six inches square were heated to a white heat in a large oven.

When sufficiently hot, an ingot was removed and taken on an endless chain to the first set of rollers.

These rollers were eighteen inches in diameter. When the ingot had been passed through them, it was a bar of steel ten feet long and five inches thick.

Then the bar of steel was put on another endless chain and taken to a second pair of rollers.

This process was continued, the bar being passed successively through five or six pairs of rollers.

It came from the last pair a red-hot rail of standard size.

It was next bent slightly so that the base was convex. This was to allow for unequal contraction in cooling.

The rail was now left to cool.

When cold, it was taken to the cold rollers and rolled perfectly straight.

The foregoing passage should be written as a single paragraph; and so should part a and part c of the same essay.

198. The beginning of a new paragraph naturally leads the reader to think that the discussion of a new topic is beginning. Therefore, to begin a new paragraph where the discussion of a new topic does not begin misleads the reader. Hence the following rule:

(iii) Paragraphing where there is no change of topic

199. A sentence that does not introduce a new topic but continues the topic of the preceding sentence should not be made to begin a new paragraph.

The paragraphing in the following passage, for example, is illogical and objectionable:

The beauty of Fra Angelico's character has been the admiration of all who ever studied the life of that devout and gentle artist. He might have lived in ease and comfort, for his art would have made him rich; instead, he chose the cloister life. Fra Angelico was gentle and kindly to all.

He was never seen to display anger and if he admonished his friends, it was with mildness. . .

In this passage, the discussion of the gentleness of Fra Angelico begins in the sentence "Fra Angelico was gentle," etc.; the sentence "He was never," etc., continues the discussion of this topic — does not introduce a new topic. Hence, there should be no paragraph division where one now stands; the sentence "He was never," etc., should follow without a break.

(iv) Unity of a paragraph

200. A paragraph, by its visible detachment from what precedes and follows, suggests the unity of the passage it embodies. A passage not having unity should therefore not be put into one paragraph and thus presented under the guise of unity. Hence the following rule:

201. See that every paragraph has one central topic, under which all the statements in the paragraph logically fall.

Paragraphing for Emphasis

Sentences
made conspicuous by detachment

202. A sentence or a short passage which the writer wishes to make especially emphatic may be paragraphed separately.

Thus, in the following passage the italicized part does not require to be paragraphed as being distinct from the preceding part; but it may properly be set apart for emphasis.

Indefinite narrative should not be entirely avoided; it is useful, and for some purposes is preferable to concrete narrative. Parts of a story that are not of dramatic interest, speeches that are of no interest or importance, — these may properly be conveyed by indefinite rather than by concrete narrative. But remember this:

Actions occurring at important points of a story should be related by concrete, not indefinite narrative.

Paragraphing for Ease in Reading

203. Reading an extended composition or passage in the text of which there are no breaks to rest the eye is fatiguing. Hence the following rules (204 and 205):

Unbroken text fatiguing

204. A composition more than 300 words long should not be written without paragraphing.

Neglect of paragraph-
ing

205. A passage more than 300 words long, even if it constitutes a single unit of the composition, should usually not be written as a single paragraph, but should be divided into two or three paragraphs of convenient length (i.e., not longer than 200 words).

Paragraphs
too long

Thus, an essay on Lincoln, presenting —

1. A narrative of his life (350 words)
2. An estimate of his greatness (100 words) should not be written as two paragraphs corresponding to the two main divisions of the material, but should be paragraphed in some such way as the following:

- ¶ Events of life up to 1860 (200 words)
- ¶ Career as president (150 words)
- ¶ Estimate of his greatness (100 words)

Over-frequent paragraphing

206. On the other hand, it should be remembered that reading a passage not more than about 200 words long is not fatiguing to the ordinary reader, and that over-frequent paragraphing annoys as much as lack of any paragraphing fatigues. Hence in the following rules (207 and 208):

207. A composition no longer than 150 words should usually be written without any paragraph divisions.

208. Do not paragraph with needless frequency and without good reason.

Writing Verse

Left-over parts of lines

209. If an entire line of poetry cannot be written on one line of the page, the part left over should be placed as shown below:

Right:

Lombard and Venetian merchants with deep-laden
argosies;
Ministers from twenty nations; more than royal pomp and ease.

Wrong:

Lombard and Venetian merchants with deep-laden
argosies;
Ministers from twenty nations; more than royal pomp and ease.

Grouping of verse
into lines

210. A quotation of poetry should be grouped into lines exactly as the original is grouped.

Bad:

Once to every man and nation
Comes the moment to decide
In the strife of truth with falsehood for the Good or evil side.

Right:

Once to every man and nation comes the moment to decide
In the strife of truth with falsehood for the good or evil side.

211. A quotation of verse occurring in a prose composition should begin on a new line. The prose following such a quotation should also begin on a new line, indented if it begins a new paragraph, flush with the left-hand margin if it continues the paragraph containing the quotation. But a single phrase, a part of a line, may be quoted without beginning a new line.

Verse set apart on the page

Wrong:

While Tennyson admits that sorrow may be for our ultimate advantage and that, as his great memorial says, "Men may rise on stepping stones
Of their dead selves to higher things," yet he finds it impossible to get any present consolation from the thought.

Right:

While Tennyson admits that sorrow may be for our ultimate advantage and that, as his great memorial says,

"Men may rise on stepping stones
Of their dead selves to higher things," yet he finds it impossible to get any present consolation from the thought.

See also the first Right example under Rule 246; and see p. iv.

Extended Quotations of Prose

212. A passage of prose quoted from a written composition or a formal speech, if it is three or four sentences long or longer, should be set apart from the matter preceding and following it, in the same way as a quotation of verse (see Rule 211).

Extended quotations
set apart
on the page

Right:

- The part of the letter of instructions providing for an examination of candidates I quote verbatim. This part is as follows:

“and that, furthermore, all candidates be examined as to their knowledge of constitutional law; that this examination be conducted in writing; and that the following questions, among others, be asked:

“1. What power has Congress to punish crimes?

“2. State in what cases the Supreme Court has original jurisdiction.

“3. How are presidential electors chosen? Would it be constitutional for a state legislature to choose them?”

These instructions, it will be perceived, leave the committee no discretion in regard to waiving the examination.

For other examples see Rules 137, 141, 199, 202.

Tabulated Lists

Indention 213. In a list of items set down in tabular form, the first line of each item should extend farther to the left than the remaining lines of the item.

Wrong:

The principal powers of the President are —

(a) The power to conduct foreign affairs.

(b) The power to command the army and navy in time of war.

(c) The power to veto bills.

(d) The power to appoint officers (subject to the approval of the Senate).

Right:

The principal powers of the President are —

(a) The power to conduct foreign affairs.

(b) The power to command the army and navy in time of war.

(c) The power to veto bills.

(d) The power to appoint officers (subject to the approval of the Senate).

214. A list of items in tabular form should be set apart from the matter preceding and following it, in the same manner as a quotation of verse (see Rule 211).

Tabulated matter set apart on the page

Bad:

Under this subject there are three important headings:

- (a) Position of pronouns
- (b) Use of connectives
- (c) Position of phrases; all of which are to be carefully studied.

Right:

Under this subject there are three important headings:

- (a) Position of pronouns
 - (b) Use of connectives
 - (c) Position of phrases
- all of which are to be carefully studied.

NOTE. — Another way of correcting the errors above shown is to write the passage without tabulating the items; thus:

Right: Under this subject there are three important headings: (a) Position of pronouns; (b) Use of connectives; and (c) Position of subordinate expressions; all of which are to be carefully studied.

For other illustrations see Rules 140, 189, 197.

ALTERATIONS IN MANUSCRIPT

215. Words to be inserted should be written above the line, and their proper position should be indicated by the sign \wedge (not “v”) placed below the line. Words so inserted should not be enclosed in parentheses or brackets unless these marks would be required were the words written on the line.

Insertion

NOTE. — Obscurity results from writing an insertion in the manner shown in the Bad example below:

Bad: as an agreeable means
 Although tennis is at present very popular \wedge it
 of exercising the muscles,

probably will never rank with football as a game for supremacy between colleges.

Right: as an agreeable means of exercising the muscles,

Although tennis is at present very popular \wedge it probably will never rank with football as a game for supremacy between colleges.

Right: as an agreeable means

Although tennis is at present very popular \wedge ~~it~~
 of exercising the muscles, it probably \wedge ~~probably~~ will never rank with football as a game for supremacy between colleges.

Erasure 216. Erasures should be made by drawing a line through the words to be canceled. Parentheses or brackets should not be used for this purpose.

Transposition 217. Words written in one place which are to be transposed to another should be canceled (see Rule 216) and inserted in the proper place by the method shown in Rule 215. No other method of transposition should be used.

Indicating a new paragraph 218. When it is desired that a word standing in the midst of a paragraph should begin a new paragraph, the sign ¶ should be placed immediately before that word. The change should not be indicated otherwise.

Canceling
a paragraph division 219. A paragraph division should be canceled by writing "No ¶" in the margin. The change should not be indicated otherwise.

PUNCTUATION

The Period (.)

220. Use the period — of a sentence

(a) After a complete declarative or imperative sentence.

(b) After an abbreviated word or a single or double initial letter representing a word; as etc., viz., Mrs., i.e., e.g., LL.D., pp. Abbreviations

NOTE. — It is scarcely practical to make a distinction here between abbreviations and contractions. Dr. for Doctor, Mr. for Mister, Mrs. for Mistress are usually called abbreviations although they are shortened by the omission of letters within the word. There is variation in the use of the period after them.

EXERCISE 88

Write the following passage, putting a period at the end of every complete independent predication, and capitalizing the word following every period.

Periods and capitals to be supplied

Suddenly he felt his arm grasped a feeling of horror swept over him some living thing thin rough flat icy and slimy from the depth of the cavity had twined itself round his arm its pressure was like that of a strap being drawn tight in less than a second something had closed round his wrist he drew back hastily but the power of motion had almost left him he was nailed to the spot with his left hand he grasped his knife which he had held between his teeth and setting his back to the rock made a desperate effort to withdraw his arm he only succeeded in loosening the deadly clasp for a moment it immediately tightened again a second object long and pointed issued from the cavity it appeared for a moment to lick Gilliatt's naked chest then it wound itself around him at the same time a terrible sense of pain compelled every muscle of his body to quiver a third whip-like shape issued from the rock and lashed his body suddenly it fixed itself upon him as firmly as the others had done a fourth object this one with the swiftness of an arrow darted toward his stomach and clasped it tightly it was impossible to tear away these four slimy bands they enlaced his body immovably adhering by a number of suckers a fifth long slimy object glided from the cavity it passed by the others and wound itself around Gilliatt's chest these whip-like ribbons were pointed at the end they grew broader like the blade of a sword toward the hilt all five evidently sprang from one center they crept and glided over Gilliatt he felt their strange pressures he seemed to feel the suction of many miniature mouths these shifted their positions from time to time suddenly a huge slimy mass round and flattened issued from the cavity it was the center to which these five limbs were attached like spokes of a wheel on the opposite side of this center Gilliatt saw the commencement of three other limbs the ends of these three were concealed beneath the rock in the middle of the slimy mass were two eyes these eyes were fixed on Gilliatt he knew that he was in the clutches of a devilfish.

The Comma (,)

Direct address

221. Use the comma —

(a) To set off a substantive used in direct address.

Right: Come here, my boy.

Right: For once, Tom, you are correct.

Wrong: For once, Tom you are correct.

Appositives

(b) To set off appositives.

Right: He introduced his uncle, Mr. Harris.

Right: We motored over to Greenfield, the county-seat, to see the annual fair.

Wrong: We motored over to Greenfield, the county-seat to see the annual fair.

NOTE. — An appositive used to distinguish its principal from other persons or things called by the same name should not usually be separated from its principal by punctuation.

Right: The poet Masfield. Charles the Bold. My son Robert. The expression "Over the top."

Absolute phrases

(c) To set off absolute phrases.

Right: The brakes being worn, we stopped barely in time.

Right: I doubt whether they will come, the roads being so bad.

Right: It seems queer, the affair being as you say, that he should be angry.

Wrong: It seems queer, the affair being as you say that he should be angry.

(d) To set off words, phrases, or clauses which have a parenthetical function, but for which parenthesis marks or double dashes are not suitable. Especially to be observed are parenthetical phrases indicating the character or the connection of a statement — for example, in the second place, of course, to tell the truth, for example, that is, in fact, I think, I believe, he says, I repeat.

Parenthetical
members

Right: Moreover, his story does not agree with yours.

Right: For example, this morning the toast was burned.

Right: This is very considerate of you, to say the least.

Right: The trip was, to tell the truth, rather a failure.

Right: The house stood, I believe, on this very spot.

Wrong: The house stood, I believe on this very spot.

NOTE 1. — For setting off a parenthetical expression, prefer commas to parenthesis marks where commas will make the sentence clear; but notice that the use of commas for this purpose may cause obscurity in some cases — particularly when the parenthetical expression is a complete sentence.

Obscure: By all appearances, of course this is a secret, he is likely to win.

Clear: By all appearances (of course, this is a secret) he is likely to win; [or] By all appearances — of course, this is a secret — he is likely to win [see Rule 236 c].

NOTE 2. — The comma as a rule is not used to set off also, perhaps, indeed, therefore, of course, at least, in fact, nevertheless, likewise, and other parenthetical expressions that do not require a pause in reading.

(e) To set off a geographical name explaining a preceding name; to set off the number of a year defining a month or a day named immediately before; and to set off the items of a date or an address.

Geographical names;
dates

Right: He lived in Summit, New Jersey.

Right: I returned on May 14, 1919.

Right: The wreck occurred on Friday, June 13, 1923.

Coördinate
clauses joined by a conjunction

(f) Ordinarily to separate coördinate clauses joined by one of the pure conjunctions, and, but, for, or, neither, nor. (Cf. Rule 231 b.)

Right: The telephone rang violently, but no one answered.

Right: The question which lay before them, and which had been argued for weeks, was still unsettled.

Comma
before for

NOTE 1. — The observance of the foregoing rule is especially important in the case of clauses connected by the coordinating conjunction for. Unless a comma is placed between such clauses, the for is liable to be mistaken momentarily for a preposition.

Misleading: She was obliged to give up the dinner for her cook was leaving.

Clear: She was obliged to give up the dinner, for her cook was leaving.

NOTE 2. — This rule concerns only coördinate clauses joined by conjunctions; it does not refer to a clause containing a compound predicate of two verbs.

Comma unnecessary: He seized the rope, and hauled the boat alongside.

Right: He seized the rope and hauled the boat alongside.

Dependent
clauses

(g) As a rule, to set off a dependent clause preceding its principal clause. When the dependent clause follows the principal clause, a comma is not necessary if the clause is restrictive (see Rule 224), but a comma is usually required if the clause is non-restrictive. (But see Rule h, below, and Rule 231 c.)

Right: When the ship is in, the lock is closed.

Right: If you have time, telephone me from the station.

Right: Telephone me from the station if you have time.

Right: He was not in his room, though his light was burning.

Right: I am very glad to subscribe, especially since Pryor is to contribute.

Right: He told us that the boat was ready.

Right: I do not know how it occurred, and I have no idea whether Harris was mixed up in it.

(h) Usually, to set off an introductory adverbial phrase containing a verb. One not containing a verb should usually not be followed by any mark of punctuation. (But see Rule i, below.) Distinguish between adverbial phrases, that is, phrases modifying a predicate, an adjective, or an adverb; and parenthetical phrases, that is, phrases which modify the whole statement. (See Rule d, above.)

Introductory adverbial
phrases

Right: In order to live, we must eat.

Right: Despite his efforts to escape, he remained a prisoner.

Right: Upon opening the door, she smelled escaping gas. [Gerund phrase.]

Right: To succeed in your undertaking, you must follow your lawyer's advice. [Infinitive phrase.]

Right: After all the hardships he has suffered, he deserves some repose. [Phrase containing a clause.]

Right: In about an hour our belated friends arrived.

(i) To indicate separation between any sentence-elements that might be improperly joined in reading, were there no comma.

To prevent mistaken
junction

Misleading: Ever since he has devoted himself to athletics.

Clear: Ever since, he has devoted himself to athletics.

Misleading: Inside the fire shone brightly.

Clear: Inside, the fire shone brightly.

Misleading: While we were washing the lieutenant a man for whom we had no affection, suddenly appeared.

Clear: While we were washing, the lieutenant, a man for whom we had no affection, suddenly appeared.

Ambiguous: He would not admit to himself that he loved her because she was wealthy.

Clear: He would not admit to himself that he loved her, because she was wealthy.

[A comma should be used before the adverbial because clause if the writer wishes to indicate that the clause does not modify the nearer verb.]

Ambiguous: He stepped up to his opponent shaking his fist under his nose.

Clear: He stepped up to his opponent, shaking his fist under his nose.

[Here the comma is used before the participle phrase to indicate that the phrase does not modify the nearest noun.]

For the comma before such as, see Rule 260, after namely, that is, etc., see Rule 261.

Consecutive
adjectives

222. Two adjectives modifying the same noun should be separated by commas if they are coördinate in thought; but if the first adjective is felt to be superposed on the second, they should not be separated by a comma.

Right: A faithful, sincere friend. [The adjectives are coördinate in thought; both modify "friend."]

Right: A big gray cat. [The adjectives are not coördinate in thought; "gray" modifies "cat," but "big" modifies "gray cat."]

Series of the form
a, b, and c

223. In a series of the form a, b, and c, a comma should precede the conjunction. The practice of omitting the comma before the conjunction is illogical and is not favored by the best modern usage.

Objectionable: There were blue, green and red flags.
[The punctuation here couples "green" and "red" and makes them appear to be set apart, as a pair, from "blue"; whereas the intention is to make all three adjectives equally distinct.]

Right: There were blue, green, and red flags.

For other examples, see the text of Rules, 3, 15, 31, 47, 122, 144 b, 145, 165, 174, 230.

224. (a) A non-restrictive relative clause should be set off by the comma; a restrictive relative clause should not be set off by the comma. A non-restrictive clause is a clause the omission of which would not change the meaning of the main clause. (If it can be omitted, it can be set off by commas.) A restrictive clause is a clause the omission of which would change the meaning of the main clause.

Restrictive
and non-restrictive
modifiers:
Clauses

Right: My old fountain pen, which never leaked or clogged, is broken. [Non-restrictive clause; can be omitted: "My old fountain pen is broken."]

Right: A fountain pen which leaks is worse than none. [Restrictive clause; cannot be omitted: "A fountain pen is worse than none."]

Right: Foch, whose genius won the war, was a theorist and a school-teacher. [Non-restrictive.]

Right: The general whose genius won the war was a theorist and a school-teacher. [Restrictive.]

(b) A non-restrictive phrase following its principal should be set off by the comma; a restrictive phrase following its principal should not be set off by the comma.

Phrases

Right: The ruined spire, rising above the deserted village, marked the end of our journey. [Non-restrictive.]

Right: The tree standing in the corner of the garden was the favorite haunt of the children. [Restrictive.]

EXERCISE 89

Write the following sentences, designating after each one whether the relative clause is restrictive or non-restrictive, and omitting or inserting commas accordingly:

1. He committed a serious error in correcting which he had much trouble.
2. He inquired of the man who had charge of the gate.
3. The old gentleman across the aisle who had been getting more and more nervous now stood

Restrictive
and non-restrictive
clauses

up. 4. In my grandfather's day the coach attained a speed of fifteen miles an hour which was the highest speed it ever attained. 5. Some sparks fell among the straw which covered the floor. 6. The days that I spent there were happy ones. 7. Tom Briggs whom I used to know when I was a boy is now a famous engineer. 8. Don't give up the advantages that you have gained. 9. The man who won the race is a junior. 10. The Brooklyn bridge which spans the East River has lately been repaired. 11. Here they found a number of brass cannon which they destroyed. 12. The book which we are reading has more in it than the Ethiopian's book. 13. The Bible which is a collection of books written at different times contains a wide range of literature. 14. Philip spoke of the historical background of the chapter which the man was reading. 15. The Nicene creed is a statement that was drawn up by the Council of Nicæa. 16. The locomotive that was used in 1840 looks ridiculously old-fashioned today. 17. There is no scientific theory which is not open to revision. 18. Not much is expected of those who have recently been initiated. 19. The great philosopher Plato who flourished long before the Christian era anticipated some of the teachings of Christ. 20. He that ruleth his temper is greater than he that taketh a city. 21. I am the Lord thy God that brought thee out of the land of Egypt. 22. Can you name the place where he is hiding and the persons who aided in his escape? 23. I detest a man who is snobbish. 24. A woman who uses rouge is a deceiver. 25. Suggest some book that would be suitable for a birthday present. 26. Those who cannot swim should keep away from the water. 27. A painting that one does not get tired of is extremely rare. 28. One of the most beautiful chapters is the one in which the still, small voice is spoken of. 29. The friends who tell us the truth are not always those we enjoy most. 30. A photographer who delivers his pictures when they are promised is sure to get rich. 31. My early education was given me by my parents who taught me my A B C's and my numbers. 32. The spokes should be made of ash which for this purpose is better than oak. 33. He married Cynthia Neckington who though she was beautiful had a temper that made his life miserable. 34. I resign in favor of Mr. Anselm Gregory for whom I ask your hearty support. 35. The battle was won by Admiral Dewey about whom little had up to that time been generally known.

225. After an interjection which is intended to be only mildly exclamatory, use a comma rather than an exclamation point. With interjections

Right: Oh, come; you'd better.

Right: But alas, this was not the case.

226. Separate a short direct quotation from the rest of the sentence by a comma. (Cf. Rule 233. For other rules of punctuation with quotation marks, see Rule 261.) Before quotations

Right: He said with a frown, "They are acting suspiciously."

Right: "You are entirely mistaken," she retorted.

227. Guard against the use of commas where they are not necessary. Especially, do not put a comma between a verb and its subject. As a rule, do not put a comma where no pause is made in reading. Unnecessary commas

228. Do not put a comma, or any other mark of punctuation, before the first member of a series of sentence-elements, unless it would be required there if one element, instead of a series, followed. Misuse before a series

Wrong: During my senior year I studied, Latin, Greek, and chemistry.

Right: During my senior year I studied Latin, Greek, and chemistry.

Wrong: It is valuable, (1) to the student, (2) to the statesman, and (3) to the merchant.

Right: It is valuable (1) to the student, (2) to the statesman, and (3) to the merchant.

For other examples, see the text of Rules 42, 43, 96, 114, 116, 137.

Misuse before a substantive clause

229. Put no comma before a substantive clause introduced by that or how when the governing verb (such as said, thought, supposed) immediately or very closely precedes the clause.

Wrong: The boatswain said, that the wheel was damaged.

Right: The boatswain said that the wheel was damaged.

Wrong: I always supposed, that the foreman was to blame.

Right: I always supposed that the foreman was to blame.

Wrong: They told us, how they had escaped.

Right: They told us how they had escaped.

EXERCISE 90

GENERAL EXERCISES IN THE USE OF THE COMMA

Punctuate the following sentences correctly. After each sentence put the number of the rule which applies.

1. Ever since I have been a regular attendant at the theater.
2. However capable as he was he failed of his purpose.
3. He should as I said before read Pope's Atticus.
4. He is to say the least not trustworthy.
5. He is too weak however to keep any promise at all.
6. They all seemed I thought ashamed of the exhibition.
7. His eyes flashed as he drew his sword and his breath came short and quick.
8. He bought the land with his own money and his bank account was not extremely large either.
9. Mr. Blount was evidently anxious for his eyes kept wandering toward the door.
10. It is a very good story for the author is unusually clever and witty.
11. He is benefited by the new rules but yet he is discontented.
12. Dickens' David Copperfield which is my favorite novel is somewhat autobiographical.
13. I do not want books that instruct I want books that amuse.
14. It is strange that a play so tragic as Lear should give you pleasure.
15. The door flew open and Ralph Rackstraw covered with mud entered the church.
16. When a shotgun is brought in from the field it is usually dirty. 17. Since I had always before that time been so much alone it was not easy for me to make friends. 18. A few days after they sailed the boat sprang a leak. 19. There also was the village doctor a man of fifty years. 20. Thomas De Quincey author of Joan of Arc was an opium-eater. 21. A fine fellow a member of the yacht club was drowned. 22. My dear fellow what made you so careless? 23. The letter was addressed to Syracuse New York and dated May 19 1836. 24. The horse is the most useful of all animals to man. 25. I went away with a good picture of a Chinese laundry in my mind. 26. In the center is a stove around which a number of farmers laborers and boys were gathered. 27. No latest fashions or shimmering silks were displayed in that window. 28. I am glad to see you old man. 29. One day a poor old ragged tramp walked into the yard of a prosperous farm in Dane County and knocked timidly on the door. 30. She felt that she had been slighted. 31. When I used to carry my dinner pail to the little school at Nichol's Corner I felt very self-important. 32. He brought some flowers to Miss Miriam and her sister was jealous. 33. Tomorrow my dear I shall recieve a check. 34. I am not to tell the truth very fond of the game. 35. Indeed I shall take no such answer. 36. Alas it could never be true.

230. Do not use a comma between coördinate independent clauses that are not joined by one of the pure conjunctions, and, but, for, or, neither, nor, except when the clauses are short, have no commas within themselves, and are closely parallel in form and substance. Use a semicolon if it is rhetorically desirable to indicate close relationship between the clauses; otherwise use a period. This error is an inexcusable fault in writing, because, like the "period fault" (see Rule 24) it shows inability to recognize what constitutes a sentence. (See Rules 231 a and 231 b.)

The
comma
fault

Wrong: He had not the habit of concentration, this was the cause of his failure.

Right: He had not the habit of concentration; this was the cause of his failure.

Wrong: He threw the weapon from him, it clattered noisily on the floor.

Right: He threw the weapon from him; it clattered noisily on the floor.

Wrong: We have won for two years, if we win today, we retain the trophy.

Right: We have won for two years; if we win today, we retain the trophy.

Right: The curtains fluttered, the windows rattled, the doors slammed.

EXERCISE 91

The
"comma fault," and the confounding of clauses and sentences

Study Rules 24 and 230. Write the following sentences and groups of sentences correctly punctuated and capitalized: 1. Well I must go now good-bye I'll see you later. 2. She knew nothing of the world her one duty being the care of her father's house while her sister knew nothing of household affairs and cared nothing for the quiet pleasures of the fireside the opera the ballroom and the promenade absorbing all her interest. 3. As soon as we had finished our lunch we jumped down into the pit this was the entrance to the cave we had come to explore stooping a little in order not to strike our heads on the low roof we entered the cave the boys leading the way with their candles. 4. If one says "a black and white dog" one means one dog the coat of which is partly black and partly white while if one says "a black and a white dog" one means two dogs. 5. I suppose I must go if I don't he'll be anxious. 6. A million dollars would yield an income quite sufficient for my needs and a little to spare thus disposing of the great problem of earning a living allowing me also to devote myself to the good of other people. 7. The postman then approached he would surely stop I thought. 8. Since this is the case I intend either to continue my course in engineering or else at the end of this year to drop this course and begin the study of law making a specialty in the latter case of economics and history. 9. It was delightful to have no classes to attend nothing to do but rest and read also to meet my old friends who had come back as I had to spend the vacation at home. 10. This belt runs very slowly and on it the pressman puts the papers they are then carried to the distributing room. 11. At three o'clock the second edition is printed none of this edition is sold in the city. 12. The first papers of the third edition go to the news-dealers these take from fifty to two thousand copies each next the newsboys get their ten or twenty copies each. 13. Should the railroad cut a man's land the man generally has the company agree to build a pass under the track or a roadway over it thus giving the owner easy access to the two fields separated by the track. 14. If that were my good fortune I should surely go next summer to England the country in which my father was born and which I have always longed to visit also to Switzerland for I am certain I should excel in mountain climbing. 15. After they have decided upon the route they send out two parties of surveyors the first party takes surface measurements and drives stakes with the measurements written on them this party also keeps a careful record of all the measurements marked on the stakes. 16. Grout is next thrown in and tamped and leveled this forms the body of the sidewalk.

The Semicolon (;)

231. Use the semicolon —

(a) Between clauses of a compound sentence that are not joined by a conjunction.

Between
clauses of a compound
sentence

Right: He did not go to Canada; he went to Mexico.
For other examples see the text of Rules 10, 20, 40, 42, 84, 88, 93, 158.

NOTE. — As a means of combining sentences into compound sentences, the semicolon may easily be abused. A series of sentences should not be grouped together in this way unless the compound sentence so formed has a distinct and readily-felt unity.

Caution

(b) Between clauses of a compound sentence that are joined by one of the conjunctive adverbs *so, therefore, hence, however, nevertheless, moreover, accord-

Before so, therefore,
etc.

ingly, besides, also, thus, then, still, otherwise, and in fact.

Wrong: I saw no reason for moving, therefore I stayed still.

Right: I saw no reason for moving; therefore I stayed still.

Wrong: He went below and lit the fuse, then he returned to the deck.

Right: He went below and lit the fuse; then he returned to the deck.

Conjunctive adverbs distinguished from simple conjunctions

NOTE. — Good usage makes a clear distinction, as regards punctuation, between conjunctive adverbs and simple coördinating conjunctions (e.g., and, but, or, for). A comma is ordinarily used (see Rule 221 f) between clauses of a compound sentence that are connected by a simple conjunction; but a comma should emphatically not be used between clauses connected by a conjunctive adverb. Compare the two following sentences:

Right: The president bowed, and Hughes began to speak.

Right: The president bowed; then Hughes began to speak.

Before and, but, etc. in certain cases

(c) Ordinarily, between the clauses of a compound sentence that are joined by a simple conjunction, when these clauses are somewhat long, or are subdivided by commas. See, for example, the second sentence of the foregoing note, and also the text of the notes under Rules 14 and 88.

Between involved sentence-members

(d) To separate two or more coördinate members of a simple or complex sentence when those members, or some of them, have commas within themselves.

Right: He said that he had lent his neighbor an ax; that on the next day, needing the ax, he had gone to get it; and that his neighbor had denied borrowing it. [The three objects of "said" are separated not by commas, as ordinarily three objects of a verb should be, but by semicolons, because one of the objects has commas within itself.]

For other examples see the text of Rules 134, 135, and 137.

(e) To separate any two members of a simple or complex sentence when, for any reason, a comma would not make the relation between them immediately clear. Instead of a comma to prevent obscurity

Misleading: If I were a millionaire, I would have horses, and motors, and yachts, and the whole world should minister to my pleasure.

Clear: If I were a millionaire, I would have horses, and motors, and yachts; and the whole world should minister to my pleasure.

See also the sixth sentence in the text of Rule 140 and the first in the text of Rule 142.

EXERCISE 92

Write the following sentences, properly punctuated:

1. These screws control the reticule hence they are called reticule screws.
2. I objected to the plan however since he was bent on it I yielded.
3. A hot fire is necessary therefore a strong draft must be provided.
4. The wood had been injured by warping moreover the metal parts were badly rusted.
5. Sickness delayed their moving therefore we did not get the house so soon as we had planned.
6. What you say is true nevertheless the thing is impossible.
7. The meerschaum becomes finally saturated with nicotine then there is less danger of its breaking.
8. All the cracks were filled with tow thus the craft was made seaworthy.
9. She never laughed nor even smiled moreover her conversation was always of a melancholy tone.
10. She has conversed with Mirabeau hence she must be very old.
11. She wished my father to be informed accordingly I wrote to him that evening.
12. He continually reproached her and she was always offended at his reproaches thus their friendship rapidly grew cold.
13. I saw no reason for declining his invitation besides I enjoyed his society and wished to be with him longer.

Sentences or clauses introduced by so, therefore etc.

14. He is a graduate of Oxford moreover he has traveled extensively on the continent. 15. She now discovered that she had dropped the letter somewhere in the street hence she felt very anxious lest her destination should be found out. 16. Neither would yield a step accordingly there was nothing to do but draw their swords. 17. He practised assiduously and constantly frequented Vougeot's studio thus he became fairly proficient. 18. I know because I saw him go out besides his room is empty as you see. 19. Chapman wasn't in the mood for a picnic moreover he disapproved of picnics on Sunday. 20. The chevalier has disavowed his claim hence the last difficulty is removed. 21. Alexander was sure he could persuade the old lady accordingly he called on her next day. 22. Adrienne was blonde, fat, and jolly thus she seemed well fitted for her part. 23. The old sergeant had a stock of interesting stories to tell me besides he was a good chess-player. 24. He'll get to the crossroads before I do still he can't do any harm there. 25. I have received no word from him for two weeks however I have no anxiety. 26. He is brave and strong and true nevertheless he cannot win against such a force as he has to contend with. 27. They were not decadent in fact they were eminently robust. 28. It is a most erratic production in fact I believe the author is a little insane.

EXERCISE 93

Semicolons to be inserted

Write the following expressions, placing a semicolon after the first predication in each: 1. You have had a temptation I will do you the justice to suppose it was a strong one. 2. The money drawer was open it suggested a means of escape. 3. John was not interested in this talk he stuck to his work and said nothing. 4. There was much to be done my bag was still to be packed and several good-bye calls must be made. 5. My correspondent happened to know Nicholson he and Nicholson were members of the Cliquot Club. 6. He was at home again presently he would see his father. 7. My master is not in sir he is staying at his house in Murrayfield. 8. He can't be rich no man gets rich at that trade. 9. My visit was unfortunately timed the lady it appeared was undergoing a shampoo. 10. The lodge seemed deserted not a light could be seen in any window. 11. He knocked there was no answer. 12. A lighted candle stood on the gravel walk it threw sparkles on the holly bushes. 13. He rose to go this was evidently no place for him. 14. I have not come to amuse you I have come to tell you some plain facts. 15. The gentleman has spoken of the easy way let us now consider the just way.

232. Do not use a semicolon between two members of a simple or complex sentence except in accordance with Rule 231 d or 231 e; use a comma if any punctuation is required at such a place.

Improper
use in place of a comma

Wrong: If you get no thanks from a person you have favored; you have no respect for him.

Right: If you get no thanks from a person you have favored, you have no respect for him.

Wrong: He was black-eyed; dark-complexioned; and altogether very handsome.

Right: He was black-eyed, dark-complexioned, and altogether very handsome.

The Colon (:)

233. The colon should be used after a word, phrase, or sentence constituting an introduction to something that follows, such as a list, an extended quotation, or instances of a general statement preceding. It is the proper mark to follow the salutation of a business letter.

A sign of introduction

Right: There are three causes: poverty, injustice, and indolence.

Right: Burke said in 1765: [A long quotation follows].

Right: The case was this: I wouldn't and he couldn't.

Right: He did it in the following way: First, he cut an ash bough, which he bent into a hoop.
Then . . .

Right: Dear Sir: Gentlemen: My dear Mr. Harris:

EXERCISE 94

Exercises in the use of
the colon

Write the following expressions, correctly punctuating and capitalizing: 1. This is my commandment that ye love one another. 2. Our firm has offices in the following countries Austria, France, Italy, and Japan. 3. Success will be assured if you proceed in the following way first turn the paddle two or three times next pour in a few drops of oil. . . . 4. I should be convinced, but for this damning fact a frog was found in the milk can. 5. Figures of speech are divided into the following classes term figures, modal figures, and sentence and paragraph figures. 6. My statement is proved by this fact that when the door was opened, the odor of gin was perceived. 7. The means employed to move motor cars are these four gasoline, steam, electricity, and plow horses. 8. There be three things which are too wonderful for me — yea, four which I know not the way of an eagle in the air, the way of a serpent upon a rock, the way of a ship in the midst of the sea, and the way of a man with a maid. 9. For three things the earth is disquieted for a servant when he reigneth, for a fool when he is filled with meat, and for an odious woman. 10. Cicero then turned upon the traitor with these words "Quousque tandem, Catalina. . . ." 11. The text of Mr. Dunn's resolution is as follows "Whereas the Supreme Ruler of mankind has seen fit. . . ." 12. I will accept on this one condition that my power shall be absolute. 13. I can say this for him he knows a handsaw from a hawk. 14. The following facts we wish to cite in favor of the plan first the old plan has always proved exceedingly unsatisfactory the experience of President Colburn may serve as an illustration second the new plan is approved by the Reverend Dr. Mannering the most eminent modern authority on juvenile delinquency third . . .

The Question Mark (?)

Direct, not indirect questions

234. Use the question mark after a direct question, but not after an indirect question.

Bad: He asked what caused the accident?

Right: He asked what caused the accident.

Right: He asked, "What caused the accident?"

Right: Will he come? and how long will he stay?

234a. Use the question mark between parentheses to indicate that a statement is conjectural. It should not be used as a notice of humor or irony. (Cf. Rules 252 e and 292.)

Right: This event occurred in 411 B.C.(?)

Wrong: After his polite (?) remarks, we have nothing to say.

Right: After his polite remarks, we have nothing to say.

The Exclamation Mark (!)

235. Use the exclamation mark after a sentence, a virtual sentence, an exclamation in question form, or an interjection, to indicate strong emotion.

Right: I cannot and will not believe it!

Right: A pretty situation! What! How dare you say so!

The Dash (—)

236. Use the dash —

(a) When a sentence is abruptly broken off before its completion.

Interrup-
tions

Right: If the scythe is rusty — by the way, did you get that scythe at Pumphrey's?

(b) Instead of a comma, in case the comma would have been required had the matter between the dashes, or introduced by the dash, been omitted.

Comma an dash

Right: Only one thing was wanting — a boat.

Right: If you should see him — you might meet him on the train — give him my message.

Parenthetic
use

(c) As a substitute for parenthesis marks.

Right: I dressed — you may not believe this, but it is true — in ten minutes.

With summarizing
words

(d) Before a word summarizing the preceding part of a sentence.

Right: If you go to bed early, get up early, never loiter or trifle, always employ periods of enforced idleness in serious thought or instructive reading — if you do all this, you will be derided by the Omicron Pi Chi fraternity.

Before an expression having the effect of an afterthought

(e) Before a repetition or modification having the effect of an afterthought.

Right: Oh yes, he was polite — polite as a Chesterfield — obsequious in fact.

When a sentence-
member is set apart
on the page

(f) After the word immediately preceding a sentence-element that is set apart on the page from the first part of the sentence. For illustration, see the text of Rules 221, 231, 236, 240, 247, and 252, and the Right examples under Rule 213.

NOTE. — If another mark of punctuation precedes the sentence-member set apart, the dash may be dispensed with. See the Right examples under Rules 211 and 212.

Before appositives

(g) Before an appositive that is prepared for by the preceding words; or before an appositive that is separated by several words from its principal substantive.

Right: I wish to ask regarding one particular law — the pension law.

Right: One of my old class-mates hailed me on the street — a man named Roberts.

Indiscriminate use

237. Do not use dashes indiscriminately, where commas, periods, or other marks of punctuation belong. The free use of dashes as substitutes for other kinds of punctuation is a careless, slipshod, and debilitating practice that should be avoided like any excess.

EXERCISE 95

GENERAL EXERCISE IN PUNCTUATION

Write the following sentences, punctuating them correctly. After each mark of punctuation, write within brackets the number of the rule in accordance with which the mark is used. 1. On the south side for about fifty feet in it is divided into two stories. 2. It will never rank high as an intercollegiate game for the students find greater enjoyment in a contest between teams. 3. First of all let me say do not come here unless you have plenty of money for expenses are high. 4. I advise you however to investigate for yourself. 5. Ruling-pens like any other sharp instrument become dull with use. 6. When the instruments are laid away especially if they are not to be used for some time the compasses should be left open for otherwise they will lose their spring. 7. The better the health of the men is the more they can accomplish. 8. The benefit does not lie only in the development of individual students but it lies also in the good done to the college as a whole. 9. The report will spread to remote villages and people in the backwoods will be induced to seek the college. 10. The yard is bordered on the west side by a row of pine trees and other trees and shrubs are planted about the lawn. 11. Along the east side are a number of plum trees and several flower beds dot the lawn near by. 12. This statement was made to Mr. A. E. Storey chairman of the committee. 13. If our laws are not what they should be it is time they were amended. 14. While we were eating a child the son of one of the natives approached. 15. Some were armed with bolos but an order was given that no one should fire. 16. After the ship is in the upper gate of the lock is closed. 17. Bishop of Beauvais thy victim died in fire. 18. I slept very late slept in fact until noon. 19. The back of the table its square corners its size its heaviness these are features I did not perceive. 20. At the séance the following incident

General
exercise
in pun-ction

occurred a gauze robed figure gliding as it seemed from behind a screen said she was the spirit of my sister and fell on my neck. 21. This phenomenon has received a recognized name among alienists namely aphasia. 22. The great difference in fact between the two kinds of thinking is this that empirical thinking is reproductive but reasoning is productive. 23. It shone by its own light a strange thing to see. 24. We think that the premises of both controversialists were unsound that on these premises Addison reasoned well and Steele ill and that consequently Addison brought out a false conclusion while Steele blundered upon the truth. 25. It was due to the great satirist who alone knew how to use ridicule without abusing it who without inflicting a wound effected a great social reform who reconciled wit and virtue after a long and disastrous separation during which wit had been led astray by profligacy and virtue by fanaticism. 26. The pamphlet contains seventy-two pages and much information concerning the work of the past year is furnished within this space much more than was given to the public in the smaller publications of 1921 1922 and 1923. 27. The state's attorney who has been indefatigable in the effort to obtain evidence against Magill the detective on the case and the special grand jurymen are all puzzled.

Parentheses ()

Relative
position of other marks

238. When a sentence contains matter set off by parentheses, a comma, a period, or other mark of punctuation belonging to the part before such matter, should be placed after the second parenthesis mark, not elsewhere.

Wrong: I will ask him by telephone, (assuming he has a telephone) and I think he will agree (though I may be mistaken.)

Wrong: I will ask him by telephone (assuming he has a telephone,) and I think he will agree, (though I may be mistaken).

Right: I will ask him by telephone 'assuming he has a telephone), and I think he will agree (though I may be mistaken).

239. A comma should not be used with parentheses unless it would be required were there no parenthetical matter. Incorrect use of commas with parentheses

Wrong: The sheriff gave him (as his oath required), the most effective help. [The sentence "The sheriff gave him the most effective help" requires no comma after "him."]

Right: The sheriff gave him (as his oath required) the most effective help.

240. Do not use parentheses to enclose matter that is not parenthetical. Do not use them — Misuse in general

(a) To emphasize a word; italicize. (See Rule 284.) Misuse for emphasis Bad: "The man (who) they thought was dead surprised them" is correct.

Right: "The man who they thought was dead surprised them" is correct.

(b) To enclose a word about which something is said as a word. Such words should be italicized. (See Rule 284.) Misuse with words discussed Wrong: (Party) is often incorrectly used for (person).

Right: Party is often incorrectly used for person.

(c) To indicate the title of a book; italicize. (See Rule 284.) Misuse with literary titles Wrong: Garland's story (Among the Corn Rows) is pathetic.

Right: Garland's story Among the Corn Rows is pathetic.

(d) To enclose a letter, number, or symbol, unless it is used parenthetically. Misuse with letters and symbols Bad: A (v) shaped plate of steel.

Right: A v-shaped plate of steel.

Bad: It is marked with the figure (2).

Right: It is marked with the figure 2.

Misuse for canceling

(e) To cancel a word or passage. (See Rule 216.)

Brackets []

Words interpolated in a quotation

241. Square brackets, [], are used to enclose a word or words interpolated in a quotation by the person quoting. Words enclosed in parentheses, (), occurring in a quotation, are understood to belong to the quotation; words enclosed in brackets, [], are understood to be interpolated by the writer quoting.

Right: "I would gladly," writes Landor, "see our language enriched . . . At present [in the eighteenth century] we recur to the Latin and reject the Saxon . . ."

Quotation Marks (" ")

NOTE. — See Rules 192 and 193 for the paragraphing of direct quotations and of dialogues.

For direct,
not indirect
quotations

242. Use quotation marks to enclose a direct quotation, but not to enclose an indirect quotation.

Wrong: He said "that he was grieved."

Right: He said that he was grieved.

Right: He said, "I am grieved."

Omission

243. Do not fail to put quotation marks at the beginning and the end of every quotation.

Misuse within a quotation

244. Do not punctuate sentences of a single speech as if they were separate speeches.

Bad: She said, "Is this the truth?" "Then I must tell my husband." "He ought to know."

Right: She said, "Is this the truth? Then I must tell my husband. He ought to know."

245. When an expression like said he is interpolated within a quotation or placed after it, the following rules apply:

Quotation with said interpolated:

(a) The expression should not be included within the quotation marks at the beginning and the end of the quotation.

Said he excluded

Wrong: "If that is true, he said, I am lost."

Right: "If that is true," he said, "I am lost."

(b) The quoted words preceding the expression should be followed by a question mark or an exclamation mark if they form a complete interrogatory or exclamatory sentence; otherwise by a comma; never by a period or semicolon.

Marks after part preceding said he

Wrong: "Will you help," he asked?

Right: "Will you help?" he asked.

Wrong: "I will help," he answered.

Right: "I will help," he answered.

Wrong: "I will help you;" he said, "you deserve it."

Right: "I will help you," he said; "you deserve it."

(c) If the quoted words preceding the expression form a complete sentence, a period should follow the expression, even if a question or exclamation mark follows the words preceding.

Marks after said he: Period

Wrong: "Won't you come?" she said, "we need you."

Right: "Won't you come?" she said. "We need you."

(d) If the quoted words preceding the expression would be followed, but for the expression, by a semicolon, a semicolon should follow the expression.

Semicolon

Right: "He didn't go to Canada," the teller informed me; "he went to Mexico."

Comma (e) In every case in which a period or a semicolon is not required (according to Rules c and d, above) after the expression, a comma should follow the expression.

Right: "I am," growled the assassin, "your doomsman."

Said he not capitalized (f) The expression should not be capitalized.

Right: "Go to the treasury," said the king, "and help yourself."

Capitalizing of part following said he (g) The part of the quotation following the expression should not be capitalized unless it is a new sentence.

Wrong: "Hammer on the window," advised the policeman, "Until he gets up."

Right: "Hammer on the window," advised the policeman. "until he gets up."

See also the Right examples under Rules d, e, and f.

246. Titles of literary, musical, and artistic works, and of periodicals may be inclosed in quotation marks, but the preferred practice is to italicize titles of whole publications or works and to use quotation marks for the titles of chapters, articles, etc. (See Rule 286.)

Right: The second chapter of Meredith's Evan Harrington is entitled "The Heritage of the Son."

Relative position of other marks of punctuation 247. When a quotation mark and another mark of punctuation both follow the same word —

(a) A question or exclamation mark should stand first if it applies to the quotation and not to the sentence containing the quotation.

Wrong: He said, "Are you hurt"?

Right: He said, "Are you hurt?"

(b) The quotation mark should stand first if the question or exclamation mark applies, not to the quotation, but to the sentence containing the quotation.

Wrong: Did the letter say, "Come tonight at ten?"

Right: Did the letter say, "Come tonight at ten"?

(c) In either case no comma or period should be used in addition to the quotation mark and the question or exclamation mark.

Wrong: He cried "Fire!", and began to run.

Right: He cried "Fire!" and began to run.

Wrong: Did he say "I object."?

Right: Did he say, "I object"?

(d) A period or a comma should always precede the quotation mark.

Period or comma always inside

Right: "If you have a light," said John, "give it to me."

Right: He asked if I carried what he called "the makings," but I could not satisfy him.

(e) A semicolon or a colon should always follow the quotation mark.

Colon or semicolon always outside

Right: I have seen that "abode of poverty"; and the "poverty" is truly marvelous.

Right: I have this to say regarding the man's "abject poverty": that it is fictitious.

248. A quotation within a quotation is marked by single quotation marks; one within that by double marks.

Quotation
within a quotation

Wrong: I repeated those lines of Tennyson,

"Thou shalt hear the "Never, never," whispered by
the phantom years,

And a song from out the distance in the ringing of thine ears,"

until I knew them by heart.

Right: I repeated those lines of Tennyson,
 "Thou shalt hear the 'Never, never,' whispered by
 the phantom years,
 And a song from out the distance in the ringing of
 thine ears,"
 until I knew them by heart.

Wrong: "Then," continued Brightman, "the captain
 shouted, 'Cast off!'"

Right: "Then," continued Brightman, "the captain
 *shouted, 'Cast off!'"

Quotations
 of several paragraphs

249. When a quotation consists of several paragraphs (see Rule 212), quotation marks should be placed at the beginning of each paragraph, and at the end of the quotation; not elsewhere, except in accordance with Rule 245 a. For illustration, see the example under Rule 212.

With unfamiliar technical terms

250. Quotation marks may sometimes be used to mark a technical term presumably unfamiliar to the reader. (See, for example, the text of Rule 258 and the Right example under Element in the Glossary.) But —

Familiar technical
 terms

NOTE. — No such marking is needed for technical or quasi-technical terms that are perfectly familiar to the reader. None is ordinarily needed, for instance, for wire-puller, boss, off-year, touch-down, kick-off, haze, corner the market.

Slang and nicknames

251. Quotation marks may sometimes be used to indicate apology for slang or nicknames. But note:

Good English mistaken for slang

(a) No such apology is needed for hard hit, brace up, rough it, to duck, to oust, to loaf, to cut a figure, the whys and wherefores, the forties, willy nilly, day dreams, proxy, bugbear, humbug, hoax, tomfoolery, bamboozle, whoop, ninny, milksop, skinflint, parson, and other good English expressions wrongly supposed to be slang.

(b) In a humorous or colloquial context such apology for slang or for nicknames is artistically inconsistent with the style, and obstructs the legitimate purpose of the style. Apology out of place

Inartistic: When radicalism "threw up its hat" for "Rob" Rowland, "rough-house," and reform, conservatism "took to the tall timbers." "Rob," though "cock of the walk" in the capital, has been "sassed" by his home paper, which attributes his influence to hypnotism and "hot air."

Improved in effectiveness: When radicalism threw up its hat for Rob Rowland, rough-house, and reform, conservatism took to the tall timbers. Rob, though cock of the walk in the capital, has been sassed by his home paper, which attributes his influence to hypnotism and hot air.

(c) The nicknames of persons in real life or in fiction who are known by nicknames altogether, or as commonly as by their proper names, should not be enclosed in quotation marks. Nicknames that are virtually proper names

Wrong: "Cal" Coolidge, "Battling" Nelson, "Al" Smith, "Babe" Ruth, and "Bill" Hart were present.

Right: Cal Coolidge, Battling Nelson, Al Smith, Babe Ruth, and Bill Hart were present.

Wrong: Two women, "the Duchess" and "Mother" Shipton, and two men, Mr. Oakhurst and "Uncle Billy," were ordered to leave town.

Right: Two women, the Duchess and Mother Shipton, and two men, Mr. Oakhurst and Uncle Billy, were ordered to leave town.

Wrong: As I was "bucking" for "Perky's" "quiz," I was interrupted by "Fatty" Holmes and "Smudge" Williams, who refused to "clear out."
[See Rule b, above.]

Right: As I was cramming for Perky's quiz, I was interrupted by Fatty Holmes and Smudge Williams, who refused to clear out.

Sundry
misuses:
With the title of a composition
With proper
names

252. Do not use quotation marks —

(a) To enclose the title at the head of a composition, unless the title is a quotation.

(b) To enclose proper names, including names of animals.

Wrong: I expect to go to "Oberammergau."

Right: I expect to go to Oberammergau.

Wrong: "Thomas" and "Rover" were good friends.

Right: Thomas and Rover were good friends.

With
proverbs

(c) To enclose proverbial expressions that do not constitute grammatically and logically complete statements.

Wrong: It was "nipped in the bud."

Right: It was nipped in the bud.

Wrong: He seemed to be "as mad as a March hare."

Right: He seemed to be as mad as a March hare.

With words coined extempore

(d) To enclose words coined extempore.

Wrong: The manning and "womaning" of the enterprise will be difficult.

Right: The manning and womaning of the enterprise will be difficult.

Wrong: It is not bronchitis or peritonitis or any of the "itises."

Right: It is not bronchitis or peritonitis or any of the itises.

For labeling humor

(e) To serve the undignified and inartistic purpose of labeling your own humor or irony. (Cf. Rules 234*a* and 292.)

Bad: Such is the ardor of this "pious" Hotspur.

Right: Such is the ardor of this pious Hotspur.

Bad: Senator Platt's speech on the bill was a sort of "funeral oration."

Right: Senator Platt's speech on the bill was a sort of funeral oration.

(f) For no reason at all.

Use without any reason

Bad: If the Creator in his "power and munificence" is good to me, I shall gain "distinguished success."

Right: If the Creator in his power and munificence is good to me, I shall gain distinguished success.

EXERCISE 96

Write the following expressions, punctuating and capitalizing correctly: 1. You are my first patient the doctor said what is your name 2. Do not talk at random said Stevens too much improvisation leaves the mind void 3. Felix is a pretty name said she it is Latin I think 4. This is strange said Josephine the coach never stopped here before 5. Listen to me the mayor continued there is still room for a man to slip under this cart and raise it 6. I will go at once he repeated does the old woman know the facts 7. Do not interrupt me now said the lawyer when my clerk returns you may speak to him 8. Of course I have a mother replied the child hasn't every one a mother 9. I don't understand you said the peasant what underground passage do you mean 10. We must hurry along Charles said the old gentleman are you sure this is the right road 11. A mere spark was all that was needed he said the explosion was not surprising 12. This man has saved my life said Gauvain does any one here know who he is

Said he interpolated and concluding a predication

EXERCISE 97

Write the following sentences, placing between the two predication in each sentence the words here enclosed in brackets, and supplying the necessary punctuation: 1. Remove this rubbish; I want the room clean [he commanded] 2. Do not stay long; you will be wanted presently [he said] 3. I am sure it will be pretty; his gifts always are [she said] 4. They are very good friends; they might be taken for two sisters [she observed] 5. I have finished; you may go now [said his father] 6. This is my own affair; you must not interfere [said the colonel] 7. I must start at once; the trial will occur tomorrow [the lawyer said] 8. Tell him to wait; I shall come down

Said he with a semicolon presently [she said to the servant] 9. I have men enough; there is no need of hiring others [said Ryan] 10. I knew nothing of this transaction; George never mentioned it to me [said I]

EXERCISE 98

*Said he interpolated — miscellaneous
examples*

Write the following expressions, punctuating and capitalizing correctly: 1. Well Cosette the landlady said why don't you take your doll 2. It is very simple the man replied she does it because it amuses her 3. I wish to go to bed now said the traveler where is my room 4. That sir Thenardier explained is my wife's wedding bonnet 5. By the way his wife continued don't forget that I mean to turn her out tomorrow 6. And suppose suggested Jean that you were rid of her 7. Where is Frances Street asked the old lady isn't it in this neighborhood 8. Sir he said I need fifty francs 9. Be silent my dear whispered the husband let's see what he will say 10. You are right he exclaimed give me my hat and I'll follow him 11. I ought to have brought my gun he reflected the fellow may be obstinate 12. Well continued the officer we found the door bolted 13. What of that I answered does that prove any bad intention 14. I beg your pardon said Javert the offense was accidental 15. Who is he every one asked 16. The nun is dead remarked Fauchelevent that is her knell we hear 17. Is she your daughter asked Henry if so of course she is welcome 18. That is the doctor going away the porter said to me he has probably not been able to relieve the patient 19. I don't understand you said Mrs. Bethune of whom are you speaking 20. I will do it Reverend Mother said Fauvent solemnly I will do it just as you direct 21. You have a gimlet remarked Jean Valjean make a few holes in the cover 22. If the weather is good I heard him say I will meet you here at ten 23. Father said the child what is in that box that smells so nice 24. I do my duty said the woman you neglect yours 25. I prefer answered the soldier not to disobey orders 26. What are you afraid of interrupted Clancy speak up and be quick about it 27. I advise you said Madeleine threateningly not to interrupt me at present 28. Do you wish asked the servant to see my master

29. What did you say asked Bryce 30. Is there any harm in that inquired the girl 31. More often do you say what do you mean by more often 32. Alas cried the woman where are my children 33. Shall I go and find them asked the priest 34. Instead of asking weakly will you please let me pass why didn't you say sternly let me pass 35. Great heavens exclaimed Bangs in a fury was ever a general addressed in such terms 36. Was it not your duty asked my mother to remain at your post 37. He shrunk back toward the wall crying in the extremity of his terror my God my God 38. Do you know who it was who died saying don't give up the ship 39. Come sir brace up what do you mean by that melodramatic expression all is lost 40. She kept repeating how wonderful how wonderful 41. His letter says is the messenger dependable how does he come to use that abominable word dependable. 42. Ah cried the woman in high indignation how heartless how cruel 43. Why kill so many asked Cimourdain when two would suffice 44. Two said Imanus puzzled what two 45. What poem begins with the words this is the forest primeval 46. Have you ever heard the saying the pen is mightier than the sword 47. Do you consent asked Lantenac 48. Why do you come here thundered the old man who asked you to come 49. What is the meaning of the words the wind bloweth where it listeth 50. I asked is there fighting in Dol He answered yes my ci-devant seigneur is fighting another ci-devant What do you think he meant by my ci-devant seigneur

Quotation mark with question or exclamation mark

The Apostrophe (')

253. In the possessive singular of a noun an apostrophe should precede the inflectional s; e.g., "the boy's cap." In the possessive plural of a noun of which the nominative plural ends in s, an apostrophe should follow the final s; e.g., "the boys' caps." In the possessive plural of other nouns, an apostrophe should precede the final s; e.g., men's, women's, children's, oxen's.

Possessive case

Nouns ending in s

254. Do not form the possessive singular of a noun ending in s by putting an apostrophe before or after the s; add 's to the complete word. If a word of two or more syllables ends in s and is not accented on the last syllable, the possessive may be formed by adding either the apostrophe or 's.

Wrong: Dicken's novels. Burn's poems.

Right: Dickens' novels, or Dickens's novels.

(Burns's poems.)

For conscience' sake. For righteousness' sake.

Misuse with its, etc.

255. Never use an apostrophe with the possessive adjectives its, hers, ours, yours, theirs. The form it's is a contraction for it is. The possessive singular of one should be written one's and the possessive plural ones'.

With contractions

256. In a contracted word an apostrophe should stand in the place of the omitted letter or letters, not elsewhere.

Wrong: Hav'nt, do'nt, does'nt, ca'nt, is'nt, oclock.

Right: Haven't, don't, doesn't, can't, isn't, o'clock.

In forming plurals

257. The plural of letters of the alphabet and of numerical symbols is formed by adding 's to the letter or symbol. The plural of a word considered as a word may also be formed in the same way. But the regular plural of a noun should never be formed by adding 's. The apostrophe is commonly omitted from the plural of figures referring to interest-bearing bonds.

Right: His U's were like V's and his 2's like Z's.

Right: In your letter there are too many I's and also too many and's.

Wrong: The Powers's, the Jones's, the Waters's and the Rogers's sold piano's and folio's.

Right: The Powerses, the Joneses, the Waterses, and the Rogerses sold pianos and folios.

Right: Rock Island 4s.

EXERCISE 99

Write the following, inserting apostrophes wherever they are required: 1. We took a few moments rest. 2. My fathers house is larger than yours. 3. The ten Eastern delegates objection was disregarded. 4. I had two weeks vacation on my aunts farm. 5. Peters wifes mother lay sick. 6. Girls costumes are more elaborate than boys. 7. Millionaires lives are not always happy. 8. A bulls neck is thicker than a giraffes. 9. Glue is made of cows hoofs. 10. A weeks work is better than three months vacation. 11. He went to the farmers house to ask for the ladys hand. 12. An agents error is an employers loss. 13. For your souls good you may have an hour reprieve. 14. The singers voice touched the peoples hearts. 15. Smiths son is attending a boys school. 16. Soldiers lives are less eventful than policemen lives. 17. Our dinner consisted of frogs legs and pheasants wings. 18. Kates example affected Marys character. 19. Hamlets unkindness caused Ophelias madness. 20. Laborers wages depend on capitalists pleasure.

Miscellaneous possessives of nouns

The Hyphen (-)

258. Hyphenate an adjective formed of two or more words when used before the noun. Examples: Compound words

(a) (Noun plus adjective) dirt-cheap, coal-black, water-tight.

(b) (Adjective plus noun or noun plus noun, plus d or ed) bright-eyed, strong-minded, silver-tongued, bull-necked, eagle-eyed.

(c) (Adverb plus participle, or numeral plus noun) far-reaching, well-meaning, well-educated, worn-out, three-inch.

(d) (Participle preceded by a substantive denoting means or agency) self-possessed, iron-clad, tear-stained.

(e) (Noun, adjective, participle or gerund preceded by the name of an object acted upon or concerned) tax-collector, dog-catcher, self-control, labor-saving.

(f) (Groups of words which are to be read as a single part of speech, when the omission of the hyphen might obscure the sense) A matter-of-fact statement, my right-hand man, a high-school graduate, a month-old baby, an all-round man.

NOTE. — To-day, to-night, to-morrow, good-bye are sometimes written with a hyphen.

No simple rule can be given for determining whether a compound word should be hyphenated or written "solid." One must simply learn, from observation and from dictionaries, what is the correct practice in each case. Note that the following words should not be hyphenated: together, without, nevertheless, moreover, inasmuch, instead, childhood, farewell, wardrobe, chipmunk, nickname, surname, midnight, railroad, misprint, pronoun, semicolon, withstand, outstretch, rewrite.

258a. Do not join an adjective in ly to an adjective or participle; e.g., carefully laid plans.

258b. Use a hyphen between the numerator and the denominator of a fraction written in words unless either part is written with a hyphen: three-fourths, three twenty-fourths, nineteenth, thirty-one fortieths. Do not hyphenate one half in "He gave me one half and kept the other half."

258c. Usually hyphenate compounds of fellow, father, mother, brother, sister, daughter, great, life, world, ex, pan, ultra, and of a noun derived from a

Examples: fellow-beings, father-in-law, mother-tongue, great-grandmother, life-interest, world-power, ex-President Taft, pan-American, ultra-violet, story-teller.

259. In dividing a word at the end of a line (see Rules 263-266, below), place a hyphen after the first element of the word, and there only; never put a hyphen at the beginning of a line.

At the beginning of a line

EXERCISE 100

A passage to be written at dictation. Officer Callahan, a man of oxlike intellect (indeed, he is very ill educated and stupid, although well-meaning, perhaps), arrested my well-beloved bulldog, Touch-and-go, today, and gave him into the hands of Jensen the dog-catcher, who in turn passed him on to the pound master. My iron-jawed, short-haired favorite, dressed up as usual in his silver-studded collar, but wearing no muzzle, was according to his daily custom walking statelily down Hill Street. There in her flower garden Miss Josephine Jones, neat looking and daintily dressed, was tending her rosebushes; with her was her silky-haired, chicken-hearted setter, following her with its dovelike eyes or sometimes, in its scatter-brained fashion, chasing a butterfly. As Touch-and-go passed by the yard, this empty-headed butterfly-chaser danced up to him, leaping over the two-foot wall that borders the yard, and noisily yelping, setter-like, to attract the newcomer's attention. This is a well-established fact; several passers-by saw and have testified that the setter was the aggressor. Miss Josephine, terror-stricken, raised an outcry, but it was too late; the setter was already fast in the vice-like grip of the bulldog. Now, the last-mentioned performer in this little comedy was only trying to teach the over-familiar puppy dog a much-needed lesson in good manners; but the tender-hearted mistress thought that the light-weight was about to be murdered by the heavy-weight. She therefore wrung her lily-white hands and shouted for the police. Police Officer Callahan, that bull-necked, round-bellied, heavy-footed peace-preserver, was about half a mile up the street,

Dictation exercises in hyphening (See Rules 102-124) eating unpaid-for peanuts and conversing with a white-aproned nursemaid. With the speed of a steam roller and the self-important air of a general-in-chief, Callahan drew near and arrested Touch-and-go. The setter and his mistress comforted each other for a few minutes, and then the first-mentioned resumed his insect-chasing, and the second-mentioned her rosebush-tending. But, as above stated, Touch-and-go wore no muzzle, therein violating our strictly enforced city laws; so he was turned over to the above-mentioned dog-catcher, who, bidding a polite good-bye to Miss Josephine, took him to the pound. I paid a twenty-dollar fine this afternoon and recovered my bow-legged hero. Tomorrow he will wear that much-detested muzzle.

Miscellaneous Rules

Punctuation with such as

260. When such as is used to introduce an example or several examples, it should be preceded by a comma (see Rule 221 h), a dash (see Rule 236 b), or a semicolon (see Rule 231 e), and should be followed by no mark of punctuation, unless a parenthetical expression is inserted between the such as and the word that it introduces.

Right: I read many historical novels, such as Romola, Rienzi, and Quo Vadis.

See also the text of Rules 144 b, 145, 146.

Punctua-
tion with namely,
viz., etc.

261. In introducing an example or an explanation with one of the expressions namely, viz., e.g., that is, and i.e., apply the following rules:

(a) The expression should always be followed by a comma.

Wrong: I selected it for two reasons namely: because it was well made, and because it was inexpensive.

Right: I selected it for two reasons: namely, because it was well made, and because it was inexpensive.

See also the text of Rules 16 a, 106, and 136.

(b) When the expression introduces a sentence or a principal clause, the expression should be preceded by a period or a semicolon (see Rules 230, 231 a).

Right: There is a vital difference between them; i.e., the Greek is an artist, and the Roman is a statesman.

See also the text of Rules 90 g, 111.

(c) When the expression introduces a merely appositional member, or several such, the expression should be preceded by a semicolon (see Rule 231 e), by a dash (see Rule 236 b), or by a colon (see Rule 233).

Right: They arrested the man who was really responsible — namely, the cashier.

Right: There are three parties: namely, Tories, Whigs, and Radicals.

See also the text of Rules 2*d*, 106, 123, 124, 269.

NOTE. — When the expression and the words it introduces are enclosed in parentheses, the foregoing Rules b and c do not apply. See the text of Rules 99, 121, 136.

EXERCISE 101

Write the following, punctuating correctly: 1. I demand only one thing namely justice. 2. Only two dances are used namely the waltz and the highland fling. 3. Two words I fear I habitually misspell namely athlete and disappoint. 4. You will find there a person whom I wish you to know namely Madeline Mooney. 5. Remember particularly the books I mentioned first namely Middlemarch, Kenilworth, and Hard Cash. 6. It is attractive but for a serious drawback namely the interminable piano strumming above. 7. She bade me admire what she called her chief treasures namely an intaglio of Sophocles, a Della Robbia replica, and a bronze bulldog. 8. Surety bonds are required of three officers viz. the president, the treasurer, and the janitor. 9. He has disregarded an important requirement viz. the requirement made in article VI. 10. They should appear at those times when they have promised to appear viz. whenever the choir master shall request it. 11. On that corner you will find three interesting buildings viz. the subtreasury, the cathedral, and a saloon. 12. We shall study the three principal varieties viz. tropes, miracles, and moralities. 13. He was found waiting at his post namely the cottage which he had been ordered to guard. 14. One characteristic of his I must commend namely the fact that he steadfastly discountenances stained glass.

Namely

Marks of punctuation
at the beginning of lines

262. Never put a period, a comma, a semicolon, a colon, an exclamation point, or a question mark at the beginning of a line; put it instead at the end of the preceeding line.

EXERCISE 102

General
exercise in spelling,
punctuat-
ing, capitalizing,
italicizing,
and para-
graphing

Write the following passage, correctly punctuating, capitalizing, and paragraphing it: The principal peculiarity of professor collins was absent-mindedness this often led him to mislay or lose articles necessary to his business such as books lecture notes etc one day as he and another professor were walking down a street in the village in which the college was situated professor collins suddenly stopped looked perplexed and said why my notes for today's lecture have disappeared oh that's all right said his friend smiling give an impromptu lecture the subject is too complicated for that answered professor collins truly this is serious if I don't find those notes soon I must disappoint my class of forty law students what is that in your hand asked his friend a package I intended to mail at that last post-box was the answer it contains some copies of the law review my notes were in a separate envelope of about the same size wait for me a minute said the other professor with a knowing look he went to the post-box which they had passed a minute before and took from the top of it a large envelope this he brought to professor collins saying don't lose these necessary things again professor collins delighted at being relieved from the anxiety which he had been suffering seized the package and said gratefully as Longfellow puts it thanks thanks to thee my worthy friend oh never fear I'll not lose them again at least not today.

SYLLABICATION

263. In dividing a word at the end of a line, make the separation between syllables, not elsewhere. (See also Rule 259.)

There is no uniform principle for determining just what are the several syllables of any given word; one must rely largely on learning, by observation and by reference to dictionaries, what is the correct syllabication in individual cases. Nevertheless, a good many errors may be avoided by observing the following simple rules:

Rules for syllabica-
tion:

(a) Do not set apart from each other combinations of letters the separate pronunciation of which is impossible or unnatural.

Follow
pronunciation

A. Wrong: Exc-ursion; go-ndola; illustr-ate; instr-uction; pun-ctuation.

Right: Ex-cursion; gon-dola; illus-trate; in-struc-tion; punc-tuation.

B. Wrong: Prostr-ate; pri-nciple; abs-urd; fini-shing; sugges-tion.

Right: Pros-trate; prin-ciple; ab-surd; finish-ing; sug-ges-tion.

C. Wrong: Nat-ion; conclus-ion; invent-ion; introduct-ion; abbr-eviat-ion.

Right: Na-tion; conclu-sion; inven-tion; intro-duc-tion; abbre-via-tion.

D. Wrong: Diffic-ult; tob-acco; exc-ept; univ-ersity; dislo-dgment.

Right: Diffi-cult; to-bacco; ex-cept; uni-versity; dis-lodg-ment.

Prefixes

(b) As a rule, divide between a prefix and the letter following it.

Wrong: Bet-ween; pref-ix; antec-edent; conf-ine; del-ight.

Right: Be-tween; pre-fix; ante-cedent; con-fine; de-light.

Suffixes

(c) As a rule, divide between a suffix and the letter preceding it. Divide, e.g., before -ing, -ly, -ment, -ed (when it is pronounced as a separate syllable, as in delight-ed), -ish, -able, -er, -est.

Right: Lov-ing; love-ly; judg-ment; invit-ed; Jew-ish; punish-able; strong-er; strong-est.

Doubled consonants

(d) As a rule, when a consonant is doubled, divide between the two letters. This rule often takes precedence of Rule c above.

Right: Rub-ber; ab-breviation; oc-casion; ad-dition; af-finity; Rus-sian; expres-sion; omis-sion; com-mit-tee; ex-cel-lent; stop-ping; drop-ping; ship-ping; equip-ping.

The digraphs th, ck, etc., not to be divided

(e) Never divide in the midst of th pronounced as in the or thin; sh as in push; ph as in phonograph; ng as in sing; gn as in sign; tch as in fetch; and gh pronounced as in rough, or silent. Never divide ck except in accordance with Rule f, below. Do not divide vowel digraphs.

Wrong: Cat-holic; ras-hness; disc-harge; diap-hragm; gin-gham.

Right: Cath-olic; rash-ness; dis-charge; dia-phragm; ging-ham.

Wrong: Consig-nment; wat-ching; doug-hty.

Right: consign-ment; watch-ing; dough-ty.

Wrong: Bo-at, sa-il, Spa-in.

Right: Boat, sail, Spain.

The divisions post-humous (see page 326), dis-habille (see page 326), Lap-ham, nightin-gale, distin-guish, sin-gle, sig-nature, and Leg-horn, form no exceptions to the foregoing rule, for in them th, sh, etc., are pronounced each as two distinct sounds.

(f) In dividing words like edible, possible, bridle, trifle, beagle, crackle, twinkle, staple, entitle do not set le apart by itself; always place with it the preceding consonant. (But see Rule 266.)

Final le not to be set apart

Right: Edi-ble; possi-ble; bri-dle; tri-fle; bea-gle; crac-kle; etc.

NOTE. — To Rules b, c, and d, above, there are exceptions. For a statement of these, and for a comprehensive treatment of syllabication, the reader is referred to the Introduction of Webster's International Dictionary.

264. Never divide a monosyllable.

Monosylla-
bles

Wrong: Tho-ugh, stre-ngth.

265. Do not divide a syllable of one letter from the rest of the word.

A syllable of one letter

Wrong: Man-y, a-gainst, a-long, ston-y.

266. Dividing words at the end of lines should be avoided as much as possible. And such awkward divisions as the following should never be made:

Awkward
and too frequent division

Bad: eve-ry, ev-en, on-ly, eight-een.

EXERCISE 103

Write each of the following words on two lines, showing how it may be correctly divided at the end of a line. For example:

Syllabica-
tion:

remember

incomplete remember

incomplete

Miscellaneous

A. gradual, genuine, signal, crimson, ridiculous, cholera, popular, optimist, emphasis, comparison, account, quarrel, censure, recognize, depression, melancholy, deduction, inference, gorgeous, purple, friolous, summon, energetic, scientific, engineering, geniality, artificiality, hypocrite, condemnation, automatic, unconscious, prominence, happiness, justifiable, innumerable, intelligent, comparatively, contemporary, elaborate, hostility, suspicion, manufacture, civilization, unfriendliness, conjunction, contradiction, vulgarity, attempt, revenge, weakness, philosophy, immeasurable.

Prefixes

B. depict, entire, expend, admire, convene, detest, inspire, intervene, obscure, postpone, submit, superstitious, expound, beguile, forlorn, address, endure, conscript, catalogue, epitaph, detail, infuse, intersperse, oblige, postscript, object, prevail, subject, anagram, explain, becoming, epigram, advert, confuse, devotion, increase, interesting, oblique, provoke, prescribe, substitute, explicit, behave, programme, forgive, impossible, adduce, impose, undutiful, unnatural, infrequent, unnecessary, existence, behind, exquisite, unlamented, inaccessible.

Suffixes

C. kindly, shaving, peaceable, preferment, healthful, sweeter, pianist, heartless, payable, heaviest, goodness, wholesome, wholly, bowing, serviceable, winsome, instrument, mournful, commitment, weaker, thoughtless, organist, wearisome, perishable, wretched, blackest, delightful, brightness, preference, homeless, cruelly, actually, tuneful, blooming, convertible, blithesome, unnamable, discernment, harmful, sacrament, colder, friendless, warmest, daintiness, darkness, violinist, fearless.

Doubled consonants

D. sinner, flannel, cellar, robber, saddest, goddess, ripple, giggle, trammel, carriage, assist, rattle, accede, aggravate, session, possession, passion, jabber, accident, affable, traffic, allude, illusion, glimmer, runner, slippery, terror, assist, pressure, intermittent, commit, battalion, dazzling, gibber, flaccid, reddish, stiffen, braggart, distillery, mummery, nunnery, horrible, borrow, barrel, fissure, aggressive, lissom, Prussian, passive, fitting, flutter.

Digraphs

E. Catherine, strengthen, splashing, hydrophobia, singing, alignment, switchboard, doughnut, roughness, bother, ruthless, fisherman, cashier, Berkshire, telephone, diaphanous, antithesis, Shoshone, clangor, danger, signpost, Litchfield, neighbor, coughing, nothing, smother, gathering, finishing, paraphrase, wrongful, latchet, ploughman, laughter.

ABBREVIATIONS

267. Abbreviations are in bad taste in literary compositions of any kind, including letters. A few abbreviations, — such as i.e., e.g., q.v., viz., etc., A.D., B.C., a.m., p.m., — are excepted from the rule, being commonly used in good literature. Use no abbreviations except those which you know are employed, not by the newspapers or the writers of commonplace business letters, but by recognized masters of English prose.

Generally objectionable

Bad: Last summer I worked for the Chandler Mfg. Co. in Casey, Ill. Casey is on the C. and E. I. R.R.

Right: Last summer I worked for the Chandler Manufacturing Company in Casey, Illinois. Casey is on the Chicago and Eastern Illinois Railroad.

NOTE. — Spell in full the names of streets, including those designated by numerals less than one hundred (see Rules 272 b and 308), and the names of months and states. The abbreviations St., Ave., and Ct. are sometimes employed in addresses in business correspondence but should not be used in literary discourse or in the addresses of letters of friendship and formal notes.

268. Observe that many abbreviations that are proper when combined with other expressions are improper when standing alone. Thus:

Abbreviations right in some places; wrong elsewhere

Right: I came at ten p.m.

Vulgar: I came this p.m.

Right: He lives in room No. 12.

Bad: Let me know the No. of your room.

Right: My dear Dr. Hart.

Vulgar: My dear Dr.

Observe also that many abbreviations (such as vol., ch., p., Co., ed.) that are permissible in footnotes, parenthetic citations, and similar places, are not permissible in formally constructed sentences. In writing the name of a company, use & only with the abbreviation Co. unless the company uses the symbol in its letterhead.

Abbreviation of titles

269. Abbreviation of titles is, in general, inelegant and objectionable. Spell out Professor, President, Captain, General, Colonel, etc. Some abbreviations are, however, always proper; viz., (1) Mr., Mrs., Messrs., and Dr., when prefixed to names; (2) Esq., and the initial abbreviations D.D., Ph.D., Jr., Sr. etc., when suffixed to names. (See Rule 268.) Reverend and Honorable are usually abbreviated.

EXERCISE 104

Abbreviations to be eliminated

Rewrite the following sentences, substituting complete words for the improper abbreviations: 1. Walking north on Hamilton St., one sees the Schoolcraft Bldg. 2. On Aug. 15 I took the boat for South Haven, Mich. 3. I was employed as a shipping clerk by the Arbuckle Coffee Co. in Boston. 4. He got employment on the ranch of Witting Bros. in the southern part of Neb. 5. For four years I was employed by the Modern Steel Structural Co. in Waukesha, Wis. This co. secured the contract for the Majestic Bldg. in Milwaukee. 6. At Redwing, Minn., I rec'd my early education. 7. In the spring of 1905 I obtained a position with the Sunset Telephone Co. and held it until Sept. of that year, working chiefly in northern Cal. Then I went to Portland, Ore., and took in the Fair. 8. Among the charms of Hancock Co., Col., is a sublime view of the distant, snowy peaks of the Rocky Mts. 9. In Aug., 1907, I attended a co. fair in Pekin, Ill., and saw Dan Patch win a race. 10. The mfg. co. in our town paid a dividend of 6% this month.

THE REPRESENTATION OF NUMBERS 217

THE REPRESENTATION OF NUMBERS

270. Do not spell out dates, street numbers, page numbers, or numbers of divisions (parts, chapters, paragraphs, sections, rules, etc.) of a book or a document. Dates, folios, etc., and house numbers

Wrong: On October thirteen, eighteen hundred and eighty-one, I was born at three hundred and sixty-two Adams Street. See page nine hundred and sixteen of our family Bible.

Right: On October 13, 1881, I was born at 362 Adams Street. See page 916 of our family Bible.

NOTE. — Ordinal numbers designating days of a month may be either spelled out or represented by figures.

Right: The thirteenth of May fell on Friday.

Right: The 13th of May fell on Friday.

Ordinal numbers designating pages or divisions of a book or document are governed by Rule 272.

271. In designating a sum of money in connected discourse, apply the following rules: Sums of money

(a) Do not use the sign $ for sums less than one dollar. The sign $ improper for sums less than a dollar Wrong: It costs $0.20.

Right: It costs twenty cents.

(b) Do not write .00.

Wrong: He subscribed $342.00 to the fund.

Right: He subscribed $342 to the fund.

The expression .00 never to be used

(c) For a sum amounting to a number of dollars and a number of cents, always use the sign $ and figures. Fractional sums

Right: It costs $3.18.

218 THE REPRESENTATION OF NUMBERS

Even sums: (d) If several sums are mentioned within a short Frequent space, use figures for all, putting the sign $ before all numbers representing dollars.

Right: My room costs $5 a week and my board $6.50; my contribution to the church is 30 cents; my incidental expenses range from $9.35 to $22.50 a month.

Isolated: (e) In case of an isolated mention of a sum in cents,
A sum in cents spell out the number.

Right: The price is ninety cents.

A sum in (f) In case of an isolated mention of a sum in dollars dollars without a fraction, spell out a number expressed in one or two words, such as three, sixteen, two hundred, six thousand, one million; for other numbers, such as 102, 350, 1130, 1,500,000, use the sign $ and figures.

Right: He contributed twenty thousand dollars.

Right: It sold for eighteen hundred dollars.

Right: His fortune amounts to $72,500.

Numbers not treated in Rules 270, 271
Frequent numbers — figures
272. In representing, in connected discourse, numbers other than those treated in Rules 270 and 271, apply the following rules:

(a) In case several numbers are mentioned in a short space, use figures for all. See for example the text of Rules 203–208, where numbers occur frequently and representation of them by words would inconvenience the reader.

Numbers not frequent
(b) If the numbers to be represented are not frequent, spell out numbers that may be expressed in one or two words, such as eighteen, ninety-seven, two hundred, eighteen hundred, twenty thousand, one million, fifty million; use figures for those that require three or more words, such as 108, 233, 1,250, 18,231, 1,500,230.

THE REPRESENTATION OF NUMBERS 219

Wrong: The college is 25 miles from Columbus and has 900 students.

Right: The college is twenty-five miles from Columbus and has nine hundred students.

Wrong: In this city there were four hundred and thirty-four saloons to three hundred and eighty-five thousand, one hundred and ninety-two people.

Right: In this city there were 434 saloons to 385,192 people.

Wrong: He lives on 72d street.

Right: He lives on Seventy-second Street. [See Rules 277 and 308.]

(c) Do not use numerals at the beginning of a sentence. Spell the numbers out or recast the sentence so as to begin it with another word.

Wrong: 1914 was a momentous year.

Right: The year 1914 was momentous.

Right: Nineteen hundred fourteen was a momentous year.

273. From Rule 272 b it follows that a number representing a person's age or one designating an hour of the day should nearly always (see Rule 272 a) be spelled out.

Ages, and hours of the day

Right: At twelve o'clock all the children below eight years of age are sent home.

274. A sum of money or a number that is spelled out should not be repeated in parenthesized figures, except in legal or commercial letters and instruments. When such repetition is made, (a) a parenthesized sum should stand at the end of the expression that it repeats, not elsewhere; and (b) a parenthesized number

Parenthetic
repetition
of numbers

should stand immediately after the number that it repeats, not elsewhere.

Wrong: I enclose ($10) ten dollars. [a]

Wrong: I enclose ten ($10) dollars. [b]

Right: I enclose ten dollars ($10). [a]

Right: I enclose ten (10) dollars. [b]

EXERCISE 105

Figures or words to be determined

Sentences to be written at dictation. 1. There are 72,563 grammar schools in the United States. 2. He walked a mile and one eighth in twenty-six minutes. 3. The thirty-fourth name happened to be Smith. 4. It is two hundred miles away. 5. The two-hundred-and-seventh day of this year will be Friday. 6. The veto was overruled by a three-fourths majority. 7. Three fourths of the people there are Italians. 8. The three-mile march was too much for Abner. 9. The proportions are as follows: Jews, 20 per cent; Greeks, 10 per cent; Portuguese, 5 per cent; Italians, 25 per cent; Germans, 40 per cent. 10. From June 17, 1906, to May 6, 1908, I lived at 23 Covington Place. 11. On the seventh page I found a reference to page 72 of volume 3. 12. At nine o'clock on next Friday night, August 23, I shall be twenty-one years old. I shall then be in possession of sixty thousand dollars, of which I will give fifteen cents to charity. 13. Thirty-four thousand, six hundred and eighty-one dollars and twenty cents is the sum he spent during the Christmas vacation. 14. Fourteen thousand, five hundred and one men are employed here.

CAPITALS

Proper names

Days and months

275. Capitalize proper nouns in general, including the names of the days of the week, the names of the months, the names of political parties, historical events, periods, documents, geographical names, names of buildings, titles of organizations and institutions, names of governmental bodies and departments, names of the Deity and pronouns used instead of those names, names for the Bible, and divisions of a book. Thus: The Socialist Party, the Fall of Rome, the Middle Ages, the Declaration of Independence, the Azores, the Woolworth Building, the Red Cross Society, the Home for the Friendless, the Senate, the Department of Labor, God the Father, Jehovah, Chapter III. But note:

(a) The words spring, summer, midsummer, autumn, fall, winter, and midwinter should not be capitalized. Not seasons

(b) North, south, east, west, and their compounds (north-west, etc.) and derivatives (northern, etc.) should not be capitalized except when they designate divisions of the country. North, south, etc.

Right: As we sailed north we saw a ship going west.

Right: The West is prosperous. — The people of the South are migrating westward. — The Northern delegates clashed with the Southern.

275a. Capitalize words denoting family relationship, such as father, mother, sister, only when they are used with the name of a person or as a substitute for it.

Right: I heard that Uncle John had written to Mother.

Right: She accompanied her brother.

276. Titles of persons should be capitalized when they are used in connection with proper names. When used otherwise than in connection with proper names, titles of governmental officers of high rank should be capitalized; other titles should not. Titles of persons

Right: There go Professor Cox and Colonel Henry. — A certain professor became a colonel in the volunteer army. — The President and the Postmaster-General sent for the postmaster of our town and the secretary of our society.

Common-noun elements of proper names

277. Capitalize club, company, society, college, high school, railroad, county, river, lake, park, street, or any other common noun, when it is made a component part of a proper name; not otherwise.

Wrong: I went to that College one year.

Right: I went to that college one year.

Wrong: Do you mean Hamilton college?

Right: Do you mean Hamilton College?

NOTE.—Many writers consistently go contrary to this rule. Thus: Bleeker street, Portland county, Pennsylvania railroad, the Saturday club, Wilson school.

Words of race and language

278. Capitalize nouns and adjectives of language or race, such as German, Latin, Indian, Negro, etc.

Words in literary titles

279. Capitalize only the important words of literary titles.

Right: I read The Light that Failed and A Tale of Two Cities.

At the beginning of a sentence or quotation

280. Capitalize the first word of a sentence. This rule applies in general to quoted sentences; but not to a quoted sentence from which words are omitted at the beginning, nor to a quoted sentence-element incorporated in an original sentence.

Wrong: The conductor cried, "hands off!"

Right: The conductor cried, "Hands off!"

Wrong: It seemed to be "Without form and void."

Right: It seemed to be "without form and void."

See also Rule 38, note, and the last sentence in the note to Rule 88.

281. Capitalize the first word of every line of poetry. See the Right examples under Rules 209–211.

At the beginning of lines of poetry

282. Do not capitalize a clause following a semicolon.

Misuse after a semicolon

Wrong: Send him to the library; His father wants to speak to him.

Right: Send him to the library; his father wants to speak to him.

283. Do not capitalize words which there is no reason for capitalizing, such as locomotive, forest, organ, rhetoric, mathematics, history, whooping cough, landlady, bulldog, electricity, citizen, flour mill, profession, gold mine, teachers' convention, high school.

Use without reason

EXERCISE 106

Write the following sentences, filling the blanks with English, French, German, Latin, Greek, Dutch, Indian, or Spanish: 1. In the battle the ——— captain met a ——— corporal. 2. Some ——— and ——— books entertained him, while he drank ——— wine and smoked a ——— pipe. 3. The ——— ships were destroyed by the ———, assisted by their ——— allies.

Capitals

EXERCISE 107

An exercise to be written at dictation. My friend Professor Cincinnatus Jones gives instruction in oratory, history, algebra, and swimming in the Kansas City College of Agriculture. Many young men from the West and the South come under his enlightening influence every year. The president of the agricultural college just referred to secured Professor Jones when the latter was employed by the Department of Agriculture in Washington. The Secretary of Agriculture, by the way, was a Democrat, as was the patriotic President in whose Cabinet he had the honor of sitting; the professor also happened to belong to the Democratic Party. Now, the president of the college — President Francis X. Fitzgibbons, Ph.D., LL.D. — went up to Jefferson City, the capital of the state, to consult with the governor. That staunch old Republican, Governor Mannington, was in office at that time. He was visiting ex-Governor Hemstead on Clinton Avenue when President Fitzgibbons arrived. The president took a street car and went straight to the house where the governor was. Now, the mayor of the city, a Socialist, several members of the state senate and house, most of them Prohibitionists, the chief of police, a Populist, and seven aldermen of various political faiths happened to be calling on the ex-governor at the same time. In walks President Fitz and says, “Governor, will you help me get Jones for a professorship in my faculty?”

Dictation exercise in capitalization

“Jones?” says the governor. “Major General Jones, formerly pastor of the First Baptist Church?”

“No. I mean C. Jones, assistant clerk in the Department of Agriculture, author of How to Make Corn Grow and also of Why I Am a Bee-keeper.”

“Oh yes, that clever Scotchman. His grandfather was a colonel in the Mexican War, wasn’t he?”

“Yes, and beloved by all his regiment — privates, corporals, sergeants, lieutenants, captains, and majors alike. And his grandson is worthy of him. But Governor, I don’t want to conceal the fact that he is a Democrat.”

“I swear by the Book, Doctor,” said the governor, “I don’t care if he is the chief doorkeeper of Tammany Hall, on Fourteenth Street, New York City; I will get him for you.”

At that, all the assembled men clapped their hands, and a German politician, a member of the city council and the proprietor of a vaudeville theater on East Twentyninth Street, remarked that this was a second Missouri Compromise.

Next day — it was Friday — Governor Mannington went east to Washington and lifted Jones bodily from the government service. He came west again in no time, bringing the new professor with him, on the Santa Fé Railroad. Jones spent the summer in preparing his first lectures, and began his professional duties in the following autumn.

ITALICS

284. To italicize a word in a manuscript, draw one straight line below it. Representation in MS.

285. Italicize titles of literary, musical, and artistic works, and of periodicals. Do not italicize the author's name. Italics with titles of books, etc.

Right: Walter Scott's The Talisman, Rider Haggard's King Solomon's Mines, Talfourd's Ion, and the Atlantic Monthly furnished his principal amusement.

NOTE. — It is permissible to enclose titles in quotation marks instead of italicizing them; but the simpler and better approved practice is to italicize.

286. If the title of a single literary, musical, or artistic work begins with the, this word should not be omitted in writing the title, and it should be capitalized and italicized. Titles beginning with the: Single works

Wrong: Do you like Kipling's Man Who Was and Chaminade's Silver Ring?

Right: Do you like Kipling's The Man Who Was and Chaminade's The Silver Ring?

Wrong: I felt depressed after reading the House of Mirth.

Right: I felt depressed after reading The House of Mirth.

287. In writing the name of a newspaper or other periodical, however, a the limiting the noun of the title should not be capitalized or italicized even if it is part of the title; and the name of a city modifying adjectively the noun of the title should not be italicized. Periodicals

Right: She found there some copies of the Pall Mall Gazette, the Evening Telegraph, the Century Magazine, the New York Evening Post, and the Madison (Wisconsin) Democrat.

Names of ships

288. Italicize names of ships.

Right: I cut the Hispaniola from her anchor.

Italics
with words
discussed

289. When a word is spoken of as a word — not used to represent the thing or idea that it ordinarily represents, and not quoted — it should be italicized. When a word is spoken of as a quoted word, it should usually be inclosed in quotation marks and not italicized.

Right: The misuse of grand, awful, and nice is common fault.

Right: In the expression "we, the people," "people" is in apposition with "we."

NOTE. — With words discussed, it is permissible to use quotation marks instead of italics, even when the words are not quoted; and it is sometimes necessary and advisable to do so. In this book, for example, quotation marks are used with incorrect expressions discussed, because this practice helps, in some cases, to distinguish the wrong phraseology from the right. But the better practice in general is to italicize.

With foreign words

290. Italicize unnaturalized foreign words introduced into an English context.

Right: He is a bona fide purchaser.

For emphasis

291. Avoid the habit of frequently italicizing words for emphasis; do not emphasize a word in this way unless there is some especially good reason — as, for instance, the fact that obscurity would result from lack of emphasis.

Bad: The curse of this age is commercialism coupled with hypocrisy.

Right: The curse of this age is commercialism coupled with hypocrisy.

For examples of necessary emphasis by italics, see Rules 2 e and 289.

292. Do not italicize for the purpose of calling attention to your humor or irony; this practice is undignified and inartistic. (Cf. Rules 234 a and 252 e.)

Improper
use for marking humor

Bad: The villain in the play was charming.

Right: The villain in the play was charming.

EXERCISE 108

Write the following passage, capitalizing and italicizing correctly.

Literary
titles

Dickens's a tale of two cities is to me more interesting than Hugo's the toilers of the sea. But Scott's the talisman is better than either. The New York sun and the journal of psychology are less interesting than the damnation of Theron Ware by Harold Frederick. As for Burns's the cotter's Saturday night — well, Dombey and son is far superior. But I fear that, like the porter in Macbeth, I am rambling.

III. ANALYTICAL OUTLINES

Outlines 293. An outline is an orderly plan of the materia to be used in a composition. The material is condensed into topics, sentences, or paragraphs, so numbered and indented as to show their logical relationship. There are, therefore, three kinds of outlines: topic, sentence, and paragraph outlines. (Throughout an outline, the writer must adhere to one type consistently.) The topic and the sentence outlines are more commonly used. Of these two the sentence outline is to be preferred, for it states more explicitly the writer's thought. (Compare the two outlines in Section 294.)

Nouns, not verbs, in topic outline

In a topic outline, make all the titles, as far as possible, in the form of nouns, with or without modifiers. E.g., write "Rapidity of Movement" rather than "Moves Rapidly."

Sentence outline

If, on the other hand, a sentence outline is desired instead of a topic outline, write each division in the form of a sentence which expresses the central idea of the division. Subheads may be expressed as subordinate members of this sentence, or as separate sentences.

Numbering and Arrangement of Titles

294. Number and indent the titles of an outline according to the following method:

THE GOVERNMENT OF SWITZERLAND

Topic Outline

Specimen topic outline

I. Value to Americans of a knowledge of Swiss institutions.

- II. The legislative department.
 - A. The National Council.
 - 1. Apportionment.
 - 2. Elections.
 - B. The Council of States.
 - 1. Apportionment.
 - 2. Elections.
 - C. Powers of the legislature.
- III. The executive department.
 - A. Organization.
 - B. Executive powers. — Comparison of Swiss and American executives.
- IV. The judicial department: the constitutional court.
 - A. Organization.
 - B. Judicial powers. — Comparison of Swiss and American judiciaries.

THE GOVERNMENT OF SWITZERLAND

Sentence Outline

- I. Knowledge of Swiss institutions is of value to Americans. Specimen sentence outline
- II. The legislative department consists of a bicameral legislature, called the Federal Assembly, composed of the National Council and the Council of States.
 - A. The National Council, the more numerous branch, represents the people.
 - 1. It consists of one member for each 20,000 persons, with at least one member from each canton or half-canton.
 - 2. Members are elected for three years, by popular vote.
 - B. The Council of States, the less numerous branch, represents the cantons.
 - 1. It consists of two members from each canton, and one from each half-canton.

2. The method of election, term, and qualification are prescribed by each canton itself.
 - C. The legislature is the supreme authority in the state, and has all powers not reserved to the people or to the cantons and not granted to any other body.
- III. The executive department consists of a Federal Council of seven members, elected by the Federal Assembly for three years.
- A. One member of the Federal Council is designated by the Federal Assembly to act as Federal President for one year; each of the seven members acts as head of an executive department.
 - B. The Federal Council is subordinate to the Federal Assembly, and its powers are not comparable to those of the American executive; the Federal President is merely a presiding officer with no independent powers of importance.
- IV. The judicial department consists of a Federal Court of twenty-four judges, elected by the Federal Assembly for six years.
- A. For ordinary purposes the court sits in small divisions.
 - B. Its jurisdiction is largely constitutional though in this respect it is not so powerful as the American Supreme Court.

Irregular alignment

295. Place coordinate titles at the same distance from the left-hand margin.

The Terms "Introduction," "Conclusion," and "Body"

Misuse of Introduction
and
Conclusion

296. Do not entitle the first division Introduction nor the last Conclusion unless their material is distinct from the body.

Wrong outline for an account of a sleigh-ride:

- I. Introduction: the start.
- II. The journey out.
- III. Conclusion: the return.

Right:

- I. Introduction: winter in Dakota.
- II. The start.
- III. The journey out.
- IV. The return.
- V. Conclusion: comparison of sleighing and other sports.

297. Do not use the title Body or Discussion; place the titles belonging to the body, or discussion, of an essay flush with the left-hand margin, as in the topic outline under section 294.

Body or Discussion
not to be used

Over-minute Subdivision

298. Do not indicate minute and unimportant divisions.

Over-
minuteness

Bad:

- 1. Situation of building.
 - a. In Ames County.
 - b. On a hill.
 - c. Facing east.

Right:

- 1. Situation of building.

Certain Illogical Practices

299. Do not write as a subtitle what is logically a part of the governing title; join it to the governing title or omit it.

Part of a title written like a subtitle

Bad:

- I. Founding of the city.
 - 1. By Dionysius Jones.

II. Its principal industry.

1. Piano manufacturing.

Right:

I. Founding of the city.

II. Principal industry, piano manufacturing.

Bad:

I. Ancestors.

1. Scotch.

II. Birthplace.

1. Farm in Indiana.

Right:

I. Scotch ancestors.

II. Birthplace: description of the Indiana farm.

See also titles I and IV in the topic outline in section 294.

Second or third subtitle written like first

300. Do not write as the first subtitle what is logically the second or third; write it as a memorandum after the governing title, or else insert the subtitle that should logically precede it.

Bad:

I. Situation.

1. Advantages.

Right:

I. Situation: its advantages.

Also right:

I. Situation.

1. Geographical location.

2. Advantages.

Bad:

II. Attempts to destroy it.

1. Why they failed.

Right:

II. Attempts to destroy it.

1. The first attempt.

2. The attempt of 1901.

3. Reason for the failure of all attempts.

See also title III, B, of the topic outline on page 226

301. Do not write as a subtitle what is logically co-ordinate with the preceding title.

Coördinate title written like a subtitle

Bad [The rule is violated in titles II, 1, and II, 1, a]:

- I. The departure.
- II. The arrival in the city.
 - 1. Journey to the store.
 - a.* Purchases.
- III. Return home.

Right:

- I. Departure.
- II. Arrival in the city.
- III. Journey to the store.
- IV. Purchases.
- V. Return.

Also right:

- I. Departure.
- II. Experiences in the city.
 - 1. Arrival.
 - 2. Journey to the store.
 - 3. Purchases.
- III. Return.

302. Do not place a subtitle coördinate with its governing title.

Subtitle written like a coördinate title

Bad [The rule is violated in title II]:

- I. Disadvantages of football.
 - 1. Physical harm.
 - 2. Distraction from studies.
- II. Encouragement of gambling.

Right:

- I. Disadvantages of football.
 - 1. Physical harm.
 - 2. Distraction from studies.
 - 3. Encouragement of gambling.

303. Do not write the title of the composition like the title of a division.

Main title written like subtitle

Bad:

- I. Shipbuilding in Maine.
 - 1. Introduction.
 - 2. Principal seats.
 - 3. Methods.
 - etc.

Right:

SHIPBUILDING IN MAINE

- I. Introduction.
- II. Principal seats.
- III. Methods.
- etc.

IV. LETTER WRITING

LETTERS IN THE FIRST PERSON

The Heading

304. The first member of a correct letter written in the first person is the heading — i.e., a statement of the address of the writer and the date of writing. The address should precede the date.

Address
before date

Right: Groveport, Ohio, June 4, 1926

Right: Groveport, Ohio,
June 4, 1926.

Right: Groveport, Ohio
June 4, 1926

305. The address in the heading should be such as would be sufficient for a postal direction.

The
address:
Insufficient
address

Right: 212 State Street,
Chicago, Illinois.

Right: Route 3, La Salle, Illinois.

Right: Route 3, La Salle, Illinois

306. If the address contains a street direction, this should precede the name of the city.

Street
direction before city

Right: 28 High Street,
Columbus, Ohio.

Right: 28 High Street
Columbus, Ohio

307. A house number should be written in Arabic figures and should be preceded by no word or sign.

House
numbers

Right: 15 H Street; not # 15 H Street, or Fifteen H Street.

Numbers
of streets

307a. Street numbers less than one hundred are usually spelled out. (See Rule 272 b.)

Right: 285 Forty-second Street. [See Rule 277.]

Permissible: 285 42nd Street.

Omission
of Street

308. In writing a street direction do not omit Street.

Wrong: 17 Main.

Right: 17 Main Street.

The date:
Complete-
ness

309. The date should consist of the name (not the number) of the month, the number of the day of the month, and the complete number of the year.

Inelegant: 3/21/'26.

Right: March 21, 1926.

Right: 21 March, 1926.

Figures,
not words

310. All the numbers in the date should be written in Arabic figures, not represented by words. (See Rule 270. But cf. Rule 338.)

Wrong: March the twenty-first, nineteen hundred and twenty-four.

Right: March 21, 1924.

St, nd, etc.,
not to be used

311. The number of the day should not be followed by st, nd, rd, d, or th.

Undesirable: March 21st, 1926.

Right: March 21, 1926.

Abbreviations not to be used

312. Do not use any abbreviations in the heading. It is permissible to waive this rule in business letters, but it is more dignified to observe it invariably. The name of the month should not be abbreviated.

Undesirable:

Norton, Mass., Jan. 3, 1926.

Right:

Norton, Massachusetts,

January 3, 1926.

313. The entire heading, if short, may be written on one line. If two lines are necessary, the date should be written alone on a separate line. If three are necessary, the street direction should stand on the first line, the name of the city and state on the second, and the date on the third.

Grouping
of the heading into lines

Right:	Fayette, Ohio, May 21, 1926.
Wrong:	21 North Street, Lima, Ohio, June 1, 1926
Right:	21 North Street, Lima, Ohio, June 1, 1926.
Right:	5051 Madison Avenue, Chicago, Illinois, August 27, 1926.

313a. The lines of the heading may have the same indentation, or each line may be indented about one fourth of an inch more than the preceding line.

Position of
the heading

Right:	5743 Dorchester Avenue, Chicago, Illinois. June 18, 1926.
Right:	5743 Dorchester Avenue, Chicago, Illinois. June 18, 1926.
Right:	Alfred A. Black 730 Fifth Avenue, New York June 18, 1926

314. The heading should be written at the beginning of the letter at the right side of the page. (See the letters on page 249.)

314a. In printed, lithographed, or engraved letter-heads, the name of the writer or of the firm, and the address are usually placed in the middle of the page; the date may be written at the right of the page or in the center under the address.

Separation or repetition of members

315. Do not write a part of the heading (see Rule 304) at the beginning of the letter and a part at the close; and do not repeat the heading or a part of it at the close when it has been written at the beginning.

Bad:

York, Ia., May 1, 1927.

Dear John,

* * *

Yours sincerely,
Robert Graves,
20 Charlotte St.

Bad:

York, Ia., May 1, 1927.

Dear John,

* * *

Yours sincerely,
Robert Graves.

20 Charlotte St., York, Ia.

Right:

20 Charlotte Street,
York, Iowa,
May 1, 1927.

Dear John,

* * *

Yours sincerely,
Robert Graves.

NOTE. — In informal social letters the address of the writer and the date of the writing may be placed on the last page of the letter on a space lower than the signature and at the left-hand margin.

Punctua-
tion of the heading

316. Punctuation may be used or may be omitted at the end of the lines of the heading, but care should be taken to follow a consistent practice. (See also 322.) If end-punctuation is used, there should be a comma after Street, Avenue, etc.; a comma or a period after the state; and a period after the year. There should be punctuation within the lines; a comma should be used after the city and after the day of the month, but not between the month and the day. All abbreviations should be followed by periods. (See the letters on page 249.)

The Inside Address

317. The inside address — a statement of the name and address of the person written to — is an essential part of a complete business letter. Essential to a complete letter

317a. The inside address, which may be written in two or three lines, should in commercial letters be placed at the left-hand side of the page one or two spaces below the last line of the heading. The first line should be flush with the left-hand margin; the rest of the address may also be placed at the margin-line or indented, each line about one-fourth of an inch more than the preceding. Position in commercial letters

Right: Henry White and Company,
19 West Forty-fourth Street,
New York City.

Right: Henry White and Company,
19 West Forty-fourth Street,
New York City.

317b. In letters of friendship, in business letters not dealing with mercantile transactions, and in professional letters, the inside address may stand either above the salutation or at the bottom of the letter at the left-hand side of the page. Placing the inside address at the end is a little more elegant than placing it at the beginning. In letters of friendship the inside address may be omitted unless the one written to is almost a stranger or occupies a position of honor.

Letter to an individual in a firm

318. If, in the case of a letter to a firm, the particular attention of a member of the firm is desired, the following forms may be used:

Right: Messrs. Meade, Brown, and Harrison,
19 Wabash Avenue,
Chicago, Illinois.

Attention of Mr. M. L. Brown.
Gentlemen:

Right: Messrs. Meade, Brown, and Harrison
19 Wabash Avenue
Chicago, Illinois

Attention: Mr. M. L. Brown
Gentlemen:

Or: Gentlemen: Attention of Mr. M. L. Brown

Omission of street direction permissible

319. The street direction may be omitted from the inside address. In a letter of which a copy is kept the street direction in the copy is often found convenient.

Right:
The Tiffany Company,
New York City.
Gentlemen:

Name without address

320. Do not write a name alone above the salutation.

Wrong:
Mr. Harvey Myers.
My dear Sir:

Right:
Mr. Harvey Myers,
Seattle, Washington.
My dear Sir:

321. In the inside address do not omit Mr. or whatever other title is proper, before the name of an individual. Before a firm name composed of individual names, it is correct to write Messrs. or to omit the title. Messrs. is improper before a name not composed of individual names. Use no abbreviations of titles except Mr., Esq., Messrs., Mrs., Dr., Rev. and Hon., and suffixed initial titles, like Ph.D. (See Rule 269.)

Abbreviations not to be used

Right: Messrs. Hoyt and Marsh,
Chicago, Illinois.
Hoyt and Marsh,
Chicago, Illinois.

Lacking in courtesy and propriety:
J. H. Woolson,
Morristown.
Heath Pub. Co.,
N. Y. City.

Right:
Mr. J. H. Woolson,
Morristown, New Jersey.
D. C. Heath and Company,
New York City.

NOTE 1. — By way of exception, the long names United States of America and District of Columbia may be abbreviated respectively to U. S. A. and D. C. It is permissible in business letters to abbreviate the names of States also; but the better practice is to spell out those names. Abbreviation of the short names Maine, Ohio, and Iowa is objectionable in any letter.

Permissible exceptions

NOTE 2. — The title Esq. is a proper substitute for Mr. When Esq. follows a name, no title should precede the name.

Use of the title Esq.

Wrong: Mr. Ralph Williams Esq.
Right: Ralph Williams, Esq.

322. Punctuation marks may be used or may be omitted at the end of the lines of the inside address;

Punctuation of the address

but care should be taken to follow a consistent practice. If marks are used at the end of the lines, a period should be placed after the last line and commas after the others. Punctuation marks may be necessary within the line; for example, a comma should be placed between the city and the state. Periods should be used after all abbreviations.

Open Punctuation

Right: Marshall Field and Company
State and Madison Streets
Chicago, Illinois

Close Punctuation

Right: Marshall Field and Company,
State and Madison Streets,
Chicago, Illinois.

The Salutation

Business
letters

323. The following are proper salutations for business letters:

Dear Sir:	Dear Madam:
Gentlemen:	Ladies:
My dear Sir:	My dear Madam:
My dear Mr. Park:

NOTE 1. — The first word of the salutation and all nouns are capitalized.

NOTE 2. — There is no hard and fast line drawn between business letters and letters of friendship, and the usages of the latter may be employed in the former when the degree of acquaintance allows. Dear Mr. Park is more intimate than My dear Mr. Park. Dear Sir is more common than My dear Sir in business letters, the omission of the my in this case not implying any greater degree of intimacy.

Letters of friendship

324. The following are proper salutations for letters of friendship:

Dear Susan,
My dear Mr. Smith,
Dear John,
Dear Mrs. Jackson,

Dear old Dad,
My dear Miss Jones,
Dearest Mother,
Dear Aunt Edith,

NOTE—Salutations without My are more intimate than those with My.

325. The salutations "Dear Friend," "My dear Friend," and "Friend John" are not in reputable use; avoid them. Improper salutation

326. Never use a name alone as a salutation.

Bad:

Melmore, O., Sept. 3, '27.

Mr. Percy Clapp:—

Please inform me . . .

Right:

Melmore, Ohio, September 3, 1927.

My dear Mr. Clapp,

Will you please inform me . . .

A name for a salutation

327. In the salutation never use any abbreviation, except Mr., Mrs., and Dr. (See Rule 269.) Abbreviations not
to be used

Bad: My dear Prof. Walker,

Right: My dear Professor Walker,

Bad: Dear Capt. Ayer,

Right: Dear Captain Ayer,

328. The salutation of a business letter should be followed by a colon. The comma is customarily used after the salutation of an informal letter of friendship, but a colon is allowed. See the two letters on page 249. Punctua-
tion

329. The salutation should be written flush with the left-hand margin. The body of a pen-written letter should begin on the line below; of a typewritten Position of the salutation

letter, two spaces below. All paragraphs should receive the same indention, one inch; the first should not be indented farther than the others.

If a single-spaced typewritten letter has double spacing between the paragraphs and if the block style is used in the heading and the address, it is allowable to write all paragraphs flush with the left margin, without indention.

The Complimentary Close

Business
letters

330. The following are proper complimentary closes for business letters:

Yours truly,
Yours very truly,
Very truly yours,

Respectfully yours and Yours respectfully are used in writing to school, college, and government officials.

Letters of
friendship

331. The following are proper complimentary closes for letters of friendship, or for business letters in which there is an intimate relation between the writer and the person addressed:

Yours very truly,
Yours sincerely,

Cordially yours,
Faithfully yours,

vulgar
closes

332. Do not use any abbreviation, such as "yrs" or "resp'y" in the complimentary close; nor write "respectively" for respectfully; nor write "and oblige" in the place of the complimentary close. Do not omit the word yours.

Position
and punctuation

333. The complimentary close should be written on a separate line, about two spaces below the last line of the body of the letter (in typewritten letters), should stand near the middle of the line, should have only the first word capitalized, and should be followed by a comma.

334. Expressions introducing the complimentary close, such as "I am," "believe me," "good-bye," now rarely used, should occupy their regular positions in the body of the letter.

Position of preceding words

Right:

Accept my congratulations upon your new appointment;
and believe me

Yours sincerely,
Henry Cobb.

The Signature

335. The signature should be placed about two spaces below the complimentary close, and near the right-hand margin of the letter.

Position of
the signature

335a. The signature should always be written by hand. In a typewritten letter in which the name of the writer does not appear on the letterhead, the name may be typewritten beneath the written signature or at the left-hand side of the page with the initials of the stenographer. Letters from firms should be signed with the name of the firm, typewritten, and directly beneath that, in handwriting, the name of the person who is responsible for the letter. Sometimes in the signature of a letter from a firm the name of the firm is omitted; sometimes the writer's official capacity is indicated.

Signatures
in business
letters

Right: D. C. Heath and Company
Albert Grant Odell

Right: John R. Clark
Business Manager

In business letters a woman should sign her full name and add below in parenthesis her title (Mrs.) and her husband's name. If she is a widow, she should sign her own name, preceded by Mrs. in parenthesis. An unmarried woman should sign her name preceded by Miss in parenthesis.

Right: Mary Osborn Williams.

(Mrs. John R. Williams.)

Right: (Mrs.) Mary Osborn Williams.

Right: (Miss) Elizabeth Elliot.

Signatures
in social notes

335b. In informal social notes, the name should never be preceded by the title (Mrs., Miss). A married woman should sign her given name, her maiden name, if she chooses, and her surname.

Wrong: Mrs. John R. Williams.

Right: Mary Osborn Williams.

Literary Style

Certain
vulgarisms:

336. The following faults, characteristic of ill-educated writers and of writers without good taste, are to be especially avoided in letters:

Ellipsis

(a) The omissions of pronouns, articles, and prepositions.

Bad: Received your letter of the 6th ult. While very doubtful of the result, will try to carry out your instructions.

Right: I have received your letter of August 6. [See Rule 337, below.] Though I am very doubtful about the result, I will try to carry out your instructions.

Bad: We enclose check for three dollars.

Right: We enclose a check for three dollars.

Bad: Direct letter care Thomas Cook.

Right: Direct the letter in care of Thomas Cook.

Bad: Mr. H. P. Thurston, editor Jenksville Patriot.

Right: Mr. H. P. Thurston, editor of the Jenksville Patriot.

NOTE. — The omission of I is proper in diaries and in letters written in the style of a diary — i.e., intended to present mere hasty memoranda jotted down without any attempt at completeness of form. Thus, Tennyson to his wife: "Slept at Spedding's where I found they expected me. Started this morning 11 a.m. Hay fever atrocious with irritation of railway, nearly drove me crazed, but could not complain, the only other occupant having a curiously split shoe for his better ease . . ." In such letters, clipped expressions harmonize with the context. In a letter, however, that is intended to be complete and regular in form, the omission of I and of other grammatically essential words is incongruous and in bad taste. (See Rule 337, below.)

(b) Writing "yours," "your favor," or "your esteemed favor" for your letter. (See Rule 19, note.)

"Yours,"
"your favor"
"Yours received"

(c) The use of the formula "yours of the 17th received," or "yours of the 17th at hand." Write a grammatically complete expression, such as "I have your letter of June 17."

(d) The use of the formula "in reply would say" or "will say." Write a grammatically complete expression, such as "In reply allow me to say."

"In reply
would say"

(e) The use of the formula "I would say," "I will say," or "I can say." Write "Allow me to say" or "I desire to say," or else omit any such introduction.

"I would,
will, or can say"

(f) The use of the expression "same" or "the same." Use it or they. (See Same in the Glossary.)

"Same"

Bad: Yours of the 3rd at hand, and in reply would say we are at present out of lamps desired but will send same as soon as possible.

Right: Thank you for your order of March 3. The lamps you wish are out of stock at present, but we will send them as soon as possible.

- "Please" (g) The use of the expression "please" alone. Rather write "Will you please."
- "Please find enclosed" (h) The use of the formula "Please find enclosed." Write "I enclose."
- "($10) ten dollars" (i) The use of the formula "($10) ten dollars" or "ten ($10) dollars." (See Rule 274.)
- Name of city abbreviated (j) The abbreviation of the name of a city; e.g., of Cincinnati to "Cin.," of Philadelphia to "Phil.," or of New York City to "N. Y. City."
- Participial close (k) Monotonously closing all letters with a sentence introduced by a participle, as "Hoping to hear soon . . ." "Thanking you again . . ."; or monotonously closing all letters of request with "and oblige." These old-fashioned endings lack force.
- "and oblige"

The use of I 337. The rule often taught, that it is improper to begin the body of a letter with I, is nonsense; beginning with I is always permissible and often desirable.

Not to be avoided by mere ellipsis 337a. The monotonously frequent use of I in letters is a common fault which it is well to guard against. But one should not, in order to avoid this fault, commit the worse fault of simply omitting I; as "Have not heard from you for a long time. Should think you ought to have written before this." The noticeably frequent use of I is nothing worse than an awkwardness; the ellipsis of I is a vulgarity. (See Rule 336 a, above.) As between the two, the awkwardness is preferable. To avoid the repetition of I, practise variety of sentence structure, not ellipsis.

FORMAL NOTES IN THE THIRD PERSON 249

A Correctly Written Business Letter

17 Lumber Exchange Specimen Minneapolis, Minnesota letters
January 2, 1927

Mr. Henry Coleman
Chicago, Illinois

My dear Sir:

I have your letter of December 29. The house about which you inquire is still for sale.

Yours truly
Frank Shaw

A Correctly Written Letter of Friendship

Murray Hill Hotel,
New York City,
September 20, 1927.

My dear Mr. Crawford,

The composition you inquire about is L. Pabst's Aria con Variazioni in D flat major. I forget who publishes it; but you can get it by sending to Schirmer's
New York house.

Yours sincerely,
Edith Morris.

Mr. George Crawford,
1301 Beacon Street,
Boston, Massachusetts.

FORMAL NOTES IN THE THIRD PERSON

338. Formal notes written in the third person Solely in should have no heading, no salutation, no complimen- third pertary close, no inside address, and no signature. They son should be written consistently and solely in the third person; the writer should not refer to himself as I or to the addressee as you. Except Mr., Mrs., Messrs., No abbreand Dr., no abbreviations whatever should be used; viations and numbers occurring in dates should — unlike those Numbers in ordinary letters — be spelled out. For information spelled out about other matters, the following examples will suffice:

Mrs. Burton requests the pleasure of Miss Irwin's company at dinner on Friday, May the second, at seven o'clock.

935 Webster Street,
April the twenty-third.

Miss Irwin accepts with pleasure Mrs. Burton's invitation to dinner on May the second.

1720 Princeton Avenue,
April the twenty-fourth.

Mr. Matthews regrets that, on account of illness, he is unable to accept Mr. and Mrs. Eliot's invitation for January the fifteenth.

500 Anderson Street,
January the tenth.

Use present
tense

NOTE. — Use the present tense in letters of regret or acceptance.

Wrong: Mr. Smith will be pleased to accept . . .
[The being pleased to accept is present, not future.]

Right: Mr. Smith accepts; [or] Mr. Smith is pleased to accept.

Wrong: . . . regrets that he will be unable to accept . . .
[The inability to accept is present, not future.]

Right: . . . regrets that he is unable to accept . . .

SUNDRY MECHANICAL DIRECTIONS

Ink, paper,
envelopes

339. Use black or blue-black ink in letter writing. Envelopes should always match the paper in color and quality, and envelopes should be of a size to receive the paper when it is properly folded.

NOTE. — Commercial letters are sometimes type-written in brown or other color to harmonize with the tint of the stationery used. The use of ink in violet, green, or other striking color for social correspondence is a fad of questionable taste.

SUNDRY MECHANICAL DIRECTIONS 251

340. Letter-paper consisting of sheets so folded that each sheet is like a little book of four pages, is suitable for all letters — commercial, professional, or social; and for the letters of private individuals, as distinguished from those of public officials and those of business firms. The use of flat sheets is best confined to business or professional correspondence. Writing-paper that is ruled, or limp and flimsy in texture, or conspicuous because of unusual color, should be used for no letters whatever — except in case of emergency.

Writing-paper:

Four-page sheets

Flat sheets

341. The writing should begin an inch or two below the top of any page. It is best to keep a blank margin at least half an inch wide at the left side of every page. Rules 165–177 and 183–187 should be observed in letters as well as in other manuscripts. In typewritten letters a double space should be left between paragraphs.

Margin at top

Margin at left

Legibility

342. When flat sheets of paper are used, it is best that only one side of each sheet be written on.

Flat sheets

343. When four-page sheets are used, all four pages may be written on. The letter should be so written that a person reading the first page has at his left the fold, and at his right the coinciding edges opposite the fold. If the letter occupies more than one but not more than two pages of the sheet, the first and third pages may be written on and the second be left blank. If the letter occupies more than two pages, it is best that the pages be written on in their natural order — viz., 1, 2, 3, 4; not in the order 1, 3, 2, 4 or 1, 4, 2, 3. The lines of writing on all the pages should be at right angles to the fold, not parallel with the fold.

Four-page sheets

Order of pages

Folding and enclosing:
Four-page sheets

344. A letter on a four-page sheet should be enclosed in an envelope in which it will fit when folded with one horizontal crease through the center. The letter should be so folded that the upper and the lower halves of page 1 face each other; or, in other words, so that the horizontal crease will appear as a groove on pages 1 and 3, and as a ridge on pages 2 and 4. The letter should be so placed in the envelope that the horizontal crease is at the bottom of the envelope.

Flat sheets
of note size

345. A letter written on flat sheets of paper of note size (approximately 6×8 inches) may be enclosed —

Envelope
of note size

(a) In an envelope into which it will fit when folded with one crease running through the center. In this case, the two halves of page 1 should be made to face each other; or, in other words, the crease should appear, to a person reading page 1, as a groove, not as a ridge. Place the letter in the envelope with the crease at the bottom, and with the half containing the heading next to the face, not the sealed side, of the envelope.

(b) In an envelope of commercial size (approximately $3\frac{1}{2} \times 6\frac{1}{2}$ inches). In this case, fold the letter into three sections — a central section and two flaps. As the letter lies right side up on the table, fold up from the bottom about one-third and then from the top fold down over the lower third about one-fourth. The letter so folded should be placed in the envelope

Commercial
envelope

Writing parallel with short sides

with the two flaps next to the back, not the face, of the envelope; with the top edge of the letter at the bottom of the envelope. The foregoing directions apply to letters in which the lines of writing run parallel to the short sides of the paper. Letters in which the lines run parallel to the long sides should be folded into the same shape; but the right third should be folded first, and the left part folded over it. Such a letter should be placed in the envelope with the flaps next to the back, with the left third flap on top of the right one, and with the outward edge of the left flap pointing upward.

Writing
parallel with long sides

346. A letter written on flat sheets of paper of full commercial size (approximately $8\frac{1}{2} \times 11$ inches) may be enclosed —

Flat sheets
of full commercial size

Commercial
envelope

(a) In an envelope of commercial size (approximately $3\frac{1}{2} \times 6\frac{1}{2}$ inches). As the letter lies face up on the table, raise the lower part and fold it upward over the upper part with a horizontal crease running slightly below the center. Keeping the upper part lying next the table, and keeping the horizontal crease toward you, raise the right-hand part and fold it toward the left, making a vertical crease about one third of the distance from right to left. Finally, raise the left-hand part and fold it toward the right, making a vertical crease about one fourth of the distance from left to right. When page 1 is read, the horizontal crease and the two vertical creases that divide the upper half of the page should appear as grooves, and the two vertical creases that divide the lower half should appear as ridges. The letter, as folded, consists of a central section and two flaps. Place it in the envelope with the two flaps next to the sealed side, not next to the face, of the envelope; with the smaller flap on top of the larger one; and with the outward edge of the smaller flap pointing upward.

Official
envelope

(b) In an envelope of official size (approximately 10×4 inches). In this case, it should be folded and enclosed according to the method shown in Rule 345 b.

(c) In an approximately square envelope, into which it will fit when folded with one horizontal and one vertical crease, both running through the center. In this case, make the horizontal fold first, laying the upper and the lower halves of page 1 face to face — or, in other words, making a crease that will appear as a groove in page 1; then fold with a vertical crease that will appear as a groove in the upper half of page 1, and as a ridge in the lower half. Place the letter in the envelope with the vertical crease at the bottom and the two coinciding halves of the horizontal crease at the right hand, with respect to a person looking at the sealed side of the envelope.

Square
envelope

347. The foregoing rules in regard to the manner of folding letters and inserting them in envelopes are merely detailed applications of the simple rule of courtesy: Fold and enclose the letter in such a way that the receiver will be able, with the least possible effort, to get it right side up in his hand, ready to read. A few experiments will show that if any of the directions in Rules 344–346, above, are disregarded in the folding and enclosing of a letter, the addressee, on taking the letter from the envelope and unfolding it in the natural way, will find it with the first page turned from him or with the writing upside down.

The fundamental principle underlying Rules 344– 346

THE ENVELOPE

348. In writing the address on an envelope, apply Rules 307, 307 a, 308, 320, and 336 a.

The super-scription

Examples:

Mr. Thomas Howe
In care of Captain William Fisk
Wabasha
Minnesota

Abbreviations not
to be used

Street
numbers

The Reverend Charles Wentworth, 463 Ninth Street,
Bridgeport,
Connecticut.

Bad:

Street not to be omitted

Editor Centerville Ledger,
65 North Liberty,
Centerville,
O.

Right:

Ellipsis not
to be used

For the Editor of the Centerville Ledger
65 North Liberty Street
Centerville
Ohio

Margin and punctuation

349. The margin, straight or diagonal, and the punctuation, open or close, should correspond with those of the letter.

Right:

Professor Henry D. Lennington
1436 Putnam Avenue
Woonsocket
Rhode Island

Right:

Colonel Charles Kent,
The Southwick Hotel,
Kansas City,
Missouri.

The postage stamp

350. The postage stamp should be attached in the upper right-hand corner. It should be right side up, and its edges should be parallel to the edges of the envelope. A postage stamp upside down or affixed in a haphazard fashion raises against the sender of the letter a suspicion of slovenliness.

V. BIBLIOGRAPHY AND FOOTNOTES

Bibliographies

Frequently students will find it necessary to cite references to sources from which they have taken material. Such a list of books relating to a given subject or author is called a bibliography. Although there may be no arbitrary ruling regarding the style followed by authors and publishers in the citation of authority, yet there is a form generally used. First the surname of the author or editor is given, then his initials or given name, next the exact title of the book, the place of publication, the name of the publisher, and the date of publication, all of which information is usually found on the title page of the book. The following examples are punctuated according to the usual form:

Form used
for bibliography
of books

Gosse, Edmund W. Inter Arma. London, W. Heinemann, 1916.

Gosse, Edmund W. and Wise, Thomas J. (Editors). The Posthumous Poems of Algernon Charles Swinburne. London, W. Heinemann, 1917.

NOTE—The name of the publisher is frequently omitted. In case no date is given on the title page of the book, the abbreviations n.d. are sometimes used.

The bibliographical form for magazine reference should contain the following information: the name of the author; his initials or given name; the name of the article; the publication in which it appears; the volume and page or pages inclusive, the month, and the year of the issue. (See Rule 246.)

Form used
for bibliography
of magazine articles

258 BIBLIOGRAPHY AND FOOTNOTES

Adams, James T. "History and Lower Criticism." Atlantic Monthly, Vol. 132, No. 3, p. 308, September, 1923.

NOTE. — Frequently the abbreviations for volume and page are omitted and a colon is used between the volume and page numbers, as in the following:

Brown, Rollo W. "The Creative Spirit and the American Public." Harper's Magazine, 150:491, March, 1925.

The volume number may be written in Roman numerals as in the following:

Wharton, Edith. "The Writing of Fiction." Scribner's Magazine, LXXVII, 344, April, 1925.

Sometimes either the volume number or the month and the year are omitted, as in the following:

Webb, Waldron. "Stars on a Mountain." Century Magazine, Vol. 109. p. 786.

Consistency in the form of a bibliography

Even though the writer may vary somewhat from the usual bibliographical form, yet he should use the same style consistently. There should be no variations within the bibliography itself.

Arrangement of the bibliography

The bibliographical list is usually arranged alphabetically according to authors. If the author's name is not given, the book or article is generally placed alphabetically according to the title.

Footnotes

Purpose of footnotes

A footnote may be used for various purposes: it may contain additional explanatory material or may give the source of the information contained in the text. In a manuscript it is usually inserted on the page immediately below the word or passage to which it refers, and it is separated by lines from the body of the text. The index number should be placed at the end of the passage to which the footnote refers and at the beginning of the footnote. In typewriting, single spacing may be used for footnotes.

Example: They were to regain youth as had old Aeson.¹

¹ Allusion to the myth of Medea and Aeson in which Medea through her sorceries restores Aeson's youth.

Example: As far removed from God and the light of Heaven
As from the centre thrice to the utmost pole.¹

¹ Milton, Paradise Lost, Book I, l. 73.

The information given in the footnote varies. If the book contains a bibliography, it is not always necessary to give more than the name of the author, the title, and the page. If the author's name is mentioned in the text, then it will only be necessary to name the book or the article. In case the author and the book are well known, it is sufficient to give merely the author's surname, usually in the possessive case.

Information given in footnote

Example: Spenser's Faerie Queene, Canto V, Stanza 1.

If the reference is made to a work which has appeared in more than one edition, it is often necessary to note the edition.

Example: Spenser's Faerie Queene, London, Macmillan, 1920. Canto V, Stanza 1.

Footnotes should be in as brief a form as clearness will permit. Abbreviations of titles, publishers' names, places of publications, and all words used in

Abbreviations in footnotes

260 BIBLIOGRAPHY AND FOOTNOTES

giving reference are frequently desirable. The following abbreviations commonly appear in footnotes:

	Singular	Plural
• volume	vol.	vols.
number	no.	nos.
psalm	ps.	pss.
chapter	chap.	chaps.
article	art.	arts.
section	sec.	secs.
page	p.	pp.
verse	vs.	vss.
line	l.	ll.
following pages		ff.

If two references to the same book immediately follow one another, the abbreviation ibid. (in the same place) is used.

Example: Dickens' David Copperfield. Thos. Nelson and Sons, London, p. 101.
Ibid., p. 34.

If, however, another title intervenes, ibid. cannot be used, since it means the reference immediately preceding.

When the author and title of a book have already been given, repetition of the title may be avoided by using op. cit. (work cited) with the author's name and the page.

Example: Borrow's Lavengro, London, 1914, p. 42.
 Borrow, op. cit., p. 61.

When an article or periodical has already been cited in full, repetition may be avoided by the use of loc. cit. (place cited).

Example: New Republic, XL, 40.
Loc. cit., p. 82.

VI. A GLOSSARY

OF MISCELLANEOUS FAULTY EXPRESSIONS

A.D. Means in the year of the Lord. Should not, therefore, be appended to the name of a century. Should not be appended to a date self-evidently modern. When used, should precede the date and should not be preceded by a preposition.

Wrong: The sixth century A.D.

Right: The sixth century after Christ.

Right: Arminius died A.D. 21.

About. See At about.

Above. When used as an adjective (e.g., The above statement) while not incorrect, is less desirable than the foregoing, the preceding.

Accept. See Except.

Ad. Slang abbreviation for advertisement. Write the word in full.

Addicted to, subject to Addicted to means devoted to persistently, as to a habit or indulgence. Do not confuse with subject to, which means exposed to some agency. A man may be addicted to opium, but subject to attacks of rheumatism.

Affect. Means to influence; as "War is almost sure to affect trade seriously." Is never used as a noun — always as a verb. Often confused with effect. Effect (verb) means to bring to pass; as "He will effect a reconciliation." Effect (noun) means result; as "The drug had a fatal effect."

After. Inaccurate: After having written.

Right: After writing.

Aggravate. Means to make worse; as, "The shock aggravated his misery." Means also to exasperate, embitter (a person). In the sense of provoke, arouse the evil feelings of, it is familiar, not literary usage.

All right. There is no such word as alright.

All-round. There is no such word as all-around recognized by good usage.

All the. "All the farther," "all the higher," "all the faster," or a similar expression should not be used mistakenly for as far as, etc. All the with an adverb means by that amount, just so much.

Wrong: That was all the farther we went that day.

Right: That was all the distance we went that day; or, That was as far as we went that day.

Right: We shall go all the faster for our rest.

Allude. Means to refer indirectly. Refer means an open, direct mention. "When he alluded to profiteers, we knew whom he meant."

Already, all ready. Distinguish already, meaning beforehand, or by this time, from all ready, which means completely ready. "The hotel was already full." "They were all ready to go."

Alternative. Strictly, means choice between two things, or one of two things between which choice is possible; as "The alternative is difficult." "One alternative was to jump from the window; the other was to be burned to death." Expanded in familiar usage to mean a choice between more than two things.

Altogether, all together. "The story is altogether false" [i.e., completely false]. "We were all together in the room."

And etc. Never put and before etc.

Wrong: Pillows, flags, posters, and etc.

Right: Pillows, flags, posters, etc.

Anent. The use of this synonym of about or concerning suggests affectation.

Any place, every place, no place, some place. Vulgarisms for anywhere, everywhere, nowhere, somewhere. (See Rule 4.)

Anywheres and nowheres. Vulgarism for anywhere and nowhere.

Appreciate. Means to esteem adequately or to value highly; as "I appreciate the service." Should not be modified by greatly or very much.

As (1). Should not be used too frequently in the sense of because. The conjunctions for or since may often be advantageously substituted. Where as occurs in this sense there should often be no conjunction.

Bad: I want you to come home now as it is time for supper.

Better: I want you to come home now; it is time for supper.

As (2). In negative statements and in questions implying a negative answer, good usage requires the correlatives so . . . as rather than the correlatives as . . . as.

Doubtful: The modern nations are not as artistic as the ancient nations were.

Preferable: The modern nations are not so artistic as the ancient nations were.

As (3). Not to be used in place of that or whether. "I don't know that [not as] we can go."

Asset. Asset means property applicable in the payment of debts. Should not be loosely used in the sense of anything valuable or useful; as, "Smith is an asset to the team."

At about Prefer about.

Inferior: He came at about three o'clock.

Right: He came about three o'clock.

Aught. Means anything. The name of the symbol 0 is naught, not ought.

Auto. A colloquialism for automobile. Not yet proper in formal writing.

Avail. Of no avail is properly used only with some form of be; elsewhere use to no purpose.

Wrong: He tried, but of no avail.

Right: He tried, but to no purpose.

Right: His attempt was of no avail.

Awful. Means inspiring with awe; as "The awful presence of the king." Colloquial or slang as epithet of disapproval. Say not "an awful mistake," but "a serious or disastrous mistake"; not "an awful blunder," but "a ludicrous blunder."

Badly. Colloquially used for a great deal or very much.

Wrong: I want badly to see you.

Right: I want very much to see you.

Balance. Bad English when used in the sense of remainder, except as a balance at the bank. (Cf. Bank on, Take stock in.)

Bad: One was an Italian; the balance were Greeks.

Right: One was an Italian; the rest (or the others) were Greeks.

Bank on, take stock in. Slang in the sense of rely on, trust in, receive as trustworthy, confidently expect. (Cf. Balance.)

Barbarous, barbaric. Barbarous means, in its restricted sense, cruel; barbaric is especially related to the barbarian love of noise or show, as, barbaric music.

Barn. Means a farm building used for storing grain or hay. Should not be used for stable.

Beg. When used in asking permission to do a thing, beg should govern a noun — permission, leave, or some synonym of these words.

Elliptical: I beg to state. — I beg to differ. — I beg to be absent.

Better: I beg leave to state. — I beg leave to differ. — I beg permission to be absent.

Besides. Means additionally, or in addition to. Not to be confused with beside, which is always a preposition, meaning "by the side of"; as, beside the house.

Between. Usually applies to only two persons or objects. For three or more, use among. But: "A railroad between Chicago, Philadelphia, and New York."

Blame . . . on. Crudely used instead of blame.

Wrong: You needn't blame it on me.

Right: You needn't blame me for it.

Borrow. Not to be confused with lend.

Vulgar: He refused to borrow me his knife.

Right: He refused to lend me his knife.

Right: I wanted to borrow his knife from him.

Bunch. Slang for group or party.

But that, or but what. After doubt, that is considered more logical than but that. But what is incorrect.

Wrong: I had no doubt but what he would bite.

Right: I had no doubt that he would bite.

Calculate. A provincialism for think, suppose, expect, or intend.

Can. Denotes power or ability. Should not be used to denote permission.

Wrong: Can students hand in their theses in manuscript?

Right: May students [or, are students allowed to, or permitted to] hand in their theses in manuscript?

Can't seem. See Seem.

Cause. Complete such an expression as the cause was with a predicate noun or a noun clause. (See Rule 117.)

Wrong: The cause of his failure was on account of his imprudence.

Right: The cause of his failure was his imprudence; [or] . . . was that he was imprudent.

Certainly. The use of the word certainly, as a means of emphasis in relation to matters on which no doubt has been cast, is a colloquialism, and its over-use is monotonous, as in the expressions, "We certainly had a good time"; "That certainly was a hard examination"; "I certainly wonder where she bought that hat."

Characteristic. Means a distinguishing quality; as "His chief characteristic is absent-mindedness." Should not be used without intelligent regard to its meaning.

Bad: One characteristic of my daily life is climbing College Hill.

Right: One incident of my daily life is climbing College Hill.

Charge. Should be combined, when it means accuse, not with of, but with with.

Wrong: They charged him of many crimes.

Right: They charged him with many crimes.

Claim. Means to demand as due; as "I claim the reward." Colloquial for assert or maintain, when there is no question of right, title, or advantage.

Wrong: He claimed that the William Tell story was only a legend.

Right: He asserted that the William Tell story was only a legend.

Coincidence. Means the occurrence of two events at the same time or in remarkable connection with each other; as "My forgetting my ticket and Bob's appearance just then with a ticket he didn't need, made a lucky coincidence." Should not be used to designate a single event.

Company. A vulgarism for companion, guest, escort, or the plurals of these words.

Completed. Not to be used for complexioned.

Wrong: A light-completed girl.

Right: A light-complexioned girl.

Conscience, consciousness, conscious, conscientiousness. Conscience is the power of making moral distinctions; not to be confused with consciousness, which is simply the power of being aware of anything. Conscience is moral consciousness. Similarly, distinguish conscious, an adjective meaning aware or mentally alert, and conscientiousness, a noun meaning loyalty to conscience.

Considerable. A colloquialism when used as a noun.

Wrong: He lost considerable in the fire.

Right: He lost considerable property [or, a good deal of property] in the fire.

Contemplate. Should not be combined with a preposition.

Wrong: He contemplated on [or over] a trip to Alaska.

Right: He contemplated a trip to Alaska.

Contemptible. Means worthy of being despised; as "He is a contemptible sneak." Not to be confused with contemptuous, which means showing scorn; as "He made a contemptuous answer."

Contemptuous. See Contemptible.

Continual. Not synonymous with continuous, according to modern usage. Continual means occurring in close succession, frequently repeated; as "Continual hindrances discouraged us," "He coughs continually." Continuous means without cessation, continuing uninterrupted; as "Continuous opposition discouraged us," "He slept continuously for ten hours."

Continuous. See Continual.

Could of. See Of.

Couldn't seem. See Seem.

Credible, credulous, creditable. Credible means believable. Distinguish from credulous, meaning easily imposed on, believing too easily, and from creditable, which means praiseworthy.

Criticize. May mean to censure, but may mean merely to pass judgment on, whether favorable or adverse.

Crowd. Not to be used for party or company.

Cunning. Means artful, ingenious, or giving evidence of art or ingenuity; as "a cunning intriguer," "cunning workmanship." As pretty or amusing it is a colloquial Americanism.

- Cute. Slang. Use pretty, vivacious, lively, amusing, dainty, piquant, engaging, or some other word in reputable use and of definite meaning.
- Data, phenomena, strata. Plural, not singular forms. The singular forms are datum (rarely used), phenomenon, and stratum.
- Date. Inelegant for engagement or appointment.
- Deal (1). Should be combined with with, not with on or of, when the intended meaning is discuss.
 Wrong: He deals on three subjects.
 Wrong: He deals of three subjects.
 Right: He deals with three subjects.
- Deal (2). Colloquialism for transaction, agreement, or arrangement.
- Demand. Means to claim or call for peremptorily. The object of this verb should be the thing claimed, never the person from whom the thing is claimed.
 Wrong: Japan demanded Russia to leave Manchuria.
 Right: Japan demanded that Russia leave Manchuria. [The object of "demanded" is the substantive clause "that . . . Manchuria."]
- Demean. To demean oneself is merely to conduct oneself; as "He demeaned himself as a gentleman." Colloquial in the sense of to lower or degrade oneself.
- Depot. Best applied to a building for the deposit of merchandise. To designate a building for the accommodation of passengers, it is better to say station.
- Different. Should not be completed by a than clause, but always by a from clause. British usage differs in this from American usage.
 Wrong: The method is different than the one that formerly prevailed.
 Right: The method is different from the one that formerly prevailed.
- Diner, sleeper, smoker. Colloquial in the United States for dining car, sleeping car, and smoking car. Not vulgarisms.
- Disinterested. Means without self-interest, unselfish; as "the judge's disinterested performance of his duty." Not to be confounded with uninterested.
- Done. An ungrammatical error when used as the past tense of do, or as an additional auxiliary indicating past time. Typical illiterate sentences are "He done fine," "He done real good," for "He did well," (see fine (1), real, and good); and "I done lost it," for "I lost it" or "I have lost it."
- Don't. A contraction of do not. Therefore ungrammatical when used with a subject in the third person singular. (See Rule 29.)
 Wrong: He don't know.
 Right: He doesn't know.
 Right: I don't know, we don't know, you don't know, and they don't know.

Deve. Should not be used as the past tense of dive. Say "dived."

Due to. Should not be used unless the due modifies some noun.

Wrong: The forces were divided, due to a misunderstanding.

Right: The forces were divided through [or because of] a misunderstanding.

Right: The division of the forces was due to a misunderstanding.

Each other. Properly used as referring to only two. To be distinguished from one another, which refers to more than two.

Effect. See Affect.

Either, neither. Preferably used to designate one of two persons or things; less commonly, one of three or more.

Less common: I asked Leahy, Mahoney, and McGinty, but neither of them was willing.

Preferable: I asked Leahy, Mahoney, and McGinty, but none of them was willing; [or] . . . no one of them was willing.

Elegant. Means excelling in the power to discriminate properly and select properly, or giving evidence of such excellence; as "an elegant gentleman," "elegant ornamentation." Should not be used loosely. Say not "an elegant view," but a "beautiful view"; not "an elegant game of football," but "an excellent or a masterly game"; not "an elegant march," but "a spirited or rousing march"; not "an elegant pie," but "a delicious pie." Choose an adjective that expresses your meaning definitely.

Element. Means a component part; as "The elements of training are exercise, diet, and regularity." Should not be used without intelligent regard to its meaning.

Bad: Next, the logs are "driven" down stream. Great danger besets the lumbermen in this element.

Right: Next, the logs are "driven" down stream. Great danger besets the lumbermen in this process.

Else. To be followed by but, not by than. Often used redundantly, as "no one else but him" for "no one but him."

Redundant: It is nothing else but selfishness.

Right: It is nothing but selfishness.

Both expressions, somebody else's and somebody's else are right, but the former is preferred.

Enormity, enormousness. Enormity ordinarily means outrageous wickedness. Enormousness means of abnormal size.

Enough. A result complement limiting enough should have the form of an infinitive, not of a clause introduced by that or so that.

Wrong: It was near enough that I could touch it.

Right: It was near enough for me to touch it.

Wrong: There is humor enough so that the story isn't dull.

Right: There is humor enough to keep the story from being dull.

Enthuse. The word is unknown to good usage. (See Rule 5.)

Vulgar: He doesn't enthuse me.

Right: He doesn't rouse any enthusiasm in me.

Vulgar: She never enthuses.

Right: She never becomes enthusiastic.

Etc. The use of etc. is incongruous in a context intended to be artistic. Use a definite term in place of etc. or simply omit etc.

Wrong: She was more beautiful, witty, virtuous, etc., than any other lady.

Right: She was more beautiful, witty, virtuous, and loyal than any other lady.

Right: She was more beautiful, witty, and virtuous than any other lady.

In any context, avoid the vague use of etc.; use it only to dispense with useless repetition or to represent terms that are entirely obvious.

Every place. See Any place.

Every so often. A colloquial expression for at regular periods or intervals.

Except (verb) means to exclude; as "He alone was excepted from the amnesty." Except (preposition) means with the exception (i.e., exclusion) of; as "All's lost except honor." Except is not to be confused with accept, which means to receive.

Exceptional, exceptionable. Exceptional, which means unusual, is to be distinguished from exceptionable, which means objectionable. "It was an exceptional offer." "Your language is exceptionable."

Expect. Should not be used for suppose.

Wrong: I expect it's time for us to go.

Right: I suppose it's time for us to go.

Extra. Not to be used in the sense of unusually, as "an extra fine day."

Factor. Means a force or agent coöperating with other forces or agents to produce a certain result; as "The factors of success are industry and perseverance." Should not be used without intelligent regard to its meaning.

Bad: Being ducked in the lake is an inevitable factor in the freshman's experience.

Right: Being ducked in the lake is an inevitable part of the freshman's experience.

Falls, ways, woods. Plurals, not singulars.

Wrong: Go a little ways down stream till you come to a falls. Beside it is a woods.

Right: Go a little way down stream till you come to a fall. Beside it is a wood.

Right: The falls of the river; the woods and the fields; the ways of men.

Fine (1). Means refined, delicate, free from impurity, of excellent quality: "fine cutlery," "fine dust," "fine sense of honor," "fine gold." Loosely used it is a general epithet of approval: "a fine fellow," "a fine day," "a fine ship."

Fine (2). The use of this adjective as an adverb is a gross error; as "You look fine" for "You look finely."

First-rate. May be used as an adjective but never as an adverb.

Right: It is a first-rate building.

Wrong: He plays tennis first-rate.

Right: He plays tennis very well; [or] He plays a first-rate game of tennis.

Firstly. Most writers prefer first, even when followed by secondly, thirdly, etc.

Fix (1). Slang for plight, situation, or condition.

Fix (2). Colloquial in the United States for repair or arrange. The expression "fix up" used in one of these senses is likewise a colloquialism.

Former, latter. Properly used to designate one of two persons or things, not one of three or more. (Cf. Either, neither.) For designating one of three or more, say "first," "first-named," "first-mentioned," or "last," "last-named," "last-mentioned."

Frighten, scare. Provincialisms when used intransitively.

Wrong: Does the horse frighten easily?

Right: Is the horse frightened easily?

Genial, congenial. Genial means cordial and pleasant in manner. Do not confuse it with congenial, which means suited to one's disposition; as "a congenial friend," "a congenial occupation."

Gent. A vulgarism for gentleman.

Gentleman, lady. Terms properly used to designate persons of refined speech and manners, as distinguished from ill-bred or uncultivated people; the use of them to designate mere sex is incorrect.

Wrong: Saleslady, business gentleman, lady stenographer.

— There are lady cab-drivers in Paris. — There are more ladies than gentlemen who play the piano. — Cornell admits ladies, but Williams admits only gentlemen. — Ladies' cloak room.

Right: Saleswoman, business man, woman stenographer. —

There are woman cab-drivers in Paris. — There are more women than men who play the piano. — Cornell admits women, but Williams admits only men. — Women's cloak room.

The use of man and woman need never be shunned; even where lady or gentleman may be used correctly, man or woman is equally polite, and is often preferable.

Right: Is your wife a Massachusetts woman? — You are the only woman I know who drives a motor. — Are you the man I met last spring in Denver?

Gentleman friend, lady friend. These terms, not in themselves objectionable, have, through the use that has been made of them, become objectionable. Prefer man friend (plural: man friends) or gentleman of one's acquaintance, woman friend (plural: woman friends) or lady of one's acquaintance.

Get. "I didn't get to go" is a provincialism for "was not able to go." "She got around the old lady" is colloquial for "persuaded," "coaxed." Get on to, get next to, get away with, get across, get left, are slang.

Get up. A colloquialism for organize, institute, compose, prepare, arrange, print, bind, dress, decorate, or ornament. "A get-up" is a colloquialism for a dress, a costume.

Going on.

Tautological and provincial: How old is he? Sixteen, going on seventeen.

Right: How old is he? Sixteen.

Good. An adjective; must not be used as an adverb.

Wrong: Do it good this time.

Right: Do it well this time.

Got. The perfect tense is colloquial in the sense of possess.

Colloquial: Have you got a knife with you?

Preferable: Have you a knife with you?

Got up, gotten up. See Get up.

Gotten. Often used still, but "got" is the accepted modern form.

Undesirable: He has gotten his reward at last.

Right: He has got his reward at last.

Grand. Means on a large scale, imposing; as "a grand mountain range." Should not be used loosely. Say not "a grand day," but "a beautiful or brilliant day."

Grip. Colloquial in the United States for valise or bag. Gripsack is likewise a colloquialism.

Guess. Colloquial in the United States to express supposition, expectation, or intention. Say "think," "suppose," "except," "mean," or "intend."

Had better, had best, had rather. Entirely grammatical and fully approved by good usage. Would better, would best, and would rather are not preferable. Had better is preferable to would better; had best and would best, had rather and would rather are equally good.

Correct but undesirable: You would better not stay long.

Right: You had better not stay long.

Right: They had best attempt no violence.

Right: I had rather go than stay.

Had have or had of. Often incorrectly used for had.

Bad: If we had have [or had of] tried, he would have succeeded.

Right: If he had tried, he would have succeeded.

Had ought. See Ought.

Have got. See Got.

Heap, heaps. Vulgarisms for very much, a great deal, a great many.

Hear to it. A vulgarism. Say "consent to it," or "allow it."

Help (1). Colloquial in the United States for a servant, servants, or employees.

Help (2). Should not be followed by but when used in the sense of avoid; should be followed by a gerund.

Wrong: I can't help but regret.

Right: I can't help regretting.

Hired girl. Colloquial for maid or servant.

Home. Properly used as an adverb expressing motion, as "He went home." "He is home" is wrong when it means "He is at home," but right when it means "He has come home." (See Rule 92, note.)

Honorable. See Reverend.

Hung. Improper when used in reference to an execution. Say "hanged."

Wrong: He was found guilty and hung.

Right: He was found guilty and hanged.

Right: We hung the flag on the balcony.

Hustle. Colloquial in the United States when used intransitively to mean hasten, hurry, or be energetic or industrious. Correctly used with a direct object.

Colloquial: People were hustling about in confusion.

Right: People were hurrying about in confusion.

Right: The police hustled the loiterers from the hall.

Hustler. A colloquialism for an energetic or capable person.

i.e. Means that is; denotes, therefore, that what follows is equivalent to what precedes. Should not be used when what follows is not equivalent to what precedes, or when that is will not fit grammatically into the place of i.e.

Right: The act is treated as a capital crime — i.e., a crime punishable by death. ["A crime punishable by death" is equivalent to "a capital crime"; and that is may be grammatically substituted for "i.e."]

Wrong: I like to read the Bible, i.e., some of the stories in the Old Testament. ["Some of the stories in the Old Testament" is not equivalent to "the Bible."]

Wrong: I like some parts of the Bible, i.e., the stories in the Old Testament. [That is cannot be grammatically substituted for "i.e."]

Right: I like some parts of the Bible — namely, [or viz.] the stories in the Old Testament.

Right: He had committed lese-majesty — i.e., had given an affront to the Emperor. ["Had . . . Emperor" is equivalent to "had . . . majesty" and that is may properly be substituted for "i.e."]

If. A colloquialism used as a synonym of whether after see, ask, learn, know, doubt, and the like.

Inadvisable: I don't know if I can.

Right: I don't know whether I can.

Ilk. An archaic adjective meaning same. In the expression of that ilk, as correctly used, ilk is an adjective modifying estate understood; "Sir George Urquhart of that ilk" means Sir George Urquhart of that same (estate) — i.e., Sir George Urquhart of Urquhart. The use of ilk as a noun meaning kind is a blunder.

Wrong: I'm not of her ilk, I'm glad to say.

Right: I'm not of her sort, I'm glad to say.

In. Generally incorrect when used to express motion. Say "into."

Wrong: He went in the bank.

Right: He went into the bank.

In back of. In front of is correct; "in back of" is a vulgarism. Say "behind."

In our midst. See Midst.

Incredible, incredulous. The former means unbelievable; the latter, disinclined to believe. "He had caught an incredible number of fish, and I was incredulous when he told me."

Individual. Should not be used indiscriminately for person. Properly used to mean individual person.

Right: He made a general address to the class, and also gave special advice to the individuals in the class.

Wrong: He is a tall, gaunt individual.

Right: He is a tall, gaunt fellow [or person, or man].

Indulge. Means (a) to treat with forbearance; as "Will you indulge me for a moment?" or (b) to put no restraint upon oneself; as "He indulges in [i.e., puts no restraint upon himself in regard to] gambling." Indulge in is often misused for practice or engage in.

Bad: Practice in surveying is indulged in in the autumn.

Right: Practice in surveying is engaged in [or taken] in the autumn.

Inferior. See Superior.

Ingenious, ingenuous. An inventor is ingenious; a person of a frank, trusting nature is ingenuous.

Inside. Does not require of following. Say simply "inside."

Right: They were trapped inside the walls.

Inside of. A colloquial Americanism for within, in time expressions.

Bad: It will disappear inside of a week.

Right: It will disappear within a week.

Instance, instant, incident. Instance means a single occurrence, an example; as "I will give you an instance of this habit." Incidents are happenings.

Kind, sort.

Crude and incorrect: I don't like those kind [or those sort] of photographs.

Right: I don't like that kind [or that sort] of photographs.

Kind of, sort of (1). A low colloquialism when used to modify verbs or adjectives. Say "somewhat," "somehow," "for some reason," "rather," or "after a fashion."

Bad: People who kind of chill you . . .

Right: People who somehow chill you . . .

Bad: The man who does nothing but study, gets sort of dull.

Right: The man who does nothing but study, gets rather dull.

Bad: I kind of felt my way at first.

Right: I felt my way, after a fashion, at first.

Kind of, sort of (2). Should not be followed by a or an.

Inelegant: What kind of a house is it?

Right: What kind of house is it?

Inelegant: It is a sort of a castle.

Right: It is a sort of castle.

Lady, lady friend. See Gentleman and Gentleman friend.

Latter. See Former.

Lay. Often confounded with lie. Remember that lay is the causative of lie; i.e., to lay means to cause to lie. Remember the principal parts of each verb:

I lie

I lay

I have lain.

I lay

I laid

I have laid.

Learn. A provincialism when used in the sense of teach; as "He learned us our lessons."

Leave go of. A colloquialism. Say "leave hold of" or "let go."

Wrong: He left go of the rope.

Right: He left hold of the rope; [or] He let go the rope.

Less. Should not be used in place of fewer.

Wrong: Less men were hurt this year than last.

Right: Fewer men were hurt this year than last.

Liabie. Means (a) easily susceptible; as "It is liable to injury"; or (b) likely; as "It is liable to be misunderstood." But NOTE: Liabie is not properly used in the sense of likely except in designating an injurious or undesirable event which may befall a person or thing.

Wrong: We are liable to have a clear day tomorrow.

Right: We are likely, etc.

Like. Incorrect when used to introduce a subject with a verb. Say "as" or "as if." Like is correct when followed by a substantive without a verb.

Vulgar: He acted like the rest did.

Right: He acted as the rest did.

Right: He acted like the rest.

Vulgar: I felt like I had done something generous.

Right: I felt as if I had done something generous.

Right: I felt like a philanthropist.

Liked. Should not be compounded with would or should.

Bad: He would liked to have gone.

Right: He would have liked to go. (See Rule 53.)

Likely. Not in good use as an adverb meaning probably except after most or quite.

Line. The following uses of line are loose and incorrect:

(a) The loose use of line in the sense of kind or business, or in other senses for which there are precise words.

Bad: What line of work are you now doing?

Right: What kind of work are you now doing?

Bad: I am now engaged in the hardware line.

Right: I am now engaged in the hardware business.

(b) The use of line shown in the following Bad examples.

Bad: I like anything in the card line.

Right: I like any game of cards.

Bad: Was there anything in the refreshment line?

Right: Were there any refreshments?

Bad: He said a few things in the advice line.

Right: He gave me a little advice; [or] He said a few things by way of advice.

Bad: I'm not very good in the walking line.

Right: I'm not very good at walking.

(c) The use of "along the line of" or "in the line of" for in connection with, in regard to, about, on the subject of, in the nature of, by way of, in, of.

Bad: He was also famous along the line of literature.

Right: He was also famous in literature.

Bad: The dean said some things along the line of athletics.

Right: The dean said some things about athletics.

Bad: We are planning something in the line of a surprise.

Right: We are planning something by way of surprise.

(d) The use of "along this or that line" or "in this or that line," for in or on or in regard to this or that subject, in this or that respect, of this or that sort.

Bad: Let me tell you something along that line.

Right: Let me tell you something in connection with that subject.

Bad: If he is so weak in physics and chemistry, he needs some tutoring along those lines.

Right: If he is so weak in physics and chemistry, he needs some tutoring in those subjects.

Bad: I need some tacks. Have you anything along that line?

Right: I need some tacks. Have you anything of that sort?

Lines. A provincialism for reins.

Loan. Objectionable as a verb.

Inelegant: He loaned me a book.

Right: He lent me a book.

Right: The loan was a great assistance.

Locate. A colloquialism for settle. Correct when used transitively.

Bad: He located in Ohio.

Right: He settled in Ohio.

Right: He located his factory in Lima.

Lose out, win out. Slang, not proper except in connection with sports.

Lovely. Means lovable or inspiring love; as "a lovely character." A colloquialism when used loosely. Say not "a lovely time," but "a pleasant or delightful time"; not "a lovely drive," but "an interesting or pleasant drive"; not "a lovely costume," but "a handsome, or dainty, or rich, or striking, or elegant costume." Choose the adjective that expresses your meaning definitely.

Luxuriant. Means of rank or vigorous growth. Not to be confounded with luxurious, which is related to indulgence in pleasures of the senses. A luxurious home, but luxuriant vegetation.

Mad. Means insane. Colloquial for angry.

May of. See Of.

Mean. Means lowly or base. Colloquial when used to mean cruel, vicious, unkind, or ill-tempered.

Messrs. The plural of Mr. Like Mr., Messrs. should never be used without a name or names following it. (See Rule 321.)

Vulgar: Messrs., will you come in? [To say this is like saying "Mister, will you come in?" or "Mrs., I have come."] Right: Gentlemen, will you come in?

Right: Messrs. Zangwill and Barrie met the Messrs. McCarthy.

Midst. The expressions our midst, your midst, and their midst preceded by a preposition have been censured by critics and have gathered many ludicrous associations. Instead of "in our midst," say "in the midst of us" or "among us." Instead of "from our midst," many writers use "from the midst of us," or "from among us," or substitute for midst some noun such as neighborhood, community, fellowship, etc.

Might of. See Of.

Miss. Like Mr., Mrs., and Messrs., Miss, when used as a title, must always be followed by a name. (Cf. Messrs.)

Vulgar: My dear Miss.

Right: My dear Madam; [or] My dear Miss Smith.

Most. Dialectic for almost. (See Rule 5.)

Mrs. The combination of Mrs. with a husband's title is incorrect. Mrs. may be followed only (1) by the woman's surname, (2) by her husband's Christian name (or initials) and surname, or (3) if the woman is a widow, by her own Christian name and surname; the husband's title, if stated at all, should be put in another part of the sentence.

Right: Mrs. Boughton. [1]

Right: Mrs. John C. Boughton. [2]

Right (for a widow): Mrs. Mary Dole. [3]

Wrong: Mrs. Professor Yates, Mrs. Dr. Fairbanks, Mrs. President Hughes, Mrs. Bishop Ross, Mrs. Rev. Fisher, Mrs. Captain Johnson.

Right: Mrs. Richard E. Yates; Mrs. Fairbanks, wife of Dr. Fairbanks; Mrs. Louisa Hughes, widow of President Hughes; Mrs. Jeremiah Ross; Mrs. Noah Fisher; Mrs. C. V. Johnson.

Much. Not to be used for very.

Wrong: My work is much different this year.

Right: My work is very different this year.

Must of. See Of.

Mutual. Incorrect, according to modern usage, in the sense of shared in common; for this meaning the proper adjective is common. Mutual, properly used, means reciprocal, interchanged.

Wrong: As we conversed, we found that we had several mutual friends in Portland. [The title of Dickens's novel Our Mutual Friend is a quotation from some ill-educated persons in the story; it therefore furnishes no good argument for the correctness of the expression "mutual friend."]

Right: As we conversed, we found that we had several common friends in Portland.

Wrong: The two men had a mutual interest in sculpture.

Right: . . . a common interest in sculpture.

Right: They practiced mutual forbearance and aid [i.e., each one helped and bore with the other]. — Their faces showed a mutual hatred [i.e., showed that each hated the other]. — Mutual friendship [i.e., friendship interchanged between two persons]. — Common friendship [i.e., friendship shared by two persons for a third].

Near by. A colloquialism when used as an adjective. (See Rule 4.)

Colloquial: A near-by house.

Right: A neighboring, or adjacent, house; [or] A house that stood near by.

Nearly. Often misused for near.

Wrong: He came nearly getting hurt.

Right: He came near getting hurt.

Neither. See Either.

Nice. Means keen and precise in discrimination, or delicately or precisely made; as "nice judge of values," "a nice discrimination." A colloquialism when used to mean pleasant. Say not "a nice fellow," but "an agreeable, or admirable, or conscientious, or honorable fellow"; not "a nice time," but "a pleasant time"; not "He is nice to us," but "He is kind or courteous to us." Choose the adjective that expresses your meaning definitely.

No good. A vulgarism when used adjectively. Say "worthless," "of no value."

No place. See Any place.

No use. Incorrect when used adjectively. Say "of no use," "of no value," or "unsuccessful."

Notorious. Means of bad repute; as "a notorious gambler." Not to be used for famous or celebrated.

Not to exceed. Should not be used except in giving or quoting orders or directions. Often misused for not more than.

Right: They were authorized to spend any sum, not to exceed $500,000. [See Rule 271 f.]

Wrong: The trains are composed of not to exceed twenty cars.

Right: The trains are composed of not more than twenty cars.

Nowhere near. A vulgarism for not nearly.

Observance. Means the act of paying respect or obedience. Not to be confused with observation, which means the act of inspecting, looking at.

Right: The observance of Good Friday.

Right: From his observation of the sky, he judged that a storm was approaching.

Observation. See Observance.

Of. Could of, may of, might of, must of, should of, and would of are illiterate corruptions of could have, may have, might have, must have, should have, and would have.

Off of. Incorrect for off.

Wrong: Keep off of the grass.

Right: Keep off the grass.

On the side. Slang for incidental, collateral, occasional, or the corresponding adverbs.

Only. Incorrect for but or except that.

Wrong: He would have been here, only he had to study.

Right: He would have been here, but he had to study.

Or. Should not be correlated with neither; use nor.

Wrong: Neither the long Arctic night or any other cause . . .

Right: Neither the long Arctic night nor any other cause . . .

Oral. See Verbal.

Other times. Sometimes is an adverb; other times is not. Say "at other times." (See Rules 4 b and 92.)

Ought. The combination of ought with had is conspicuously bad English.

Wrong: You hadn't ought to have entered.

Right: You ought not to have entered.

Wrong: We ought to send, had we not?

Right: We ought to send, ought we not?

Ought to of. Vulgarism for ought to have.

Vulgar: You ought to of waited.

Right: You ought to have waited.

Right: You should have waited.

Out loud. Not a permissible expression. Say aloud.

Outside (1). Does not require of following. Say simply "outside."

Right: Outside the barn the cattle were shivering.

Outside (2). Outside of should not be used for aside from.

Wrong: Outside of this mistake, it is very good.

Right: Aside from this mistake, it is very good.

Over with. With is superfluous.

Wrong: The regatta is over with.

Right: The regatta is over.

Overly. A vulgarism. Say "over." (See Rule 5.)

Vulgar: I'm not overly anxious.

Right: I'm not over-anxious.

Pair, set. Singular, not plural, forms.

Wrong: Two pair of gloves and three set of chisels.

Right: Two pairs of gloves and three sets of chisels.

Part. See Portion.

Partake of. Means to take a part (of something) in common with others, to share with others; as "Good and evil alike partake of the air and the sunshine," "The whole delegation partook of his hospitality." The use of partake of as if it were synonymous with eat is a blunder and usually an affectation.

Party. Means a person or group of persons taking part (in some transaction). Incorrect when used to mean simply person.

Right: The parties to the marriage were both young.

Wrong: The party who wrote that article must have been a scholar.

Per. Use per with Latin words, such as annum, diem, cent; not, as a rule, with English words. Avoid the expression as per; say according to.

Inelegant: Three dollars per day; one suicide per week; seven robberies per month; $3200 per year; two deaths per thousand; thirteen cents per gallon.

Right: Three dollars a day [or per diem]; one suicide a week; seven robberies a month; $3200 a year [or per annum]; two deaths for every thousand; thirteen cents a gallon.

Per cent. It is better to use per cent only after a numeral. (See Rule 4.)

Wrong: A large per cent were Chinese.

Right: Twenty per cent were Chinese. [See Rules 220 b and 290.]

Right: A large percentage were Chinese.

Phase. Means appearance or aspect; as "That phase of the question I haven't considered." Should not be used without intelligent regard to its meaning.

Bad: I began to indulge in all the different phases of college pleasure.

Right: I began to indulge in all the different kinds of college pleasure.

Phenomena. A plural noun. See Data.

Phone. A colloquialism. Not yet proper in formal discourse.

Piano. Should not be used to mean instruction in piano-playing.

Wrong: She is taking piano.

Right: She is taking piano lessons.

Piece. A provincialism when used in the sense of distance or short distance.

Plan. Should not be combined with on. Say simply "plan."

Wrong: We planned on taking a walk.

Right: We planned taking a walk; [or] We planned to take a walk.

Plenty (1). A colloquialism when used as an adjective. Say "plentiful." (See Rule 4.)

Wrong: Wheat is plenty.

Right: Wheat is plentiful.

Right: There is plenty of wheat.

Plenty (2). Colloquial when used as an adverb. (See Rule 4.)

Wrong: It is plenty good enough.

Right: It is quite good enough.

Portion. Best used in its restricted sense, as a proportionate part or share, and distinguished from part. "A portion of the inheritance"; "a part of the day."

Postal. An adjective. Inelegant for postal card.

Posted. Incorrect for informed.

Wrong: Keep me posted.

Right: Keep me informed.

Wrong: He is well posted about politics.

Right: He is well informed about politics.

Practical. Means related to actual use, as opposed to theoretical or ideal.

Do not confuse with practicable, which means capable of being put into practice. A practical scheme (i.e., valuable or sensible) may not be practicable until a better opportunity.

Prefer. The thing about which something is said to be preferred should be made the object of the preposition to, never put into a than clause.

Wrong: I should prefer to go there than anywhere else.

Right: I should prefer going there to going anywhere else.

Propose. Means to offer. Should not be used for to purpose or to intend.

Wrong: I did not propose to divulge the secret.

Right: I did not purpose [or intend] to divulge the secret.

Proposition. Means a thing proposed or the act of proposing; as "He made a proposition to sell." Should not be used without intelligent regard to its meaning. Avoid especially the use of proposition for work or task.

Slang: To sink that shaft was a hard proposition.

Right: To sink that shaft was a hard piece of work.

Bad: The library-buffet car is the most comfortable proposition on wheels.

Right: The library-buffet car is the most comfortable vehicle on wheels.

Proven. An irregular form, and has enemies. Better "proved."

Providing. Provided is preferable.

Right: I will lend it, provided he agrees to take good care of it.

Put in. A colloquialism for spend or occupy.

Colloquial: I put in three hours in trying to memorize it.

Right: I spent three hours, etc.

Put in an appearance. A legal phrase. In ordinary writing, say appear.

Quality. Means characteristic or trait; as "The qualities of birch bark are lightness of color, thinness, and smoothness." Should not be used without intelligent regard to its meaning.

Bad: The social qualities of college life are more in evidence in the winter. (See Rule 14.)

Right: The social activities of college life are more apparent in the winter.

Bad: He gives three qualities of a business man: Have something to say, say it, and stop talking.

Right: He gives three maxims for a business man: Have something to say, say it, and stop talking.

Quite. Means (a) wholly; as "The stream is now quite dried up"; or (b) greatly, very; as "We could see it quite distinctly." A colloquialism when used in the sense of slightly, not very.

Wrong: The room is quite large, but not large enough for any one to be comfortable in.

Right: The room is moderately large, but not large enough for any one to be comfortable in.

Quite a few. Colloquial for a good many or a considerable number.

Quite a little. Colloquial for a considerable amount or a good deal.

Raise (1). A provincialism when applied to human beings, in the sense of rear, bring up.

Raise (2). Often confounded with rise. Remember that raise is the causative of rise; i.e., to raise means to cause to rise. Therefore raise must always have an object. Remember the principal parts of each verb:

I rise	I rose	I have risen.
I raise	I raised	I have raised.

Real. Colloquial when used for very. (See Rule 4.)

Colloquial: It is real handsome.

Right: It is very handsome.

Reason. Do not complete such an expression as the reason is with (a) a because clause, (b) a because of phrase, (c) a due to phrase, or (d) an on account of phrase; complete it with a that clause. (See Rule 117.)

Illogical: The reason he was offended was because they were arrogant.

Illogical: The reason he was offended was because of their arrogance.

Illogical: The reason he was offended was due to their arrogance.

Illogical: The reason he was offended was on account of their arrogance.

Right: The reason he was offended was that they were arrogant.

Refer. See Allude.

Remember. The name of the thing remembered should not be preceded by of.

Wrong: I remember of meeting him.

Right: I remember meeting him.

Respectful, respectable, respective. "He was respectful to his elders"; "a respectable old woman"; "their respective positions" — i.e., the positions belonging to each. "Yours respectfully" (not respectively) is proper in the complimentary close of a letter.

Reverend, Honorable. Should be preceded by the, and should never be followed immediately by a surname. (See Rules 269 and 276.)

Vulgar: Rev. Carter.

Vulgar: The Reverend Carter.

Right: The Reverend Mr. Carter.

Right: The Reverend Amos Carter.

Right: The Reverend Dr. Temple.

Rig. A provincialism for carriage, buggy, or wagon.

Right away, right off. Colloquial. Say "immediately," "at once," or "directly."

Right smart. A colloquial vulgarism.

Run. A colloquial Americanism, in the sense of manage or operate.

Said. See Say.

Same (1). No longer in good use as a pronoun except in legal documents.

Wrong: We will repair the engine and ship same [or the same] to you next week.

Right: We will repair the engine and ship it to you next week.

Inelegant: The principal of the bonds was paid and the same canceled. [See Rule 90 a.]

Right: The principal of the bonds was paid and the bonds were canceled.

Same (2). The same as should not be used for in the same way as or just as.

Wrong: The draft is treated the same as a check is treated.

Right: The draft is treated just as a check is treated.

Say. Should not be used to mean give orders, with an infinitive as object.

Crude: The guard said to go back.

Right: The guard ordered us [or told us] to go back.

Scare. See Frighten.

School. Should not be used for college or university.

Search. The phrase "in search for" is incorrect; say "in search of."

Right: The lion goes in search of sheep.

Seem. "Can't seem" is illogical and improper. Say "seem unable," or "do not seem able."

Seldom ever. Obsolete. Say "seldom" or "hardly ever."

Seldom or ever. A vulgarism. Say "seldom if ever."

Selection. Means a thing selected; as "He played a selection from Wagner." Should not be used where there is no idea of selecting.

Bad: Our class prophet then read an amusing selection, in which he satirized his classmates.

Right: Our class prophet then read an amusing composition [or skit, or squib, or piece], in which, etc.

Set (1). Often confounded with sit. Remember that set is the causative of sit; i.e., to set means to cause to sit. Remember the principal parts of each verb:

I sit	I sat	I have sat.
I set	I set	I have set.

The use of set without an object, as expressing mere rest, is a vulgarism; say "sit," "stand," "lie," "rest," or "is set."

Wrong: The pole sets firmly in the socket.

Right: The pole is set [or sits] firmly in the socket.

Wrong: The vase sets on the mantel.

Right: The vase stands [or rests] on the mantel.

Wrong: The boat sets lightly on the water.

Right: The boat lies [or rests] lightly on the water.

Setting hen is commonly used, but is not approved.

Set (2). Set for sets (plural). See Pair.

Shan't. A colloquialism. A contraction for shall not.

Shape. Should not be used loosely to mean manner or condition.

Wrong: They executed the maneuvers in good shape.

Right: They executed the maneuvers in an expert manner.

Wrong: He is in good shape for the debate.

Right: He is in good condition [or thoroughly prepared] for the debate.

Should of. See Of.

Show (1). Colloquial for play, opera, concert.

Show (2). A colloquialism for chance or promise.

Colloquial: The freshman team had an excellent show of winning.

Right: The freshman team had an excellent chance of winning.

Show up. A colloquialism when used intransitively in the sense of appear, attend, come or be present; and when used transitively in the sense of show or expose.

Sight of. "A sight of" is a vulgarism for much, many, a great deal.

Size. Never use size as an adjective; say "sized," or "of size."

Wrong: The different size dies are sorted.

Right: The different sized dies are sorted.

Wrong: Any size chain will do.

Right: A chain of any size will do.

Size up. A vulgarism for estimate, judge, pass upon.

Sleeper. See Diner.

Smoker. See Diner.

Snap. See Vim.

So (1). Should not be used for so that.

Wrong: They strapped it so it would hold.

Right: They strapped it so that it would hold.

So (2). Vague and weak when used alone to modify an adjective.
(See Rule 93, note.)

Weak: During the first semester I was so lonely.

Right: During the first semester I was very lonely.

So (3). See Too.

Some. A provincialism, when used as an adverb. (See Rule 4.)

Wrong: I worked some last winter.

Right: I did some work last winter.

Some place. See Any place.

Sort. See Kind.

Sort of. See Kind of.

Specie. Means gold or silver money. Species, meaning kind, has the same form in the singular and the plural.

Right: The first species is more valuable than the other two species are.

Start. "I started to school in 1908" is wrong, but "I started to school early that morning" is correct. "I started in school in 1908" is correct, though less desirable than "I began to attend school." In the expressions, "He started in to quarrel," and "He started up in business," the in and the up are incorrect, and should be omitted.

Stop. Means to cease or to cease from motion. A colloquialism when used in the sense of stay. Good British usage.

Right: Are you staying [not stopping] with friends?

Strata. A plural noun. See Data.

Subject, topic. A subject or a topic is a thing spoken about or thought about; the thing said or thought should not be called a subject or topic. (See Rule 117.)

Wrong: The topic of the first paragraph tells of the French war.

Right: The topic of the first paragraph is the French war.

Wrong: The book is composed of many interesting subjects.

Right: The book deals with many interesting subjects; [or]
The book is composed of passages on many interesting subjects.

Such (1). When such is completed by a relative clause, the relative pronoun of the clause should not be who, which, or that; it should be as (see as in a dictionary).

Wrong: I will act under such rules that may be fixed.

Right: I will act under such rules as may be fixed.

Wrong: All such persons present who consent will rise.

Right: All such persons present as consent will rise.

Such (2). When such is completed by a result clause, this clause should be introduced, not by so that, but by that alone.

Wrong: There was such a mist so that we couldn't see.

Right: There was such a mist that we couldn't see.

Such (3). Avoid the vague and weak use of such without a result clause. (See Rule 93, note.)

Weak: We had such a good time.

Right: We had a very good time.

Superior, inferior. Should never be limited by a than clause, but always by a to phrase.

Wrong: It was superior from every point of view than the lathe previously used.

Right: It was superior from every point of view to the lathe previously used.

Suppose. See Expect.

Sure. Incorrect as an adverb.

Wrong: Will you go? Sure.

Right: Will you go? Surely [I will go].

Suspicion. Incorrectly used as a verb.

Wrong: I did not suspicion that he was coming.

Right: I did not suspect that he was coming.

Swell. A vulgarism when used as an adjective. (See Rule 4.)

Take. A colloquialism when used for study.

Colloquial: I took Spanish and chemistry.

Right: I studied Spanish and chemistry.

Take in (1). A vulgarism for attend or go to.

Take in (2). A vulgarism for cheat or deceive.

Take and. Sometimes used redundantly.

Wrong: It will stay if you take and put it on right.

Right: It will stay if you put it on right.

Take it. Should not be used in introducing an example.

Bad: Take it in Wisconsin, the old-fashioned method of logging is becoming extinct.

Right: In Wisconsin, for example, the old-fashioned method of logging is becoming extinct.

Take sick. A colloquialism for become sick.

Take stock in. See Bank on.

Team. Means a couple or group of animals or persons; as "a team of horses," "a team of athletes." A provincialism when applied to one animal or to a vehicle.

Wrong: Will you ride in my team?

Right: Will you ride in my buggy [or carriage, or wagon]?

Than, till, until. Often improperly used for when, as in the following Wrong sentences. (See Rule 117.)

Wrong: Scarcely had he mounted the wagon than the horse started.

Right: Scarcely had he mounted the wagon when the horse started.

Wrong: We had hardly got there and put things in order till Jenks came.

Right: We had hardly got there and put things in order when Jenks came.

That. Colloquial as an adverb. (Cf. This, and see Rule 4.)

Colloquial: He went only that far.

Right: He went only so far.

Colloquial: If it is that bad, we must retreat.

Right: If it is so bad [or so bad as that], we must retreat.

Colloquial: He didn't want that much, did he?

Right: He didn't want so much as that, did he?

That there. See This here.

These here. See This here.

This. Colloquial as an adverb. (Cf. That, and see Rule 4.)

Colloquial: This much is certain.

Right: Thus much is certain.

Colloquial: Having come this far . . .

Right: Having come thus far [or as far as this] . . .

Colloquial: The water hasn't ever before been this high.

Right: The water hasn't ever before been so high as this.

This here, these here, that there, those there. Gross vulgarisms.

Say "this," "these," "that," or "those."

Those kind, those sort. See Kind, sort.

Those there. See This here.

Through. Inelegant when used as in the following sentence:

Wrong: He is through writing.

Right: He has finished writing; [or] He has done writing.

NOTE. — Never say "is finished" or "is done" in the sense above shown.

Till for when. See Than.

Too, so, very. No one of these words should immediately precede a past participle; say "too much," "so much," "very much."

Wrong: He is too exhausted to speak.

Right: He is too much exhausted to speak.

Wrong: He felt very insulted.

Right: He felt very much insulted.

Topic. See Subject.

Transpire. Means to become known; as "In spite of their efforts at concealment, the secret transpired." It is both affected and incorrect to use the word in the sense of occur.

Treat. Should be followed, when used to mean discuss or speak of, by of, not by on or with.

Wrong: The author treats on two subjects.

Right: The author treats of two subjects.

Trend. Means direction; as "The rivers of this land have a southern trend." Should not be used without regard to its proper meaning.

Bad: The egg business is only incidental to the general trend of the store.

Right: The egg business is only incidental to the general business of the store.

Try and. Colloquial for try to. Good British usage.

Colloquial: I shall try and get a good position.

Right: I shall try to get a good position.

Ugly. Means repulsive to the eye. A provincialism when used to mean vicious, malicious, or ill-tempered.

Bad: The horse has an ugly temper.

Right: The horse has a vicious temper.

Bad: The conductor acted very ugly.

Right: The conductor acted very discourteously [or uncivilly].

Underhanded. Prefer underhand.

Right: He used underhand methods.

Unique. Means the only one of its kind. Cannot be qualified, as "This is quite unique," or "fairly unique," or "the most unique."

United States. This name should usually be preceded by the. Do not write: We live in United States.

Until for when. See Than.

Up. Should not be appended to the verbs cripple, divide, end, finish, open, polish, rest, scratch, settle.

Wrong: He opened up the box and divided the money up among the men.

Right: He opened the box and divided the money among the men.

Up to date. A colloquialism when used as an adjective; better used as an adverbial modifier.

Colloquial: His house is up to date.

Preferable: His house is modern.

Right: He brought the history up to date.

Very with past participles. See Too.

Vim, snap. Not in good literary use. Say "vigor," "energy," or "spirit."

Violin. Should not be used to mean instruction in violin playing.

Crude: He has just begun violin.

Right: He has just begun to take violin lessons.

Vocal, voice. Should not be used to mean instruction in vocal music. (See Rule 4.)

Crude: Are you keeping on with your vocal?

Right: Are you keeping on with your singing lessons [or vocal practice]?

Crude: She is taking voice.

Right: She is taking singing lessons.

Voice. See Vocal.

Wait on. A vulgarism for wait for.

Wrong: If I'm not there, don't wait on me.

Right: If I'm not there, don't wait for me.

Want (1). Should not be limited by a clause as in the following sentence:

Wrong: I want you should be happy.

Right: I want you to be happy.

Want (2). "Want in," "want out," "want through," etc., are unauthorized localisms.

Vulgar: Do you want in?

Right: Do you want to come in?

Want (3). "I want for you to get some water" is a provincialism for "I want you to get some water."

Way (1). Unlicensed abbreviation for away.

Wrong: Way up the hill I saw a deer.

Right: Away [or far] up the hill I saw a deer.

Way (2). Should not be used adverbially without a preposition governing it.

Wrong: When he acts that way . . .

Right: When he acts in that way . . .

Wrong: How could a sane man act the way Beals did?

Right: How could a sane man act in the way in which Beals acted? [or, better] . . . act as Beals did?

Ways for way. See Falls.

Well. This word when used merely to mark a transition (e.g., "You know MacDonald, of course. Well, last night as he stepped into his motor . . .") is a colloquialism, not proper in a formal context.

Where (1). Often misused for that as in the following sentence.

Wrong: I see in this morning's paper where Cronin has been caught.

Right: I see in this morning's paper that Cronin has been caught.

Where (2). Do not use "where to" in the sense of whither; omit the to.

Wrong: Where are you going to?

Right: Where are you going?

Which. Should not be used as a relative pronoun in referring to a person.

Wrong: The people which do that are rascals.

Right: The people that do that are rascals.

While. Means (a) during the time in which, (b) though, or (c) whereas; as (a) "I played while he sang"; (b) "While this may be true, it does not content me"; (c) "Yours is in good condition, while mine is quite worn out." Should not be used loosely without regard to its meaning.

Wrong: One one side was a grove, while on the other was a river.

Right: On one side was a grove, on the other a river.

Who. Should not, as a rule, be used in referring to animals; use which.

Whose. In modern usage, the possessive case of who only, though originally also of which, and sometimes so used.

Doubtful: Soon we came to a swamp, on whose bank stood a hunter's cabin.

Preferable: Soon we came to a swamp, on the bank of which stood a hunter's cabin.

Win out. See Lose out.

Wire. A colloquialism for telegraph or telegram. (See Rule 4.)

With. Often vaguely used in place of more exact connectives.

Vague: With the men he has helping him, Parker seems certain to win.

Better: Taking into consideration the men he has helping him, Parker seems certain to win.

Woods for wood. See Falls.

Would better, would best, would rather. Correct, but often used under a misapprehension. See Had better.

Would have. Often incorrectly used in if clauses instead of had.

Wrong: If he would have stood by us, we might have won.

Right: If he had stood by us, we might have won.

Would of. See Of.

Write-up. Newspaper word for a report, a description, an account.

You was. A vulgarism. You, though it may designate one person, is grammatically plural, and its verb must always be plural. Say "you were."

Without. Should not be used as a conjunction for except or unless.

Wrong: He will not do it without he has a good opportunity.

Right: He will not do it unless he has a good opportunity.

GENERAL EXERCISES ON THE GLOSSARY

I. See Except in the Glossary. Write the following sentences, filling the blanks with accept or except: 1. I would _____ the offer, _____ for my religious scruples. 2. He is the best pianist in Europe; I do not _____ even Liszt. 3. Most of the rebels were offered pardon and _____ed it; but the leaders were _____ed from the offer. 4. He burned all the household goods, not _____ing even the heirlooms. 5. Why did you _____ Charles from your invitation? He wouldn't have _____ed anyway.

Accept and except

II. See Affect in the Glossary. Write the following sentences, filling the blanks with affect or effect: 1. That statement is true, but it does not _____ the case. 2. The failure of the bank did not _____ his equanimity. 3. The admonition of the dean had a good _____. 4. The generals _____ed a junction, but this action had no _____ on the enemy. 5. His brooding _____ed his health. 6. The utmost efforts of his physician could not _____ a cure.

Affect and effect

III. See Like in the Glossary. Complete the following sentences: 1. I wish I could run like _____. 2. If you find him engaged at his gymnastics, like _____. 3. She sat for a long time deep in thought, like _____.

Like

Copy the following sentences, filling the blanks with as, as if, or like: 4. Don't act _____ a baby. 5. _____ all his predecessors, he was despotic. 6. We never quarrel now _____ we did when we were boys. 7. He was hanged, just _____ a common spy. 8. He was hanged, just _____ he had been a common spy. 9. He votes _____ his father did. 10. She sings _____ she had a cold. 11. He can run _____ a race-horse. 12. He can run _____ a race-horse runs. 13. He takes severe training _____ a man usually does when he is preparing for a prize fight. 14. He takes very severe training _____ a prize fighter. 15. She stood _____ a statue. 16. She stood _____ a statue might have stood. 17. He whimpered, _____ a spoiled child, about every little inconvenience. 18. He whined, _____ a spoiled child does, at every inconvenience. 19. _____ all his predecessors, he was despotic. 20. _____ all his predecessors had been, Henry VIII was despotic. 21. We do not quarrel now _____ we did when we were boys. 22. They quarrel constantly, _____ boys usually do. 23. They quarrel _____ cats and dogs. 24. He was hanged, ——— many another spy caught in such an enterprise. 25. He was hanged ——— many another spy has been. 26. I vote, ——— my father, for the Conservative party. 27. I vote, ——— my father did, for the Conservatives. 28. She sings ——— a person afflicted with goitre. 29. She sings ——— a person with goitre might sing.

IV. The following sentences are ungrammatical. Rewrite them, correcting the errors. 1. She sings like she had a cold. 2. They executed him like he had been a common spy. 3. The sky looks like we should have rain. 4. He acts like he was the master of ceremonies. 5. The game isn't played like we used to play it. 6. He counted out the money dexterously, like a bank teller does. 7. These waves roar just like the ocean-waves do. 8. She walks clumsily, like a duck waddles. 9. He turns his toes in, like an Indian does. 10. He grew white like he feared the boat would capsize. 11. I felt like I must scream. 12. It seemed like I was in a nightmare. 13. She cried out, like she had been struck. 14. Move your hand just like I move mine. 15. It stretches like a rubber band does.

Real

V. See Real in the Glossary. Correct the following sentences: 1. You are real generous. 2. The room is real comfortable. 3. It was a real hard storm. 4. She writes a real pretty hand. 5. I felt real lonesome. 6. She told us a real sad story. 7. Hanksburg is a real pleasant town.

Due to

VI. Study Due to in the Glossary. Correct and rewrite the following sentences: 1. Hamlet treated her rudely due to his mental distraction. 2. Shop work is easy for me due to a natural talent for manual work. 3. Due to some one's carelessness the valve had been left open. 4. Due to bad weather the game is postponed. 5. He refused to buy due to the high price asked. 6. Due to his ignorance of French he misunderstood the letter. 7. I was put in the bow due to my light weight. 8. He had to sell his house due to need of ready money. 9. Due to his long exposure he became sick. 10. I kept warm and comfortable due to my fur coat.

Falls, ways and woods

VII. Study Falls, Ways, Woods in the Glossary. Correct and rewrite the following incorrect sentences: 1. It is a long ways from here. 2. We carried our boat around a falls. 3. Is there a woods on your farm? 4. This falls is not very high. 5. Walk a little ways with us.

6. He lost himself in a woods. 7. The woods is on fire.

Write three sentences using the expression a little way, three using a long way, three using a wood, three using the woods are, three using the falls were.

VIII. Study Whose in the Glossary. Rewrite the following sentences: 1. I sat on the roof, whose slope was not very steep. 2. I selected a cloth whose texture was woven loosely. 3. I perceived a steeple on whose top revolved a gilded vane. 4. It was an antique table, whose legs bore the pineapple decoration. 5. He exhibited a painting in whose execution he had evidently expended much labor. 6. Get some of those matches whose ends are tipped with red. 7. A verb whose subject is a collective noun may properly be in the plural. 8. He lit a fire, whose heat was very comfortable. 9. A chain any of whose links are weak is a weak chain. 10. You sold me a book whose type is too small.

Whose

IX. Study Could of, Should of, Would of, May of, Must of, Might of in the Glossary. Correct the following sentences: 1. You should of seen me. 2. I would of come if I could of spared the time. 3. He may of lost his way. 4. I might of lost mine, and then I should of lost this pleasure. 5. If I could of seen him, I would of told him. 6. She must of suspected treachery, or she would not of stayed away. 7. If he could of known, the outcome might of been different. 8. I would not of accepted the offer even if I could of named my own price.

"Could of," "may of," etc.

X. Study Had have and Would have in the Glossary. Correct the following sentences: 1. If we would have started back fifteen minutes later, we should probably have perished in the blizzard. 2. If he would have found the way, he would have gone. 3. If I would have known how it would end, I never would have begun. 4. If he would have been at his post, the accident would not have occurred. 5. If the weather would have been colder, the ice would now be safe. 6. If the boat would have tipped only a little more, it would have been swamped. 7. If she would have been a second later, she would have missed the train. 8. If the wind would have been north, the barn would certainly have caught fire. 9. If the bridge would have been properly built, it would not vibrate as it does. 10. If the old gentleman would have caught the boys, they would have repented sorely. 11. If the alarm clock would have been set, you would have waked in time.

"Would have" and "had have" for had in past perfect

"You was" XI. Study You was in the Glossary. Also write the following sentences, filling each blank with a word to indicate past tense: 1. — you satisfied? 2. You — generous. 3. You — content, —n't you? 4. You — mistaken. 5. — you happy, or —n't you? 6. You — never pleased. 7. — you sure? 8. — you as severe as you — justified in being? 9. —n't you sterner than you — authorized to be? 10. You — treacherous, you — deceitful; therefore you — punished.

Different XII. Study Different in the Glossary. Correct and re-write the following sentences: 1. They speak very differently than you speak. 2. Plumbing is entirely different than steam-fitting. 3. This machine is somewhat different than the one I bought. 4. To sail a brig is widely different than to sail a schooner. 5. He is a different man today than he was when you knew him. 6. His purpose is different than I thought it was. 7. My reward was very different than what I deserved. 8. They did it differently then than they do now. 9. Your machinery is different than what I use. 10. Conditions were radically different than what I expected. 11. His character was different, as a matter of fact, than what the historian says it was. 12. You need a different sort of manager than you now have. 13. The state of affairs in Nicaragua is no different than in Bolivia. 14. The Witching Hour deals with a different subject than Mr. Thomas, the author, has used hitherto.

Such . . . as XIII. Study Such (1) in the Glossary. Write ten sentences containing severally the following expressions: all such men as hold this belief, such tools as are necessary, such books as I find interesting, such men as seem to be in earnest, such members as desire to dance, all such citizens as love their country, such as are in need of money, for such as keep His covenant, with such fruits as the season afforded, such as prefer horses to motors, such influence as he may have.

Such . . . that XIV. Study Such (2) in the Glossary. Complete each of the following sentences with a that clause: 1. He is such a coward . . . 2. There was such a drought . . . 3. He has such skill . . . 4. There is such a crowd . . . 5. We made such a protest . . . 6. Such a tempest arose . . . 7. He came with such an army . . . 8. She exercised such tact . . . 9. The lawyer displayed such eloquence . . .

XV. Study Superior, Inferior in the Glossary. Complete the following sentences, beginning each added member with a to phrase: 1. This method is superior, in the opinion of all who have used it, . . . 2. His style is inferior, so the critics all agree, . . . 3. The team was inferior, both in weight and in experience, . . . 5. This year's class play will be inferior, unless I am much mistaken, . . . 6. The street-car service here is inferior, however you may regard it, . . . 7. The present system is superior, so far as one can judge, . . . 8. His present situation is superior, so far as salary is concerned, . . .

Superior and inferior

XVI. Study Prefer in the Glossary. The "prefer . . . than" fault can be corrected by the substitution of prefer . . . to or by the substitution of prefer . . . rather than.

Prefer as preferable

Right: I prefer building to leasing.

Right: I prefer to build rather than to lease.

Rewrite each of the following sentences twice, correcting in the two ways shown above: 1. I prefer to miss the train than to run for it. 2. Do you prefer to be expelled than to apologize? 3. He preferred to write a letter than to explain in person. 4. I prefer to enter business at once than to go to college. 5. I should much prefer to pay the money than to dispute with you. 6. They prefer to take their ease than to work. 7. She prefers to go to a party than to study her lessons. 8. I preferred to freeze my nose than to be suffocated by the bad air. 9. I prefer to risk the journey alone than to have your company. 10. He preferred to kill the horse than to let it suffer.

XVII. Study Than, Till, Until in the Glossary. Also notice this: "No sooner . . . when" is bad English; . . . than say no sooner . . . than.

No sooner than

Wrong: No sooner had we arrived when the play began.

Right: No sooner had we arrived than the play began.

[That is, We had arrived no sooner than the play began.]

But note:

Right: Hardly had we arrived when the play began.

Complete the following sentences, using a when clause or a than clause as the sense requires: 1. No sooner did the boat touch the wharf . . . 2. The clock had scarcely . . .

Hardly . . . when finished striking . . . 3. Hardly had I seated myself . . .

 4. No sooner had Bassanio departed . . . 5. The policeman had no sooner turned his back . . . 6. Our hero had hardly opened his eyes . . . 7. She no sooner reached the bridge . . . 8. Scarcely had the buck emerged from the brush . . . 9. I had hardly laid down the pen . . . 10. No sooner did the King show signs of yielding . . . 11. I no sooner overcome one obstacle . . .

Too and very with participles

XVIII. Study Too, Very in the Glossary. The following sentences are unidiomatic. Rewrite them, correcting each by inserting an adverb (much, greatly, seriously, gravely, sadly, happily, deeply, or any other appropriate adverb) after the "too" or the "very." 1. He seemed very moved by the appeal. 2. I am very delighted to hear it. 3. They are too offended to forgive us. 4. He is too injured to walk. 5. I am very grieved by this news. 6. She lay down again, feeling very relieved. 7. We are too involved in this affair to withdraw. 8. You need not feel too discouraged. 9. I don't feel very elated. 10. He can't judge fairly; he is too misled by his prejudices.

APPENDIX A

A Grammatical Vocabulary explaining Grammatical and Other Technical Terms used in this Book

Absolute. A substantive with a modifier (usually a participle) attached to a predication but having no syntactic relation to any noun or verb in the predication is called an absolute substantive. An absolute substantive and its modifier are together called an absolute phrase. The italicized part of the following sentence is an absolute phrase: "The wind being favorable, they embarked." For other examples see Rules 132 a and 132 b.

Active voice. See Voice.

Adjective. A word used to modify or limit the meaning of a substantive; e.g., black, human, old, beautiful, metallic, dry.

Adjective clause. A clause used to modify a substantive in the manner of an adjective; e.g., "The rain that fell yesterday was a blessing" (the italicized clause modifies the noun "rain"); "The house where he used to live is vacant" (the italicized clause modifies the noun "house"); "There was once a city on the outskirts of which lay a pestilential morass" (the italicized clause modifies the noun "city"). Adjective clauses are often called relative clauses.

Adjunct. Modifiers and predicate substantives or predicate adjectives have the general name of adjuncts. A modifier is said to be an adjunct of the sentence-member it modifies; a predicate substantive or adjective is said to be an adjunct of the verb it completes.

Adverb. A word used to modify verbs, adjectives, and other adverbs; e.g., slowly, politely, accurately, very, too, then, up, down, out.

Adverbial clause. A clause used to modify an adjective, an adverb, or a verb; e.g., "He is greater than his father was" (the italicized clause modifies the adjective "greater"); "He walked faster than I did" (the italicized clause modifies the adverb "faster"); "I will come if my salary is paid when it is due" (the clause "if . . . paid" modifies the verb "will come"; the clause "when . . . due" modifies the verb "is paid").

Adverbial objective. A substantive used to limit adverbially an adjective, an adverb, or a verb; e.g., "It is worth ten cents" ("ten cents" limits the adjective "worth"); "He walked two miles farther" ("two miles" limits the adverb "farther"); "He walked two miles" ("two miles" limits "walked" adverbially).

Antecedent. The word, as used in this book, means the substantive to which any pronoun refers. In the sentence, "He who runs may read," "he" is the antecedent of "who." In the sentence "He picked up a stone and threw it," "stone" is the antecedent of "it."

Anticlimax. See Climax.

Appositive. A substantive attached to another substantive and denoting the same person or thing by a different name is called an appositive, or is said to be in apposition with the substantive modified. In the sentence "George the king is enjoying his favorite sport, — yachting," "king" is in apposition with "George," and "yachting" is in apposition with "sport."

Article. The word the is called the definite article; the word a or an is called the indefinite article.

Auxiliary. The verbs be, have, do, shall, will, may, can, must, and ought, with their inflectional forms (e.g., was, am, did, should, might, could, etc.) when they assist in forming the voices, modes, and tenses of other verbs, are called auxiliaries. The italicized words following are auxiliaries: "Have you gone?" "I did not see," "He has not been heard," "I should be grieved if it was broken."

Cardinal number. The words one, two, three, and the corresponding words for other numbers are cardinal numbers; the words first, second, third, etc., are ordinal numbers.

Case. The different forms that a substantive takes when it stands in different syntactic relations are called cases. The subject of a finite verb is in the nominative case. A substantive that modifies another substantive by indicating a possessor is in the possessive (genitive) case. The object of a verb or a preposition is in the objective (accusative) case. The three cases of typical nouns and of the principal pronouns that are inflected are shown in the tables of declension under Substantive. It will be observed that in the nouns the nominative and objective (accusative) cases are identical, but that in the pronouns they are, with the exception of the nominative and objective (accusative) singular of it, distinct.

Causal conjunction. A conjunction that introduces a statement of cause or reason; e.g., for (coördinating); because and since (subordinating).

Clause. A clause is a group of words that is part of a sentence and contains a subject and a predicate. In the sentence (a) "When I awake, I am still with thee," the two groups of words separated by the comma are clauses. A subordinate clause is used like a noun, an adjective, or an adverb. All other clauses, which make independent assertions, are principal clauses. The italicized groups of words in the following sentences are principal clauses: (b) "If the rope breaks, he is lost." (c) "The bell sounded, and every one rose." Clauses that play the same part in a sentence, whether they are alike principal or alike dependent, are called coördinate clauses. See, e.g., the two principal clauses in sentence c, above; and the two dependent clauses in the following sentence: (d) "Though I am tired, and though my shoes pinch, I am going on."

Climax. A series of assertions or coördinate sentence-elements so arranged that each one is stronger or more impressive than the preceding one. See, e.g., the sentences marked Improved under Rule 89. A series of assertions or sentence-elements decreasing in strength or impressiveness is an anticlimax. See, e.g., the sentences marked Weak under Rule 89.

Common noun. A noun used to designate any member of a class; e.g., man, ruler, country, city, street, building. A noun used to distinguish an individual member of a class from other members is a proper noun; e.g., John, Anderson, Caesar, Germany, Boston, Broadway, Acropolis. A proper name is an appellation of any kind (including proper nouns) used to distinguish an individual person or thing; e.g., Henry the Second (or Henry II.), Revolutionary War, First National Bank, Democratic Party, Second Presbyterian Church, Domesday Book, Forty-first Street, Ohio River, Niagara Falls, Edgar County, Caledonian Literary Society, Sumner High School, Columbia College, Morningside Park.

Comparative. See Comparison.

Comparison. An adjective or an adverb is in the positive degree when it simply designates a quality or manner without indicating the degree in which that quality or manner is present; this form is, with a few exceptions, the shortest form the word can have, — e.g., sweet, strong, fast, hard. An adjective or an adverb is in the comparative degree (1) when it is in the form which indicates that the quality or manner is present in a greater measure relatively to some standard. It is commonly formed by adding er to the positive or combining it with more. The superlative degree is regularly formed by adding est to the positive or combining it with most. The formation of the three degrees of an adjective or an adverb is called comparison.

Complex sentence. A sentence that contains a dependent clause. See, e.g., sentences a, b, and d under Clause.

Compound sentence. Two or more principal clauses connected by coördinating conjunctions; or two or more principal clauses not connected by conjunctions, but written with such punctuation and capitalization, or spoken with such slight pauses between them, as will indicate that they are combined. See, e.g., sentence c under Clause, and the following sentences: (a) "I came, I saw, I conquered." (b) "Must I obey you? must I crouch before you?"

Conditional. See Mode.

Conjunction. A word used to connect one word with another or one group with another; e.g., and, if, for. Conjunctions may be distinguished from prepositions (q.v.) by the following fact: Any conjunction can be used to connect one predication with another (e.g., "I opened the door when he rapped") — an office which a preposition cannot perform; one of the two elements connected by a preposition must always be a substantive (e.g., "He fell into the cold water"). — Coördinating conjunctions are those which, when they join two predications, make those predications of equal rank — neither dependent on the other; e.g., "I called and they came." The principal coördinating conjunctions are the simple conjunctions, and, but, or, nor, neither, and for; the correlative conjunctions, both . . . and, either . . . or, neither . . . nor; and the conjunctive adverbs, so, also, therefore, hence, however, nevertheless, moreover, accordingly, besides, thus, then, still, and yet. — Subordinating conjunctions are those which, when they join two predications, make one of those predications subordinate to the other; e.g., "They came when I called." The principal subordinating conjunctions are if, though, whether, lest, unless, than, as, that because, since, when, while, after, whereas, provided.

Conjunctive adverbs. Words that are used sometimes as adverbs and sometimes as conjunctives. See Conjunction.

Consonant. See Vowel.

Construction. The grammatical office performed by any word in a given sentence is called the construction of that word. For example, in the sentence "He walks fast," the construction of "he" is that of subject of "walks"; the construction of "walks" is that of predicate of "he"; the construction of "fast" is that of adverbial modifier of "walks."

Coördinate. Sentence-elements that are in the same construction within a sentence are coördinate. In the sentence "He and she talked long and earnestly and at last agreed," "he" and "she," "talked" and "agreed," "long" and "earnestly" are coördinate.

Coördinate clause. See Clause.

Coördinating conjunction. See Conjunction.

Copula. The verb to be, or any of its forms.

Correlative conjunctions. Conjunctions that are used in pairs; e.g., both . . . and, either . . . or, neither . . . nor, whether . . . or.

Declension. See Inflection.

Demonstrative adjectives. The words this and these, that and those, when they are used as adjectives; e.g., "this man," "those men."

Demonstrative pronouns. The words this and these, that and those when they are used as substantives; e.g., "That is not true," "What is this?"

Dependent clause. See Clause.

Direct address. Discourse in the second person (see Person); e.g., "Sir, I salute you." The expression a substantive used in direct address means a substantive that indicates to whom the discourse is addressed; e.g., "Sir" in the foregoing example.

Direct question. See Direct quotation.

Direct quotation (often called direct discourse). Quotation of discourse exactly as it was spoken or written; e.g., He said, "I will help." Statement of the substance of quoted discourse without the use of the exact words in indirect quotation (or indirect discourse), e.g., He said that he would help. A question indirectly quoted is called an indirect question; e.g., He asked whether I would help. A question directly quoted, or not quoted but directly asked, is a direct question; e.g., Will you help?

Factitive adjective. An adjective, when it denotes a quality or state produced by the action of a verb, is called a factitive adjective; e.g., "It will make you strong."

Figure of speech. Certain devices of expression that may be used for making discourse interesting, effective, or beautiful are called figures of speech; others are not included under this term.

Which of them are included cannot be stated briefly, for the application of the term is arbitrary, being based simply on custom and not on any common peculiarity of the devices included. Of the devices mentioned in this book, the following are figures of speech: simile, metaphor, climax, irony (see these words in this vocabulary), and the use of the historical present (technically called vision).

Finite. See Mode.

Future tense. See Tense.

Future perfect tense. See Tense.

Gerund. A verb-form ending in ing is called a gerund when it is used as a noun. When such a form is used as an adjective, it is called a participle. In the sentence, "Coming close, he whispered," "coming" is used as an adjective modifying "he" and is therefore a participle. In the sentence "His coming was expected," "coming" is used as a noun, the subject of "was expected," and is therefore a gerund. A gerund may fulfill the principal offices of a noun. It may be the subject of a verb (e.g., "Fishing is tiresome"); the object of a verb (e.g., "I hate fishing"); the object of a preposition (e.g., "I have an aversion to fishing"); a predicate noun (e.g., "What I most detest is fishing"); an appositive (e.g., "That detestable amusement, fishing, I cannot endure"); or an absolute noun (e.g., "Fishing being my aversion, let us not fish").

Gerund phrase. See Phrase.

Govern. The relation between a verb and its object may be stated either by saying that the substantive is the object of the verb, or by saying that the verb governs the substantive. Likewise the relation between a preposition and its object may be stated by saying that the preposition governs the substantive. A clause, whether principal or subordinate, on which another clause depends, is said to govern the latter clause. In the sentence "She wept when she saw the injury that had been done," the clause "she wept" governs the clause "when she saw the injury," and the latter clause governs the clause "that had been done."

Grammar. The science that deals with (1) the classification of words with reference to the functions they perform in discourse (see Parts of speech); (2) the inflection of words (see Inflection); and (3) the relations that words bear to one another in discourse (see Syntax). Grammar is distinguished from rhetoric by the following fact: The statements comprising the science of grammar tell us how words may be inflected, used singly and combined. The statements comprising the science of rhetoric tell us how words should be used and combined in order to make discourse clear and effective.

Indefinite pronoun. The words each, either, neither, some, any, many, few, all, both, one, none, aught, naught, somebody, something, somewhat, anybody, anything, everybody, everything, nobody, and nothing, when they are used as substantives, are called indefinite pronouns.

Indicative. The set of inflectional forms and of combinations with auxiliary verbs that a speaker uses when he conceives the action of a verb as a fact, is not the same as the set he uses when he conceives the action as doubtful. Compare, for example, the sentences "He is a coward" and "If he be a coward, he should be dismissed." The former set is called the indicative mode of a verb; the latter the subjunctive mode. The indicative and subjunctive forms of a typical verb are shown on pages 314 ff.

Indirect question. See Direct quotation.

Indirect quotation. See Direct quotation.

Infinitive. That inflectional form of a verb which may be combined with to (as in the sentences "To err is human," "I wish to go," "He refused to move," "It is impossible to see") is called an infinitive when it is used in one of the following ways: (1) in combination with to, as illustrated above; (2) in combination with an auxiliary verb (e.g., "I will go," "I can see"); (3) as the predicate of a substantive, the whole predication being the object of another verb (e.g., "It made me gasp," "I saw him smile"); (4) in one of the constructions of a substantive (e.g., "Do you dare go in?" in which "go" is the object of "dare"). The word to, when it is combined with an infinitive, is not a preposition; it is merely a sort of prefix, serving no grammatical purpose except to show that the verb-form following is an infinitive. For this reason it is called the sign of the infinitive or the infinitive-sign. The infinitive-sign is not a necessary part of the infinitive. In the sentences "I cannot see," "I dare go," "Will you come?" "I heard the clock strike," "You had better speak," the words "see," "go," "come," "strike," and "speak" are infinitives, though the infinitive-sign does not accompany them. In mentioning an infinitive, the infinitive sign may with equal correctness be put before the infinitive or be omitted; thus we may say either "The verbs to stand and to sit are intransitive," or "The verbs stand and sit are intransitive." — The use of infinitives in various substantive constructions is an important matter for the student to understand. An infinitive may be used (1) as the subject of a verb (e.g., "To read history is instructive"); (2) as the object of a verb (e.g., "I like to read history"); (3) as a predicate noun (e.g., "An instructive occupation is to read history"); (4) as an appositive (e.g., "It is instructive to read history"); (5) as an absolute noun (e.g., "To read history being so instructive, let us read it"); (6) as an adverbial noun (e.g., "History is instructive to read").

Infinitive-sign. See Infinitive.

Inflection. Change in the form of a word to show variation of meaning (as with inflections of number, comparison, and tense), or to show the relation of a word to another word (as with the inflections of case and person). The inflection of substantives is called declension, that of adjectives and adverbs comparison (q.v.), and that of verbs conjugation. The various forms that a word receives in inflection are its inflectional forms; e.g., love, loveth, loveth, loved, lovedst, and loving are the inflectional forms of the verb to love; man, man's, men, men's, are the inflectional forms of the noun man; see also the tables under Substantive and opposite Verb.

Intensive. The pronouns myself, thyself, himself, herself, itself, ourselves, yourself, yourselves, themselves, and oneself, when they are used in apposition, are called intensives (e.g., "I myself will do it," "He saw the bishop himself"). When they are used as the object of a verb and designate the same person or thing as the subject of that verb, they are called reflexives (e.g., "I hurt myself," "They benefit themselves").

Interjection. A word that expresses emotion and that has no syntactic relations with other words; e.g., oh, alas, ha, ah, hello, hurrah, huzzza.

Interrogative pronoun. The words who, what, which, and whether (archaic), when they are used as substantives and in an interrogative sense (e.g., "Who are you?" "What do you want?" "Which do you choose?" "Whether of the twain is justified?"), are called interrogative pronouns. What and which, when they are used as adjectives and in an interrogative sense (e.g., "What song did you sing?" "Which book do you choose?"), are called interrogative adjectives.

Intransitive. See Transitive.

Irony. The suggestion of a thought or fact by an expression which, if taken literally, would convey the opposite of what is meant.

"You are very kind," spoken in a certain tone to a bully who has been abusing the speaker, is irony. In the expression "arsenic, corrosive sublimate, prussic acid, and other mild and harmless drugs" the italicized words are ironical. — Sarcasm, as applied to discourse, is contemptuous, taunting, or intentionally irritating discourse. Sarcasm may or may not be ironical, and irony may or may not be sarcastic.

Metaphor. The denoting of a person or thing or the stating of a thought or fact by the use of an expression which, if taken literally, would designate not what is meant but something resembling it, is called metaphor, or is said to be metaphorical; e.g., (a) "These words cut me to the heart." A single word or expression used metaphorically is said to be a metaphor; e.g., the word cut in example a and the italicized words in the following sentences are metaphors: (b) "He poured out a flood of eloquence." (c) "That is a knotty problem." — An explicit statement that a person or thing or fact is like another is a simile; e.g., (d) "The enemy are fleeing like frightened rabbits." — Metaphor and simile both show resemblance — metaphor by suggestion or implication, simile by explicit statement (usually by the use of like, as, seem, or some other such word). For this reason any metaphor may be changed to a simile, and vice versa. The metaphors in a, b, and c, above may be changed to similes thus: (a) "On hearing these words, I felt as if I had been cut to the heart." (b) "Eloquence seemed to pour like a flood from his lips." (c) "It is as difficult to deal with that problem as it is to saw a knotty log." And the simile in example d may be changed to a metaphor thus: (d) "The enemy are fleeing — the frightened rabbits!"

Mode. A mode of a verb is that set of inflectional forms and verb phrases which a speaker uses to represent the action of the verb in a certain mode (i.e., manner). The set which he uses to represent the action as a fact is the indicative mode; that which he uses to represent the action as doubtful, the subjunctive mode; that which he uses to represent the action as permitted or possible, the potential mode; that which he uses in giving a command, the imperative mode; that which he uses when he employs the verb as a substantive, the infinitive mode (of the forms constituting this mode some are called infinitives and others gerunds); that which he uses when he employs the verb as an adjective, the participial mode (the forms constituting this mode are called participles). The indicative, subjunctive, conditional, potential, obligative, and imperative modes are called finite (predicative) modes; the others, non-finite (non-predicative)

modes. (See also Indicative, Infinitive, Gerund, and Participle.)
The different modes of a typical verb are shown on pages 314 ff.¹

Modifier. See Modify.

Modify. A word which, by being combined in discourse with another word or expression, is made to mean something different from what it would mean if it stood alone, is said to be modified by that other word or expression. Thus, the meaning of the sentence "I dislike oranges" is changed if we insert sour, so that the sentence reads "I dislike sour oranges"; it is changed because "sour oranges" means something different from "oranges". "sour" is therefore said to modify (i.e., change) "oranges." Likewise "many men" and "few men" mean something different from "men"; "many" and "few" modify "men." "Call softly" means something different from "call"; "softly" modifies "call." "I hate women who use slang" means something different from "I hate women"; "who use slang" modifies "women." A word or expression which thus changes the meaning of another word is called a modifier. — The modifiers of substantives are adjectives (including participles), adjective-phrases, adjective clauses, appositives, and substantives in the possessive case. The modifiers of adjectives, verbs and adverbs are adverbs, adverb-phrases, adverbial clauses, and adverbial objectives. Vocatives (nominatives of address) and absolute phrases may be considered modifiers of predications.

Passive. See Voice.

Past tense. See Tense.

Past perfect. See Tense.

Perfect. See Tense.

Person. The words I (with its inflectional forms, — me, we, etc.; see the tables under Substantive), myself, ourselves, and the relative who, when its antecedent is one of the foregoing words, are called pronouns of the first person. The words thou (with its inflectional forms, — thee, you, etc.; see Substantive), thyself, yourself, your- selves, and the relative who, when its antecedent is one of the foregoing words, are called pronouns of the second person. The relative who, when used otherwise than as above mentioned, all other pronouns than those above mentioned, and all nouns, are said to belong to the third person. — A verb-form or verb-phrase that may correctly be used with a subject in the first person is said to belong to the first person of the verb (e.g., am, are bound); one that may correctly be used with a subject in the second person is said to belong to the second person of the verb (e.g., art, hast gone); one that may correctly be used with a subject in the third person is said to belong to the third person of the verb (e.g., is, does, has gone). (See pages 314 ff.) — Discourse is said to be in the first person when the speaker designates himself by pronouns of the first person (e.g., the Twenty-third Psalm); in the second person when the speaker addresses some person or thing, using pronouns of the second person (e.g., the Lord's Prayer); in the third person when neither pronouns of the first person nor pronouns of the second person are used (e.g., the first three letters on page 250).

¹ The classification of certain verb-phrases as the conditional mode and the obligative mode has been omitted here and in the paradigm on pp. 314 ff., on philological grounds. The considerations on which these modes are still retained in some grammatical treatises are stated in Whitney's Essentials of English Grammar, pp. 120 ff., particularly 126; and MacEwan's The Essentials of the English Sentence, p. 53. The Report of the Joint Committee on Grammatical Nomenclature recognizes only three modes (moods), the indicative, imperative, and subjunctive.

Personal pronouns. The words I, thou, he, she, and it, together with their inflectional forms (see the tables under Substantive), are called personal pronouns. ●

Phrase. The term phrase is often used to mean any short group of words; as "the slang phrase 'That's hard lines.'" But as the term is used in grammar, a phrase is a group of words not constituting or containing a predication. A verb-phrase is a combination of a principal verb and one or more auxiliaries that is analogous to a single inflectional form (e.g., has gone, shall have done). A preposition-phrase is a combination of words analogous to a single preposition (e.g., in regard to, as for). An adjective-phrase is a phrase used to modify a substantive (e.g., "A machine of great value"). An adverb-phrase is a phrase used analogously to an adverb (e.g., "He fell into the water"). Any phrase consisting of a preposition and its object is a prepositional phrase (a term not to be confused with preposition-phrase); e.g., the adjective- and adverb-phrases above quoted are prepositional phrases. A participial phrase is a phrase consisting of a participle and its adjuncts (e.g., "Looking to the north, I saw the lake"). A gerund-phrase is a prepositional phrase in which the preposition governs a gerund (e.g., in talking, instead of shooting). Concerning absolute phrases, see Absolute.

Plural. See Number.

Possessive adjective. The words my, mine, our, ours, thy, thine, your, yours, his, her, hers, its, their, theirs, and whose are called possessive adjectives, or possessives, as well as inflectional forms of the personal pronouns.

Possessive (genitive) case. See Case.

Predicate. See Subject.

Predicate adjective. See Predicate substantive.

Predicate complement. See Predicate substantive.

Predicate substantive. A substantive designating what a verb asserts a person or thing to be is a predicate substantive (e.g., "He is a carpenter," "These are strawberries"). An adjective designating a quality which a verb asserts belongs to a person or thing is a predicate adjective (e.g., "He is skillful," "These berries are sweet"). A predicate substantive, or a predicate adjective, or a phrase or clause used as the one or the other, is said to be the predicate complement of the verb it completes.

Predication. Any group of words consisting of a single subject and predicate, whether a simple sentence or a clause.

Preposition. A word used to show the relation of a substantive to another word; e.g., in, on, into, toward, from, for, against, of, between, with, without, within, before, behind, under, over, above, among, at, by, around, about, through, throughout, beyond, across, along, beside. A preposition always requires to complete its meaning a substantive, with which it combines into what is felt to be a unit of expression; e.g., "in the water," "into the house," "among the leaves," "behind the house." This fact distinguishes prepositions from adverbs, which do not require a substantive to complete them; e.g., "Go out," "Come in," "Please walk before." (In, before, on, for, but, across, and many other English words belong each one to several parts of speech; there is a preposition across and an adverb across, a preposition for and a conjunction for, etc.) For the distinction between prepositions and conjunctions, see Conjunction. The substantive combined with a preposition in the manner illustrated above is called the object of the preposition.

Preposition-phrase. See Phrase.

Present. See Tense.

Principal clause. See Clause.

Principal parts. The principal parts of any verb are (1) the present infinitive, (2) the past first singular, and (3) the past participle (see Verb); e.g., flee, fled, fled; choose, chose, chosen; love, loved, loved; set, set, set.

Principal verb. A verb not used as an auxiliary, including the auxiliaries themselves when they are used independently (e.g., "I have a boat," "he did wonders").

Pronoun. See Substantive.

Proper name. See Common noun.

Proper noun. See Common noun.

Relative adjectives. See Relative pronoun.

Relative clause. See Adjective clause.

Relative pronoun. The words that, who, what, which, whoever, whatever, and whichever, when they are used as substantives and in such a way that the clauses in which they stand are made adjective clauses (q.v.), are called relative pronouns. The words what, which, whatever, and whichever, when they are used as adjectives and in such a way that the clauses in which they stand are made adjective clauses, are called relative adjectives.

Rhetoric. See Grammar.

Sentence. The word sentence means (1) a group of words composed of a subject (with or without adjuncts) and a predicate (with or without adjuncts) and not grammatically dependent on any words outside itself (e.g., "I will go," "I, being the person best acquainted with the situation, will go as soon as the carriage which I ordered has come"); or (2) two or more such groups joined by coördinating conjunctions or presented in such a way as to show that they are to be taken as a unit. A sentence of type 2 is called a compound sentence. Sentences of type 1 are divided into two classes, — simple sentences and complex sentences. All sentences are therefore usually said to fall into three classes, simple, complex, and compound. These are described in this vocabulary under their several names.

Sentence-element. A subject, a predicate, a predicate substantive or adjective, an absolute phrase, a modifier, a clause, or any other unit of sentence-structure. Any sentence-element other than a principal clause falls under the term subordinate sentence-element, as used in this book.

Sign of the infinitive. See Infinitive.

Simile. See Metaphor.

Simple conjunction. See Conjunction.

Simple sentence. A simple sentence has one subject and one predicate, either or both of which may be compound.

Singular. See Number.

Subject. A substantive combined in discourse with a verb (except gerund or a participle) and representing the person or thing regarding which the verb asserts something is called the subject of the verb; and the verb, in turn, is called the predicate of the substantive, or is said to be predicated of the substantive. Thus in the expression "He goes," "he" is the subject of "goes," and "goes" is the predicate of "he." The words subject and predicate are often (in this book and elsewhere) used to designate respectively a subject and a predicate, as above defined together with any adjuncts they may have. Thus in the sentence "The ploughman homeward plods his weary way," the phrase "the ploughman" may be said to be the subject and the phrase "homeward plods his weary way" the predicate; or the noun "ploughman" alone may be said to be the subject and the verb "plods" the predicate.

Subjunctive. See Mode and also Indicative.

Subordinate clause. See Clause.

Subordinate sentence-element. See Sentence-element.

Substantive. A substantive is a word by which, as by a name, some person or thing is called; e.g., man, house, happiness, beauty, song, speech, Jupiter, Charlemagne, he, she. A few substantives are called pronouns; these are as follows: I, thou, he, she, it, and their compounds ending in self or selves; this, that, who, what, which, whether, and their compounds ending in ever, or soever; each, either, neither, some, any, many, few, all, both, ought, naught, such, other, one, none, and a few others. The pronouns are divided into five classes: personal, demonstrative, interrogative, relative, and indefinite pronouns (see these headings in the Vocabulary). All substantives other than pronouns are called nouns. — The declension of typical nouns and of the principal pronouns that are inflected is shown in the following tables:

DECLENSION OF NOUNS

	Singular	Plural
Nom.	boy	boys
Poss. (Gen.)	boy's	boys'
Obj. (Acc.)	boy	boys
Nom.	man	men
Poss. (Gen.)	man's	men's
Obj. (Acc.)	man	men

DECLENSION OF PRONOUNS

	Singular	Plural
Nom.	I	we
Poss. (Gen.)	my, mine	our, ours
Obj. (Acc.)	me	us
Nom.	you	you
Poss. (Gen.)	your	your, yours
Obj. (Acc.)	you	you
Nom.	he	they
Poss. (Gen.)	his	their, theirs
Obj. (Acc.)	him	them
Nom.	she	they
Poss. (Gen.)	her, hers	their, theirs
Obj. (Acc.)	her	them
Nom.	it	they
Poss. (Gen.)	its	their, theirs
Obj. (Acc.)	it	them
Nom.	who	who
Poss. (Gen.)	whose	whose
Obj. (Acc.)	whom	whom

A substantive may be used syntactically in the following ways (which are explained in this Vocabulary under the appropriate headings): (1) as a subject, (2) as a predicate substantive, (3) as an appositive, (4) as a possessive (genitive) substantive, (5) as the object of a verb, (6) as the object of a preposition, (7) as an adverbial substantive, and (8) as an absolute substantive.

Substantive clause. A clause may be used as the subject of a verb (e.g., "That he is a scholar is certain"); as the object of a verb (e.g., "I know that he is a scholar"); as the object of a preposition (e.g., "There is no doubt as to whether he is a scholar"); as a predicate substantive (e.g., "Truth is that he is a scholar"); as an appositive (e.g., "This is certain — that he is a scholar"); as an adverbial substantive (e.g., "I am sure that he is a scholar"); and as an absolute substantive (e.g., "Granted that he is a scholar, he may yet be mistaken"). A clause used in one of these ways is a substantive clause.

Superlative. See Comparison.

Syntactic. See Syntax.

Syntax. The relations that words, when they are combined in discourse, bear to one another (e.g., the relation of "he" to "goes") in the sentence "He goes," or of "carpenter" to "Nelson," in the sentence "Nelson, the carpenter, is here") are called syntactic relations, or collectively syntax. Syntactic relations comprise (1) the relations a single word may bear to another word or to a group of words (e.g., the relation of a subject to a verb, of an adjective to a substantive, of a noun to an adjective-phrase, of a vocative substantive to a sentence); and (2) the relations a predication may bear to another predication (viz., the relation between a principal and a dependent clause and the relation between coordinate clauses).

Tense. The several sets of forms and combinations that a verb has when it represents action as occurring at different points of time are called its tenses. Of these sets there are six, called respectively the present tense, the past tense, the future tense, the perfect (present perfect) tense, the past perfect tense, and the future perfect tense. The tenses of a typical verb are shown on pages 314 ff.

Transitive. A verb representing an action that necessarily affects some person or thing in such a way that the name of that person or thing may be made the direct object of the verb, is called a transitive verb; e.g., love, hate, have, carry, build. A verb representing an action of such a kind that a direct object cannot logically be used with the verb is called an intransitive verb; e.g., stand, arise, become, whimper, bark, quarrel. Many verbs may be used either transitively or intransitively; e.g., "The fire burns brightly" ("burns" is intransitive); "He burns the paper" ("burns" is transitive); "The corn has grown" ("has grown" is intransitive); "He has grown a beard" ("has grown" is transitive).

Verb. A word used to assert an action, a condition, or the undergoing of an action; e.g., stand, strike, choose, be, become, remain, suffer, undergo.

The various inflections and combinations (see Voice, Mode, Tense, Person, and Number) of a typical verb are shown in the table on pages 314-318. The words I, you, he, we, they, and it are inserted merely to show the way in which the forms they precede are used; they should not be regarded as necessary parts of those forms, for they are not parts at all. Words inclosed in parentheses are variants of the words they follow.

Vocative substantive (nominative of address). A substantive used in direct address. See Direct address.

Voice. A verb is said to be in the active voice when it asserts that the person or thing represented by the subject is, does, or undergoes something; e.g., "He strikes," "He heard," "I see." A verb is said to be in the passive voice when it asserts that something is done to the person or thing represented by the subject; e.g., "He is struck," "He was heard," "I am seen." With one exception all the passive forms of any verb are composed of the several forms of the auxiliary to be, and the past participle of the principal verb; the one exception is the past participle itself. See the table on page 314.

Vowel. The letters a, e, i, o, and u are vowels. The letters b, c, d, f, g, h, j, k, l, m, n, p, q, r, s, t, v, x, and z are consonants. W when used as in weak, and y when used as in young are consonants; w when used as in how, and y when used as in try are vowels.

CONJUGATION OF THE VERB TO TAKE¹

PRINCIPAL PARTS: take, took, taken

ACTIVE VOICE			PASSIVE VOICE
Indicative mode
	SINGULAR	PLURAL	SINGULAR	PLURAL
PRESENT TENSE	SIMPLE		1. I am taken 2. you are taken 3. he is taken	we are taken you are taken they are taken
	1. I take	we take
	2. you take	you take
	3. he takes	they take
	EMPHATIC
	1. I do take	we do take
	2. you take	you do take
	3. he takes	they do take
	PROGRESSIVE
	1. I am taking	we are taking
	2. you are taking	you are taking
	3. he is taking	they are taking
PAST TENSE	SIMPLE		1. I was taken 2. you were taken 3. he was taken	we were taken you were taken they were taken
	1. I took	we took
	2. you took	you took
	3. he took	they took
	EMPHATIC
	1. I did take	we did take
	2. you did take	you did take
	3. he did take	they did take
	PROGRESSIVE
	1. I was taking	we were taking
	2. you were taking	you were taking
	3. he was taking	they were taking
FUTURE TENSE	SIMPLE		I shall (will) be taken, etc.
	1. I shall (will) take	we shall (will) take
	2. you will (shall) take	you will (shall) take
	3. he will (shall) take	they will (shall) take
	PROGRESSIVE
	I shall (will) be taking, etc.

¹ See the explanatory remarks under Verb.

	ACTIVE VOICE		PASSIVE VOICE
Indicative mode — continued
	SINGULAR	PLURAL
PERFECT TENSE	SIMPLE		I have been taken, etc.
	1. I have taken	we have taken
	2. you have taken	you have taken
	3. he has taken	they have taken
	PROGRESSIVE
	I have been taking, etc.
PAST PERFECT TENSE	SIMPLE		I had been taken, etc.
	1. I had taken	we had taken
	2. you had taken	you had taken
	3. he had taken	they had taken
	PROGRESSIVE
	I had been taking, etc.
FUTURE PERFECT TENSE	SIMPLE		I shall (will) have been taken, etc.
	I shall (will) have taken, etc.
	PROGRESSIVE
	I shall (will) have been taking, etc.

Subjunctive mode

PRESENT TENSE	SINGULAR	PLURAL	SINGULAR	PLURAL
	SIMPLE		1. if I be taken	if we be taken
	1. if I take	if we take	2. if you be taken	if you be taken
	2. if you take	if you take	3. if he be taken	if they be taken
	3. if he take	if they take
	EMPHATIC
1. if I do take	if we do take
2. if you do take	if you do take
3. if he do take	if they do take
PROGRESSIVE
1. if I be taking	if we be taking
2. if you be taking	if you be taking
3. if he be taking	if they be taking

ACTIVE VOICE		PASSIVE VOICE
Subjunctive mode — continued
	SINGULAR	PLURAL	SINGULAR	PLURAL
PAST TENSE	SIMPLE		1. if I were taken if we were taken 2. if you were taken if you were taken 3. if he were taken if they were taken
	1. if I took	if we took
	2. if you took	if you took
	3. if he took	if they took
	EMPHATIC
	1. if I did take	if we did take
	2. if you did take	if you did take
	3. if he did take	if they did take
	PROGRESSIVE
	1. if I were taking	if we were taking
	2. if you were taking	if you were taking
	3. if he were taking	if they were taking
FUTURE TENSE	[The future subjunctive is exactly like the future indicative.]
PERFECT TENSE	[The perfect subjunctive is exactly like the perfect indicative.]
PAST PERFECT TENSE	[The past perfect subjunctive is exactly like the past perfect indicative.]
FUTURE PERFECT TENSE	[The future perfect subjunctive is exactly like the future perfect indicative.]

	ACTIVE VOICE	PASSIVE VOICE
Potential mode ¹
	SINGULAR	PLURAL
P <small>RESENT</small> T <small>ENSE</small>	S<small>IMPLE</small> 1. I may or can take we may or can take 2. you may or can take you may or can take 3. he may or can take they may or can take P<small>ROGRESSIVE</small> I may or can be taking, etc.	I may or can be taken, etc.
P <small>AST</small> T <small>ENSE</small>	S<small>IMPLE</small> 1. I might or could take we might or could take 2. you might or could take you might or could take 3. he might or could take they might or could take P<small>ROGRESSIVE</small> I might or could be taking, etc.	I might or could be taken, etc.
P <small>ERFECT</small> T <small>ENSE</small>	S<small>IMPLE</small> I may or can have taken, etc. P<small>ROGRESSIVE</small> I may or can have been taking, etc.	I may or can have been taken, etc.
P <small>AST PERFECT</small> T <small>ENSE</small>	S<small>IMPLE</small> I might or could have taken, etc. P<small>ROGRESSIVE</small> I might or could have been taking, etc.	I might or could have been taken, etc.
Imperative mode
	S<small>IMPLE</small>: take E<small>MPHATIC</small>: do take P<small>ROGRESSIVE</small>: be taking	be taken

¹ See the footnote on page 306.

	ACTIVE VOICE	PASSIVE VOICE
Infinitive mode
PRESENT TENSE	SIMPLE INFINITIVE: to take PROGRESSIVE INFINITIVE: to be taking GERUND: taking	INFINITIVE: to be taken GERUND: being taken
PERFECT TENSE	SIMPLE INFINITIVE: to have taken PROGRESSIVE INFINITIVE: to have been taking GERUND: having taken	INFINITIVE: to have been taken GERUND: having been taken
Participial mode, or participles
PRESENT TENSE	taking	being taken
PAST TENSE	[There is no past participle in the active voice.]	taken
PERFECT TENSE	SIMPLE: having taken PROGRESSIVE: having been taking	having been taken

APPENDIX B

A List of Words that are often Mispronounced

IN the case of a few words in the following list, pronunciations different from those indicated in the right-hand column are admitted by some authorities; these words are marked with an asterisk (*). The pronunciations given opposite such words are those favored by the great majority of lexicographers. In the case of all the words not marked with an asterisk, the pronunciations indicated are the only correct ones.

The accentual and diacritical marks are not intended to give an exhaustive description of the pronunciation of each word, but only to point out common errors. Of the signs that are not self-explanatory the meanings are shown in the following table:

ǣ	is pronounced like	a in at .
ā	is pronounced like	a in mate .
ḅ	is pronounced like	a in climate .
ḁ	is pronounced like	a in arm .
â	is pronounced like	a in ask .
ē	is pronounced like	e in men .
ē	is pronounced like	ee in see .
ē	is pronounced like	e in the first syllable of event .
ē	is pronounced like	e in fern .
ī	is pronounced like	i in tin .
ī	is pronounced like	i in wine .
ō	is pronounced like	o in lot .
ō	is pronounced like	o in host .
ū	is pronounced like	u in bun .
ū	is pronounced like	u in use .
ū	is pronounced like	u in unite .
ū	is pronounced like	u in bull .
ōō	is pronounced like	oo in tool .
ōō	is pronounced like	oo in foot .
ou	is pronounced as in	thou .
zh	is pronounced like	z in azure

Words often accented on the wrong syllable		Correct pronunciation abdomen*		ab dō'men
accent (verb)		ac cent'
acclimate*		ac clī'mate
acumen		a cū'men
address		ad dress'
admirable		ad'mirable
adult		a dult'
adverse		ad'verse
adversary		ad'ver sa ry
albumen		al bu'men
alias		ā'lias
alloy		al loy'
ally*		al ly'
alternate* (adjective and noun)		al tēr'inate
ancestral		an ses'tral
applicable		ap'plicable
apropos		ăp'rō pō'
brigand		brīg'and
choleric		kōl'eric
comparable		com'par a ble
condolence		con dō'lence
construe*		con'strued
contour*		con tour'
contrary		con'tra ry
conversant		con'ver sant
cuckoo		kōōk'ōō
defects		de fects'
deficit		def'i cit
despicable		des'plicable
detail		de tail'
detour		de tour'
dirigible		dir'i ji ble
discharge		dis charge'
discourse		dis course'
divan		di van'
elevated		el'e vat ed
encore		en core'
entire		en tire'
exquisite		ex'quisite

extant*	Correct pronunciation formidable	ex'tant
gondola	for'midable
grimace	gon'dola
guardian	gri māce'
harass	guard'i an
Herculean	hār'ass
hospitable	Her cū'le an illustrate*	hos'pitable
impious	il lus'trate
incognito	im'pī ous
incomparable	in cog'nito
inevitable	in com'parable
inquiry	in ev'itable
lamentable	in quī'ry
mediocre	lam'entable
mischievous	mē'di o cre
misconstrue*	mis'chie vous
municipal	mis con'strue
obligatory*	mu nis'i pal
orchestra	ob'ligatory
orchestral	or'chestra
pariah*	or kes' tral
peremptory*	pā'riah
pianist*	pēr'emptory
piquant	pī an'ist
positively	pēk'ant or pīk'ant
precedence	pos'i tive ly
precedent (adjective)	prē cēd'ence
precedent (noun)	prē cēd'ent
presage (noun)	prēs'e dent
presage (verb)	prē'sage or prēs'age
primarily	pre sāge'
recall	pri'ma ri ly
recourse	re call'
research	re course'
robust	re search'
romance	ro bust'
sepulture	ro mance'
theater	sēp'ulture
vagary	the'a ter
	vā gā'ry

Words in which certain vowels are often mispronounced		Correct pronunciation
	Adonis alma mater altercation* amenable apparatus apricot* aviator Basil biographical biography bouquet	A dō'nis alma mā ter āltercation a mē'nable apparātus āpricot a'vi a tor Bāz'il biōgraphical biōgraphy bōō kā' or bōō'kā (not "bō-")
	brooch* brougham brusque* cantaloupe* chock-full	brōch brōō'am or brōōm brōōsk can'ta lōōp Pronounced as spelled; not "chuck-full."
	choler Cleopatra clique constable coupon courtesan* creek crotch	kōl'er Cleopātra klēk kūn stable kōō'pon kūr te zan krēk Pronounced as spelled; not "crutch."
	culinary defalcate defalcation	kū'linary dē fāl'cate (not "-fawl-") dē fāl cation or dēf āl ca-tion (not "-fawl-")
	data demise describe destruction directly extol* faucet gape* garrulous	dā'ta (not dat ta) dē mīz' dē scribe' dē struc'tion di rect'ly ex tōl' faw'set gāp gār rų lous (not "gār yu-lous")

genealogy	Correct pronunciation jĕn e əlogy or jĕ ne əlogy (not “-ology”)
genuine	jen u ĩn (not “-in”) ghoul	gōol
gratis	grā tis
hearth	hārth
heinous	hā nous
historian	his to' ri an hoof	hōof
hypocrisy	hĭ poc'ri sy
ignoramus	ig no rā'mus
implacable	im plā'cable
Italian	Ī tal yan (not “Ī-”)
joust	jūst or jōost
jugular	jū gū lar (not “jūg-”)
literature	lit er a tūre (not “-toor”)
mineralogy	min er əl ogy (not “-ology”)
nape	nāp
Pall Mall	Pĕl Mĕl
panegyric	pan e jĭr ic or pan e jĕr ic
pathos	pā thos
penalize	pē'nal ize
premise (noun)	prēm'iss
premise (verb)	prĕ mĭz'
presentation	prĕz entation
pretty	prĭt y
programme	prō'grām (not “-grum”)
quay	kē
radiator	ra'di a tor
regular	reg yu lar
rinse	Pronounced as spelled; not “rense.”
roily	Pronounced as spelled; not “rĭ ly.”
roof	rōof
root	rōot
route*	rōot
sacrilegious	sac rĭ lĕ'jus (not “-reli- gious”)
salve*	sāv

		Correct pronunciation simultaneous*	sīmultaneous
	sinecure	sī ne cure
	sleek	slēk
	slough (noun, mire)	slōō
	slough (noun, cast skin)	slūf
	slough (verb)	slūf
	status	stā tus
	throw	trō
	ultimatum	ul ti mā tum
	verbatim	ver bā'tim
	virulent	vīr'ū lent (not "-yulent")
	xylophone	zī lo phone
	zoölogy	zō ōl ogy (not "zōō-")
Words in which certain consonants are often mispronounced	archipelago	ar ki pel' a go aversion	a ver shun (not "-zhun")
	banquet	bang'quet
	bequeath	be queath' (to rhyme with "breathe.")
	cello	chel'o
	chaise	shāz
	English	ing'glish
	flaccid	flak'sid (See Rule 153, note.)
	handkerchief	hang'ker chief has (in expressions like He has to go)	hāz (not "häss")
	have (in expressions like I have to go)	hāv (not "hāf")
	oleo-margarine	The g is hard, as in get . (See Rule 153, note.)
	partner	Pronounced as spelled; not "pard ner."
	schism	sizm
	turgid	tur jid (See Rule 153, note.)
	used (when followed by to)	ūzd (not "ūst")
	version	ver shun (not "-zhun")
	with	The th is pronounced as in thus .

accidentally	Correct pronunciation	Words from which certain sounds are often incorrectly omitted
arctic	ac ci dent' al ly
artistically	arc'tic
authoritatively	ar tis'ti cal ly
auxiliary*	au thor'i ta tive ly
cemetery	aux il i ary
considerable	cem'e ter y
cruel	con sid'er a ble
factory	cru'el
facts	fac'tory
February	fakts
geometry	Feb ru ary
government	ge om'et ry
laboratory	gov'ern ment
library	lab'o ra to ry
Messrs.*	li'bra ry
	mësh yêrz or mēs'yêrz	Words to which an additional sound is often incorrectly added ("Messerz" is wholly unauthorized.) piano-forte	piano-for'te
pumpkin	pump kin
recognize	rec'og nize
almond*	ā'mond
athlete	ath'lete
athletic	ath let'ic
buoy	bwoi or boi
casualty	caz'u al ty (not "-al'i ty") cerement	sêr ment
chasm	kasm
column	kol um (not "-yum")
conduit	kôn'dit or kün'dit
daguerreotype	da ger' o type elm	One syllable
enthusiasm	en thū zi asm
falcon*	faw con
film	One syllable
grievous	grēv'ous
helm	One syllable
mischievous	mis'chêv ous
often	of en

	poignant*	Correct pronunciation
	salmon	poi'nănt or poin'yănt
		să mon
ords often	ad infinitum	ad in fi nī'tum
spro-	charivari	sha rē'va rē' (not "shivounced in		eree")
rious	debut	dă'bū
ys	dishabille*	dis'a bīl' or dīs ā bēl'
	dishevel	dī shev'el
	dramatis personæ	dram'a tis per sō'nē
	finis	fī'nīs
	foyer* (e.g., the foyer of a	fwā'yē' or foy'er theater)
	gaol	jāl
	irrelevant	Pronounced as spelled;
		not "irrevelant."
	larynx	lār'inx or lā'rinx (not
		"lar nix")
	posthumous	pōst'humous or pōs'tumous
	rendezvous	rēn de voo or rōn de voo sarsaparilla	sār sa pə.ril la (not "sässparilla")
	sough*	sūf
	vaudeville	vōd'vīl
	viz.	An arbitrary sign for the Latin word videlicet (pronounced vi dēl' i set).
		In reading viz. aloud,
		say either "videlicet" or "namely" (the
		English equivalent of videlicet); do not say
		"vizz."

INDEX

Explanations of grammatical and other technical terms are in general not cited below, since they can easily be found in the alphabetical vocabulary on pp. 297 ff.

Comments on the spelling, writing "solid" or not "solid," hyphening, and pronunciation of particular words, are in general not cited under the words; such comments can easily be found through the citations under Spelling, Solid, Hyphen, and Pronunciation.

Bold-face figures refer to paragraph numbers, other figures to pages.

- A. D., 261.
 Abatement, coherence of an, 146.
 Abbreviations, objectionable, 267;
 permissible in some connections,
 268; of titles, 269; in letters, 312 ff.; of names of cities, 336;
 punctuation with, 220 (b).
 "About, at," 261.
Above, 261.
 "Abreast of the times," 16.
 Absolute construction not euphonious, 132; over-frequent use of, 133;
 punctuation with, 221 (c).
 Absolute phrase, mistaken for sentence, 24, 182.
Accept and except, 141, 268.
Accordingly, punctuation with,
 231 (b).
Ad, 261.
Addicted to, subject to, 261.
 Address, in the heading of a letter, 235; inside — of letters, 317;
 on envelope, 348.
 Addressee's title in letters, 321, 348.
 Adjectives, used for other parts of speech, 4-5; and adverbs, 42;
 punctuation with series of, 223;
 when hyphenated, 258.
 Adverbs, used for other parts of speech, 4-5; and adjectives, 42.
Affect and effect, 141, 261.
 Affectation, 18-20.
After, over-frequent use of, 133;
 "after having," 261.
 Afterthought, marked by dash,
 236 (e).
 Age, number designating, 273.
Aggravate, 261.
 Agreement, grammatical, 29 ff., 31.
 "Ain't," 2 (a).
 "All in all," 15.
 "All is not gold," 16.
 "All morning," etc., 92 note.
 "All nature," 16.
All right, 261.
 "All the higher," etc., 261.
 "All too soon," 15.
 "All work and no play," 16.
All-round, 261.
Allude, 262.
 Allusions, hackneyed, 16.
Almost, position of, 78, 72.
 "Along the line of," etc., 16, 172.
Already, all ready, 262.
Also, misuse of, 98; punctuation with, 231 (b).
 Alterations in Ms., 169.
Alternative, 262.
Altogether, all together, 262.
Amid, 18.
 Anachronous participles, 54.
 Analogy, standing of words not determined by, 5.
 Analytical outlines, 232 ff.
And, illogical, 94 ff.; too frequent, 97; oblique, 171; comma before,
 in a series, 223.
 "And etc.," 262.
 "And oblige," 327, 336 (k).
 "And which," 95 (a).
Anent, 262.
 Antecedent, reference to, 52 ff.; pa-renthesized, 61.
 Anticlimax, 89.
Any, misuse of, 4.
Any one, concord of, 31, 34.

INDEX

- place, for anywhere, 262.
body, concord of, 31, 34.
anyway and any way, 163 note.
 strophe, use of, 203; shape of, 75.
 positives, case of, 37; punctuation with, 220.
recite, 262.
re, for get up, 17.
old, 88.
 ingement of Ms.: Ms. as a whole, 78; pages, 179 ff.; paragraphs, 13 ff.; writing verse, 166; extended quotations, 212; tables, 8.
 es, omission of, 91.
 clause in double capacity, 90.
 luck would have it," 16.
 misuses of, 262; case of a substantive following, 38, 37.
t, 262.
, misuse of, 90.
sell as, subject not made plural, 29.
about, 262.
t, 263.
o, 5, 263.
 obiography of my life," 123.
 iaries, double use of, 90 (a);
 etition for clearness, 102 (a).
 , 263.
 lance of repetition, 119.
l, 263.
ile and awhile, 163 note.
 ardness, caused by collocation,
 by separating preposition
 n object, 86; by repetition,
 ; by avoidance of repetition,
 ; by use of absolute construction, 132; by parenthesizing cedent, 61; by double use of liaries, 81 ff.; by use of passive e, 44; by change of point view, 76; by overlapping endence, 106; by lack of nce, 111; by improper paral-
 m, 114.
 er State," 16.
 263.
e, 263.
m, 263.
 isms, 5.
Barbarous, barbaric, 263.
Barn, 263.
 "Baseballist," 5.
Be, double use of, 90.
 "Beat a hasty retreat," 15.
Beg, 263.
Began and begun, 50.
Besides, punctuation with, 231; and beside, 263.
 "Best laid plans, the," 16.
Between, among, 263.
 Bibliographies, 257.
Blame . . . on, 263.
 Blanks used for names or dates, 20.
 "Blowed," 51.
 "Bolt from a clear sky," 15.
Borrow and lend, 264.
 Brackets, 241.
 "Breakneck speed," 16.
 Breathless silence, 16.
 Breathless suspense, 16.
Broke and broken, 51.
 "Buckeye State," 16.
Bunch, 264.
 "Burglarize," 5.
Burns, possessive of, 254.
But, illogical, 89; too frequent, 97;
 repeated, 100.
But that, but what, 264.
 "Cablegram," 5.
Calculate, 264.
Can, for may, 264.
 Canceling in Ms., 216.
Canine, 4, 16.
 "Can't hardly," 122, 116.
 "Can't seem," 283.
 Capitals, 210, 211, 220 ff.
 Case, matters of, 33 ff., 36 ff.
Cause, illogical use of, 202, 264.
Certainly, 264.
 Change of point of view, in sentence, 76; in composition, 136 ff.
Characteristic, 264.
 "Charge of," 264.
 "Checkered career," 15.
 "Cheered to the echo," 15.
 "Cheesery," 5.
 "City bastille," 16.
Claim, 264.
 Clauses. Dependent: mistaken for sentences. 24. 182 ff. used as ch-

- ject of preposition, 33; overlapping, 106; introduced by when or where, used as predicate complement, 27; introduced by when, misuse of, 108; introduced by than or as, elliptical, 38, 37; used in double capacity, 90 (d); other or else in, 118; dangling elliptical, 69; modifying, misplaced, 79; relative, position of, 80; "and which," 95; restrictive and non-restrictive, 224, 177; substantive, incongruous junction of, 114; coördinate, with common dependence, 107; clearness of coördination among, 105. Principal: illogical and excessive use of, 97; consecutive, introduced alike by but or for, 100; introduced by so, 99, 96. Punctuation between coördinate, when joined by conjunctions, 221; when not so joined, 230; between principal and dependent, 221; with relative, 224; before substantive, introduced by that or how, 229.
- Clearness of sentences: reference, 52 ff., 55 ff.; relation of participles, gerunds, and elliptical clauses, 60 ff., 61 ff.; order of parts, 71 ff., 72, 74, 75; coördination, 102; parallelism, 111 ff. Of whole compositions: gained in narration by use of names, 20; coherence, 126 ff. Of paragraphing, 159 ff. Of punctuation, 170 ff.
- Clerk*, used as verb, 4.
- Climax, in arrangement of sentences, 89.
- Close of a sentence, forcible, 88; with a preposition, 88.
- Coherence, between sentences, 87; of compositions, 126.
- Coincidence*, 265.
- Colon, 233.
- Combine*, used as noun, 4.
- Comma, 172 ff.
- "Comma fault," the, 230.
- "Commercial world," 15.
- Common noun, elements of proper names, capitalized, 277; improper capitalizing of, 283.
- Company*, misuse of, 265.
- Comparative degree, than clause after a word in the, 38, 118.
- Comparisons, uncompleted, 93; with than or as clause used in double capacity, 90; illogical, 119.
- "Completed," 5, 265.
- "Completed the scene," 16.
- Compound sentence, stringy, 74.
- Compound words, hyphen in, 258c.
- Conclusion, of sentences, forcible, 88; with prepositions, 88 note; of letters, 336 (k).
- Concrete narration, 202.
- Concurrence of like sounds not euphonious, 131.
- Conjunctions, repetition of subordinating, for clearness, 105; simple, distinguished from conjunctive adverbs, 231, 300.
- Conjunctive adverbs, distinguished from simple conjunctions, 231; punctuation with, 231.
- Connection, smooth, between sentences, 87; between parts of a composition, 129 ff.; of letters in a word, 170.
- Connective phrases, between parts of a composition, 144.
- Conscience*, consciousness, conscious, conscientiousness, 265.
- Consequence, coherent introduction of a statement of, 145.
- Considerable*, misuse of, 4, 265.
- Constitution, quotation from, 86.
- "Contact, those with whom we come in," 16.
- "Contemplate on or of," 265.
- Contemptible* and contemptuous, 265.
- Continual* and continuous, 265.
- Contractions, inappropriate in formal context, 7; apostrophe with, 256.
- Contradictory statement, coherent introduction of, 148.
- Contrasting part, coherent introduction of, 147.
- Coördination, ungrammatical, 94; "and which," 95; illogical, 97; excessive, 97; clearness of, 102.
- Correlatives, 112.
- "Could of," 278.
- "Couldn't seem," 265.
- Cowardly*, used as adverb, 4.

- "Cream City," 16.
Credible, credulous, creditable, 265.
Criticize, 265.
 Cross-strokes of t's and x's, 172.
Crowd, for party, 265.
Crowding in Ms., 89.
Cunning, misuse of, 265.
Cupid, 16.
"Cute," 266.
- Dangling participles, 62; gerund phrases, 66; elliptical clauses, 69; infinitive, 67 note.
- Dash, use of, 236; use of, in place of names or dates, 20.
- Data*, 266.
Date, 266.
- Dates, in letters, correct method of writing, 310 ff., 338; representation of numbers in, 270; represented by dashes, 20; comma with, 221 (e).
- "Day's journey," etc., 39 note.
- Deal* (noun), misuse of, 266.
- "Deal on," "deal of" for deal with, 266.
- "Dear friend" in letters, 320.
- Demand*, 266.
Demean, 266.
- Demonstrative adjectives, reference of, 57; indefinite use of, 11.
- Dependent clauses; see Clauses.
- Depot*, 266.
- Determination, future of, 47, 44.
- Dialogue, paragraphing of, 193; punctuation of, 242, 244, 245.
- Dickens, possessive case of the name, 254; Our Mutual Friend, 175.
- Diction, 1 ff.
- Dictionaries, use of, 3, 6.
- "Different than," 266.
- Diner*, for dining-car, 266.
- Direct quotation, paragraphing of, 192 ff.; punctuation of, 226, 234, 242 ff., 245.
- "Discourse sweet music," 15.
- Disinterested*, 266.
- Dissimilar elements in series form, 115, 110; incongruous junction of, 113.
- Division, of a word at the end of a line, 259, 263; of words that should be written "solid," 164.
- Divisions of a composition, organization of, 140; coherence, between, 144; paragraphing of, 188 ff.
- "Do justice to a dinner," 15.
- Done*, misused as in "I am done," 266; misused for did, 50, 266.
- Don't*, inappropriate use of, 7; ungrammatical use of, 266; position of apostrophe in, 256.
- "Doomed to disappointment," 16.
- Dots of i's and j's, 172.
- Double capacity, use in, of auxiliaries, 90; of to be, 90; of principal verbs, 90; of than or as clauses, 90; of other modifiers, 90; of nouns, 90; of to in as to, etc., 90.
- Double negative, 121, 115.
- "Dove", for dined, 267.
- Drank* and drunk, 50.
- Drove* and driven, 50.
- Drunk*, used as noun, 4.
- Due to*, 267.
- "Dull, sickening thud," 15.
- Dwell, dwelt*, 18.
- Each, every*, etc., concord of, 31, 34.
- "Each and every," 16.
- Each other*, 267.
- Editorial, composition of an, 140; editorial we, 21.
- Effect* and affect, 261.
- E.g.*, punctuation with, 261.
- Either*, concord of, 31; correct use of, 267.
- Either, neither* with two objects, 13.
- Elegant*, 267.
- Element*, 267.
- Ellipsis in letter-writing, 336.
- Elliptical clauses, introduced by than or as, 38, 193; dangling, 69, 197.
- Else*, possessive case with, 267.
- Emphasis, in the sentence, 79-80; in larger units of composition, 132.
- Enjoyable*, 7.
- "Enjoyable occasion," 15.
- Enormity, enormousness*, 267.
- "Enough that," "enough so that," 267.
- "Enthuse," 5, 268.
- Envelopes, kinds of, 345; enclosing of letters in, 344 ff.; addresses on, 348 ff.
- Equine*, 4, 16.

Erasure in Ms., 216.

Etc., inappropriate or vague use of, 268.

Euphony, 121.

Ever, position of, 78, 72.

Every, concord of, 31, 34.

Every place, for everywhere, 268.

"Every so often," 268.

"Everything went along nicely," 16.

Except and accept, 268.

Exceptional, exceptionable, 268.

Excessive coördination, 99, 94 ff.

Exclamation mark, 235; comma used instead of, 225; relative positions of quotation marks and, 247.

Exercises, in diction: 3, adjectives for adverbs, 4; "bad" English, 6; colloquialisms, 6; definitions of words, 7; faults in use of words, 14; figures not carried out, 22; finding idiomatic uses, 8; finding inflectional forms, 11; finding plurals, 11; identifying parts of speech, 7; "malaprops," 5; mixed figures, 21; special uses of words, 8; transitive and intransitive verbs, 7; use of the dictionary, 3; use of the hyphen, 11; what the dictionary tells, 10.

Exercises in grammar and sentence structure: agreement of verb and subject, 31; and which, 91; beginning with participles, 61; case of who, 36; cases, wrong use of, 42; coherence and emphasis, 80; concord of each, every, etc., 34; correlation, 108; dangling elliptical clauses, 66; dangling gerunds, 64; dangling infinitives, 65; dangling participles, 61; double negative, 115; elliptical than and as clauses, 37; false parallelism, 110; faulty number, 58; faulty references, various, 71; faulty use of it, 56; illogical coördination, 94; incomplete construction, 28; incomplete sentences, 24; logical agreement, 113; making the analogous alike, 106; making verb and subject agree, 32; matters of tense, 48; modifiers, placing of, 75; negation with hardly, 116; no construction, 28; obscure reference, 59; omission of auxiliaries, 84; omission of modifying phrases, 85; omission of plural nouns, 85; omission of prepositions, 87; omission of principal verb, 84; omission of than and as clauses, 85; omission of that after so, 86; placing of modifiers, 75; possessive case, use of, 40; reducing predication, 118; reference of pronouns, 55; reference to words not expressed, 58; references, various faulty, 71; sentence-order, 74; shall and will, 44; so habit, 96; split infinitives, 77; unclear long coördinates, 101; ungrammatical coördination, 89; upside down when subordination, 103; use of cases, 38; use of possessive case, 40; variety of subordination, 94; various faulty references, 71; verbs often misused, 48-52; weak was seen, 118; when to end a sentence, 25; which and, 92; which without antecedent, 57; who or whoever, 37; wrong use of cases, 42.

Exercises in punctuation: abbreviations, 216; capitals, 223; capitalization, 223; colon, 188; comma, 180; comma fault, 182; figures or words, 220; hyphen, 207; literary titles, 227; namely, punctuation with, 209; periods and capitals, 171; possessives, punctuation of, 205; quotation marks with other marks, 203; restrictive and non-restrictive clauses, 177; said he interpolated, 201, 202; said he with semicolon, 201; semicolon, 186; semicolon with said he, 201; semicolon with so, 185; general exercises, 191, 210.

Exercises in spelling: adjectives in ful, 140; adjectives in vous, 140; adverb prefix al, 140; adverbs in ly, 136; accept, except, 141; advice, advise, device, devise, 141; affect, effect, 141; business, 140; doubling final consonants, 134; dropping final e, 134; endings in le and el, 139; endings in ness, 140; final consonants, doubling of, 134; final e, dropped, 134; final e retained, 135; ful, adjectives in, 140; ie to y in verb forms, 136; lead and led, 141; lose and loose, 140; ous, adjectives in, 140; plurals in s and es, 137; precede, proceed, etc., 140; present third singulars in s and es, 138; principal and principle, 138; professor, etc., 140; receive, believe, etc., 138; to, too, and two, 141; y to i in plurals, 135; y to i in verbs, 136.

Expect, misuse of, 268.

Expectation, future of, 46, 44.

Extemporized words, 6.

Extended quotations, position of, in Ms., 212.

Extra, 268.

Factitive adjective or adverb, 43.

Factor, 268.

"Fair lady," "fair sex," 16.

"Fair maidens," 16.

Falls, used as singular, 268.

"Fatal affray," 16.

Favor, for letter, 17, 336 (b); "esteemed," 336 (b).

"Favor with a selection," 15.

Feline, 4, 16.

Fiction, usage of recent, 2.

Fine, 269.

"Fine writing," 17.

First rate, 269.

"Firstly," 269.

"Fistic encounter," 16.

Fix, 269.

"Floral offerings," 17.

Folding of letters, 345 ff.

Folios, to be written in Arabic, 179; to be represented by figures, 270.

Footnotes, 258.

For, introducing consecutive sentences, 100; comma before the conjunction, 221.

Forcible order in sentences, 88.

Formal notes in third person, 338.

Former and latter, 269.

Fractions, hyphen with, 258 (b).

"Friend John," 317.

Friendly, used as adverb, 4.

Frighten, used as intransitive, 269.

Froze and frozen, 51.

Function, hackneyed use of, 16.

Future tense, use of shall and will in forming, 46; misused for present in letters of acceptance or regret, 338.

Gaps between letters in Ms., 170.

Genial, congenial, 269.

"Gent," 5.

Gentleman, 168; gentleman friend, 269, 270.

Geographical names, punctuation with, 221.

Gerund, possessive case with, 41.

Gerund phrase, dangling, 66, 196.

Get, as in "get to go," 270; see also Got.

Get up, for prepare, etc., 270; arise used for, 17.

Go to bed, retire used for, 17.

Going on (e.g., "five, going on six"), 270.

Good, used as adverb, 4, 270.

Good usage, defined, 1; explained, 1 ff.; errors regarding, 1 ff.

"Gopher State," 16.

Got, have got, 270.

Gotten, got preferable to, 270.

"Gotten up," 270.

Grammar, defined, 302; distinguished from rhetoric, 302; rules of, see individual grammatical terms; principal terms of, explained, 297 ff.

Grammatical agreement, 29 ff., 31, 32.

Grand, 270.

Grip, 270.

"Gripsack," 270.

Guess, 270.

Habitual action, would expressing, 45 note.

Hackneyed expressions, 16 ff.

Had better, had best, 270.

"Had have" or "had of," 271.

"Had ought," 51, 271.

Had rather, 271.

Hardly, position of, 78; incorrectly used with negative, 122.

"Has went," 51.

Have got, 271.

- Heaps, a heap*, 271.
 "Hear to it," 271.
Help, used for servants, etc., 271.
 "Help but," 271.
Hence, punctuation with, 231.
 "Herculean efforts," 15.
 High-flown language, 17.
 Hill, A. S., quoted, 88.
 "Hired girl," 271.
 Historical present, 19.
Home, misuse of, 92 note.
 "Homey," 5.
Honorable, the, 271, 282.
 Hours of the day, to be spelled out, 273.
 House numbers, 270, 307.
How clauses not to be set off by commas, 229.
However, position of, 83; punctuation with, 220, 231.
 "Hub, the," 16.
Human, used as noun, 4.
Hung for hanged, 271.
 "Hungry as bears," 15.
Hustle, 271.
Hustler, 271.
 Hyphen, 258 ff.; see also Syllabication.
i, the dotting of, 172.
I, properly used in beginning a letter, 337; too frequent use of, in letters, 337a; omission of, in letters, 336.
 "I would say," "will say," or "can say," 335.
i.e., correct use of, 271; punctuation with, 261.
If, for whether, 272.
 "Ignorance is bliss," 16.
Ilk, 272.
 Illogical comparisons, 118, 119.
 Illogical coördination, 97, 94.
 "Illy," 5.
 "Imbued with," 16.
 Implied reference of pronouns, 60.
 "Impressive sight," 16.
 Improprieties, 4, 5.
In, for into, 272.
 "In a pleasing manner," 15.
 "In back of," 272.
 "In evidence," 15.
 "In our midst," 272.
In regard to, misuse of, 90.
 "In reply would say," 336.
 "In search for," 283.
 "In the last analysis," 16.
 "In touch with," 16.
Including, subject not made plural by, 29.
 Incongruous substantives, junction of, 114.
Incredible, incredulous, 272.
 Indefinite it, 10; they, 9; you, 8; that and those, 11.
 Indefinite narrative, 202.
 Indention, in paragraphing, 183 ff.; in writing verse, 209 ff.; in tabulating, 213.
 Indirect discourse, quotation marks not to be used with, 242.
 Indirect questions, question mark not to be used with, 234.
Individual, 272.
 Individuals in firms, how to address in letters, 318.
Indulge, 272.
 "Inferior than," 285.
 Infinitive, case of subject or predicate complement of, 35; perfect, misused for present, 53; split, 85, 77; sign of, repeated for clearness, 104; dangling, 67 note.
Ingenious, ingenuous, 272.
 Initials used for names in narration, 20.
 Ink, 178, 339.
 Insertion in Ms., 215.
Inside, 273.
 "Inside of," 273.
Instance, instant, incident, 273.
 Intensives, 12.
 Interjections, commas with, 225.
 Interrogation point, after direct, not indirect, question, 234; misuse of parenthesized, 235; relative positions of quotation marks and, 247.
 Intervening words, obscuring grammatical subject, 29, 31.
 Introduction, distinct, of the divisions of a composition, 144; paragraphs of, 190; misuse of the term in analytical outlines, 296.
 Introductory adverbial phrases, comma with, 221 (k).
Invite, used as noun, 4.

- Irony, 220; improper labeling of, 235, 252, 292.
It, used indefinitely, 10.
 Italics, 284 ff.
 "It goes without saying," 15.
It is, it seems, 10.
 "It seems," 15.
Its, no apostrophe with, 255.
j, the dotting of, 172, 173.
 "Jell," 5.
 Jocularly in newspaper style, 16.
 Junction, of incongruous substantives or clauses, 114; clearness of, secured by repetition, 102 ff.; mistaken, prevented by commas, 221 (i).
Just, position of, 78.
 Key-words, coherence secured by conspicuous placing of, 144.
 "Kind, these or those," 273.
Kind of, 273.
 "Knights of the pen," 16.
 "Knowned," 51.
 Labeling humor or irony, 235, 252, 292.
Lady, lady friend, 269, 270.
Lady Clara Vere de Vere, 70.
 Larger units of discourse, structure of: unity, 123 ff.; organization, 140 ff.; coherence, 143.
 "Last analysis, in the," 16.
 "Last but not least," 15.
 "Last sad rites," 15.
 Latinistic phrases, 132.
Latter, 273.
Lay and lie, 48, 50, 273.
Learn, 273.
 "Leave go of," 273.
 Legibility, 165 ff.
Less, for fewer, 273.
 Letter-writing, 304 ff.
Liable, 274.
Lie and lay, 48, 50, 273.
 "Light fantastic," 16.
Like, 274.
 "Liked, would," 274.
Likely, 274.
Limb, 17.
Line, lines, figurative use of, 7, 15, 274, 275.
 Limiting the subject for unity, 135
Lines, for reins, 275.
 Literary ornament, 14.
Loan, 275.
Locate, 275.
 Logical agreement, 117 ff., 113.
 "Long-felt want," 16.
 Loose sentence, 88.
 "Lose out," 275.
Lovely, 275.
Luxuriant, luxurious, 275.
Mad, 275.
 "Made a pretty picture," 16.
 "Make hay," etc., 16.
 Manuscript, writing materials for, 178; legibility in, 165 ff.; arrangement of pages in, 179; paragraphing in, 183 ff.; alterations in, 215; not to be rolled, 178.
 Margin in Ms., 182; in letters, 341.
 Married women, signatures of, in letters, 335a, 335b.
 "May of," 275.
Mean (adjective), 275.
Merely, position of, 78.
Messrs., 318, 275.
 Metaphors, mixed, 22.
 "Method in his madness," 16.
 'Mid, 'midst, 18.
 "Midst, in our," 276.
 "Might of," 276.
Military, used as noun, 4.
 Milton, quoted, 38.
 Misplaced modifiers, 77 ff., 197; parts of a composition, 141.
Miss (title), 276.
 Misspelling; see Spelling.
 Mixed figures of speech, 22 ff.
 Modifiers, position of, 77 ff., 72, 75.
 Money, sums of, method of representing, 271.
 Monosyllables, not to be broken, 265.
 Monotony, of sentence-structure, 133; from frequent use of I, 337a.
Moreover, position of, 83; punctuation with, 231.
Morn, 18.
Most for almost, 5, 276.
 "Mother earth," 16.
Mrs., 276.

- Much*, 276.
 "Music hath charms," 16.
 "Musicianly," 5.
 "Must of," 276.
Mutual, 276.
Myself, for I, 12.
- Namely, punctuation with, 261.
 Names, in narration, represented by initials or dashes, 20; a means to clearness and smoothness, 20.
 Narration, unity of tense in, 136, 138; unity of point of view in, 137, 139; use of names in, 20; concrete and indefinite, 202.
Naught and ought, 263.
Near by, 277.
Nearly, position of, 78; misused for near, 277.
Neath, 18.
 Negation, double, 121, 115; incorrect, with hardly, etc., 122, 116.
Neither, correct use of, 277; concord of, 31, 34; not to be correlated with or, 278.
 "Nestled among the hills," 16.
Never, misused for not ever, 78.
 "Never in the history of," 15.
 "Never put off," etc., 16.
Nevertheless, position of, 83; punctuation with, 231.
 Newspapers, characteristic style of, 2; mannerisms of, 16, 129.
 "News leaked out," 15.
 "Newsy," 5.
Nice, 277.
Nicely for well, 42.
 Nicknames, of states and cities, 16; quotation marks with, 249.
No good, 277.
No less than, subject not made plural by, 29.
No one, concord of, 31, 34.
No place, for nowhere, 277.
No use, 277.
Nobody, concord of, 31, 34.
 Nominative case, 33.
Not to exceed, 277.
Notorious, 277.
 Nouns, for other parts of speech, 4.
 Novelty of phrase, straining for, 16.
 "Nowhere near," 277.
- Number, agreement in, of verbs and pronouns, 29 ff., 31.
 Numbers, method of representing, 270 ff.
- O and oh*, 161.
 Object of a verb or a preposition, in objective case, 36.
 Objective case, 36.
 Obligation, should expressing, 46 note.
 "Obsequies," 17.
Observance and observation, 277, 278.
O'er, 18.
Of for have, 278.
 "Off of," 278.
 "Officiating clergyman," 16.
Oft, oftentimes, oftentimes, 18.
 Omission, of articles and possessives, 91; of prepositions, 92; of part of a statement of comparison, 93.
On the side, 278.
 "On this particular day," 16.
One, preferable to you, 8; concord of, 31.
Only, position of, 78, 278; use of a negative with, 122, 116.
Or, subject not made plural by, 29 (d); misused for nor, 278.
Oral, 278.
 Order of parts in a sentence, 77 ff., 74.
 "Order out of chaos," 16.
 Organization of sentences, 75, 70; of whole compositions, 140 ff.
 Ornament, literary, 14; in handwriting, 177.
Other or else in than or as clauses, 118.
Other times, 278.
Ought, misuse of had with, 51, 278.
 "Ought to of," 278.
Our Mutual Friend, the title, 276.
Ourselves, for we, 12.
 "Out loud," 278.
 Outlines, sentence, 293.
 Outlines for compositions, value of 140; method of making, 293 ff.
 "Outside of," 278.
 Overlapping subordination, 106.
 "Over with," 278.
 "Overly," 278.

Pachyderm, 16.

Pages, manuscript, arrangement of, 178; numbering of, 179; in letters, arrangement of, 342; order in which to use, 343.

Pair, used as plural, 279.

"Pants," 5.

Paradise Lost, quoted, 38.

Paragraphs, 183 ff.

Parallelism in sentence-structure, 111 ff., 106; misuse of, 113, 110; utilized in organizing long sentences, 75 note, 106.

Parenthesis marks, 238; antecedent of a pronoun enclosed in, 61; figures enclosed in, 274.

Parenthetic matter, set off by commas, 221; by parenthesis marks, 238; by dashes, 236.

Parenthetic position of therefore, however, etc., 83; of modifiers in general, 82.

Part, 279.

Partake of, 279.

Participial conclusions in letters, 335 (k).

Participial phrases, mistaken for sentences, 24, 24; of result, 65.

Participle, anachronous, 54; dangling, 62, 65, 196; preceded immediately by too or very, 185.

Parts of a composition, organization of, 142; order of, 140; misplacing of, 141; coherence between, 144.

Parts of speech, errors regarding (improprieties), 4 ff.

Party, 279.

Passive voice, 44, 76.

Past-perfect tense, past misused for, 52.

Past tense, indefinite use of, 51; misused for past-perfect, 52.

Per (Latin preposition), 279.

Per cent, 163, 279.

Perfect conditional forms, misused for present, 53.

Perfect infinitives, misused for present, 53.

Period, use of, 220; fault, 24.

Periodic sentence, 88.

Person, a, concord of, 31.

Phase, 279.

Phenomena, 279.

"Phone," 5, 279.

"Photo," 5.

Piano, misuse of, 279.

Piece for distance, 279.

"Pigskin-chasers," 16.

Place; see Any place, Every place, No place, Some place.

Plain English, 17.

"Plan on," 280.

Please, will you please preferable to, 336 (g).

"Please find enclosed," 336 (h).

Plenty, 280.

Pleonasm, 124, 132.

Plural of nouns, 157 (a), (b), (c); of letters, 157 (d); of foreign words, 157 (e).

Poetic diction, 18.

Poetry, correct method of putting on paper, 209 ff.

Point of view, in sentences, 76; in whole compositions, 139.

Poorly, for ill, 42.

Portion, 280.

Position of members in a sentence, 77 ff.

Possessive adjectives, no apostrophe with, 255.

Possessive case, misuse of, 39; with gerunds, 41; apostrophe with, 253.

Postage stamp, affixing of, 350.

Postal, 280.

Posted, 280.

Practical, practicable, 280.

Predicate adjective and adverb, rule concerning, 42.

Predicate substantive, with finite verb, case of, 34; with infinitive, case of, 35; sentence used as, 27; when or where clause used as, 28; verb attracted from correct number by, 30.

"Prefer than," 280.

Preposition, case of object of, 36; awkward pause after, 86; ending a sentence, 88; repetition of, 103; incorrect omission of in time expressions, 92; size, 284; way, 289; no use, 277.

Present, the historical, 19; participle, used anachronously, 54.

Pretentiousness of style, produced

- by high-flown language, 17; by poetic diction, 18; by the use of the historical present, 19; by using we and the writer for I, 21.
- "Pretty picture, made a," 16.
- "Preventative," 5.
- "Primer style," sentences, 125.
- Principal verbs, use of, in double capacity, 90 (c).
- "Privilege, had the," 15.
- Pronouns, misuses of, 12; reference of, 55 ff., 55 ff.; plural, with singular noun, 55 note.
- Pronunciation, correct, of certain words often mispronounced, 319 ff.
- Proper names, capitals with, 275, 278, 223, 224.
- Propose for purpose*, 280.
- Proposition*, 280.
- "Proud possessor, the," 16.
- "Proven," 2, 281.
- Proverbs, hackneyed, 15.
- Providing*, for provided, 281.
- Punctuation, 220 ff., 171 ff.; in addresses of letters, 322; in headings of letters, 316.
- Put in*, for spend, 281.
- "Put in an appearance," 281.
- Quality*, 281.
- Question mark, 234, 234a.
- Questions, shall and will in, 48, 44; punctuation of, 234, 247.
- Quite*, 281; position of, 78.
- "Quite a few," 281.
- "Quite a little," 281.
- Quotation marks, shape of, 175; uses of, 242 ff., 245, 201 ff.
- Quotations, hackneyed, 15; extended, position of, on page, 212; paragraphing of, 192 ff.; punctuation of, 242 ff., 245 ff., 209.
- Raise*, for rear, 281; confounded with rise, 49, 281.
- Ran* and run, 50.
- Rang* and rung, 50.
- Real*, used as adverb, 4, 281.
- Reason*, illogical use of, 117, 113, 282.
- "Recipient, the, of," 16.
- Redundance: tautology, 123; pleonasm, 124; wordiness, 125, 127.
- Refer*, 282.
- Reference of pronouns and pronominal expressions, 55 ff., 55.
- References in bibliographies, 257; footnotes, 258 ff.
- Relative clause, position of, 80, 66; "and which," 95; restrictive and non-restrictive, 224, 177.
- "Remember of," 282.
- Remote reference of pronouns, 58.
- "Render a selection," etc., 15.
- Rendition*, 15.
- Repast*, 15.
- Repetition, of words, with change of meaning, 126; awkward, 127; awkward avoidance of, 129; of the conjunction that, 130; of prepositions, subordinating conjunctions, and the infinitive-sign, for clearness, 102 ff.
- Replete*, 15.
- Residence*, 17.
- Respectful*, respectable, respective, 282.
- Restrictive and non-restrictive modifiers, 224, 177; comma with, 224.
- Retire*, 17.
- Reverend* (title), 282.
- Rhetoric, defined, 302; distinguished from grammar, 302.
- Rhetorical ornament, triteness in, 14 ff.; affectation in, 17 ff.; mixed figures of speech, 22 ff.
- Rig*, 282.
- "Right away," "right off," 282.
- "Right smart," 282.
- Rise* and raise, 49, 281.
- Rode* and ridden, 50.
- Roman numbers, not used for page numbers, 179; shape of, 176.
- Rose* and risen, 50.
- Run*, for ran, 50; for operate, 282.
- "Sadder, but wiser," 16.
- Said*, as in "he said to come," 282.
- Said* he, punctuation with, when interpolated, 245.
- Salutation of a letter, colon with, 233.
- Same*, used as a pronoun, 335 (f), 282; as an adverb, 283.
- Sang* and sung, 50.
- Sarcasm, distinguished from irony, 304.

Say, as in "He says to go on," 283.
 "Scantily attired," 16.

Scarcely, position of, 78; negatives incorrectly used with, 122, 116; than, till and until incorrectly used with, 286.

Scare, used as intransitive, 283.

School for college, 283.

Scrappy sentences, 125.

Search, "in search for," 283.

See and saw, 50.

"Seem can't or couldn't," 283.

Seen for saw, 50.

"Seldom ever," "seldom or ever," 283.

Selection, misuse of, 283.

Semicolon, 231 ff., 185, 186.

Sentences, defined, 309; classified, 309; subordinate elements mistaken for, 24, 182; grammatically incomplete, 26; used as subject or predicate complement, 27; fundamental grammatical rules regarding, 29 ff.; unity of, 72 ff.; stringy, 74; straggling, 75; change of point of view in, 76; arrangement of members of, 77 ff.; coordination and subordination in, 94 ff.; parallelism in, 111 ff.; logical agreement among members of, 117 ff.; redundancy of words in, 123 ff.; repetition of words in, 126 ff.; euphony of, 131; variety in structure of, 133; transitional, 144; loose and periodic, 88.

Sentinel, hackneyed figure of speech, 16.

Series, dissimilar elements in the form of, 115; punctuation of: comma before the conjunction, 223.

Set and sit, 49, 50, 283.

Set, used as plural, 283.

Shall and will, 46 ff., 44.

"Shan't," 283.

Shape, misuse of, 283.

Shifting, of tense, in narration, 136; in description, 138; of point of view, in sentences, 76; in whole compositions, 137.

"Should of," 278.

Show, misuses of, 284.

"Show up," 284.

Showy language, 17; synonyms, 129 note.

"Sigh of relief," 15.

"Sight, a," 284.

Signatures in letters, always to be written, 335a; where placed, 335.

Simile, incongruous, 22.

Sit and set, 49, 50, 283.

Size, used as adjective, 284.

"Size up," 284.

Sleeper, for sleeping car, 284.

Smoker, for smoking car, 284.

Smoothness, in narration, 20; in sentence-order, 86.

Snap, 284.

So, for so that, 284; for very, 284; preferred to as, after a negative, 262; incorrectly used to connect verbs, 98; excessive use of, for compounding sentences, 99; punctuation with, when used to compound sentences, 231 (b), 185.

So habit, the, 99, 96.

"Social function," 16.

"Solid," words that should be written, 164, 258; words incorrectly written, 163.

Some, used as adverb, 4, 284.

Some one, concord of, 31, 34.

"Some one has said," 15.

Some place for somewhere, 284.

Somebody, concord of, 31, 34.

Sometime and some time, 163 note.

"Sort. these or those," 284.

Sort of, 284.

"Sought his downy couch," 15.

Space in Ms., between lines, 165; between words, 166; between sentences, 167; margins, 181.

Spacing-out, at end of paragraph, 187.

Specie, for species, 284.

Species, correct use of, 284.

"Specimen of humanity," 15.

"Speculation was rife," 16.

Spelling, rules regarding and exercises in: doubling final consonants, 149, 134; dropping final e, 152, 134; retaining final e, 153, 135; change of final y to i, 155, 135; of final ie to y, 156, 136; plurals in s and es, 157, 137; present third singulars in s and es, 158,

- 138; receive, believe, etc., 159, 138; principal and principle, 160, 138; O and oh, 161; adverbs in lly, 136; ly written for ally, 136; the endings el and le, 139; the adjective ending ful, 140; the adjective ending ous, 140; the adverb prefix al, 140; disappear and disappoint, 140; professor, 140; precede, proceed, recede, concede, succeed, and supersede, 140; business, 140; lose and loose, 140; lead and led, 141; to, too, and two, 141; accept and except, 206; affect and effect, 206; advise, vice, devise and device, 141; a list of words often misspelled, 142; general exercise, 139; adding k, 151; l not dropped before ly, 156b; n not dropped before ness, 156a.
- Split infinitives, 85, 77.
- Sprung* and sprung, 50.
- Squinting modifiers, 81.
- Start* for begin, 285.
- Statements permanently true, present with, 53 (c).
- Steal*, used as noun, 4.
- Still*, punctuation with, 231.
- Stop* for stay, 285.
- Straggling sentences, 75.
- Strata*, 285.
- Stringy sentences, 74.
- Strong close of a sentence, 88.
- "Struggling mass of humanity," 16.
- "Student body, the," 16.
- Subject*, illogical use of, 285.
- Subject, of a verb, case of, 33, 37; of a composition, 137.
- Subjunctive, 45.
- Subordinate clause; see Clauses.
- Subordinate sentence-elements, mistaken for sentences, 24, 182.
- Subordinating conjunctions, repetition of, for clearness, 105.
- Subordination, value of, in composition, 98; exercise in securing variety of, 199; overlapping, 106; improper, by means of when clauses, 108; singular and plural, verb agrees with nearer, 29 (d).
- Substantive clause; see Clauses.
- Substantives, used for other parts of speech, 4; other parts of speech misused for, 4.
- Such*, for so, 285; "such who," 285; "such so that," 285; for very, 93 note.
- Such as*, punctuation with, 260.
- Suicide*, used as a verb, 4.
- "Sumptuous repast," 16.
- Sums of money, method of representing, 271.
- "Sunflower State," 16.
- "Superior than," 285.
- Superlative, the of phrase limiting a, 120.
- Superscriptions of letters, 348.
- "Sure," 286.
- Suspicion*, used as verb, 4, 286.
- Swam* and swum, 50.
- Swell*, used as adjective, 4, 286.
- Syllabication, 263.
- Synonyms, used for clear reference, 56; objectionable use of, 129.
- t*, cross-stroke of, 173.
- Tabulations, indentation in, 213; to be set apart on the page, 214.
- Take*, for study, 286.
- "Take and," 286.
- Take in*, for attend, 286; for cheat or deceive, 286.
- Take it*, introducing an illustration, 286.
- "Take sick," 286.
- Take stock in*, 286.
- Taste in literary style, 16 ff.
- "Tasty," 5.
- Tautology, 123.
- "Teach the young idea how to shoot," 16.
- Team*, 286.
- Tennyson, 75, 211.
- Tense, shifting of, in narration and description, 136, 138; see also Present, Past tense, Future tense, Perfect.
- Than*, misuse of, with prefer and preferable, 280; with hardly and scarcely, 286; case of a substantive following, 38, 37; clause introduced by, used in double capacity, 90 (d), other or else in, 118; than whom, 38.
- That*, used as adverb, 286; indefinite

- use of, 11; weak reference of, 57; conjunction, careless repetition of, 130; clauses introduced by, not to be preceded by comma, 229.
- That is*, punctuation with, 261.
- "That there," 287.
- Then*, used to connect verbs, 98; punctuation with, 231 (b), 185.
- There is, there are*, verb with, 29 (e).
- Therefore*, position of, 83; punctuation with, 231 (b), 185.
- "These here," 287.
- "These kind," "these sort," 273.
- They*, indefinite use of, 9.
- This*, used as adverb, 287; weak reference of, 57.
- "This here," 287.
- "Those kind," "those sort," 273.
- "Those present," 15.
- "Those there," 287.
- "Those with whom we come in contact," 16.
- Through*, misuse of, 287.
- "Threwed," 51.
- Thus*, participles preceded by, 65; punctuation with, 231 (b), 209.
- "Tie the knot," 16.
- Till*, for when, after hardly or scarcely, 287.
- "Tiny tots," 16.
- "Tired but happy," 15.
- 'Tis*, in prose, 18.
- Titles, of persons, not to be abbreviated, in general, 269; which are properly abbreviated, 269; when capitalized, 276; of compositions, elliptical clauses in, 71; composition to begin coherently, regardless of, 143; position of, on the page, 180; not to be quoted, 252; of literary and artistic works in general, principal words in, to be capitalized, 279; to be italicized, 245, 285; initial the in, when included, when excluded, 286, 287.
- To* in as to, in regard to, etc., used in double capacity, 90 (g).
- Together with*, subject not made plural by, 29 (b).
- "Tonsorial parlor," 15.
- Too*, preceding a participle, 287.
- "Toothsome viands," 15.
- Topic*, illogical use of, 287.
- Tore and torn*, 51.
- Transitional sentences, 144; paragraphs, 191.
- Transitive verbs misused as intransitive; see Hustle, Locate, Set, Lay, Raise, Frighten, Scare.
- Transpire*, 287.
- Transposition in Ms., 217.
- "Treat on," "treat with," for treat of, 287.
- Trend*, 287.
- Trite expressions, 14.
- "Truth is stranger than fiction," 16.
- "Try and," 288.
- 'Twas*, 18.
- Ugly*, 288.
- Unauthorized words, 5.
- Uncompleted comparison, 93.
- Undated past tense, 51.
- "Undercurrent of excitement," 15.
- Underhanded*, 288.
- Ungrammatical coordination, 94, 89.
- Unique*, 288.
- United States*, use of the with, 288.
- Uniting of expressions properly written as separate words, 163.
- Unity, of sentences, 72 ff.; of who-compositions, 134 ff.; of paragraphs, 200.
- Until*, for when, 288.
- "Untiring efforts," 15.
- Up*, combined with certain verb 288.
- Up to date*, 288.
- Upside-down subordination, 110.
- Usage, good, 1 ff.
- Variety of subordination, value of 97; exercise in securing, 94; of sentence-structure, 133.
- "Variety, the spice of life," 16.
- "Vast concourse," 15.
- Verbs, misused as nouns, 4; other parts of speech misused as, 4; agreement of, with subjects, 29 ff., 31.
- Verse, arrangement of, on the page, 209 ff.
- Very*, preceding participles, 288.
- "Vim," 288.
- Violin*, misuse of, 288.
- Virtual sentences, 24.

- Viz.*, punctuation with, 261; pronunciation of, 326.
Vocal, used as noun, 288.
 Vocatives, punctuation with, 221
 (a).
Voice, misuse of, 288.
- Wait on*, for wait for, 289.
 "Waited in breathless suspense," 16.
 "Want for you," 289.
 "Want I should go," and similar expressions, 289.
 "Want in" and similar expressions, 289.
Way, for away, 289; used adverbially without a preposition, 289.
Ways, used as singular, 268.
We, for I, 21; the editorial, 21.
 Weak reference of this and that, 57.
Well, colloquial, 289.
 "Well-known clubman," 16.
 "Wended his way," 15.
Went and gone, 51.
When, clause introduced by, used as predicate complement, 28; used to embody a statement of primary importance, 109.
Where, for that, 289; clause introduced by, used as predicate complement, 28.
 "Where to," 289.
Which, applied to persons, 289.
 "Which and," 95 (b).
While, misuse of, 290.
Who, applied to animals, 290; used for whom, 36, 36, 37; whom used for, 33, 36, 37.
- Whole compositions, unity of, 134 ff.; organization of, 140 ff.; coherence of, 143 ff.
 Whole statement, reference of which to, 60 note.
Whose, 290.
Will and shall, 46 ff., 44.
 "Win out," 290.
 "Windy City, the," 16.
Wire, misuse of, 4, 290.
With, subject not made plural by, 29 (b); vague connective, 290.
Woods, used as singular, 268.
 Word-breaking; see Syllabication.
 Wordiness, 124.
 Words, used in double capacity, 90 ff.; repetition of, 100 ff., 126 ff.; pronunciation of, 319 ff.; see also Diction.
 "Working like Trojans," 15.
Would better, would best, 290.
Would have, for had, 290.
 "Would of," 290.
 "Write up," 290.
Writer, the, for I, 21.
 Writing materials, 178, 339, 340.
Wrote and written, 50.
- x*, crossing of, 172.
- You*, used indefinitely, 8.
 "You was," 52, 290.
 "Yours," "yours received," in letters, 336 (b).
Yourself, yourselves, for you, 12.
 "Yourself and family," 12.

